Sure Sign.

Watts—Tebson must be awfully afraid of his wife. He is always telling us how she will give him fits if he doesn't hurry home. Potts—That's the best sign in the world that he is not afraid of her at all. The man who is bossed by his wife never says a word about it.

THE MINISTER AND THE GOVERNMENT RAILWAY.

The Opposition has directed a vigorous onslaught on the Minister of Railways during the past few days, thinking, apparently, that in Mr. Emmerson they had a weakling whom they could brow-beat, bully, threaten and intimidate.

With great persistency they assailed him, directing upon his department a concentrated attack, with whose weak spot — the Intercolonial Railway — they were familiar through years of Tory mismanagement. To their evident surprise they found that they had no weakling to face but one of the strong men of the Ministry.

With imperturable good humor, with unfailing tact, with a readiness and ease that could only have been begotten of a mastery of every detail of his subject, the Minister replied to the assault which was aimed at showing that political considerations were still allowed weight in the administration of the railway—a form of attack that was not calculated to advance the theory of extensive Government ownership to which the Opposition has in part pledged itself.

As to the position of the Intercolonial itself, it is incomparably superior to its condition when the Conservatives were in power.

The earnings of the system for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1903, were $6,824,328, as compared with $2,957,000, in 1896. The railway has more than doubled its producing power in eight years — eloquent testimony, surely, for the progressive policy of the administration.

The fiscal year 1903 showed a surplus of $127.70, but the result for the current year, owing to the exceptional severity of the winter, which struck the Intercolonial just as it struck all the other railways a severe blow, was less satisfactory.

For the ten months ending April last, there was a deficit of $546,530, the receipts being slightly less than in the corresponding ten months of the last fiscal year. On the other hand, the expenditure has increased, the advance in wages alone being $344,395, and in fuel $123,937.

Mr. Emmerson made no apology for these additions to the cost of operations. The department had determined that the wages should be raised to the level of those paid by private companies. To balance this increase by raising the freight rates was impossible, as the system had to compete with the shorter line of the Canadian Pacific, which cuts through Maine, and with the St. Lawrence navigation and the shipping on the Atlantic coast.

The line was built to serve a political purpose and it has served the country in ways that cannot be measured by dollars and cents. The present Government has spent millions on its betterment, and millions more will have to be spent in reducing grades and curves and in improving the equipment, before it reaches an ideal condition.

THE STORY OF LIFE.

Making the best of life is getting the best health you can out of it—good digestion is the key. What you eat may or may not do you good. It depends upon how it is handled by the digestive apparatus of the stomach—If it is deranged, the blood, instead of taking new life and strength to the various organs of the body, takes poison which clogs the kidneys, irritates the nerves, distresses the heart, causing headache, sleeplessness, weary, dull feeling, backache, rheumatism, neuralgia—makes the complexion sallow—causes biliousness and constipation. The great, new discovery ANTI-PILL has a marvellous influence in correcting a crippled or rebellious stomach, and the results that follow—ANTI-PILL is the most perfect help to have when you feel wrong, out of sorts, sick or getting sick. It brightens you up—makes you feel better. 50 cents per bottle at druggists or Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont.

PORT ARTHUR FIGHT

Another Naval Engagement Took Place on Friday.

NEWS BOAT FAWAN SEIZED

Tokio Discredits the Story That the Japanese Lost 30,000 on July 10—Believes the Story Originated in Shanghai—Losses on July 11—Japs Entrenched South of Tatchekiao—Stopped British Ship.

London, July 16.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Morning Post, cabling under date of July 15, says: "A naval engagement took place today off Port Arthur."

The same correspondent says that The Chicago Daily News despatch boat Fawan has been seized by the Russians and towed into Port Arthur.

Tokio Discredits the Story.

London, July 16.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times, in a despatch filed at 9.45 p.m., July 15, says that the St. Petersburg story of a Japanese repulse with heavy casualties at Port Arthur, July 10, is wholly discredited at Tokio, where no such reports have been received. It is believed that the story originated in Shanghai.

Losses on July 11.

London, July 16.—A despatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg says the War Office announces the receipt of a despatch from Port Arthur containing the report that the Japanese sustained considerable losses on July 11, the exact particulars of which have not yet been ascertained. According to the despatch the Russians recaptured all the positions lately taken by the Japanese.

Russian General Wounded.

St. Petersburg, July 16.—General Rennenkampff was wounded, but not seriously, in a skirmish near Sanmateza. A bullet passed through the calf of one of his legs.

The Japanese are still entrenched south of Tatchekiao. No further advance has been reported.

The general staff has not yet received confirmation of the report of the occupation of Newchwang by the Japanese.

Russian Cruiser in Red Sea.

Island of Perim, Straits of Bab El Mandeb, July 16.—The British steamer Dragoman, at 4 p.m., outward bound, yesterday signalled that she had been delayed by a Russian cruiser in the Red Sea.

Japs Lost 2,000.

Mukden, July 16.—In the fighting at the right flank of the line of defences of Port Arthur, July 3 to July 6, the Russians drove back the Japanese and occupied the east bank of the Lunsantan and the heights commanding Lunsantan Pass. The Japanese losses were about 2,000. Those of the Russians were insignificant.

ST. VITUS DANCE.

Must be Treated Through the Blood ahd Nerves.

One of the Worst Cases on Record Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

St. Vitus dance is a nervous disease chiefly afflicting children. There are a number of signs by which it may be detected such as a twitching of the muscles of the face, shaky hands, or a jerky motion of the arms, a trembling or a dragging of the legs, irritability and restlessness. St. Vitus dance is caused by disordered nerves and blood—that is why it is always cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pills fill the veins with pure, rich red blood, which in turn soothe and braces the nerves, making the sufferer well. Mrs. Luffman, Poucher's Mills, Ont., tells how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her daughter, Louise. "I do not think it possible," says Mrs. Luffman, "that anyone could be afflicted with a more severe form of St. Vitus dance than that which attacked my daughter. Her arms and legs would twitch and jerk, her face was drawn, and finally her left side became numb as though paralyzed. Her speech became thick and indistinct and she could neither stand still nor sit down. Two doctors attended her, but gave her no benefit. The last doctor who attended her told me she would never get better. It was at this discouraging time we decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking two boxes we could see an improvement; she could sleep better and the spasms were less severe. From that on she steadily grew better, and after using eight or ten boxes she was as strong and healthy a girl as you will find anywhere, and she has not had, the least symptom of the trouble since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the surest cure for St. Vitus dance, hysteria, neuralgia, nervous exhaustion, paralysis, and all the nervous troubles of men, women and children. But you must get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WITH HIS WIFE.

British Government Grants Bequest of Mr. Kruger's Relatives.

London, July 16.—At a meeting of the Privy Council yesterday morning at Buckingham Palace, at which King Edward presided, the request of the relatives of the late Mr. Kruger, former President of the South African Republic, for the interment of his remains in the Transvaal, was granted, and it was subsequently announced that the desired permission had been telegraphed to Clarens, Switzerland (where Mr. Kruger died Thursday), through the British Minister at Berne.

CANAL ESTIMATES.

Important Works in Progress at Port Colborne—The Trent Valley Canal—$963,950 Passed For the Day.

Ottawa, July 16.—The announcement was made by the Premier yesterday that there would be no new railway subsidies brought down this year, and that the only remaining Government bill of which notice had not been given was a small amendment to the banking act. This is taken as fair ground for hope of an early prorogation. Nearly the entire day in the House was spent on the canal estimates, many small items amounting to $963,950, being passed. An acrimonious discussion took place on the Trent Canal, chiefly on its merits as a source of political influence, but in the end the item passed. Mr. Emmerson made an interesting explanation of the harbor improvements at Port Colborne, the total expenditure on which so far planned was $1,150,000. The need of elevators was admitted, but the Government's policy in the matter had not yet been finally determined.

Mr. Fielding stated that the proposed measure referred to by the Premier was an amendment to the banking act, the necessity for which arose out of the condition of one of our banks operating in the West Indies. If the measure were brought down, however, it would not be the subject of contention.

After giving several Government bills their final stages, the House went into Committee of Supply, the items of the estimates of the Railway Department relating to the Welland Canal being taken up, the item of $100,000 for electric lighting and power plant on the Welland Canal was passed.

The House passed the votes for the following canals: Soulanges, St. Ours Lock, Carillon and Grenville, Welland, Lachine and Chambly, the total for the day being $963,950. The House rose at 10.30.

R. & O. BOAT ASHORE.

Steamer Carolina Ran Upon a Shoal in Ha-Ha Bay.

Montreal, July 16.—The steamer Carolina of the R. & O. Company fleet, running between Quebec, Tadousac and Chicoutimi, ran on a shoal in Ha-Ha Bay, five miles of St. Alphonse, and a short distance from Chicoutimi. The accident occurred about 2 o'clock yesterday morning while the steamer was turning into Ha-Ha Bay on her way from Tadousac to Chicoutimi. She had between 150 to 175 passengers on board at the time, but all got off in safety. The Carolina was in charge of Capt. Fortin. She is one of the finest steamers in the R. & O. service; is a paddle boat, and valued at about $250,000. The Carolina has had rather hard luck of late. She ran on the rock at Tadousac in August last, and was so badly damaged that the cost of her repairs was very heavy.

Brutality at Russell.

Ottawa, July 16.—Arrests are likely to follow a fatality which occurred last Wednesday in the Village of Russell, 20 miles out of Ottawa. The victim was Henri Auger, a stableman at the Cecil Hotel. He was found dead in a room in the Russell Hotel with his face broken in. He had been in a drunken [illegible] with several young men, [illegible] village and it is alleged received the blows which resulted in death. Yesterday the jury, after viewing the body, adjourned till Monday.

The Liver to Blame.

So long as the liver is active in filtering the bile from the blood there is no biliousness and no constipation, because the bile is passed from the liver into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic in keeping the bowels active. Because of their direct action on the liver as well and the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cure constipation, the real cause of nine-tenths of the common ills of life.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

BAND CONCERT LARGELY ATTENDED.

57th Band Gave Very Enjoyable Programme Last Evening.

The popularity of the weekly open air concerts in the Victoria Park still continue to be strongly manifest, and last evening another very large audience gathered to listen to the music of the 57th Band of which the citizens are justly proud. Last evening the band rendered one of its popular programmes comprising several old favourite numbers which greatly pleased the listeners. The various selections were executed with that brilliancy and tasteful interpretation which has for so long characterized the playing of the organization and enhanced its popularity which is so widespread among all who have been so privileged as to have heard it. The opening selection was a march "St. Louis Exposition," one quite appropriate to the times and one which at once made itself a favourite with all music lovers. The overture "Nebucodonosor" was also played in an artistic manner. The double number formed a pleasing combination of slow piano movement heard in the Intermezzo from Rusticana and the bright catchy time in the cake walk, "Alacozan," a very popular selection, and one which was heartily encored. The grand selection 'Attila" was given an excellent rendering and the novolette, "Gondolier," was also very catchey and was most daintily executed. One of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening was the selection "Floradora" which was played by request. The charming melodies in this number never seem to grow old and the familiar strains of "Shade of the Palms" and "Tell me Pretty Maiden," seemed as fresh and full of attractiveness as ever. A Mexican serenade "Paloma" was the next number, the delightful programme closing with that rousing march "Tipperarary."

MERCHANTS' EXCURSION WAS VERY ENJOYABLE.

About Seventy Five Business Men Sailed to Idyl Wyld Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon was an ideal one for a trip down the river and the business men of the town were very fortunate in choosing what proved such a delightful day for their outing. About seventy-five availed themselves of the opportunity of enjoying a sail down the picturesque Otonabee and across the delightful waters of Rice Lake with its cool and refreshing breezes and an afternoon and evening of thorough enjoyment was spent. The Water Lily with the jovial crowd on board left the C.P.R. wharf about 1.30 o'clock arriving at the point of destination, Idyl Wyld, about 5 o'clock. Here the party amused themselves in various manners, throwing quoits, jumping and other such athletic contests being indulged in, and at the conclusion each and every one had acquired a startling appetite. This sensation was soon a thing of the past as a result of a fish dinner served at the hotel.

After admiring the beauty of the sunset on the lake and the scenery about the popular summer resort, a start for home was made about 8 o'clock, Peterborough being reached shortly before 11 o'clock. Proceedings were enlivened on the return trip by singing, several numbers by Mr. G. Martin, being much appreciated. Everyone on board heartily enjoyed the outing and it was the general consensus of opinion that the trip should be made an annual event.

PARK STREET SCHOOL'S ANNUAL EXCURSION.

Very Enjoyable Time at Jubilee Yesterday.

City of Peterborough Took Large Crowd Down the River—The Sports

The Park street Baptist Sunday school held their annual excursion yesterday to Jubilee Point, and as far as the success of the event was concerned it eclipsed all previous outings in connection with the school. There was a very large crowd on board the City of Peterborough, and as the weather was perfect, and the arrangements carried out most satisfactorily, the day was to one and all a most delightful one.

The boat left the wharf at eight o'clock, arriving at Jubilee at eleven. Preparations were at once made for that important feature of every picnic—that of supplying the demands of the inner man.

In the afternoon a splendid programme of sports were run off. Each event had many entries, and the finishing was close and exciting. The ladies' three-legged race was a most interesting contest and the distance was covered in remarkably quick time. The winners were as follows:—

Girls, 6 years and under—Lillian Tranter, Olive Sherwood.

Boys, 6 years and under—Ethelbert Bois, Wilton Tranter.

Girls, 7 to 9—Florence Sherwood, Lilly Booth.

Boys, 7 to 9—Rollie Smith, Kenneth Routley.

Girls, 10 to 12—Lottie Davis, Marion Sloan.

Boys, 10 to 12—Howard Anderson, Marcella Scrimiger.

Girls, 13 to 15—Edith Jobe, Lottie Rouse.

Boys, 13 to 15— Douglas Loomis, Walter Libby.

Young Ladies' Needle Race—Sarah Booth, Nellie Hudson.

Young Men's Boot Race—Douglas Loomis, Lincoln Brace.

Girls' three-legged race — Anna Brace and Alice Miller.

Boys' three-legged race — Fred Sherwood and Ed. Jobe.

Young ladies' race— Mrs. Fredenburg Bessie Mowry.

Wheelbarrow race—Fred Hatcher, Rollie Smith.

Consolation race, girls under 12—Pearl Pogue, Ida Eagleson.

Consolation, boys under 12 years —Max Sherwood, Walter Evans.

After the races prizes were awarded to the successful contestants. A football match between picked teams was also played and though the atmosphere was rather warm, the play was very interesting.

A start for home was made at 5 o'clock, and the boat arrived at the wharf about 8 o'clock. The return trip was very pleasant and was in keeping with the success of the whole day's outing.

THE POSTMASTER GROWS EMPHATIC

Believes Dodd's Kidney Pills the Right Medicine for Kidney Trouble.

T. H. Belyea, Postmaster of Lower Windsor, N. P. Endorses an Opinion Popular in all Parts of Canada.

Lower Windsor, Carlton Co., N. B., July 15. — (Special.) — T. H. Belyea, the postmaster here, has come out with an emphatic statement that is heartily endorsed by the great majority of the people of this district. "I believe," says the postmaster, "that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the right medicine for Kidney Trouble, and will do all that is claimed for them.

"I had been bothered with Kidney Trouble for years and tried several kinds of plasters and other medicines but did not get much lasting benefit. Then I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and would say that they seem to have made a complete cure, as I feel as well as ever I did."

There are numerous people prepared to make statements like that of Postmaster Belyea, but the case of Kidney Disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure has yet to be reported.

SINGING EVANGELISTS AT MURRAY STREET

A Company of McMaster Students Will Conduct Services Here for One Week, Commencing To-morrow.

Don't forget that this noble band of young students of McMaster University, will begin a week's evangelistic services on Sunday morning at the Murray street Baptist church. They have never failed to kindle a deep interest wherever they have gone amongst all classes of people, young and old, in and out of the church. There is great variety in the form of service. They will be at the Sunday school at ten o'clock, and the church services will be at 11 a.m., 4 and 7 p.m. The students recently visited Arnprior and the pastor of the Baptist church there speaks of their visit to that place in the following manner in the Canadian Baptist of July 14th:

"The Eastern Division of the McMaster Band, last Wednesday, June 29th, closed a rousing ten days' campaign in the Elgin street Baptist church. During this time the Band held ten Sunday services, ten mid-week services, four open air meetings and two noon-day meetings. We rejoice that sixty-five made decision for Christ with, we hope, many others to follow. In addition our own membership has been greatly quickened and strengthened. The young men by their earnest deportment and persistent zeal for souls, left a most favourable impression and brought great credit to themselves and their Alma Mater, while many will ever be thankful to the loving Father that through them they learned to trust the Lord Jesus as their Saviour."

YOUNG MAN INJURED AT A BARN RAISING.

A Son of Mr. James Graham Meets with a Serious Accident.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Keene, July 16.—Yesterday evening about six o'clock Mr. James Graham, aged 25 years, eldest son of Mr. James Graham, Third Line, Otonabee, met with an accident which may cost him his life, while assisting at a barn raising. The work had been nearly completed for it was during the placing of the rafters that the accident occurred. Several rafters had been temporarily set up, when one slipping fell against another and the whole went down. The young man who was at the end of the framework started to run out of danger, but the point of a falling rafter caught him, striking his head. He was picked up unconscious, and remained so till twelve o'clock last night. Dr. Harrison, of Keene, was called to attend the patient.

AN EXCELLENT PICTURE.

Reproduction From Mr. Roys Photograph of the Presentation of the Colours.

In the issue of July 2nd, of "The King," a paper published in London, England, appears a picture taken at the presentation of the colours celebration here last Victoria Day. The picture is taken from a photograph by Mr. R. M. Roy of town, and the reproduction is a most excellent one. The photo was taken just after the colours were presented, and in the group are Major Dennistoun, Lord Dundonald, Major Stevenson, Mrs. Denniatoun, Lieut. McLean, Lieut. Hamilton, Mayor Ryger, Major Hayes, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. Stratton, and Rev. J. C. Davidson, chaplain.

A FRIENDLY VISIT.

Rev. Father Keilty's Pleasant Visit With an Old Montreal Friend.

While in Montreal last week, Father Keilty dined and spent an afternoon with his old friend, Mr. George Murray, the dear old Oxford Don, who, like Lord Bacon, takes all learning for his province, who unites all the learning of a Parson with the simplicity of a child, who in his Oxford days bore away prizes from Dean Farrar, and was very well acquainted with Thackeray, who was the life-long friend of the late Sir Edwin Arnold, and lived in closest intimacy for many years with D'Arcy McGee, who, despite his nearly 80 years, earns his bread by the sweat of his face as literary editor of the Montreal Star, who has the phenomenal memory of Lord Macaulay, and can recite his Horace word for word from beginning to end, who is one of the world's most interesting personalities, most lovable characters. Forty years ago Father Keilty studied Latin and Greek in the historic town of Prescott, Ont., where the headmaster at that time was Mr. George Murray, and during all that time the former has always loved and revered the latter. —Com.

INSTALLED OFFICERS OF PONTYPOOL.

Installation of Officers of Lodge No. 292 Last Evening.

D. D. G. Master J. W. Miller and the following members of the I.O.O.F. went to Pontypool last evening, where they installed the officers of Pontypool Lodge, No. 292: R. J. Matchett, P.G.; H. W. Morgan, P.G.; W. F. Green, P.G., of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, and Wm. Hill, P.G.; R. J. Morrow, P.G.; Bert Wallis, P.G., and Frank Sollitt, of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111. After the ceremony speeches were made by several of the visitors, following which an adjournment was made to the dining hall, where the Pontypool members had provided refreshments. Pontypool Lodge is to be congratulated as being the only lodge of the I.O.O.F. in this district which is the proud possesser of an emblematic carpet, which was made to the order of the Lodge, and is certainly quite an addition to the furnishings of a well fitted hall, which is also the property of Pontypool Lodge.

The following is a list of the officers and committees:—

TO-DAY'S MARKET

Was Well Attended — Some of the Prices Asked.

There was everything for sale on the market this morning from green peas to puppies and piglets. It was refreshing to see summer vegetables in such large and healthy looking qualities. The market was a fairly large one for this season of the year, and the prices showed no very startling changes. There were chickens, both spring ones and otherwise—especially the otherwise. For these the prices askod were from 60 to 75c per pair. There were plenty of eggs on deck, and they were worth 16c per dozen. Butter sold generally at 18c per pound. There were a few stray ducks, for which from 90c to $1.25 per pair was asked according to size, toughness and other properties. Turkeys were hard to discover, and when one or possibly two were found it cost from $1.50 to $2 for those desiring this style of bird for Sunday's midday meal. Green peas were sold to many at 30c a peck or 10c a quart, with the shell pealed off. There were all kinds of berries, both red and black, raspberries, onions, celery, radishes, lettuce, beans and even little dogs and pigs, which were a centre of attraction for the younger generation.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL IN HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A Further Appropriation of $100,000 Under Debate.

The Policy of the Present Administration to Complete the Enterprise at the Earliest Possible Date.

In the House of Commons yesterday the estimates of the Department of Railways and Canals were again considered. Concerning the Trent Valley Canal an Ottawa report of the debate says:—

On the item of $100,000 for the Trent Canal Mr. Emmerson said that it would take $6,000,000 to complete the work, and that vessels carrying about 25,000 bushels of wheat could pass through it. It would cost about $4,000,000 to complete the Bay of Quinte section, and $1,500,000 for the Georgian Bay end.

Mr. Lennox urged upon the Government the desirability of pushing the canal to completion at any early day in order that the whole work may be productive.

Sir William Mulock reminded the House that 120 miles of the canal are already productive, some thirty-seven steamers being employed on the system, and the canal is already serving a useful purpose. As to what the policy of the Government would be in the future it could not be open to doubt that when the country committed itself to the cost of the work already done it was committed to the completion of the enterprise at the earliest possible moment. They could look forward to the Trent Valley Canal connecting the waters of the Georgian Bay and of Lake Ontario at an early date. The only thing he had to regret was that the enterprise had been pressed upon the late Government, their interest in it was chiefly displayed on the eve of a general election, and that interest seemed to die away a few days after the election. That was not the principle followed by the present Administration, which had pushed forward the work. The Government were now having an inquiry made as to the proper route to complete the canal, and when the decision is ready it will be pushed vigorously to completion.

MR. HAGGART'S COMPLAINT.

Mr. Haggart complained that the appropriation of $100,000 was not sufficient to meet the contracts already entered into. The Government were withholding their decision regarding the route for political purposes. Mr. Haggart claimed the credit for having let the contract for the Lift Lock, opened with eclat last week. He twitted the Government with dangling before the different constituencies, pending the general elections, the location of the southern end of the canal, in order to promote the chances of the Government candidates. The late Government adopted a plan, and adhered to it.

Sir William Mulock asked which route the late Government adopted but Mr. Haggart evaded the question, and Sir William Mulock asserted that Mr. Haggart when Minister of Railways, adopted the Trenton route, which elicited from Mr. Haggart a denial that he had made any such statement.

In reply to Mr. Haggart's assertion that the late Government had energetically pushed forward the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, Sir William Mulock contrasted the expenditure during the administration of the Conservatives with an expenditure of four times that sum during the eight years of the Liberal Government. He also showed that the Liberal Government had let contracts amounting to $1,500,000 since entering office.

Hon. Mr. Haggart admitted that he had never heard of any proposal to adopt the Port Hope route until the Liberal Government came into office.

Sir William Mulock pointed out that at the rate of construction adopted by the late Conservative Government it would have taken 200 years to complete the canal. They had only built one-twelfth of the canal in sixteen years.

IMPROVEMENTS TO MODERN WOOD YARD

Messrs. R. Hicks & Company Enlarge Wood Sawing and Splitting Plant.

So great was the success which followed Messrs. R. Hicks & Co's enterprise in introducing last winter, for the first time in town, improved machinery and electric power for sawing and splitting firewood, that it has been found necessary to still further enlarge the capacity of their mill. During last winter the public seemed quickly to appreciate the convenience of being able to order their firewood sawed and split, and thereby do away with further trouble after it was delivered. The demand for the split wood grew so large that, at times, the machinery was unable to cope with it, and so this firm determined to overcome this by further additions and improvements to the plant. Mr. Hicks, who has been wide-awake to the fact that her could handle this part of his business with a saving to the public as well as a profit to himself, has devised improvements which will double the output and simplify the handling of the work to a very great extent.

The principal improvement is the installing of the splitting machines on an elevated floor of a new building erected for the purpose alongside the saw mill and motor house. A carrier is constructed which conveys the wood as it comes from the saw up to the splitting machines, where it can be conveniently handled by the operator. As the wood is split it is thrown into shoping bins at the sides of the building, underneath which waggons can be drawn and automatically filled, without any handling of the wood, after the manner of bins in a flour mill. The modus operandi is quite interesting and demonstrates that Alderman Hicks, who personally carried out the details, possesses novel inventive ideas in the wood-splitting line which he might do well to patent.

NEWS FROM THE Y.M.C.A. BOYS' CAMP.

Another Letter of Interest From the Camp Scribe.

Boys are all Well and Heartily Enjoying the Outing—Visitors to the Camp.

Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp,
Thursday, July 14th, 1904.

This Thursday morning broke fair and clear and reminds us how fast the time is flying and that we are now on the last week of our camp. Many of the boys marvel at the pleasant days passed since the tents were pitched just one week ago.

All arose early on Monday after the quiet rest of Sunday and Mr. Harding set the boys a merry pace throughout the day. A number went fishing under his direction, but the only success was two small bass which Mac was fortunate in capturing.

There was no little excitement in camp on Monday evening when Mr. Aplin, of Pembroke, our late Ph. D. arrived with the rear guard which was composed of Gord. Thornton, Stan. Pyle and Ford Turner. Their reception was very hearty. Mr. Aplin looks well and says the Pembroke Association is all right.

In the evening a "mash" was held which took of the nature of a reception to the new comers and a farewell to Mr. Harding.

A bright bonfire blazed on the point and later in the large tent speeches were made, punctuated with the investment of a bag of peanuts.

Mr. Harding's address in reply was interrupted with "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" with numerous variations.

On Tuesday morning the heavy rain which began on Monday continued with increased volume, and as our cook looked out of his tent and saw the rain and no shelter (as the cook house was not then erected) prospects for a warm breakfast looked very slim.

However, through the persistence of the fireman, and the good services of a couple of rain coats, a steaming pot of porridge was served up with the usual breakfast extras thrown in. The fireman was given a cheer at breakfast. The wet weather interfered with an elaborate programme which had been prepared for the glorious twelfth. In this connection there was a live interest in the raising of the flag pole, and the Y.M.C.A. flag looks very pretty against the background of white tents and brilliant foliage.

Wednesday evening Rev. J. A. Wilson, B. A., came up to take his part in the camp programme. He had tea with us and remained over night.

An immense bonfire was built under his superintendance on the point and as it burned fiercely Mr. Wilson told the Scotch story "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush". For the hour until Mr. Wilson had finished the boys listened with rapt attention.

This morning he was given three hearty cheers as he went out to meet the steamer.

While waiting the camp was visited by a travelling Indian selling red cedar products, etc. He found many customers, and before leaving gave the boys a few lessons in paddle making and now there is a big demand for knives and bits of red cedar and shavings are everywhere to be seen.

The first game of the baseball league was played in the afternoon between the "Red Feathers" and the "Skinnycats". The former captained by Ed. Eyres, won the game in a score of 28 to 15.

I will have to close now in order to catch our special express. Glad to report all the boys well and still able to sit up and eat.

THE SCRIBE.

OBITUARY.

The Late Alfred E. Munson Who Died in Cobourg.

The death of Alfred E. Munson occurred on Saturday, July 9th, at his residence, "Love Lane House." The span of Mr. Munson's life was practically that of this old town. He had entered on his eighty-first year, and had resided here about 70 years. He was a prominent factor in the town's history from early manhood until the last ten years, when increasing age lessened his activity and enterprise. He was born at Canton, N.Y., in the year 1824, his father being a New Englander from New Haven, Connecticut, where the Munson family rank among the earliest pioneers, having originally emigrated from Lincolnshire, England. Some of his family espoused the loyal British side in the Revolution and others the Colonial cause. He was a grandson of David Weller, who was one of the founders of Cobourg, and nephew of William Weller, who prior to the building of the Grand Trunk Railway, organized and conducted the famous Weller stage routes between Toronto and Quebec. Mr. Munson assisted in the conduct of this enterprise. The advent of steam railways however, brought this pioneer transportation system to an end, after rendering good service to the country, and Mr. Munson continued to reside in Cobourg, devoting his attention to various enterprises. He established and conducted for some time the first railway car works in Cobourg, where the old Payne foundry now stands. He was one of the earliest and most successful producers of oil in the Lambton oil fields when oil was discovered in paying quantities in Canada, having large interests near what is now Oil Springs village, near Sarnia. On disposing of his interests there he went into the business of harbor contractor, having extensive contracts for the improvement and dredging of harbors and building of breakwaters at various ports on the north shore of Lake Ontario, including Kingston, Picton, Napanee, Belleville, Trenton, Presqu' Isle, Cobourg, and practically all the other ports west of Cobourg. Advancing years precluded him from active business pursuits, and he spent his last years in his beautiful home on Ontario street, his mind still active and never so happy as when meeting old friends or in the family circle. In 1848 he married Mary Dumble, daughter of the late Thomas Dumble, esq., who survives him. Of a large family the following sons and daughters survive:—Alfred E. Munson, residing at Chicago; Thomas H. Munson, at Seattle, Washington; Charles A. Munson, at the old home, Cobourg; John H. Munson, K.S., Winnipeg; Albert E. Munson, Dauphin, Manitoba; Mrs. Watson, wife of George H. Watson, K. C., Toronto; Mrs. Eldridge, wife of Rev. G. S. Eldridge, D.D., Brooklyn, N. Y. and Mrs. Boople, wife of Heber N. Boople, M.D., of Brooklyn. Another son, Frederick A. Munson, barrister, and one daughter died several years ago. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Reynar and Rev. Mr. Lewis on Monday afternoon in the presence of a large attendance of acquaintances and friends.

The late Mr. Munson was a brother-in-law of Mr. D. W. Dumble, of town.

FEWER FAILURES IN THE PROVINCE.

This is the Record Shown by Bradstreets Report Just Published.

Bradstreet's report of business failures in Canada for the first six months of 1904 shows a slight increase in the number and aggregates compared with the corresponding six months of 1903. There was 542 failures as compared with 480. The aggregate assets were $2,219,906 as against $3,115,391, and the liabilities were $5,174,285, compared with $4,446,733. Ontario reversed the general record of increases with 203 failures as compared with 214 for the corresponding period in 1903. There were also large reductions in the aggregate assets and liabilities.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS HAIR GROWER

SEVEN SISTERS WITH THE LONGEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL HAIR IN THE WORLD. LIVING PROOFS OF ITS MERITS

The Great Hair Tonic is a Positive and Thorough Antiseptic

and will quickly eradicate all trace of scalp bacteria, which is the cause of hair falling, dandruff and baldness. SCALP CAN BE HEALTHY AND NO HAIR CAN BE BEAUTIFUL WHEN CONTAMINATED WITH THESE DISEASE-BREEDING CREATURES. They undermine the hair and devour all the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp, without which the scalp dries up and peels off, forming dandruff and causing the loss of hair. SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS' HAIR GROWER AND SCALP CLEANER ARE THE ONLY REMEDIES IN THE WORLD THAT WILL DESTROY THESE GERMS. They penetrate the scalp thoroughly, carrying with them all the necessary properties to quickly regenerate all the impoverished parts. They rebuild the lost tissues of the scalp and renew the growth of the hair in every case. A few applications will make the hair fairly sparkle with new life and vigor. They make healthy hair grow twice to three times as fast as it does normally.

GIRLS' NEW PROFESSION.

Employed in London Shops to Wear Pretty Dresses.

What can a woman do to earn her living? She can become a draper's model, is the suggestion of one authority.

"Unquestionably a great deal of the trouble concerning employment is caused by the women themselves," he said to an Express representative the other day.

"All domestic duties nowadays are scorned as being beneath their dignity. We cannot get domestic servants because the girls want to be typists or clerks. Good cooks are becoming as extinct as the Great Auk, and the only housemaid's place for which there is any competition is a housemaid's place on the stage.

"Yet we are overburdened with governesses—half trained, as a rule—hospital nurses, typists, and clerks who cannot get employment.

"A new profession has been suggested for girls who have had no special training for any business or professional work. All that it required is a good figure, and the carriage necessary to show off beautiful gowns.

"The profession is that of mannequin, or draper's model. These girls are employed by all large shops, and are selected entirely on account of their beauty and shapeliness.

"Their duties consist solely of walking up and down the long showrooms clad in all the most exquisite models which the shops can produce for the benefit of the ladies who wish to purchase them.

"Those who have tried it state that they find the life most profitable and comfortable, and they have not the slightest wish to change their position for that of a governess or a clerk.

"Unfortunately the demand for such women is not large. But, after all, perhaps it is nearly as large as the supply, considering how very few women are perfectly formed nowadays."

How London Grows.

A striking example of the rapid way in which what is known as the extra metropolitan area is ever extending is furnished in a return which has just been issued in relation to East Ham. But a few years ago—15 or 20 at the most—it was little more than a fairly large village with a population of a few thousands only. It had no electric trams, no municipal buildings worthy the name, and one might also say it had very little else to distinguish itself as a community apart from anywhere else. From the return just issued, however, it appears that the population now exceeds 115,000, while a splendid municipal electric tram service is in full working, a complete set of municipal buildings has been erected, and, in short, it boasts all the adjuncts for which one looks in an up-to-date modern community. When one comes to look at the fact that its population grows at the rate of thousands per annum it is not surprising to find that no less than 4,371 men living there are engaged in the building trade, while there are also 2,573 general laborers to be found within its area.

Another significant set of figures are, that while last year's births numbered 3,805, there are 747 persons engaged in the furniture trade, which prompts one to speculate as to whether the furniture trade and the birth-rate are synonymous. It only needs to be added that East Ham evidently believe in looking after the inner man, as under the heading "food supply" the very respectable number of 1,826 persons are employed.

For the Rose Jar.

Subtle, suggestive and dreamful as is the fragrance of flowers it is a wonder that housekeepers do not manufacture their own stock wherewith to distill odors delicious as those from "Araby the blest." It takes but little time and attention, and the result is extremely satisfying.

Gather fresh roses in the morning as soon as the dew is off, or even before, if it be oppressively warm, in which case they should be plucked from their receptacles and dried before packing. See that no insects are concealed beneath the leaves, and discard yellow centers and green sepals. Such fragrant roses as the old fashioned damask are best, but all roses contain some essential oil. Then in a large bowl of glass or china place a layer of petals, then one of pure fine salt, lightly sprinkled. Set it, well covered, in a dry, shady place, and add to it day by day all the petals that can be secured. Stir up the roses before adding a new layer, and so continue until the blossoms have disappeared, or long enough to make at least two weeks from the first gathering. By this time the roses will be "cured" and will appear moist—wet perhaps if they were not perfectly dry when plucked.

PERPETUATE CHARTER.

The Ontario Government Purchases the Toronto Medical School Building.

At the last session of the Legislature an act was passed authorizing the Government to purchase for $12,000 the building of the Toronto School of Medicine on Gerrard street, which, since the federation of the universities, is no longer required. Recently an Order-in-Council was put through, taking over the building at the price stipulated, as well as the charter of the Toronto School of Medicine. "There can be now no revival of that school as a rival to the university," said Premier Ross, speaking of the matter. "It is believed that the property can be sold for at least the price we paid for it under the terms of confederation, and probably for more than that. We will sell it as soon as we get our price for it."

The Toronto School of Medicine was incorporated in 1851 by special act of Parliament, the charter being granted to Dr. John Rolph, Dr. Joseph Workman, Dr. W. T. Aikins, Dr. James Langstaff Gavin, Dr. Russell and Dr. T. D. Morrison. The corporation at the time of its merger was as follows: Dr. J. H. Richardson, Dr. Hugh Ogden, Dr. James Thorburn, Dr. W. W. Ogden, Dr. Moses Aikins, Dr. R. A. Reeve and Dr. William Oldright.

An interesting little ceremony took place in the office of the Minister of Education when the charter was formally turned over to the Government. The nominal members of the corporation now are: Hon. R. Harcourt, Mr. J. R. Cartwright, K.C., Deputy Attorney-General; Mr. John Millar, Deputy Minister of Education; Mr. Thomas Mulvey, K.C., Deputy Provincial Secretary, and Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, Assistant Registrar-General.

The charter of Trinity Medical School was surrendered to Trinity College some time ago, and in the federation was absorbed by the University of Toronto.

A WOMAN'S SYMPATHY.

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too, but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need to do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If not I shall be happy and you will be cured for 50—the cost of a postage stamp. Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. Mrs. F. D. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. Orange Lily is recommended and sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne 345 George street. s-w

A Big Moose Head.

Alex. Commander is a wise Indian. He is also deputy game warden in the vicinity of Sturgeon Falls, and one day last winter when he was skimming over the snow on his snowshoes he came on the body of a giant moose freshly killed, in plain disregard of the power of the law.

Alex, being wise, went his way, leaving the carcase unmolested. He felt sure the culprit would claim his own, and for many days he watched the spot. But the poacher was wise, too, and he decided he could get along without that moose.

Finally Alex concluded it was no use waiting any longer, and he took off the head and antlers and sent them to Chief Game Warden Tinsley, at Toronto, who received them the other day. The horns are huge and are the most perfect in form Mr Tinsley has seen.

LIEUT.-COL. MERRITT.

Splendid and Unique Military Career of the New Commander of the Governor-General's Bodyguard.

Among the recent changes announced in The Militia Gazette is that of the Governor-General's Body Guard, the command of which passes from Lieut.-Colonel Clarence A. Denison to Major Wm. Hamilton Merritt. Though there is a break in a family command, for the first time, yet the military traditions of the country should be fully maintained by the present commanding officer, whose family took a leading part in the French war, the revolutionary war and the war of 1812, 13 and 14. The Historical Record of the regiment sets forth these facts and the editor, Capt. E. J. Chambers, now of Ottawa, gives the following as a record: Major Merritt entered the G. G.B.G. as a trooper on the 28th of October, 1882, Second Lieutenant Feb. 29, 1884; Lieutenant 6th of June, 1884; Captain, May 31st, 1889; Major, second in command, June 11th, 1898; was appointed Adjutant August 2nd, 1889, and acted as such for some nine years, including service as acting Adjutant in Northwest campaign, 1885. He was in command of the party which captured the Sioux Chief, White Cap, and his band. When the South African war broke out he went at his own expense to Cape Town and offered his services and was appointed a squadron commander in 1st Brabant's Horse, he also was at different periods of his service second in command of 2nd Brabant's Horse and A.D.C. to Gen. Sir E. Y. Brabant, K.C.B., C.M.G., and Colonel Dalgety, C.B., his successor in command of the colonial division.

While connected with the colonial division, Major Merritt took part in the following general engagements: Labuscagnes Nek, Aliwal North, Wepener, Wittebergen, Lieliefontein, Veredefort, Schoolplatz, Magato's Nek, Doornhoek, Kwaggafontein and Cyferfontein. In an official record of services, issued after the breaking-up of the colonial division, Brigadier-General Sir E. Y. Brabant, reported that Major Merritt's conduct "gave entire satisfaction" to his commanding officers, and, further, that he performed his duties "with zeal and ability."

On the colonial division being broken up Major Merritt returned to Europe and Captain Chambers goes on to state "December 29th, 1900, Major Merritt applied to the War Office for permission to raise in Canada a corps of light horse, 600 strong. His Majesty's Government were willing and anxious to have "the Canadian Rangers," raised by Major Merritt at the earliest possible moment after February 15, 1901. On the date in question the Under Secretary of State for War wrote the Under Secretary of State for the Colonies requesting him "to inform Mr. Secretary Chamberlain, that, if he concurs and if the Canadian Government agree, Mr. Brodrick is prepared to accept this (Major Merritt's) offer." The conditions of organization provided that the selection of officers and men should be in the hands of Major Merritt.

Feb. 20, 1901, the Colonial office wrote Major Merritt, transmitting a copy of the War Office letter and adding: "A copy of this letter has been forwarded to the Governor-General of Canada with an intimation that if his Ministers see no objection and are willing to assist in the manner indicated, His Majesty's Government will be glad to avail themselves of your offer."

It is doubtful if there is another case where the British Government authorized a Canadian officer to raise a corps in Canada entirely at the Imperial expense, and further giving that officer the right to choose his own officers and men. The final outcome of the matter was the despatch of the Second C. M. R. to South Africa in January, 1902, under the conditions originally agreed upon by the War Office, except that the Government of Canada selected the officers and men.

Home Precepts in Boys' Letters.

In their "composition" exercises boys often make statements which on the face of them are the expression of some precept or teaching emanating from home—not from school. In the following extract—taken from a lad's essay on "Cleanliness"—the teaching of the mother does as plainly appear as if she herself had guided the child's pen:

"We should always keep ourselves clean in case of an accident in the street. If you was run over, and you hurt your leg badly, you would be undrest by the doctor, and you would be disgraced all down the street if you was unclean. If you was to fall over and cut your hand, the 1st thing is to wash your hand well, and get all the bits of dirt out.

DIVINE OPTIMISM.

I held it truth, with him who sings
To one clear harp in divers tones,
That men may rise on stepping-stones
Of their dead selves to higher things.

I sometimes hold it half a sin
To put in words the grief I feel;
For words, like Nature, half reveal
And half conceal the Soul within.

But, for the unquiet heart and brain,
A use in measured language lies;
The sad mechanic exercise,
Like dull narcotics, numbing pain.

In words like weeds I'll wrap me o'er,
Like coarsest clothes against the cold:
But that large grief which these enfold
Is given in outline and no more.

I hold it true, whate'er befall;
I feel it, when I sorrow most;
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all.

—Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

Ernest Thompson-Seton.

Slightly under six feet in height, Ernest Thompson Seton is of the order of men who distinguish themselves by endurance rather than muscular strength. He is lithe, spare and wiry, with a quick yet kindly eye and a great shock of hair black as night, which has frequently caused him to be compared to Paderewski. He is somewhat awkward in appearance, but there is an indefinite and very real something in both eye and voice which invariably awakens and holds the sympathies of those with whom he comes in contact. In lecturing his voice rises and falls with remarkable inflection, and there is probably no man on the stage today who can tell his own experience so effectively. A veteran hunter who saw him imitate a moose sniffing the air from right to left and back again said the faithfulness of the imitation was startling. He saw the immense, unwieldy head turning slowly, heavily upon the neck, and for a moment the illusion was perfect.

NEW PICTURE OF ERNEST THOMPSON SETON.

All Used up By Headaches

Could not Eat or work—Powders and Quick Cures of no Avail—Lasting Cure Obtained From

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

This case of Mr. Barber well illustrates the way in which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures headaches.

He tried the so-called "quick cures" first, but without obtaining benefit. It is well known that such remedies when they do bring temporary relief do so with a tremendous waste of nerve force and consequent injury to the system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by enriching the blood, vitalizing the nerves and building up the system. Headaches, as well as other systems of an exhausted system ,disappear before its influence. Its cures are lasting because it removes the cause of trouble.

Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a splendid medicine. I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat nor do my work. I tried headache powders and quick cures which did no good.

"About eight months ago I took "six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since. It has made a thorough and lasting cure."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book are on every box. 7

DESIRES TO LIVE HERE

PROBABLE REASONS FOR COMING OF OUR NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

Earl Grey a Serious-Minded Man With a Beautiful Wife—Has Something of the Dufferin Capacity in Him—Rich Beyond the Dreams of Avarice—Has British Thirst for Work and Some Great Progenitors.

Earl Grey, who, it is announced, will succeed his brother-in-law, the Earl of Minto, as Governor-General of Canada, is a serious-minded man, with a beautiful wife. He is just the sort of administrator the British Government might send out in troublous times; there is something of the Dufferin capacity about him. Just why his Lordship in the piping times of peace should care to accept an office is not apparent. He has wealth beyond the dreams of avarice, and has held high positions before. In default of any likelier explanation we might as well assume that his Lordship, who has been in Canada before, likes the country, and desires to live here.

The Man and the Office.

Although the office of Governor-General is a mere shadow so far as executive power is concerned, it can be made important if occupied by an important man. King Edward II a constitutional monarch, but he has made himself the most powerful personality in the British Empire. Lord Dufferin was a Governor-General with his power strictly limited, and yet his thumb-mark is plain on many a page of our history. His successors have exercised influence social rather than political, and Earl Grey should be able to wield the social sceptre with success and distinction. He is not a sportsman like Lord Minto, so we need not expect Grey Cups at the O. J. C. meeting. If, however, there should be an unexpected political storm, Earl Grey will be a capable man at the wheel.

Public House Trust.

Earl Grey is best known as the founder of the Public House Trust, which aims to control the retail liquor traffic of England, and eliminate many of its unpleasant features. So far the trust has 180 licenses, and year by year the number is increasing. Each public house run by the trust is made into a miniature hotel, and is not a mere drinking saloon. Non-alcholic beverages and more solid refreshments are served, as well as the ordinary beer, spirits and wine. The whole enterprise is conducted as a public trust, and not for private gains.

Thirst for Work.

Despite his temperance sympathies, Earl Grey possesses "the hereditary thirst of the British aristocracy," but it is a thirst for work. Sir Henry Blake, Governor of Hong-Kong, speaking on this point, once said: "Lord Grey has taken the lead in operations against our greatest and deadliest foe—the foe that if not conquered will do more than all the enemies of all the centuries to check and ultimately destroy the onward sweep of the Anglo-Saxon race. That foe is drink. * * * Acknowledgements are particularly due his Lordship for the interest that for many years he has taken in the affairs of the Royal Colonial Institute, and I congratulate the institute upon having such a vice-president as Lord Grey."

An Imperial Federationist.

His Lordship is an active Imperial Federationist, as his record will show. His feelings on the subject have been expressed in the following words on the occasion of a public dinner at which he proposed the King's health before the coronation: "You will receive this toast with enthusiasm, not only because of our devotion to his person, but because our Sovereign Lord the King is the incarnation of our Empire, the visible embodiment of all those widely scattered interests which, though existing in every portion of the globe, are yet focussed within the protecting circle of the British Crown. In this historic year, when the sons of the Empire will assemble from all parts of the earth to pay their loyal and devoted homage to the King, the chief feature which will arrest the attention of the world will be the striking evidence of the new strength which has grown to vigerous maturity during the reign of Queen Victoria, and which rejoices to place itself at the disposal of King Edward. * * * It is the hope of His Majesty's subjects in all parts of the world that the reign of King Edward may witness before its close the crowned completion of that Imperial Federation towards which the tendencies of an irresistible evolution are hastening the Empire."

Settled a Rebellion.

Apart from his activities in temperance and Imperial Federation circles, Canada's next Governor-General is best known as the administrator of Rhodesia during a very trying period. Earl Grey succeeded Cecil Rhodes in this position, and was in charge when the ugly Matabele war broke out. For the comparatively small loss of life which ensued the gallantry of the settlers is responsible, but to the administrator at the time is owed the gratitude for the wisdom and tact which hastened peace and secured it permanently when once reached. Ever since, his Lordship has taken an active part in the management of the South Africa Company, the greatest corporation in the world, and is at the present time one of its most sagacious directors.

Distinguished Ancestors.

Though the Greys, as peers, are merely a promising young family compared with the Dundonalds, for instance, the present Earl, fourth of the ilk, has had some illustrious ancestors. His great-grandfather, the first Earl, was one of the managers of Warren Hastings' trial, a leader in the movement for the abolition of the debtors' prison, and on Fox's death became Secretary of State. The first Earl Grey was the author of the measure which abolished the slave trade in Great Britain, and of another which removed disabilities from Roman Catholics and permitted them to hold commissions in the army and navy. He was Premier during Wellington's interregnum, and introduced the first reform bill. His son, the second Earl, will be forever famous as the first British statesman to enunciate the doctrine that the colonies should be governed for their own benefit and not for that of the Mother Country. He held office in the Melbourne Administration and was Secretary for the Colonies under Lord John Russell. If there is anything in heredity, Canada may well have high hopes of Lord Minto's successor.

Narrow Chests.

The old theory that consumption was inherited is utterly discredited by modern medical science. The germs of consumption must be received from without. These germs are every where. They are constantly being received and cast out by the healthy system. It is the narrow chested whose inheritance is weakness who fall a prey to consumption because they are too weak of lung to resist and throw off disease.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes weak lungs strong. It cures obstinate deep-seated coughs, bleeding lungs, weakness, emaciation and other conditions which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"In the spring of 1900 I was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs, and became very weak and short of breath, lost flesh and had no appetite," writes Mr. E. L. Robinett, of Kerens, Texas. "I was persuaded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first few bottles seemed to do me but little good. Thought I would soon be a victim of that dreaded disease, consumption. Had almost given up in despair when my friends persuaded me to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' a fair trial. I commenced its use. I weigh 160 pounds now, and when I commenced I only weighed 140 pounds. If any one doubts this statement I will be pleased to answer any inquiry."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." Nothing is "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from impurities.

Why She Got Even.

A good French-Canadian story from the Province of Quebec is related by a correspondent of The Boston Transcript: Louise Leblanc was engaged to marry Joe Belaire, but they quarrelled about politics. He was a Bleu, she a Rouge, devoted to Laurier. Her mother tried to induce her to marry him. But no. Louise admitted she was sick with love for Joe, but she could not change her politics, and she would not marry him unless he would promise to vote for Laurier. As told by a mutual friend of Louise and Joe: "Joe was one of those Conservateurs so bleu dat you nev' can wash him off. The Cure tried to get him to promise as Louise wished. But Joe, he's tell de Cure, 'M'sieu le Cure, dass no use for promise. I can't change my politique. My politique dass my principle, an' my principle dass my honneur. Surely, you don't hask me for loss dat. After that the mother of Louise she's come for see the Cure and nex' week de Cure is go for see Louise. He's spik long tahm wis Louise, till he get her for consent to be marry. So dey was married. But what was it M'sieu de Cure tol' Louise what mek her consent, after her moder couldn't mek her? Well, sch, ah'll tol' you. It was lak dis. M'sieu le Cure he's say, 'Louise, mon enfant, take my advise an' marry Joe Belaire. You know he's love you good an' strong. You know you's love him jus' de same lak dat. You marry him and I will hask le bon Dieu for bless your marriage. I will pray God to give you a big family. Also I will pray dat all you children be boys. Den you can bring de whole lot hup to vote for Laurier.' So she married Joe Belaire. And, begosh, dere was twins two tahm runnin' already, and dey's hall boys!"

"Like a Stuck Sheep."

Some of the delegates to the Presbyterian Assembly were entertained on their way to St. John by an amusing story of British ignorance of Canada, told them by an English commercial traveler, who was a fellow-passenger on the train from Montreal. Only two years ago, another English "commercial," who had not only Canada but Australia and South Africa in his round, decided to do his two rounds in one, and on arriving in Vancouver, took ship for Australia. He had left a large quantity of his samples in Toronto, and after making the trip round the world, came back to Toronto to "pick them up" ere returning to England. In the meantime, during his absence, a big Vancouver firm had written to the traveler's firm in London, England, asking particulars of a certain line of goods of which they proposed taking a small quantity. The London firm, knowing that their traveler would be back in Toronto, wrote him there, remarking, "As you are in the country, you might call on Messrs. —— at Vancouver." Their impression evidently was that Vancouver was a few stations up the line. "When he got back home and told them he was nearer London in Toronto than he was to Vancouver, they looked at him like a stuck sheep" was the narrator's expressive way of describing these very un-Imperial manufacturers' surprise.

A Market Ready.

"Great scheme!" said the small man, rubbing his hands nervously. "There is millions in it if I just had a few dollars to build a factory!"

"What is it?" cautiously asked the friend with money.

"To put up the college yell in cans for the Fourth of July trade."

OUR PEDAGOGUES.

Provost Macklem Gives Some Good Advice to Embryo Teachers.

The closing exercises of the Toronto Normal School were marked by forceful addresses to the students from the Minister of Education and Rev. Dr. Macklem, provost of Trinity University.

Mr. Harcourt dwelt on the importance of inculcating Christian character in the minds of children. Added to this was perseverance, which was the foundation of genius, a high aim and tenacity of aim. The habit of reading should also be inculcated, and the direction of pupils in the selection of literature was most important.

Provost Macklem said that teachers were looked to just as preachers to foster higher ideals and assist in the formation of character. That the Canadian youth required training in manners was hardly open to question. The average boy knows little of respect and nothing of reverence. The Bible Society meeting in Massey Hall, of which they were thoroughly ashamed, proved there was much to be done. The lack of good manners ran like a thread through our whole social system.

"Each of you should become such a book to your pupils that in future life they will keep you on the shelf of memory," said the speaker in referring to the inspiration which each should give to the scholars. "Success was impossible without discipline and true success was achieved easily and naturally and not forced. Tact was the greatest possession, and it was comprised of joy, love, faith, meekness, confidence and moderation."

In conclusion he impressed upon the graduates high ideals, broad sympathies and unfailing hopefulness. Narrowness was always weakness, while broadness meant strength; and they should always keep in touch with the best and greatest in the movements of the world.

HOT WEATHER DANGERS.

More little ones die during the hot months than at any other season. At this time stomach and bowel troubles assume their most dangerous form, and sometimes a few hours delay in the treatment means the loss of a little life. Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine in the world to prevent these troubles, or to cure them if they attack the little one unexpectedly. Every mother should have a box of these Tablets in the house—their prompt use may save a child's life. Mrs. Arthur Cote, St. Fortunat, Que., says: "My little one was greatly troubled with colic and bowel trouble, but since using Baby's Own Tablets the trouble has disappeared and she is growing nicely and has good health." These Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate, and are safe for a newborn baby or a well-grown child. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Successful Canadian.

Dr. Adolf Lehmann is a Canadian who has met with success in India. A native of Simcoe County, Dr. Lehmann was graduated from the Ontario College of Agriculture, Guelph, in 1889, and later went to India. Five years ago the Maharajah of Mysore decided that his Government should take up the question of scientific agriculture, and to this end, Dr. Lehmann was appointed to establish the department and to be its head. The appointment was for five years, and when the term elapsed a few months ago he was re-appointed for a similar term and given a year's furlough. The other day he was at the Parliament Buildings renewing acquaintance with Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture. Dr. Lehmann said that there were very few Canadians in Mysore, a fact which caused the doctor some surprise. He thought that Canadians would do good work in the Indian Civil Service. The examinations had to be taken in England, but the appointments were very lucrative, ranging from $2,000 a year up as high even as $20,000.

Why Sir Antoine Declined for Lady Dorion

The late Sir Antoine Dorion, Chief Justice of Quebec, was once invited to some Government House function, as was proper; but Lady Dorion, who was dead, was invited likewise. Sir Antoine accepted for himself, but declined for her ladyship, on the ground that she was in the cemetery. The next year, however, the same mistake was made; so the old judge wrote back to the Aide-de-Camp-in-Waiting: "Sir Antoine Dorion accepts, etc., but her ladyship being still in St. Anne's Cemetery, Sir Antoine is compelled again to decline the invitation for her."—New York Times.

THE ANNUAL VISION.

She comes, the sweet girl graduate,
Arrayed in robes of white,
To grapple with affairs of state
And keep things running right;
To show what's what and like as not
On several points shed light.

Her mind with useful learning
Stored to the very brim,
Her sweet soul grandly yearning
In seas of light to swim;
A perfect dream, her final theme,
Tied with a ribbon trim.

No problem for her solving
Is ever found too deep;
But they, like mists dissolving,
Evanish; with a sweep
Conclusive, grand, of her soft hand,
She puts them all to sleep.

Oh, sweet and soulful creature,
Adored girl graduate,
You are indeed a feature
With which to part we'd hate!
To you we bow. Please show us how
To keep things running straight.

His Ambition.

The soft, tender rays of the morning sun stretched their long, graceful arms over field and wold, kissing the hilltops and shedding luster on the humble onion patch where Felix McQuarter was engaged in useful toil.

Well aware are we, dear romantic reader, that Felix is no name for a hired man, so you will at once guess that he was a nobleman in disguise. Guess again. You are wrong.

Felix was only one of nature's noblemen, and as there is no salary attached to that job he had to work at what came to hand.

"Ah, me," he sighed, "would I were rich."

Just then a fairy stepped up. "Here is a million dollars," she said. "Take it and blow yourself."

"How can I ever repay you?" said Felix.

"Don't mention it," said the fairy.

Felix tucked the money in his pocket and started for town.

"What are you going to buy?" called the fairy.

"The best nickel cigar in the hul village," he replied as he strode gracefully away.

The Afterclap.

This truth a fellow faces,
When brought up with a jerk!
It's play to play the races;
The walking home is work.

Not Like Him.

"I saw you last night in a questionable joint."

"It must have been my double."

"I thought there was some mistake from the way the man was spending money."

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer, of encouragement and inspiration to every suffering woman. I have endured the torture due to female troubles and the consequent despondency and mental agony utmost to the point of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, exhilerating frame of mind which accompanies physical well-being. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition, I have had the privilege and pleasure of inducing multitudes of other suffering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and have received thousands of enthusiastic acknowledgements of the blessings it has brought to them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 5, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was received yesterday. In reply to your question about my health, I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered untold agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks every few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The first Sunday in November, I felt the pain increasing and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family did go and soon after the forcing down pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night, and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself. (My doctor could do nothing for me.) I have used 5 boxes of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have not had the old pains since. I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. E. H. F.

Receiving as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I felt impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from the other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been irritating the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free trial Treatment you will be very materially benefitted.

FREE TRIAL OFFER.

I want every reader of this who suffers in any way from painful monthly periods, irregularities leucorrhoea, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their addresses, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill.

MRS. F. C. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE BACHELORS.

B. A. C. Won From George Street Guild in Handy Fashion.

The B.A.C. baseball team is still undefeated. Last evening the above team won their second consecutive victory from the George street Guild League team, which was defeated by a score of 13—7 in a three innings contest. When the teams previously met, victory perched lightly upon the shoulders of the Bachelors, who, inspired by the result of the victory, asked for a return game, which was granted them and the result was as aforesaid. The Bachelors will meet soon to decide upon more fields to be conquered. Manager Whitcroft's team is in danger, it is whispered, and the coming champions of the Guild League, whoever they may be, are also in danger of a tumble.

Last evening's game was remarkable for several things, but that the B.A.C. won is perhaps the most remarkable feature. The Guild boys went first to bat, and got one man over the pan. The B.A.C., with blood in their eyes, started to lambast the ball, with preponderous muscular agility, and nine runs were tallied amid the groans and wails of Manager Gailty, who, it is alleged, played left field. But after that the game was closer, and the three lady spectators, who kept as far away as they deemed advisable, saw some fairly good ball, with the exception of some rank fielding by Moore and Best, which presented the Guild boys with three runs. Thurston's circus catch of a high fly in deep centre garden, was an occurrence worthy of note.

The Methodists played a ringer, by the generous consent of the B.A.C. His name was Smith; he it was who pitched for the Review team a few weeks ago. He was refused a job on the rubber last night and had to content himself with muffing flies and rooting grounders at short stop. Sam Moore, who "ate 'em up" at first for the winners, had his breathing apparatus punctured in the first innings as a result of speedy contact with Metheral's cranium, and it was some seconds before he came to himself again. Galley said the evening was warm, and just to show there was not the slightest inkling of ill-feeling he "fanned" whenever the opportunity presented itself for so doing. Best stole a base, and was so elated that he has decided not to play lacrosse again but to stick to baseball. There were other details too numerous to mention. H. R. H. Kenner handled the indicator, and was all right. Only eight men a side were played, owing to circumstances. The teams were:—

George street — Dobbin s, Parnell p, Metheral 1b, Dredge 2b, Curtis 3b, Smith ss, Galley lf, McClellan rf.

B. A. C. — Hutchinson c, Jolliffe p, Moore 1b, Wood 2b, Gray 3b, Best ss, Hetherington lf, Thurston cf.

Umpire, Kennar.

Following is a copy of the letter Addressed to Mr. William Crowley, president of the Trent Valley Lacrosse League, by Mr. R. R. Hall, the Honorary President of the League:—

Wm. Crowley, Esq., President of the Trent Valley Lacrosse League, Peterborough, Ont.—

Dear Sir, — To encourage your sporting organization, I desire to offer a silver trophy to be competed for by the teams comprising the Trent Valley Lacrosse League. An order has been placed for this trophy and it will be on exhibition in Mr. Alex. Gibson's window as soon as it can be made.

The condition upon which this trophy is donated to the League is that it shall be held three years in succession by the team winning the championship before it shall become that team's property.

It occurred to me that this trophy could be called "The R. R. Hall Trophy," and this inscription will be engraved upon it. Should the League desire any other lettering in addition to this, kindly advise Mr. Gibson, so that its wishes may be complied with.

Yours truly,
R. R. Hall.

Peterborough, July 15, 1904.

BOWLING ON THE GREEN.

Three Local Rinks won From Millbrook Last Evening by 25 Shots—Local Games.

There was a very pleasant and interesting match played last night between Millbrook and Peterborough. The visitors put up a splendid game holding one rink even, but in the other two notwithstanding the'r well and skilfully directed efforts, the fates appeared to be against them. Peterborough will have to look out for their laurels, when the return match is played on the visitors' green, for they have not the cinch the score would indicate.

The following are the scores:—

Millbrook	Peterborough.
W. T. Wood	Dr. Wightman
G. E. Perry	J. McIntyre
J. Dawson	Dr. Greer
A.St.A. Smith, sk 14.	R.M.Waddell, sk 14.
W. S. Given	C. S. Seymour
R. J. Dark	W. G. Ferguson
D. Adams	R. Sturgeon
Dr. McKinnon, sk 7	R. Kerr, sk 31.
Dr. Clarke	Fred. Clarke
J. C. Kells	Fred. Dixon
H. W. Johnson	W. O'Brien
A. A. Smith, sk. 11.	Ed. Runnells, sk 22
Total, 33.	Total, 67.

Majority for Peterborough, 25 shots.

The following games were played between local rinks: —

W. Lang		A. Moore
D .H .Moore		A. R. Kidd
G. A. Cox		S. Sharpe
W. Atcheson, sk. 9.		E. W. Cox, sk .15.
W. Lang		Mr. Meredith
W. Smith		S. Sharpe
G. A. Cox		W. Cox
D. H. Moore, sk. 7.		J. McIntyre, sk. 6.

LACROSSE.

Two of last year's senior Port Hope Ontarios have caught a place on the Chippewas' defence.

• • • •

The Tecumsehs play at St. Catharines to-day. When the teams met a few weeks ago at the Island, the St. Kitt's bunch was beaten in a close game by 3-1. A victory for the Indians to-day will practically clinch the C.L.A. senior championship.

• • • •

It's up to the T.A.S. to bring a lacrosse championship to Peterborough this year.

• • • •

The T. A. S. will take a strong bunch down to Hastings on Monday and expect to land another victory. A win from this team will mean a big stride towards the trophy. After playing Port Hope here, the total abstainers have Millbrook to dispose of twice, but this should be done without great trouble.

• • • •

The T. A. S. expect to take the strongest team that has yet represented the club to Hastings with them on Monday.

• • • •

Orillia has won the championship of this district in the intermediate C.L.A. series. They should have no trouble in landing the championship.

• • • •

Port Hope will be considerably stronger for their game here with the T.A.S. than at any time this year.

• • • •

The T.A.S. go to Millbrook next Saturday and the return game comes off here on the following week.

• • • •

A game between the Montreal Shamrocks and Tecumsehs of Toronto would be worth going to see.

• • • •

Lacrosse is said to be booming in South Africa. As usual there are ex-Canucks in the game.

• • • •

Millbrook gave Hastings a hard game at the former place yesterday afternoon the visitors winnoing by 3-2. The play was very hard and close throughout and bordered on the rough side at times.

BASEBALL.

In the Midland League to-day Oshawa play in Bowmanville. A close game should result.

• • • •

The Peterboroughs did not go to Cobourg to-day as per schedule. The game will be played later in the season.

• • • •

The games between the T.A.S. and the Peterboroughs for the City Championship should provide some fast ball. Early in the season these teams met and one of the best games of the year resulted. Both nines are playing fast ball at present and it looks like good guessing to pick the winner.

• • • •

Some fast baseball is promised when the finals in the Guild League come off. Home and home games will be played between the group winners.—All Saints and Charlotte Street. The former have lost but one game so far while the Methodists have yet to meet a reverse in a league game. There promises to be a great struggle for the Examiner trophy.

• • • •

Pilling, who has been ill since the opening of the Guild League is about again and will be on the slab for All Saints in the final Guild League games.

• • • •

Cobourg has won four straight games in the Midland League. Looks as though it were up to Peterborough to break the winning streak.

• • • •

A general shake up has been the order with the Torontos and it was badly needed. Dick Harley will manage the team in place of Arthur Irwin. "Big Bill" will be benched as his swatting has not been up to the mark and Rapp will be put on the initial corner again. Armbruster, a new fielder, has been signed and a southpaw will strengthen the firing department.

• • • •

Vincent McAllister, the crack pitcher of the Cobourg team, has secured a position in Montreal, and leaves for that city this evening. His loss will considerably weaken the team.

• • • •

Toronto played its first game under the new management of Dick Harley, yesterday, winning from Baltimore 7-5.

TURF.

The Turf Clubs annual summer meet which comes off August 1 to 8, are being looked forward to by local horsemen and those of the distance. A large entry list is expected and some of the best known flyers of the province are expected to compete in the races for which valuable prizes will be offered.

ROWING.

One of the greatest receptions ever tendered a Canadian winning fame in athletics is being prepared for Sam Scholes, world's amateur sculling champion.

GOLF.

Port Hope beat Lindsay at Golf on Thursday by 16—6.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL A WORTHY INSTITUTION

Sick are Well Cared for by the Nurses in This Hospital.

The Annual Collection for its Benefit now Being Taken up—A Generous Response Should be Made.

The annual collection in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital is now being taken up at St. Peter's Cathedral, and the appeal made to the people on behalf of this work of charity is being responded to in a most generous manner. This Hospital is doing much good in this community. Patients of all denominations are received within its walls, and every year many who are too poor to defray their expenses are treated free of charge. A ward of the Hospital has been specially devoted for some time to the care of contagious diseases, and in this manner it has served the purposes of an isolation hospital, and to a great extent has released to community from the danger of contagion arising from these diseases.

During the years, that this institution had been in existence, it has taken care of many hundreds of the destitute poor, who are without means of assisting themselves, and has alleviated their sufferings, and in many instances, no doubt, saved their lives.

At the time that the hospital was established a very considerable debt had to be incurred for that purpose. In addition to this the annual expenses of maintaining and managing the hospital are of a very considerable amount. The burden of discharging this debt and paying the annual expenses falls mainly, of course, upon the people of St. Peter's Cathedral. The charitable work of the hospital, however, has appealed to the generosity of many of the citizens of the town irrespective of their creed, and the benefit that it is to the municipality, in assisting in looking after the sick and poor of its citizens, is no doubt fully appreciated, as is evidenced, by the support and encouragement given to the hospital from time to time, by those who are not members of St. Peter's Cathedral.

"There is no doubt that the generosity which has been displayed in the past in contributing towards the support of this institution will be fully maintained on the present occasion, and that when the collection is closed at the end of next week, a very substantial amount will have been realised. 2d1w

TORTURING DISFIGURING

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

From Pimples to Scrofula, from Infancy to Age

Speedily Cured by Cuticura when All Else Fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt-rheum — all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete local and constitutional treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, Pills and (in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

PREPARING FOR THE FOOT GUARD'S VISIT.

Two Officers in Town To-day Making Arrangements.

Col. Roper and Capt. Bothwell of the Foot Guards, Ottawa are in town to-day making arrangement for the trip of the Guards here on the 30th of the month. There are about 400 in the regiment, which will arrive in Peterborough on Saturday evening and remain in town over Sunday when they will parade to church with the 57th Regiment. A site for the camp was looked after this morning and it is altogether likely that the Separate School Grounds will be secured.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why now buy it now? It may save life. For sale by all druggists.

KING'S GRACIOUS MESSAGE.

Hopes Salvation Workers Will Continue Good Work.

London, July 18.—King Edward, in reply to a message from the staff council of the Salvation Army, expressing appreciation of His Majesty's welcome to the International Congress of the army, and "gratitude to God for His Majesty's efforts in the cause of international peace," sends his thanks through Lord Francis Knollys, his private secretary. He says he "rejoices to think that his efforts to promote international peace and good-will have not been entirely without effect," and "that he trusts that the good work the Salvation Army has already achieved by its faith and energy may be constantly increased."

Celebrated His Centenary.

St. Thomas, July 18.—It is rare indeed in this later days when we live out the full of our lives in half the time of our forefathers, that anyone lives to the great age of one hundred. But Archibald McTaggart, second concession, has reached that age, and Friday celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of his birth. His children, his children's children and their children, besides nearly five hundred of his neighbors and friends from far and near gathered at his home to congratulate him.

Assassinated a Governor.

St. Petersburg, July 18.—The Vice-Governor of Elizabethpol was assassinated at 7 o'clock last evening. The assassination occurred at Adgehakent, a small place in the southeast corner of the Government of Elizabethpol.

SOME HEAVY FIRING HEARD RECENTLY.

May Mean Decisive Battle is now in Progress.

JAPANESE LAND 30,000 MEN

Russian Warship, Chernomoretz, Reported to Have Passed Through the Bosphorus in Violation of the Convention—London Irritated by the News—Russia Still Stopping British Steamers in the Red Sea.

Tientsin, July 18.—It has been learned from a Chinese source that heavy firing has been heard outside of Tatchekia for the last two days.

Japs Land 30,000.

Berlin, July 18.—The Lokal Anzeiger yesterday printed a special despatch from Port Arthur stating that the Japanese since July 11 have landed about 30,000 men near Pigeon Bay, under the protection of the entire fleet. The Russians, the despatch says, offered little resistance. A general assault is expected soon. A calm sea has facilitated the landing.

No News From Port.

Che Foo, July 18.—No craft has arrived here from Port Arthur for several days past. The Japanese Consul at this port has not received any information of any kind, and none has arrived here from Port Arthur for several days past. The storm which has prevailed for the last two days is abating.

30,000 Dead Story, Fake.

Tokio, July 18.—The Imperial headquarters staff officially deny the reports from St. Petersburg that the Japanese lost 30,000 men in a battle near Port Arthur on July 10 or 11. Not a shot was fired.

Sakharoff Reports.

St. Petersburg, July 18.—Under date of July 16, Lieut.-Gen. Skharoff reports that the Chasseurs are driving back the Japanese advance posts southwest of Siakhotan and east of Kanchi.

The Japanese, the general says, have reoccupied Kechina. They are still fortifying the passes between Fenshui and Motien.

The Japanese near Liaoyang have evacuated Sokeyan and Yanlikan.

The country from Siaossyra up to Sihu Pass is free from Japanese, but the pass itself is occupied by a detachment of the Japanese advance guard.

Gen. Sakharoff reports several minor encounters, with practically no casualties.

British Ship Stopped.

London, July 18.—A despatch from Aden to The Daily Mail says that the captain of the British steamer Waipara reports that the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg signalled him to stop by firing across the bows of his vessel on July 15, in the Red Sea. The Russians examined the papers of the Waipara and declared that they would hold the ship as a prize. The captain protested and was taken on board the St. Petersburg, where he gave the Russian officers a guarantee that there were neither arms nor ammunition on the Waipara bound for Japan. The vessel was delayed for four hours and then allowed to proceed. The captain confirms the report that the Orient and Peninsular Steamship Company's steamer Malacca was seized in the Red Sea July 16, by the St. Petersburg, on the ground that she carried arms and munitions of war for the Japanese Government.

Russ Warship Through Bosphorus.

London, July 18.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Standard, in a despatch dated July 17, says: "The Russian guardship Chernomorets passed through the Bosphorous from the Black Sea this morning." The Chernomorets is a gun vessel belonging to the Black Sea fleet, and carries two eight-inch guns, one six-inch gun and seven quick-firing and machine guns. She is equipped with two torpedo tubes and carries a crew of 160.

As the Russian Government is authoritatively stated to have given a distinct assurance that there was no intention on their part to send the Black Sea fleet through the Dardanelles, the passage of the guardship in question may well be doubted. The act would be in direct violation of the convention.

Britain Is Bound.

London, July 18.—The Standard's Tokio correspondent, cabling under date of July 17, says the Jiji Shimpo, in an editorial, expresses the hope that Great Britain will see that Turkey lends Russia no assistance by allowing steamers of the volunteer fleet to pass the Dardanells. The Jiji Shimpo declares that Great Britian is bound under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance to prevent just such assistance being given.

London Irritated.

London, July 18.—Almost without exception the newspapers this morning, in editorials and otherwise comment on the Russian Volunteer fleet steamers passing the Dardanelles, and the Government is urged to take action, especially for the protection of British commerce, in the Red Sea and neighboring waters.

The Daily Telegraph, concluding an outspoken protest, written with traces of Government inspiration, says: "There is a limit to complaisance when neutral commerce under the British flag is molested in a way to which we have been for a century and a half unused."

Special despatches from Berlin echo the feeling of irritation that exists in London.

Togo Can't Be Dead.

Che Foo, July 18.—John F. Bass, The Chicago Daily News correspondent with Kuroki's army, in a despatch sent by Chinese junk from Antung, says:

"There is a persistent rumor here that Admiral Togo is dead. Many of the Japanese profess to believe it.

"A severe outbreak of cholera is devastating this section. The bodies of the soldiers who die of the disease are being cremated."

After a three days' cruise off Port Arthur, the despatch boat Fawan returned to port yesterday morning. All was quiet at the fortress. There was neither sound of firing nor sign of activity.

Tokio received reports from Admiral Togo as late as last Tuesday regarding operations around Port Arthur. This would seem to dispose of a report current in Manchuria, sent to the coast and thence by slow Chinese junk from Antung, 250 miles to Che Foo.

Great Reverse Denied.

London, July 18.—Control of Lunsantan Pass, east of Port Arthur, was obtained by the Russians after hard fighting on July 8, 4 and 6. The Russian losses were over 300, and Chinese estimate the Japanese casualties at 2,000. Prince Gantimouroff, General Stoessel's aide-de-camp, was dangerously wounded. Warships shelled the Japanese intrenchments. An official despatch from Tokio denied the report of a great reverse on July 9 or 11.

The forces of Generals Oku and Nodzu have effected a junction at Tangchi, ten miles southeast of Tashichiao, and a detachment is entrenched at Pintzan, seven miles north of Kaiping. The movement on Newchwang continues, though the town had not been occupied on July 15. Warships supposed to be Russian, were seen firing near Kaichou.

A North German Lloyd steamer was stopped by the Russian volunteer cruiser Smolensk in the Red Sea, and mail and packages for Japan were seized. It was also reported from Aden that the St. Petersburg had made a prize of the P. & O. steamer Malacca.

Work in the Temiskaming.

Toronto, July 18.—The Temiskaming Railway Commission sat on Saturday morning and transacted routine business, and attended to some matters of detail arising out of the building contracts. The work of building is progressing very rapidly, and up to last week seventy-two miles of track have been laid. There is no doubt that New Liskeard will be reached early in September.

Took His Own Life.

Edmonton, July 18.—Wm. Nevins, who had just completed a new hotel building here, committed suicide by shooting himself on Saturday afternoon. No cause is known. He was aged 45.

Goes to Naples.

Rome, July 18.—Mgr. Falconio, apostolic delegate in the United States, left Rome yesterday for Naples, where he will remain for a few days before sailing for New York.

Gave Bogus Cheques.

Toronto, July 16.—William Kyle, aged 17, came from Dundas recently and by means of bogus cheques buncoed John Quinn, Edward Bannon and the Osgoode Bicycle Livery. Detective Mackie arrested him on suspicion yesterday morning. Other charges will be laid. He was remanded till Tuesday.

Note From Guests.

St. Catharines, July 16.—Bertha Landon, a chambermaid, at the new Murray Hotel, was arrested Thursday, charged with stealing money and other articles from guests. When taken into custody she admitted stealing $30 from a lady staying at the hotel.

MR. MONET, M. P., IS RETIRING.

Statement of the M. P. for La Prairie to His Constituents.

COMPARISON WITH BOURASSA

One Has Means and No Family and the Other Has Family and No Means—Mr. Monet Fears That If He Returns to Ottawa He Will Again Embarrass His Colleagues and Leaders.

Montreal, Que., July 18.—Speaking in front of the church door at St. Remi last evening following vespers, Mr. D. Monet, M.P., for La Prairie, asked a large audience of his electors to choose another candidate, as he had decided to retire from political life.

"I do not mean to say," he explained, "that everything is to my liking in the administration of the country. I do not wish to say that I have no fear for the future, even the very near future. I do not wish to say that, if I returned to Ottawa, I would not be again obliged to combat my leader and my party, as I did in the past. I have no regret for my past conduct, and it is for the good reason that it is impossible for me to bend the knee before a will that is not my own, and because I fear that I will again be a source of embarrassment for my colleagues and my leaders, that I have decided to retire from public life.

"Were I rich enough to dispense with the asking of assistance from the electoral fund of my party, as I have always done in the past, I would remain in the political arena. I would continue to aid my friend Bourassa in combating that which we find bad in the two political parties of the country. But Mr. Bourassa has means and no family, while I have a wife and no means. On the other hand, I have no right to ask assistance from my party, when I have decided to act in the future as in the past regarding my leaders."

ATTACKED BY MINERS.

Fatal Assault on An Engineer at Craigmount Mines—Wm. Welsh Carved Up By Infuriated Men.

Belleville, July 18.—William Welsh, an engineer at the corundum mines at Craigmount, has succumbed from injuries received a week ago Sunday, when he was set upon by a party of drunken miners and terribly hacked with knives. He was also struck across the head with a hatchet, and it required seventeen stitches to close the wound. In spite of medical attention Welsh died, and eight men are under arrest. They will be charged with murder.

Welsh was literally carved up. The row started while he was acting as engineer on a small launch, which took a party of miners to Combermere Sunday week. On their return, the men were more or less under the influence of liquor, and when Welsh got into an altercation with one of the men, who were new arrivals from Cordova, the rest attacked him. Knives were freely used on his arms, face and head.

Craigmount is owned by the Canadian Corundum Co., and over 300 miners live there. No liquor is allowed to be kept there, and Combermere, six miles distant, is the nearest place where it is sold. Welsh was highly respected, and his fellow workers were so aroused over the matter that only the arrest of his assailants saved them from violence.

Lumber Mill Had to Close.

Port Arthur, July 18.—The Pigeon River Lumber Company's mill was compelled to shut down Saturday because of the strike of lumber shovers. On Thursday the company decided to cut the wages of the men down to $1.50. Men working in the yards objected to this, and forty went out on strike. They began to raise trouble and the police had to be called. Other men were hired but the men employed by the company to fill their places were not competent and they could not get the lumber away fast enough and the mill had to be closed down. W. McKinnon, foreman of the mill, left Saturday for Duluth to employ more men. This is against the alien labor law.

Get Their Freedom.

Toronto, July 18.—The Dominion Cabinet on Saturday granted an order of release for Sam Thompson, Abraham Cahoon and Thomas Kerr and they will be released from the Central Prison to-day as soon as the papers, which T. C. Robinette, K. C., their counsel, is informed are on the way, arrive. It is considered that the punishment is now sufficient and that the necessary deterrent lesson to others has been given.

Government Ownership.

London, July 18.—It is stated that the Government will bring in a bill making wireless telegraphy throughout the United Kingdom a Government monopoly. The postoffice officials have been experimenting with a new system of their own.

FATTENING CHICKENS FOR THE MARKETS.

Some Helpful Suggestions Given by the Department of Agriculture.

In order to have the chickens plump and well fitted for the market when they are at the most profitable age, they should be placed in the fattening crates when they are three months old. It is not meant by this that chickens cannot be fatted profitably when they are more than three months old. Suitable market chickens of any age will show gaine in the crates. In selecting chickens for fattening, those should be fatted that have a good constitution, denoted by short strong beak, head wide between the eyes, lively appearance, and that are of medium size, and are of a broad square shape, with short, straight legs, set well apart.

EQUIPMENT FOR FATTENING.

In fattening chickens for market it is advisable to use the fattening crates recommended by the Poultry Division, Ottawa. If only a small number of chickens are to be fatted, packing boxes of suitable dimensions can be adapted for the purpose. The open top of the box should become the bottom of the crate, and one side should be removed for the front. Laths should be nailed up and down the front, and also lengthways of the crate to form the floor. The laths are placed at the same distance apart as recommended in the construction of the fattening crate. A board should be loosened in the top of the crate to remove the chickens from and a feed trough arranged in front. A shaping board and shipping boxes are also required.

FATTENING RATIONS.

A satisfactory fattening ration is one that is palatable and that will produce a white coloured flesh. Ground oats, finely ground or with the coarser hulls sifted out, should form the basis of all the grain mixtures. Ground corn fed in excess will result in a yellow coloured flesh of inferior quality; ground peas impart a hardness to the flesh that is not desirable. Ground oats, ground buckwheat, ground barley and low grade flour are the most suitable meals for fattening.

SATISFACTORY MEAL MIXTURES.

(1) Ground oats—coarser hulls removed.
(2) Siftings from rolled oats,— no hulling dust should be included.
(3) Two parts ground oats, two parts ground buckwheat, one part ground
(4) Equal parts ground oats, ground barley and ground buckwheat.
(5) Two parts ground barley, two parts low grade flour, one part wheat bran.

The ground meal should be mixed to a thin porridge with thick sour skimmilk or buttermilk. On the average 10 pounds of meal require from 15 to 17 pounds of sour skim-milk. A small quantity of salt should be added to the fattening ration.

The chickens should remain in the fattening crates for a period of 24 days more or less, depending on the conditions of the bird. Before they are placed in the crates they should be well dusted with sulphur to kill the lice. They should be again sulphured three days before they are killed.

THE FIRST WEEK.

It is necessary to feed the chickens lightly the first week they are in the crates. A small quantity of the fattening food should be spread along the troughs, and as this is eaten more food is added, but not as much as the chickens would consume. The food should be given three times a day, and after feeding the troughs should be cleaned and turned over. The chickens should receive fresh water twice a day, and grit two or three times a week while in the crates.

THE SECOND WEEK.

The chickens should be given twice a day as much food as they will eat. Half an hour after the feeding the feed troughs should be cleaned and turned over.

THE LAST TEN DAYS.

At the commencement of this period one pound of tallow a day should be added to the mashes for every 70 chickens. The quantity of tallow should be gradually increased so that at the latter part of the period one pound of tallow is fed to 60 chickens. The chickens should receive the fattening food twice a day.

THEY KNOW IT.

Thousands of people throughout the country know that the ordinary remedies for piles—ointments, suppositories and appliances — will not cure.

The best of them only bring passing relief.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally that removes the cause of Piles, hence, the cure is permanent. Every package sold carries a guarantee with it.

It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. A month's treatment in each package. Sold at $1.00.

BOBCAYGEON RAILWAY NEARS COMPLETION.

Northern Country Will Soon be Served by the C. P. R.

Opening Expected on July 25th—The Equipment at Bobcaygeon.

Bobcaygeon will in the course of a few days be connected with the outer world by a line of railway. The Independent says:—

The railway is nearing completion and for ten days the whistle of the locomotive has been heard. On Thursday of last week the rails were laid to the bridge at the head of the island, and good rails they are 65 lb. to the yard. The track laying train was visited by many persons to see the operations. From Emily Creek to the bridge, 4 1-2 miles, the rails were laid in four days. The road is now ballasted and completed to a point this side of Dunsford, and yesterday, Thursday, the gravel bed on Humphrey's lot was opened out with a steam shovel, and three ballast trains. There is about ten acres in this bed, sixteen to twenty feet deep. Quite a little village exists at Humphrey's over two hundred men being engaged. Over sixty Italians are camped. These men board themselves, and chum together in pairs. Other men have a long train on which they are boarded and bunked. This train has one cookery car, presided over by Jos. English, and three assistants, and next week they expect to be busy as the work is to be continued night and day. Two cars are used as dining rooms, one as a store room, and several are fitted with bunks as sleepers.

The bridge is an iron swing, with concrete piers. It is formed of solid plates below the track and has no upper works and has been ready for some time. Part of the approaches on each side will be filled in, and part trestle work. The filling will be done next week, and the rails brought into the station. Much of the timber used in this bridge is Douglas fir brought from British Columbia. Mr. E. C. Lewis, has the bridge contract, and is also building the turn table.

The tank is a large structure standing on abutments that were built to carry 400 tons. It is being encased in an octagonal sheeting, and in the lower part will be placed a steam engine and pump for filling the tank.

The engine house is a most substantial building. It has two stalls, having two tracks into it. The windows, which are on the south side, are large, and there are 700 lights of glass. Pits are constructed under each track, so that work can be done under the engine. The foundation of the building is a fine piece of work set in cement.

The freight shed is 60 x 40 on posts, flat roof, and is ready for use.

The station is of neat and taking design, and is built most substantially throughout. It is sheeted inside and out with planed and tongued and grooved material, the roof being covered with the same stuff. The roof is then covered with tar paper and shingled. The outside walls are tar-papered under about three feet of siding, and the balance of the wall covered with shingles stained a dark green. In the roof there are dormer windows that give a good effect. The inside is lathed and plastered with a new material called wood fibre, that sets very quickly, and allows the work to proceed without delay. Mr. Athill and son have the painting contract, and the station will be completed with the finishing of the painting. A party of carpenters left on Wednesday to construct the flag station for Eureka Point and the Scotch Line. The station, freight shed, engine house and tank, were all in Mr. Tomblinson's contract, who has pushed the work with commendable zeal. Mr. E. Sullivan has been local engineer in charge of the works.

It is understood that Mr. Farquier is using every exertion to have the line ready for a formal opening from Burkton to Bobcaygeon by the 25th. Unforseen delays may occur but the opening will be about that date.

There is a new London story about Charles Darwin.

"Two English boys," said Miss Leiter, "being friends of Darwin, thought one day that they would play a joke on him. They caught a butterfly, a grasshopper, a beetle and a centipede, and out of these creatures they made a strange, composite insect. They took the centipede's body, the butterfly's wings, the grasshopper's legs and the beetle's head, and they glued them together carefully. Then, with their new bug in a box, they knocked at Darwin's door.

"'We've caught this bug in a field,' they said. 'Can you tell us what kind of a bug it is, sir?'

"Darwin looked at the bug and then he looked at the boys. He smiled slightly.

"'Did it hum when you caught it?' he asked.

"'Yes,' they answered, nudging one another.

"'Then,' said Darwin, 'it is a humbug.'"

MONTREAL LAWYER ASKS FOR DAMAGES

Sues the Father of the Girl Who He Claims Jilted Him.

An Itemized Account of His Expenditures—Time Worth $2 an Hour.

Girls, if a lawyer comes a-courting you, provide yourself with a memorandum book and pencil, and carefully make note of each seance, while the circumstances are fresh in your memory. These notes may be useful should you or your parents be presented with a bill for the professional man's courtship at so much per court.

The Examiner noted the other day the most unusual case of a Montreal lawyer suing the father of his inconstant fair one for $2,323 for, breach of promise of marriage, or rather, for losses sustained by the plaintiff in besieging the citadel of her affections. Mr. Internoscia, the plaintiff, makes it clear that he wishes no remuneration for blighted hopes, lacerated heart, and the other etceteras of misplaced affection; but he does want to have pay for lost time and disbursements. Perhaps he sets off the wounded feelings against the fun he had out of an eighteen months' engagement, as he mentions no credits in his bill.

The entire case is most interesting. The engagement was entered into in August, 1902, and was terminated on January 22nd last. In that time Mr. Internoscia spent 465 hours in the company of Miss Bonelli, and he now bills the father for $2 an hour, a sum of $930. The itemized bill includes a number of things, from a $35 engagement ring to bananas and chocolates, and from a $10 overcoat to a $50 lawyer's fee on the purchase of a house that was to be their home. Even depreciation of value of gifts returned is not forgotten and four cents is charged for each love letter to cover the postage and stationery. The Montreal Herald gives these excerpts from the statement of claim:

Music sent to Ste. Agathe.....	$ 1 50
Letter sent to Ste Agathe.....	04
Box of chocolates.....	1 00
Dinner in my garden.....	15 00
Paper to Vicksburg.....	02
Powder from Albany.....	29
Box of pears.....	3 75
Box of chocolates.....	1 00
Bunch of bananas.....	1 50
Buy an overcoat.....	10 00

"I go to Sault au Recollet, $1.50; buy engagement ring, (returned) $35; I buy an umbrella, (returned) $3; buy a blouse, (returned,) $13.70; loss $8; I go with her to the Windsor station, $2; cash given to her, $10; telegram to convent, 50c.; plumbers' expenses, $161.85; eight months of a man's work at $40 per month, $320; due to convent, a balance of $139.95."

The cause of the rupture appears to have been the girl's change of religion, she having embraced the Roman Catholic faith in the fall of 1892, against the will of her father, who, it is said, banished her from her home. Mr. Internoscia took her to the Sacred Heart Convent, and agreed to pay her expenses. The girl left the convent, however, and returned her lover's gifts. The father denies that she has returned home, but Internoscia blames him for all the trouble. The case will be tried at Ste. Scholastique in September.

Girls have had the breach of promise cases pretty much to themselves. The jilting of a love-struck youth has seemed to some of them a very small matter. Some even glory in the diamond spoils of broken engagements. But if the courts hold that the poor wronged victims of their heartless cruelty can recover 100 cents on the dollar of all their outlay for rings, flowers, candy, livery and boat hire, opera and concert tickets, and $2 an hour for time spent in paying court to them, they will probably see the matter from another point of view. Man's rights surely ought to have some consideration.

Mary Queen of Scots' Relics.

Few dead-and-gone sovereigns are more liberally represented by relics than Mary Queen of Scots, whose harp was so keenly bid for at Edinburg on a recent Saturday. At Newby Hall one may see the massive four-poster in which she slept for two nights at Nappa, the historic seat of the Metcalfes, of Yorkshire, and at Low Hall, Yeadon, is treasured a pair of hawking-gloves presented by the Queen to Lord Scrope, her jailer at Bolton Castle. A few years ago Sir James Naesmyth presented to the Peebles Museum a hawk's lure, of wonderful workmanship, which was once her property. At Oxford is preserved a dainty leather glove, embroidered with silver wire and decorated with flowers worked in varicolored silks; at Dunrobin Castle is a cast of her face; and at Hardwicke Hall are tapestries of her working. The Duke of Devonshire has a pane of glass taken from an old hall at Buxton on which the unhappy Queen had scratched these lines:

Buxton, farewell; no more perhaps my feet
Thy famous tepid streams shall ever greet.

And in an old moated house near Alfreton is another pane, on which she inscribed this sad legend: "Trop heureuse en toi; Malheureuse en moi."—Westminster Gazette.

The Earliest World's Fair.

In the centuries before the nineteenth the nearest approach to an international exhibition appears to have been the Frankfort fairs of the sixteenth century. Henry Estienne, the scholar, describes this institution as "the epitome of all the markets of the world." But it is from an event within the memory of many persons now living that the fairs at Philadelphia, Chicago, Buffalo and St. Louis trace their genealogy. The mother of all such displays was the exhibition held in a palace of glass in Hyde Park, London, in 1851. It owed its existence to the Prince Consort, and was enormously successful from every point of view.

VIGOR OF WESTERN LIFE.

Phenomenal Increase in Vancouver's Population Within Two Years.

The rapid increase of the city of Vancouver during the past two years, and the rate at which building operations are proceeding in every available direction, are noteworthy facts, writes Bernard McEvoy in The Toronto Telegram. The population is now estimated by the civic officials at 86,000. The census of 1901 gave it as 26,196. As a consequence, although building has gone on with much vigor since 1901, the stress of population is so great that the boarding houses and hotels are all full, and it is almost impossible to rent any sort of a house. A friend of mine, wishful to obtain a dwelling, advertised twice, in two newspapers, the other day, and the only reply he got was from a man who had two rooms and a hen-walk to let, and that was about four miles from the city limits. The house agents either greet home-seekers with a broad smile, or escape by the back door when they see them coming. To build, therefore, is the only way for people to get a roof over their heads, and under these circumstances, not only are the contractors full of orders, but the building and loan associations are doing a rushing business. This will go on until the law of demand and supply has had time to work, when there will no doubt sometimes be a house with a "To Let" notice in the window. But the vigorous rush is simply a healthy development. It does not amount to a boom.

The difference between our climate here and yours in the east is shown by the fact that building has gone on here without cessation, except, perhaps, for a couple of days, right through the winter. The builders and contractors have worked under the pressure of customers with money to spend and no house to shelter them. A considerable number of them have come from Australia and New Zealand, finding conditions there scarcely to their minds. There has also been a sensible influx from Manitoba and the Northwest Territories of farmers who have made money and who are willing to put up with the prevailing wetness of the B. C. winter for the sake of its comparatively high thermometer. These newcomers are also well-to-do. One Australian is building fifty houses, the rental of which will average $25 to $30 a month.

The speed with which houses are built in Vancouver might well astonish those accustomed to the slower and solider methods of the east. With the exception of the stone that is used for the foundations, the only materials employed are fir and cedar, with a small amount of fair-to-middling brick for chimneys. The two kinds of lumber mentioned are the best in the world. The strength of Douglas fir is enormous. The only thing against it is that the turpentining resin will keep exuding from it to a greater extent for years. Otherwise it is an admirable building material. The great saw mills are working at it night and day. As for cedar, its workability and durability make it a fine wood for internal fittings. The lumber is prepared to such an extent at the mills that the store-rooms of these immense enterprises make every visitor who has the constructive bump at all developed, long to begin building houses.

There are the main timbers, the foundation posts, the joists, the "scantlings." There are the windows, ready glazed, in all convenient sizes. There are the noble-turned colonial pillars for the verandah, the ornamental cresting for the roof, the finial with which to surmount the gable. Doors of all kinds are there by the hundred; newel-posts, balusters, stair treads, "siding" or weather-boards to form the outside coating of the house. You see at once that much of the work that was formerly done on the premises of the builder is now produced by the quicker agencies of machinery and steam.

Nearly all the vacant lots in Vancouver having been forest land fourteen or fifteen years ago, are still covered for the most part with brushwood, and they also are dotted here and there with the stumps of giant pines and cedars. The first thing when a house is to be built, therefore, is to clear the lot, a work usually performed by Japs, who are surprisingly strong and patiently clever at it, and who charge an average price of from $30 to $50 per lot of the standard measurement of 66 feet x 163 feet. The building lot being cleared, a small amount of excavation, rarely more than two feet deep, is done by means of an excavating shovel and team. The operation of clearing has probably exposed enough boulders to build the foundations with, and these are drilled by hand and split into useful sizes, either by means of steel wedges and water—after the drill has done its work—or a small charge of blasting powder. The masons build the foundation walls 18 inches thick, and two or three feet or less above the ground. The basement walls consist, therefore, of two or three feet vertical of stone and six or seven feet of wood.

The quickness with which the skeleton of a house is erected on the stone foundation is marvellous. The roof is shingled, often in the second week after operations have begun, and the house is soon ready for the plasterer, who work about twice as quickly as his prototype in Ontario.

The working hours are from eight o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon. Carpenters' wages are 40c. per hour, plasterers 45c., masons 60c. My observations lead me to the conclusion that the rate of speed at which work is done is very much greater here than anything I have seen in the east. It exceeds that of eastern Canada in about the same ratio as that of eastern Canada exceeds that of the Old Country. The designs of the houses are artistic and full of variety. There are homes here that in every way fill the requirements of people of taste.

HAVE "WEATHER SENSE."

Australian Bushmen Have Gift of Prophesy as to Seasons.

One of the most remarkable instances of science learning from savagery and instinct is that which is of veryday occurrence in Australia.

The Australian natives are expert weather prophets. It is a gift that can hardly be called instinct, inasmuch as they form their judgment from a thousand and one signs about them, such as the average white would not notice. The appearance of the trees, the length of the stalk of certain reeds, the actions and doings of native animals, insects reptiles and fish; in short, a thousand and one signs, the purport of which they have learned by long centuries of observation, constitute their stock in trade as weather prophets.

Years ago, in the days of the old Botany Bay settlement, the English learned to appreciate the "weather sense" of the natives, and later, when the colony became civilized and weather stations were established here and there over the country, the best native weather prophets were employed as members of the staff. Many stories are related of their wonderful powers of foresight.

In Australia the conditions are such that it would be desirable if the meteorologists could foretell the weather six to eight months in advance, something which no weather forecaster is able to accomplish, twenty-four hours being the longest period at which he can or will venture a forecast.

But the native weather doctors do not hesitate to predict what will occur six months to a year ahead, and, what is most remarkable, they hit it correctly more often than one would expect.

There is a story current that several years ago the sheep farmers and winemakers in a certain quarter of Australia were much wrought up, thinking the year would be followed by a severe drought.

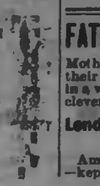
The Weather Bureau men held the same opinion, but would not, of course, venture any prognostications so far ahead. Yet, while all were confident that the next year would bring death to the herds and flocks, an old native weather prophet attached to the station shook his head, declaring that he had serious doubts of such a thing happening.

Prevailed upon to set his wits to work, he gathered together provisions and set forth into the desert, saying he was going to consult the signs and would return in about a month. Where he went or what he did no one knew, but at the end of the month he returned, declaring that the white men were all fools and that, instead of drought, the next season would be unusually rainy. No one believed him, but, sure enough, when next season arrived more rain fell than had been experienced in years.

In dry, arid countries like Australia it is oftentimes easier to forecast weather than in others. Plant life has adapted itself to the conditions, and by studying their growth from year to year one might possibly in time learn the significance of the short or long growth of plants.

Doubtless, after leaving the station the old weather prophet went direct to some out of the way locality where grew some particular plant, occurring there and in no other part of the region, which during seasons preceding a wet or dry spell forecast weather events by some peculiarity of growth or structure not noticeable to a white person, but plain enough to the native.

Stages of the Dandelion.



The violet is fragrant,
And beautiful the rose;
But close to human nature
The dandelion grows.

In youth its clustered ringlets,
With golden brilliants burn,
And then, despite all hair dye
Its scanty silver turn.

The three-score-ten of flowers
Comes with relentless fate,
Then sadly it exhibits
A bald and shining pate.

AERONAUT DROWNED

Sensational and Fatal Drop into the River at Montreal.

JAMES A. BENNETT'S SAD END

Another Sunday Drowning in the Humber River at Toronto—A 15-Year Old Boy Drowned at Hamilton—Young Man Drowned in the Saugeen River on Saturday—Fatal and Serious Accidents.

Montreal, July 18.—A daring aeronaut named Jas. Anthony Bennett, who made a balloon ascension from Riverdale Park Saturday evening, came to a sad end. The balloon had not more than got under way when it careened and dropped into the river near the Longueil shore. Boats were sent out, but the body has not been recovered. Bennett is known all over this country, and the States as a daring aeronaut. He was born in Bristol, England, 38 years ago. His widow is a fortune teller called Madame Gould.

The body of the ill-fated aeronaut Bennett has been found in two feet of water. He was evidently killed by the fall.

Drowned in the Humber.

Toronto, July 18.—There was another Sunday drowning accident yesterday. This time the Humber River was the scene of the fatality. The victim was Arthur Poyntz Smyth, aged 21, a clerk in the T. Eaton Co. store.

Smyth and four friends, Arthur Poynts, a cousin; H. R. Marsden, Milton Dedman and Chris Traynor, engaged a boat at the Humber and rowed up the river about a mile to a spot known as "Deadman's Point." They went in swimming. Traynor was the only one in the party that could swim. The others were learning.

Traynor was swimming and towing the boat with the rope in his mouth. The others were hanging on to the boat. They crossed the river once, and on the way back Traynor noticed that Dedman and Poyntz were getting fagged, he got them ashore, and when he looked for Smyth he saw him sink. He dived for Smyth, but could not reach him, as the water is 25 feet deep at this point. The body was subsequently recovered with the aid of a pike pole.

Smyth lived with his widowed mother and sister at 562 Bathurst street. They arrived here from Ireland about nine months ago. The funeral will take place Tuesday.

Comrades Saw Him Die.

Hamilton, July 18.—Leon Loosley, a 15 year old son of the late J. N. Loosley, who made his home with his stepfather, J. R. Service, was drowned in the Desjardines Canal, Saturday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock not far from the high level bridge. He went in bathing with a number of other boys and waded about half way across. He could not swim and when he got out of his depth, sank into the deep water.

Took Cramps.

Paisley, July 18.—In the Saugeen River here Saturday evening about 7 o'clock, a nineteen-year-old son of Christopher Parker of Greenock township was drowned. He was in bathing with two other young men, and it is supposed he took cramps. His companions grasped him, but found it impossible to maintain their hold.

Little Boy Killed.

St. Thomas, July 18.—A fatal accident occurred Friday on the farm of James Shoebottom, concession 9, London township, when his seven-year-old boy James, was fatally crushed. Mr. Shoebottom was drawing hay during the day, and was driving up to the barn on top of the load with two small children. Jimmy, the boy, was behind the load, having hold of a board projecting from the wagon. When driving up the gangway, the front wheels of the wagon were raised in such a manner as to lower the end of the board against the gangway, crushing the little fellow. An examination showed that the boy's spine was injured. The boy died in fifteen minutes afterwards in agony.

Child Drinks Lye.

Brockville, July 18.—The little four-year-old daughter of Joseph Fitzpatrick came near meeting a tragic death at her father's store. A pitcher containing an extraction of lye had been left on one of the stands, and the little tot climbed up and swallowed a mouthful. She was discovered in the act, but too late. She was at once taken violently sick, and the prompt attendance of a physician saved her life. She is still in a very critical condition.

Body Paralyzed From Fall.

Toronto, July 18.—Joseph Hopkins, who was employed as an engineer in Barchard & Co.'s box factory, is in the general hospital. He is suffering from a severe scalp wound and dislocation of the spine. The body is paralyzed from the neck down. The doctor could not say early this morning whether the injuries would prove fatal or not. Hopkins fell while repairing some pipe yesterday. When found he was conscious, but unable to move. He said he had fallen at 11 o'clock. It was 7 o'clock when he was found. He fell about 15 feet. He has a wife and several children.

N. Y. CYCLONE COSTS A LIFE.

Aged Woman Killed in Collapse of One of Several Buildings.

Chappaqua, N. Y., July 18.—A cyclone that swept over a part of this village Saturday caused the loss of one life, the injury of several persons and the total destruction of five dwellings and three barns, besides damaging other property.

Mrs. Hibbs, of Philadelphia, who was here visiting a daughter, Mrs. Anne Washbourne, received injuries which caused her death. Mrs. Hibbs was about 80 years old and feeble.

The cyclone came from the west and swept over a tract about 150 feet in width. It was accompanied by rain and hail and levelled everything in its path.

Fatal Train Accident.

Rochester, N. Y., July 18.—Mr. and Mrs. James Bolles were struck by a passenger train on the Auburn branch of the New York Central Railroad yesterday morning, while driving across the track two miles west of Canandaigua. Mr. Bolles was instantly killed. Both were placed on board the train and brought to Rochester. Mrs. Bolles also received fatal injuries.

Wrecked in a Fog.

Williamsport, Penna., July 18.—The Buffalo flyer, northbound, with three carloads of Shriners, en route from Atlantic City, was wrecked Saturday on the Buffalo and Allegheny division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Two train men were killed and four injured.

Grand Stand Collapsed.

Cleveland, O., July 18.—Two hundred people were hurled to the ground yesterday by the collapse of a stand at Brighton Park, a suburb of this city. A ball game was in progress. Ten people had broken arms or legs.

APPEALED TO CAESAR.

London Times' View of Lord Dundonald's Toronto Speech.

London, July 18.—(C. A. P.)—The Times, referring to Lord Dundonald's speech in Toronto, says it might have been better taste if he had refrained from repeating to a popular audience his grave indictment against the Canadian Ministry. His searchlight is of a very startling character. The charge of indifference is almost as grave a charge as it is possible for a soldier who has been responsible for the defence of the country to bring against his constitutional chiefs. We are sure it is an unfounded charge so far as it imputes to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues as a body any lack of zeal for the safety of the Dominion. On the other hand, Lord Dundonald's allegations create the impression that the militia has not been administered in some respects with a single eye to its efficiency. Lord Dundonald has appealed to Caesar well knowing the personal penalty he will have to pay. From Ministers and party politicians to public opinion and the electorate is an appeal admittedly irregular, but it will be heard, we imagine, and determined on its merits by the tribunal before whom Lord Dundonald has taken it. The decision will be awaited in Britain with keen interest, as well as in Canada, for the issue is nothing less than the efficiency or the inefficiency of the national defences of our greatest colony and the fitness or unfitness of the present Ministers to provide for them.

CZAR TERRORIZING FINLAND.

Russia Arrests Prominent Men Without Explanation.

London, July 18.—Advices from Helsingfors show that during this month three of the most distinguished professors of the university, Homen, a scientist of European reputation; Estlander, a law lecturer, and Baron Wrede, professor of Roman law, a member of the House of Nobles, and one of the most respected men in Finland, were suddenly arrested and deported in manacles to St. Petersburg. Nothing has been heard of them since. The houses of other professors were searched. It is impossible even to suggest that there is any connection between these arrests and the assassination of Governor-General Bobrikoff. The object seems simply to be to terrorize the Finlanders and to show them that no one is safe from the long arm of Russia.

AGAINST UNION---$12,500 DAMAGES.

Western Federation of Miners Held to Have Acted Illegally.

Victoria, B. C., July 18.—The jury in the case of Centre Star Line Company, Limited, v. the Rossland Branch of the Western Federation of Miners, Saturday awarded $12,500 damages to the company, on the ground that the Federation had used illegal means in conducting its strike and had wrought detriment to the company's business to the amount granted as damages.

This case has been dragged along in the law courts for a considerable time and is the first of the kind tried in this province.

Justice Duff was the judge. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, K. C., was counsel for the company. It is probable that the Federation will take an appeal.

A Book for the Home.

Dr. Chase's Last and Complete Receipt Book, containing over three thousand medical, cooking, veterinary and miscellaneous receipts, is sold at $2.75 post-paid. There is no book published which is so useful in the home. After using it a month you would not exchange it for $10. If you don't consider it worth more than the price return the book in good condition and get your money back. Illustrated circular free. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

An Amusing Misconception.

Children sometimes quite misapprehend the point of a teacher's remarks, especially if it be expressed in the least degree idiomatically. For example, a lady teacher had been giving her class a lesson on the rabbit, and in the course of it she said: "The rabbit has a tail, certainly; but nothing to speak of." Later in the day the children were required to write down the substance of the lesson in their own words, and one little girl reproduced the above statement as follows:

"A rabbit has a tail, beyond all doubt; but it is very naughty to ever speak about it."

Will Come to Canada.

London, July 18.—It is practically decided that the Hon. Alfred Lyttelton is to pay a visit to the United States and Canada in a few months' time. He is anxious to go during his term of office as Secretary for the Colonies, so probably will not go later than August, as, of course, if the Liberal party come in during the autumn Mr. Lyttelton will no longer retain his present post. Mrs. Lyttelton will, of course, accompany her husband, and it is not improbable that the Canadian part of the tour will be taken in company with the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is to visit America this year on a round of visits to the American bishops.

Four Men Arrested.

St. Thomas, July 18.—Chief of Police Fewings Saturday received a telegram from the chief of police at Lindsay, to the effect that four men had been arrested there on a charge of robbing W. B. Jackson's hardware store here last Sunday. Part of the stolen goods were secured on the men when arrested. They are believed to have been followers of the circus.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. SHE SELLS HER SKIN.

One London Surgeon Has Bought Over $200 Worth From Her for Grafting—And There Are Others.

It may not be generally known that there is at the present time a regular traffic in the selling and buying of human skin, said a surgeon in one of the big hospitals to a writer in Tit-Bits. We have on our books the names and addresses of many men and women on whom we can rely for several square inches of cuticle when the necessity arises. These patients, if one may call them so, are by no means among the poor and destitute, as might perhaps, be supposed, but are people occupying an averagely high niche in society, young and, of course, absolutely healthy.

There is one young lady from whom we have bought from time to time over £200 worth of cuticle, and who manages to make a very respectable income by disposing of her fair skin, for she supplies other surgeons besides ourselves.

Only the other day we had to perform an operation on the throat of a young and beautiful leader of society, which was bound to leave an ugly scar unless we could obtain three square inches of absolutely healthy cuticle. Without our knowledge our patient advertised in a medical paper for the required amount of skin, offering £20 per square inch. She received between 400 to 500 replies from men and women in all classes of life, and, fortunately, brought them to me to select from.

Curiously enough I had not opened half a dozen before I recognized the handwriting of the young lady from whom we had already obtained so much cuticle, and I at once advised our patient to accept her offer, which she did. The operation of skin-grafting was a perfect success, and no one, to look at the fair throat of the beautiful woman we had operated on, would believe that a knife had ever been near it.

Sometimes, of course, the necessary amount of flesh tissue required cannot be obtained from one person, and there have been occasions when we have had to requisition every man and woman on our books before securing the needful quantity of cuticle. A month ago a young man was brought into the hospital with half his face terribly scalded. When it was healed we knew there would be a very disfiguring scar unless skin-grafting was resorted to, and although the patient was far too poor to pay for the tissue, we were fortunately able to draw on a special fund which provides for such cases.

Six of our regular "cuticle merchants" were summoned, and from the arms of each we took a certain amount of skin, the half-dozen supplying sufficient to cover the wound left on the youth's cheek by the scald. The operation was a tedious one, but perfectly successful, and there is now nothing to indicate that the lad's cheek has been built up with the skin obtained from six different people.

Sometimes, of course, we can obtain the skin from the patient himself. I remember such a case when I was in attendance at the Exeter Eye Infirmary. There was a young man brought in who had met with a curious accident, whereby he had lost his left eyelid. The eyeball, of course, was exposed, and besides being very unsightly caused the patient considerable pain.

The work of grafting an eyelid is not easy and is very seldom attempted in England. However, Dr. Tomwell, a well-known eye specialist in the west of England, determined to make the attempt, and taking various minute portions of skin from the patient's arm stitched them to what remained of the eyelid. The operation was a fearfully painful one, but the patient stood it excellently, and in eight weeks' time sufficient skin had been grafted to enable the sufferer to close and open his eye with considerable facility.

To give a few inches of skin does not require very much courage—the idea being far worse than the actual cutting. Besides, there is no objection to the victim being placed under the influence of ether if desired, though, curiously enough, it is better that the patient on whom the flesh tissue is to be grafted should be operated on while awake. The after-effects amount to very little, the place from which the skin has been taken being about as sore as a vaccination mark immediately after the operation.

Of course, some patients who enter the hospital for the purpose of undergoing skin-grafting have many friends who are only too willing to supply the needful material, and when they are healthy we allow them to make the sacrifice. No one, however, need ever find any difficulty in obtaining as much cuticle as he or she requires so long as they can pay for it, for there are thousands of people who would gladly part with as much skin as is consistent with safety at prices as low as one shilling the square inch.

Our Ancestors.

For the benefit of those who may feel "exclusive," or "stuck up," or who prate about blue blood, etc., it will be well to remember that if we go back but twenty generations, or 700 years, each one of us has 1,084,576 ancestors, and is related more or less closely to at least 270,000,000 of our fellows.

Going back but a couple of hundred years further, and tracing down our genealogy, we should find that we have more cousins than there are people in the world, and that on the basis of but two children per family. The discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that there have been so many cousins as there are people in the world to-day, but are related to a great number many times over.

V.C. HERO.

How the Cross Was Won in Somaliland by Lieut. Smith.

For conspicuous bravery in Somaliland, the King has conferred the coveted Victoria Cross on Lieut. Clement Leslie Smith of the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry. Thrilling, indeed, was the act that won the cross. Hospital Assistant Rahamat Ali was hit early in the fight with the dervishes at Jidballi on Jan. 10. Lieut. Smith and Dr. Welland went out to his assistance and endeavored to bring him out of action on a horse. But Ali was killed, and his two brave would-be rescuers were surrounded by the enemy.

Helping the doctor on to his horse, Lieut. Smith turned his head to the lines of safety. Fate was against the two; the beast went down with a crash. A passing mule was caught. There was another attempt to mount; the mule was killed.

Then Dr. Welland was speared, but his dauntless companion stood by him to the end, pouring the contents of his revolver into the surrounding foe.

"I was much astonished to find he had escaped with his life," reported Lieut. Stevens to the major-general.

QUAKERS' SECOND ANNUAL PICNIC.

Employees of the American Cereal Company Spent Saturday at Idyl Wyld.

A Delightful Outing Enjoyed by 500 Persons—Some Features of the Day's Outing.

A good reputation is a mighty convenient thing to possess, but what is far better, is a right to bear that good reputation. In respect to the quality of their picnics and excursions, the employees of the American Cereal Company have proved pretty conclusively that they have an eminently justified claim to both of the above.

Last year, on July 4th, when the first of these annual events was held at Jubilee Point, the reputation held by the Quaker people for doing whatever they undertook well, was given an ample justification, and the "Quaker" picnic was voted by those who attended as the most successful of its kind ever held in the vicinity of Peterborough, or participated in by Peterborough people. In the second annual outing, which was held on Saturday, and of which Idyl Wild was the objective point, their reputation for giving enjoyable outings, was fully sustained, and those who were fortunate enough to attend, were more pronounced than ever in their assertion that the Quaker people are "all right."

On both of these occasions the weather man, who is evidently in league with those who are furnishinga the means of producing "the amile that won't come off," has provided ideal weather conditions, and Saturday was a day sufficiently sunny and warm to have brought envy to the hearts of those who had charge of the arrangements for that event held a week ago Saturday, as a souvenir of which many ladies are now compelled to look ruefully upon ruined gowns and hats.

IDYL WYLD LANDING.

The weather, however, was not one whit more sunny than the countenances of the five hundred or more persons who constituted the jolliest crowd of excursionists seen on the Otonabee since the Quaker picnic last year.

The same general conditions which characterized the picnic of 1903, and which so impressed the Examiner then, were noticeably present on Saturday. These were the exemplary conduct of every one of the hundreds who attended, and the perfect harmony between every section of those who formed the party. There was the utmost friendliness existing between those who, as manager and superintendents, represented the company, and those who constituted the main body of employees. There was no attempt at restraint, and a perfectly friendly feeling existed between all who participated in the enjoyable event.

THE HOTEL AT IDYL WYLD.

The steamers chartered to convey the excursionists to their destination were the Calcutt liners, "City of Peterborough" and "Water Lily," both of which carried their full complement of passengers. The "City" with the larger portion of the party, left the Wolfe street wharf at 7.30, followed half an hour later by her smaller, but swifter, sister, the "Lily." On board the former was the 57th Band, and the trip down the river, which, under ordinary circumstances, would have been an enjoyable one, was made doubly so by the happy co-mingling of the light-hearted company, enlivened by the strains of the musical organization of which Bandmaster Gliddon is the head. Those who enjoyed dancing, found ample opportunity to give expression to that enjoyment, and the sail to the picturesque island was all too short for the happy throng.

About 11 o'clock Idyl Wild was reached by the "City," followed in less than thirty minutes by the "Lily," and about the first occupation that engaged the attention of the greater portion of the party, was that of satisfying the inner man, and from the well laden baskets, fair ladies of "Quaker," "Banner" and "Saxon" fame brought forth what seemed like an almost inexhaustible supply of the most tempting viands, and the tables under the trees were quickly spread, and the appetites of the excursionists satisfied.

Mr. J. W. Hutchinson, the proprietor, of the well-conducted summer hotel at this popular resort, was also well prepared for the visit of those, who not wishing to go to the trouble of preparing lunch, preferred to accept the hospitality of mine host Hutchinson, and those who did so were served with a meal with which no fault could be found, either in its quality or quantity.

THE SPORTS.

After dinner the programme of sports was run off, under the direction of an energetic committee, and this part of the day proved highly interesting, not only to those who participated in it, but to the greater number of spectators. The sports were under the direction of Mr. J. A. Laird and Mr. A. Poe, and the able manner in which these gentlemen performed their duties earned the warm commendation of the contestants and spectators alike.

The first event, and one of the most interesting, was a tug-of-war contest between the Mill versus the Elevator and Cleaning House. This was won by the latter, and these in turn were defeated by the Packing and Shipping Departments.

Following this a tug-of-war between teams of ladies chosen on the ground by Miss Minnie Henry and Miss Maud Campbell was pulled, and Miss Henry's team was declared the winner. The assistance of Mr. Clem McFadden, as anchorman on this team was an important factor in the victory.

The other events on the programme with the respective winners were:—

Young ladies' race, under 15 years—1, 3-pound box candy, Miss Georgie Jackson; 2, 2-pound box of candy, Miss Edna Kemp.

Young ladies' race, open to all—1, 3lbs. candy, Miss E. Miller; 2, 2lbs. candy, Miss M. Reid; 3, 1lb. candy, Miss Myra Geary.

Married Men's race, 100 yards—Box 25 cigars, won by W. Perdue.

Young Men's race, 100 yards — 1, box 50 cigars, W. H. Cavanah; 2, box 25 cigars, A. Poe.

Men's sack race, 30 yds.—Box 25 cigars, won by Wm. Welsh.

Ladies' sack race, 15 yds.—1, 2lbs. candy, Miss May Dennie; 2, 1lb. candy, Miss Lillie Dunford.

Boys' race, 12 to 15 years, 50 yds.—1, lacrosse stick and ball, Fred Conway; 2, fishing pole, J. Gorman.

Boys' race, under 12 years, 50 yds.—1, football, Bud Miller; 2, baseball, George Colquhoun; 3, pocket knife, Vincent O'Connell.

Girls' race, under 12 years—1, 3lbs. candy, Miss Marion Gorman; 2 2lbs. candy, Miss Lizzie Grady; 3, 1lb. candy, Miss Pearl Jackson.

Men's three-legged race — Ira Moore and L. Brooks, T. Grant and W. H. Cavanah.

Running long jump—Box 25 cigars, W. H. Cavanah, 16ft. 5 in.

Egg race, for members of committee only—G. Edwards, T. Grant, A. Poe.

Young girls' race, under 7 years—1, doll, Maggie Emmerson; 2, set of dishes, Gertrude Bohr; 3, doll, Helen Stevens.

Young boys' race, under 7 years—1, tool chest, W. O'Connell; 2, set 10 pins, Vincent Grady; 3, Jap gun boat, Leo Copp.

Two of the most interesting features of the programme were the contests in throwing the 14 lb. hammer and putting the shot. The winners in the first event were: W. H. Cavanah, 65 ft.; T. Grant, 62 ft. 6 in., the longest thrown being by Mr. A. P. MacDonald, 70 ft. 5 in.

In the putting contest the winners were:—R. Thornton, 33ft. 8 in.; W. Welsh, 33 ft. 1 in. Mr. MacDonald, who did not compete, put the shot 34 feet.

In this connection the record of last year in this contest may be interesting. A clipping from the Examiner says:—

"An interesting contest was that in throwing the 16 lb. hammer, the prizes for which were boxes of cigars donated by Mr. A. P. MacDonald. The first prize was won by Mr. W. H. Cavanah at 50 ft. 5 in., and the second by Mr. T. J. Grant at 49 ft. 8 in.

"Then followedf putting 16 lb. shot, the prizes being as before, boxes of cigars, also presented by Mr. MacDonald. In this Mr. Cavanah was again successful, his record being 29 ft. 9 in., with Mr. W. Walsh second at 27 ft. 4 in."

A game of football between teams composed of married and single men respectively, caused considerable amusement for the participants, and closed the programme of sports.

During the afternoon the 57th Band rendered a good musical programme, and also provided music for dancing in the pavillion.

After another delicious repast the boats carrying tired but satisfied crowds, started for home, the first steamer reaching the wharf about 9 o'clock, and the second annual outing of the American Cereal Company's employees was, in all except the pleasant memories in the minds of those who attended, a thing of the past.

The committee, the members of which deserve great credit for the successful carrying out of the picnic was constituted as follows:—

Chairman—Mr. A. P. MacDonald.

Judges of games and sports—Mrs E. Pakenham, Mr. A. Miller, Mr. J. Kirn, Mr. F. C. Walker, Mr. P. Gardner.

Arrangements—Messrs. M. J. Kirn, R. Wegmiller, F. C. Walker, G. P. Edwards, G. Prentice, T. Grant, W. H. Cavanah, A. Miller, G. W. Mulligan, J. A. Laird, R. Stuart, A. Poe, P. Gardner.

Games and Sports—Messrs. R. Stuart, G W Mulligan, A. Poe.

Prizes were donated by Miss L. Deanard, Messrs. M. J. Kirn, R. Stuart, G. P. Edwards, A. Poe, A. P. MacDonald, Geo. Prentice, P. Gardner, J. A. Laird, A. Miller, G. W. Mulligan, T. H. G. Denne, R. Wegmiller, T. J. Grant, W. H. Cavanah, F. C. Walker.

The Examiner wishes to express the appreciation of the representatives of the press at the many kindnesses shown them by the committee and others.

AN ACCIDENT ON McDONEL STREET.

Mr. J. F. Thornton has a Narrow Escape From Serious Injury.

Mr. J. F. Thornton met with an experience last night that he has no particular desire to have repeated. He was driving along McDonel street from Aylmer street west, and when opposite the Tangney property, east of Reid street, the buggy ran upon a log placed on the street by the men engaged in making excavations for water mains, the result being that the vehicle upset, and the occupants were thrown out, and a lady companion of Mr. Thornton was rather severely bruised. The horse succeeded in getting away and ran up Reid street, the buggy being caught between a tree and a post, while the horse ran on. The buggy was considerably damaged while the harness was almost ruined, and the horse sustained some more or less severe injuries.

Mr. Thornton stated to the Examiner that the earth taken out in the course of excavation, had been thrown half away across the street, and to make matters worse there was not a light from Bethune street to Reid, and in the darkness there was nothing to indicate the presence of danger, and he considers that compensation should be made him for the damage done to his property.

OLD BOYS COMING ON TORONTO'S CIVIC HOLIDAY.

Meeting Being Held To-night in Toronto to Make Arrangements.

The Peterborough Old Boys, in Toronto, will make a visit to the home town again this year. A meeting will be held to-night's in St. George's Hall, when arrangements for the trip, which will be taken on Monday, August 1st, Toronto's Civic Holiday, will be made.

If the Old Boys come in numbers anything approaching those of last year, the town will be a pretty lively place on that day, the Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa, having decided to visit Peterborough on the same day, to the number of about 400.

The pleasant outing enjoyed by the Old Boys last year, has prompted them to arrange for a similar outing this year, and they will be welcomed whenever they may decide to come.

TRAGIC ENDING OF STABBING AFFRAY.

Mining Engineer at Craigmount Killed by Swedes in a Boat Row.

The Bancroft Times gives the following account of a stabbing affray, which occurred at Craigmount:

"There was a big row at Craigmount last Sunday afternoon, and as a result, one of the participants, Wm. Welsh, the engineer at the mines, may possibly lose his life. He is literally carved up, and his injuries may yet prove fatal. It appears that a number of Swedes, recent arrivals from Cordova, went down to Combermer by boat, and Welsh went along as engineer. On their return they were more or less under the influence of liquor, and a row ensued between Welsh and one of the men. The others came to the assistance of their companion and pounded Welsh in a brutal manner. Knives were used freely, and the latter received a gash in the head with a hatchet, which came near putting him out of business. Seventeen stitches were required to sew up one wound."

A later despatch says that the victim has since died from the injuries received.

The Charlotte St. Young Mens' Guild, will run a Moonlight Excursion by the Steamer North Star, Monday evening, July 25th. Tickets limited to 125. Orchestra and Male Quartette on board.

An Interesting Evening.

Under the direction of the Literary Department Dr. Jessie Birnie, will give a health talk at the George Street Epworth League meeting to-night. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. Dr. Birnie has given several of these addresses in the past which have proved most interesting and the address this evening will no doubt be entertaining as well as instructive.

July Sale at LeBruns.

The way to make money is to save it. By the same token, if you want any summer clothing, hats or toggery, you can save money easily at LeBrun's July sale. Everything has been reduced in price—ordered clothing, ready-made clothing, furnishings and hats. After this month we'll begin thinking about Fall buying, that's why our summer stock must go. If you need a vacation outfit, you're in time to share in the reduced prices. We have some of Shorey's unmatchable clothing left that you can't make any mistake in buying. Just received, a new line of negligee shirts, and other summer dress needs. H. LeBrun & Co.

DARING BURGLARY YESTERDAY MORNING.

Mr J.W. Morden's House Entered, Small Sum of Money was Stolen

Things have been rather quiet lately about the town in the burglarly line, but on Sunday morning last, proceedings were again opened and the house of John W. Morden, 18 Rutherford avenue, was entered by a thief and the sum of $1.45 was stolen. The burglar, whoever he was, certainly had nerve and nerve galore. He entered the house through the dining room window which was unlocked, and wended his way upstairs to the room where Mr. Morden and a Mr. Sutherland were sleeping. There was a light burning in the room at the time, but the visitor did not mind a little thing like that. He went through the pockets of the trousers belonging to the sleepers, securing a one dollar bill from one and forty five cents from the other. Just as he was leaving the room in search of further spoil, one of the sleepers awakened, but before he could lay hands on or identify the burglar he had slipped through the window and made his escape, and nothing has been seen or heard of him since. It was a daring piece of business.

The public is warned against leaving their windows unlocked and inviting burglars to enter. During these hot summer nights it is necessary to open the upstairs windows but those on the ground floor should be securely fastened.

THE ANGLING CLUB WAS ENTERTAINED.

Mr. John Trombly the Chef Gives Members a Pleasant Evening.

A very pleasant time was spent on Friday evening when Mr. John Trombly, the popular "chef" of the Angling club entertained the boys at his beautiful residence on Charlotte street. The greater part of the entertainment was held on the lawn, which was brilliantly lighted with electric lights and Chinese lanterns. The first numbers were gramophone selections by Mr. Vaughan, who has without doubt, the best machine ever heard in this locality. He kept his audience spell bound for about two hours, after which Mr. R. H. Shepherd contributed a solo, "Asleep in the Deep" in his usual masterly style. The Angling Club quartette were next called upon for a selection which was very much appreciated. The voices blended harmoniously and this quartette bids fair to reach the pinnacle of fame. Mr. Britain then favoured the gathering with a recitation which was given very expressively. Mr. Frank Pope kindly gave one of his old time songs, the boys heartily joining in the chorus. A few more selections by Mr. Vaughan were well received after which Mr. Jack O'Brien sang "Casey at the bat", and "Slide, Kelly, Slide". Jacks old songs are as popular as ever and showed the merits of the singer by the applause given. Messrs. Waldbeim, Beyette, Scott and Creig also contributed to the evening's enjoyment. Mr. Frank McCoy very kindly played several selections on the piano which were encored. The night air was getting chilly by this time so they repaired to the dining room, where sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. After the inner man was satisfied cards were played for an hour. Fish cleaner Millard was the lucky man, who, he claims, won all the games. The quartette gave several more pathetic pieces, one of which is their own composition. The final number on the programme was a rousing 20 minute speech from commodore John Wilson who is a great eurogiat, especially on vituals. A hearty vote of thanks was given mine host Trombly and with three cheers and a tiger the party repaired to their homes well satisfied with their evening's enjoyment. The next outing of the club will be to Lard Island next Saturday. The annual excursion to Idyl Wyld will take place on August the 18th of which due notice will be given.

NO MOONLIGHTS OVER THE LIFT LOCK.

Lock Cannot be Operated After Dark Until Lights are Installed.

Moonlight excursions over the Lift Lock look nice on paper, but it is to be regretted that they cannot be a reality. It was learned to-day that the electric lights have not yet been installed at the Lock, and it will not be possible to operate the lock at night until this is done, which will hardly be this summer. The only way out of the difficulty for those desiring an excursion over the lock would be to start before it becomes dark, take a sail up the canal by the light of the moon, and land above the Lock on the return of the boat. But as the evenings are becoming shorter an early start would have to be made. Already one moonlight over the canal has been advertised by All Saints' Guild, and the Charlotte street Guild also tried this morning to arrange for a trip but learned that arrangements could not be made and they will go down the river instead. It is hardly likely that the Lock will open for moonlight excursions this seasons.

St. Andrew's have engaged both the steamers "City of Peterborough" and "Sovereign" to carry their picnicers down the river touching at the principal points on Rice Lake on Tuesday, July 19th. The games will be run off at Idyl Wyld during the afternoon. Everybody is invited. Boats leave at 8.15 a. m. Tickets 40c and 20c.

McMASTER BAND OPENS CAMPAIGN.

Services Held Yesterday in Murray Street Baptist Church.

Leader of the Band Preached at St. Paul's—The Music by the Quartette.

Saturday night the McMaster University Evangelistic Band, comprising eight young men, students of the above mentioned University began a week's campaign in Peterborough, the first service being held at the corner of George and Hunter streets, an express wagon doing service as a platform. A good crowd gathered to hear the singing and speaking, and the young men created a favourable impression. Mr. W. A. Cameron, the leader of the band gave a short address, and the quartette gave several vocal selections, which were much enjoyed. Yesterday morning the band commenced a week's series of meetings in the Murray Street Baptist Church, the meetings will be held every evening except Saturday, and in addition to the evening services, noon hour meetings will be held at the large foundries and factories in town, when brief adresses will be given, and singing by the quartette.

The members of the band are:—W. A. Cameron, A. L. Huddlestone, D. H. Williamson, D. Buchanan, D. A. McGregor, R. A. F. McDonald, H. R. Nobles and J. A. Hilts.

At the Sunday school services in the morning, the members of the band took part, several short inspiring addresses being given and in addition the quartette sang. At the 11 o'clock service the speaker was Mr. A. L. Huddlestone, who gave a short gospel talk, in which he pointed out the way to Christ, through whom eternal life is given.

The quartette composed of Messrs. Williamson, Buchanan, McGregor and McDonald sang a beautiful number and Mr. Williamson also gave a solo.

Last night the church was crowded and many had to go away. Short addresses were given by Messrs. McGregor, Huddleston and Cameron, and the speakers were given a sympathetic hearing. Two selections were given by the quartette, "The Shepherd True" and "Jesus is Passing To-day", and Mr. Williamson sang "Ninety and Nine."

Mr. W. A. Cameron, the leader of the band, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Church Sunday morning, and the quartette after singing at Murray Street went over to St. Paul's and sang there. Mr. W. R. Nobles occupied the pulpit at St. Paul's in the evening Mr. Huddlestone and Mr. Nobles also gave addresses at the Park Street Baptist Sunday school yesterday afternoon.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT IN A HAYFIELD.

John Shearer had Several Ribs Broken by Wagon Passing Over His Chest.

Special to the Examiner.

Keene, July 18. — This morning John Shearer, aged about twenty years, a son of Andrew Shearer, of the 6th line, Otonabee, while assisting to draw in hay on the farm of his uncle, Mr. Andrew Shearer, met with a painful accident. He was on a load of hay, and while driving along a field, near a fence, part of the load slid off, carrying the young man with it. In his fall he struck the fence and fell back, partially under the wagon, the hind wheel of which passed diagonally over his chest, breaking several ribs. The fact of the load having been considerably lightened undoubtedly saved him from being fatally crushed.

Dr. Shaw, of Keene, was summoned, and attended to his injuries.

IS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

James Dunn of Campbellford Accused of Killing His Uncle.

A Campbellford despatch says: — "On Tuesday, Fraser Dunn and his nephew, Jas. Dunn, after being down town celebrating the day, and partaking too freely of liquor, returned home in the evening and got into a row. Fraser Dunn received a fatal blow in the abdomen, which he said was inflicted by his nephew. He was carried into the house by some of the neighbours, and, after suffering much pain all night and next day, he died about 6.30 on Wednesday evening. Dr. Sandford, coroner, of Brighton, was summoned to hold an inquest. The jury, after considering the evidence, came to the conclusion that Fraser Dunn came to his death from injuries caused by ill-treatment on the part of James Dunn. The latter will now be tried for manslaughter.

FAMOUS HYMN WRITERS

TWO OF THEM WHO LIVE PLEASANTLY AT NEWPORT, ISLE OF WIGHT.

Mr. Albert Midlane's "There's a Friend For Little Children"—Its Author's Views of Children Past and Present—Mrs. Jemima Luke, Who Wrote "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," in Her 91st Year.

Mr. Albert Midlane, author of the children's favorite hymn, "There's a Friend for Little Children," was visited by a representative of Lloyd's Weekly News (London) at his pleasant home in Newport, Isle of Wight. He was hale and hearty, and much happier for his visit to London, which had resulted in his being freed from all financial difficulty. The venerable hymn writer produced a handsome gold medal, which he said was presented to him at the City Temple in recognition of his work through the ministrelsy of sacred song. It is inscribed, "A sweet singer in Israel," and is surmounted by a crown and a miniature representation of an open Bible, and it further conveys the intimation, "For distinguished service to the Sunday School." Mr. Midlane went on to state, in his easy style, that a choir of trained children's voices sang his hymn, "There's a Friend," and at the close he had to shake hands with the dear children.

"How many hymns have you written in the course of your long life?" was asked. He replied, "about 780, 3[illegible] of which appear in my little book, entitled 'The Bright Blue Sky.'" In the preface Mr. Midlane thus expresses his aim: "These hymns are written for the glory of Him who is, indeed, 'The Children's Friend,' and at whose feet this tribute of song is laid."

Mr. Midlane, in reply to a question respecting his most famous hymn, said: "I have heard of the children singing it in Gaelic, Italian, German, in the language of the natives of Bechuanaland (whatever that may be), and also, what is a great joy to me, I have received an account of the little Japs in Yokohama singing the hymn, and I am told that they greatly enjoy it.

"I once saw the late Rev. Chas. Haddon Spurgeon in his own home, and after we had been discussing some points of doctrine, on which we were compelled to differ, he wound up the interview by placing a hand upon each of my shoulders and looking me straight in the face, he said in his deep, kindly voice, 'It isn't a wide gulf that separates us—farewell.'

"On one occasion I saw the late Dr. Parker in the vestry at the City Temple at the close of one of the services. He said, 'I would sooner have been the author of your children's hymn than the preacher of the most eloquent sermon. At best, a sermon reaches only a limited number, but your hymn has gone the wide world over.'

"I first began writing hymns when I was twelve years old, and I wrote under the signature of 'Little Albert' to the penny magazines."

"What is your opinion of childlife to-day compared with your early days?"

"Oh," he remarked, "there appears to be a deplorable lack of reverence. It seems to me that the children in the early days of my life were kept closer under parental control. Discipline was more strict. Of course, I recognize that we live in a very different age, competition is much keener, and so forth; still, I cannot help thinking there is far too much time spent in the pursuit of pleasure. Life is not regarded so seriously as it ought to be."

In conclusion Mr. Midlane said he was grateful that his health still permitted him to conduct services on Sunday at the Mission Hall; and he added that he had been a Sunday school teacher for over sixty years, and that if spared until Jan. 23, 1905, he would be 80 years of age. "On March 20, 1901, we celebrated our golden wedding, and now my partner and I have lived together 53 years—53 years of connubial bliss."

Mrs. Jemima Luke.

The authoress of the favorite children's hymn, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," was visited the other day at her pleasant home in Newport, Isle of Wight. A representative of Lloyd's found the lady, who is in her 91st year, well and cheerful, though her lot is lonely, as she has survived her husband and all her children. She is gentle and refined, and speaks with a clear, musical voice. Her face lights up with the sunniest of smiles when she is talking about the work which lies nearest her heart—the work of foreign missions. On this subject Mrs. Luke is an enthusiast. In her early days she longed to engage in it.

"When I wrote the hymn in 1841 to which you have referred I was intending to enter the mission field," she said. "At this time I attended the Normal Infant School in Gray's Inn road, and it was there I first heard the air to which my hymn is sung. In 1843 I married a Congregational minister, and went to Chester. Subsequently we removed to Orange street Congregational Church, Leicester square, a church which is historically associated with the coming of the Huguenots as French refugees to the city of London. When I was quite young I was a prolific writer of verse, but as soon as I came to read good poetry I was so disgusted with my efforts that I threw the verses away."

In answer to a question, Mrs. Luke said: "I attend the Congregational Church on Sunday morning, when it is fine. I go in a bath-chair. I can hear the minister best in his prayers. I suppose it is because he is more deliberate. I have sometimes thought I should have to get some kind of ear trumpet for the sermon, but I don't really think I shall, because it must be a little disconcerting to the minister," she laughingly remarked.

"How do the little folks of to-day compare with those of your early years?" was asked.

"Well, I don't know that I can give any opinion," she said, "but I think children are to a great extent what their parents make them. If they have cause to respect their parents then so much the better for the children, but as I say I am not very much in touch with children."

The venerable lady remarked, "When I was young we used to sing the hymns of Jane and Mary Taylor, 'Hymns for Infant Minds,' as well as those of Dr. Watts, but I think I like the former better than those of Dr. Watts—they are more refined, and I wish they were sung now."

Mrs. Luke settled in the Isle of Wight in the hope of prolonging her servant's life. She was suffering from consumption, and the change did her a great deal of good. In kindly tones the old lady spoke of her servant: "She is an intelligent woman," she said, "and often tells me how the struggle is going on between the Japs and the Russians, and about many other questions of the day."

Mrs. Ward, the Painter.

The London Star says Mrs. E. M. Ward, the painter, is a figure in the social and art life of London, familiar to a large circle of friends, admirers and the public, and popular with all. The granddaughter of an artist, the daughter of an R. A., the wife of an R. A., the mother of artists, descended from a line of ancestors all remarkable in art, and in her own person and talent embodying so much of the art emotions of our period, Mrs. Ward has been the friend and instructor of royalty, and a pioneer in the establishment of schools of art. Among her favorite pupils was the popular Princess Alice of Albany, now Princess Alexander of Teck, and at one time the Duchess of Albany herself. The popular Leslie Ward ("Spy" of Vanity Fair) is Mrs. Ward's son. Her husband was the late E. M. Ward, R.A., in whose lifetime Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort were frequent visitors to the joint studio of husband and wife. Mrs. Ward spent much time at Windsor doing portraits of the royal children.

G. O. M. of Empire.

Sir Frederick Young is the grand old man of the Empire. When Queen Victoria was just beginning her record reign he was associated with Edward Gibbon Wakefield in the colonization of Australia and New Zealand, and ever since he has been identified with every Imperial movement in London. He was the energetic and enthusiastic secretary of the Colonial Institute during the early years of struggle over a hosier's shop in the Strand, and in spite of his 87 years he continues to take an active paternal interest in its welfare in its new palatial premises in Northumberland avenue.

As It Will Be.

Give me a spoon of oleo, ma,
And the sodium alkali,
For I am going to make a pie, mamma,
I'm going to make a pie;
For John will be hungry and tired, ma,
And his tissues will decompose,
So give me a gramme of phosphate
And the carbon and cellulose.

Now give me a chunk of caseine, ma,
To shorten the thermic fat,
And give me the oxygen bottle, ma,
And look at the thermostat,
And if the electric oven is cold,
Just turn it on half an ohm,
For I want to have dinner ready
As soon as John comes home.

Early Armament and Uniforms.

According to London papers this year's royal military tournament at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, was the most successful from all points since the inauguration of the tournaments. A feature of the show, which during its run was attended by the King, the Queen, and other members of the royal family, was the representation of armament and uniforms from the earliest period. The accompanying illustration from The London Daily Chronicle gives an excellent idea of the interest and completeness of this part of the tournament.

A Singular Bird.

A singular bird of South America, the hoatzin, possesses, when young, claws on its wings, and these are used like the thumb and forefingers of a hand. These young birds move about at will in the treetops before they can fly. Grasping the boughs with enormous feet and aided by the wing claws and beak, they are expert climbers at a very tender age. But the wing at this time differs in several other remarkable particulars from that of other birds, and even from that of the adult condition. Closely examined, it will be found that the hand is conspicuously longer than the forearm, and that the thumb is also unusually long. Furthermore, the under surface of the thumb and first finger will be found to resemble those of the human finger, in that they terminate in a fleshy ball, obviously useful for grasping purposes. At this time, then, the wings serve the very unbirdlike function of forelegs and locomotion, and the bird is quadrupedal rather than bipedal and this remains the case until the power of flight is attained. It is believed that these fingers date back to the bird's evolution from the reptile.

South Sea Head Hunters.

Head hunters is the name given to the professional assassins of the Solomon Islands. The vocation of these men is to procure the heads of those whom they are hired to murder or to sell the victims for sacrificial purposes. Sometimes the enemies of a man offer a large sum, to be paid in the native shell money, for the head, which will be a proof of death; and the head hunter, with cold blooded and unscrupulous methods, lays his plans.

Frequently great caution is necessary. The intending murderer will worm his way into the friendship of his victim, and a long period may elapse before the opportunity will arrive for the fatal stroke. It may thus happen that the murdered man's death will have been compassed by one whom he has regarded as the closest and most loving of intimates. Surely this is the most hateful of all professions followed for the sake of gain.

Could, Not Would.

Referring to the ninetieth birthday of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts it is recalled that at one time it was currently reported that the great Duke of Wellington wanted her for a wife. When the report reached the Waterloo hero he made this comment: "I said Miss Angela Burdett-Coutts deserved to be a duchess, not that I would make her one." On hearing what the famous soldier said Miss Burdett-Coutts remarked quietly, "I think His Grace should have said could instead of would."

PAINS IN BACK NOW ALL GONE

After Twenty Years Suffering From Kidney Disease and Dyspepsia, a Perfect Cure is Made by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

A medicine which will cure such a severe form of kidney disease as that described below can certainly be relied upon for any ordinary case of this ailment.

It seems folly to experiment with new and untried remedies when there are thousands ready to certify that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have positively cured them of this painful and fatal malady.

Mr. John Geafin, an old resident of Thorold, Ont., states: "For twenty years I was badly afflicted with kidney troubles, indigestion and bladder derangements. During that time I was a great sufferer and had to get up six tot welve times nightly to pass water. I tried different doctors and used all sorts of medicines to no avail.

"Finally, I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and soon found relief. Thus encouraged I continued to use these pills and after having taken twelve boxes was again in perfect health and vigour. I can now sleep undisturbed, the pains in the kidneys and back are gone, and I am feeling well and strong. I consider Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a great boon to suffering humanity and had I known about them when I was a young man could have escaped suffering all the best years of my life."

LAZY MAN'S PARADISE.

Women Walk 40 Miles to Sell 30 Cents' Worth of Produce While the Men Sleep in Palm-Thatched Huts.

On market day in the West Indies thousands of peasant women and girls can be seen walking along the roads to the town from their palm thatched huts in the mountains and woods. They carry on their heads immense loads of bananas, oranges, yams, plantains, brown sugar or tobacco, stepping along at the rate of four miles an hour with the gait of a princess.

Constant carrying of heavy loads gives them a splendid carriage. They will walk forty miles to market to sell 30 cents' worth of produce. Often they could sell the same stuff for a better price at their homes, but they enjoy the merry company on the road and the fun and gossip of the market place too much to give up their weekly jaunt. Most people think such a tramp hard work, but they regard it as a picnic. Tramping along over rough mountain tracks, fording swift rivers, tugging fractious mules in the way that they should go, these women never let their loads fall. They could dance a jig without dropping them.

Meanwhile the men folk—who have not even taken the trouble to sow or harvest the crops, much less carry them to market—are sleeping in the palm thatched hut or lying down in the yam patch outside and smoking the strong native tobacco.

"On my estate," said a coffee planter to an American friend. "I employ about 600 people in the busy seasons, besides 200 or 300 children. The women outnumber the men by more than two to one, and do far better work, though they are only paid 18 cents a day, as compared with the men's 24 cents. The difference in wages is most unfair, but it is regulated by an iron-bound custom."

HEROES AND HEROINES

HUMAN NATURE AT ITS BEST IN THE SLOCUM DISASTER.

One Boy Saved the Lives of Twenty-two Passengers—Physician's Helper, Pauline Pelz, Saved Five, Making Five Long Water Trips in Doing So—Unselfish Devotion Exhibited by Very Many Men and Women.

Deeds of heroism and devotion by the score followed upon the disaster when the steamboat General Slocum burned near North Brother Island, East River, New York.

Of the few hundred who were saved most owe their preservation to the courage of unselfish men and women. Boys and girls scarcely more than children themselves bore their parts nobly, as witness the youthful apprentice who saved twenty-two lives and the nurse girl intrusted with two babies who swam for the first time in her life and brought her charges safely to the shore.

Hell Gate had a Jim Bludso of its own, who risked his life and all that he had, a smoky little tug.

There were experienced pilots and captains who went about the work of rescue like trained life savers; firemen leaped into the waters in their heavy clothing and policemen from stations far and near rowed in whatever boats they could find to help in the work of rescue.

CHARLES SCHWARTZ,

Heroes in every walk of life may be found on the roll, and the record of the darkest day in the history of New York Harbor is brightened by golden letters which tell of high courage and supreme devotion.

Twenty-two lives saved is written opposite the name of Charles Schwartz, jr., machinist's apprentice, eighteen years old. His rescues were performed, too, with a breaking heart, for he knew that while he was aiding others his mother and grandmother were lying dead on the beach of North Brother Island.

Schwartz is light of frame, yet his skill in swimming has made him well known throughout the east side.

"There was not much time to think," said he, "and as soon as I saw what was up I did what I could. I was on the hurricane deck of the General Slocum and when I knew that there was a fire the first thing I did was to put a life preserver around my little brother Louis, who is ten years old, and I got him to stand by me. Then I saw that there was going to be a panic and I thought that in the water was the best chance for him, so I threw him overboard. Louis is all right.

"I made a trip down below to see if I could be of any help, but I saw that the fire was beyond control and that nobody would work in any kind of system. I noticed that two or three boats were coming, and I backed up against the rail, calling out that there was a good chance and pleading with the passengers to keep cool and not shove. The rail went, though, and I tumbled over backward into the water.

"The first person that I saw was Mrs. Addicks, who keeps a candy store at No. 58 Avenue A, and she called me by name and I went over and helped her by keeping her chin above water and towing her a little. She got to shore all right and was not much hurt. She threw her arms around my neck and kissed me. I got into the water again and helped Miss Emma Haas, the sister of the pastor, until a boat came to take her, and then I saw my mother and grandmother. They were floating face downward. I got them both ashore and helped the doctors with them on the lawn. 'It's no use,' said the doctor, 'we can't do anything for your people, my boy.'

MISS PAULINE PELZ,
Made five trips and saved one each trip.

"I felt as though my heart would break, and then I looked out upon the water and saw that there were yet men, women and children who might be saved. A man came along in a little boat and I swam out to him and worked with him. I went overboard whenever I could and swam up with people and helped them into the boat. Many of them grabbed at me, but I was able to keep off enough to prevent being dragged down. I felt hands way down in the water holding at my feet. Hands caught me everywhere, and above me was the fire raging and roaring. I wish that I had been stronger and could have done more.

"The stranger in the boat and I brought four or five ashore at a time and took them upon the beach. I had my clothes off and was able to swim easily, for I kept as cool as I could and saved my strength. I learned to swim in the public baths, and if it had not been for the practice that I got there I would not have been able to do anything.

"We brought ashore many bodies, too, and not until there was no chance of saving anybody did I quit. Counting those I either got into the boat or swam out for I saved twenty-two. If I had been a stronger fellow I might have done a good deal more, but I'm light. I weigh only 128 stripped. Rather too light, don't you think?

"Hero? Oh, I'm nothing like that. I happened to have the knack of swimming a little better than some other persons and so I thought it was my duty to do the best I could. Besides, I'm not thinking much of that kind of thing with my mother and grandmother lying there in the room. I did all I could for them, but the smoke must have suffocated them before they were in the water."

Women on North Brother Island, matron, nurses, a telephone operator, patients, helpers, performed many acts of heroism and daring. The sight of helpless babies in the stream nerved them with almost superhuman strength. Several who could not swim at all learned how that fatal Wednesday for the first time, so intent were they on errands of mercy.

None took a more active part in the work of rescue than did Pauline Pelz, who is in the employ of Dr. Watson, one of the physicians on the island. She divested herself of her outer skirt and shoes and swam out to the vessel. It seemed as if she had the strength of ten. She made five trips into the water, returning each time with a woman or a child. She started to go a sixth time, but was so weak from her exertions that she found it impossible to leave the beach.

DISCOURAGED

The expression occurs so many times in letters from sick women to Dr. Pierce; "I was completely discouraged." And there is always good reason for the discouragement. Years of suffering. Doctor after doctor tried in vain. Medicines doing no lasting good. It is no wonder that the woman feels discouraged.

Thousands of these weak and sick women have found health and courage regained as the result of the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"In the year 1898 I was taken sick," writes Mrs. Edna Crowder, of Ripley, Lauderdale Co., Tenn. "My limbs ached, had severe pains in back and lower part of bowels, with difficulty in urination, and smarting and burning pain after. I tried many kinds of medicine and four of the best doctors in the country, until I gave up all hope of recovery. In January, 1901, I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and received from him a letter, telling me to try his medicines. I took eleven bottles, six of 'Favorite Prescription,' five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' one vial of 'Pellets,' and used one box of 'Lotion Tablets' and one of 'Healing Suppositories,' and am now able to work at anything I want to. Thanks to you for your valuable medicine and kind advice."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TESTED GUN MACHINE.

Many Officers Witness Exhibition of the New Apparatus.

The sub-target gun machine designed to improve marksmanship among militia companies and the regular corps was subjected to a practical test at the armories in Toronto recently, and received the highest commendations from the gathering of prominent militia officers and well known shots who were present. Sir Frederick Borden, who was expected to witness the test, was unable to leave Ottawa. Sir Adolphe Caron and a number of commanding officers personally inspected the machine and spoke highly of its merits as a method of instruction and practice in the preliminary drills of sighting, position and aiming. The machine proved so popular with the men of the different city regiments that when the armories were closed there was a long line in waiting for an opportunity to use it. Many officers expressed the opinion that the machine was the thing desired to incite interest in rifle shooting, and that it would be invaluable to the militia.

SUB-TARGET GUN MACHINE.

Ancient School Unearthed.

A German priest named Vincent Scheil, making excavations in an ancient Babylonian city, has unearthed a school just as it was 4,000 years ago in the time of King Hammurabi.

It is a small house of sunburnt brick, and stands in the midst of the most populous district of the city of Seapur, just opposite the great temple. It has many inscribed brick, from the cuneiform inscriptions on which Father Scheil has reconstructed the life of an ancient Babylonian school. One brick says, "He who learns to write well in school will shine as the sun."

There were seven small rooms in the school, each with its various kinds of brick. In one room were found bricks with grammatical exercises. The scholars evidently sat on the ground in rows, with soft clay bricks in their hands, painfully forming the hard cuneiform letters. Father Scheil says the thumb marks of the teachers are to be detected where he smudged over the scholars' mistakes.

There was a room where advanced scholars learned to write the elaborate and highly poetical forms of adulation often seen on Babylonian monuments. Much importance was attached to learning weights and measures, to arithmetic and geometry, but the chief branches were grammar, writing and the expression of adulatory forms.

There is evidence that girls got pretty much the same education as boys, and Father Scheil found contracts in which the language and law had been revised by a learned woman named Amathaon.

There is evidence that a pupil was occupied with learning to write from seven to fourteen years.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

The noble woman of whom Longfellow wrote the lines that follow has just passed her eighty-fourth birthday, having outlived almost all her contemporaries. It is half a century since her work in the hospital of the Crimea made her famous throughout the English-speaking world.

Longfellow, in a note, says: At Pisa the Church of San Francisco contains a chapel dedicated lately to Santa Filomena; over the altar is a picture by Sabatelli, representing the as it as a beautiful nymph-like figure floating down from heaven, attended by two angels bearing the lily, palm and javelin, and beneath, in the foreground, the sick and maimed who are healed by her intercession.—Mrs. Jameson, Sacred and Legendary, lib. II., 298.

Whene'er a noble deed is wrought,
Whene'er is spoken a noble thought,
Our hearts in glad surprise
To higher levels rise.

The tidal waves of deeper souls
Into our inmost being rolls,
And lifts us unawares
Out of all meaner cares.

Honor to those whose words or deeds
Thus help us in our daily needs,
And by their overflow
Raise us from what is low!

Thus thought I as by night I read
Of the great army of the dead,
The trenches cold and damp,
The starved and frozen camp—

The wounded from the battle-plain
In dreary hospitals of pain,
The cheerless corridors,
The cold and stony floors.

Lo! in that house of misery
A lady with a lamp I see
Pass through the glimmering gloom,
And flit from room to room.

And slow, as in a dream of bliss,
The speechless sufferer turns to kiss
Her shadow as it falls
Upon the darkening walls.

As if a door in heaven should be Opened and then closed suddenly,
The vision came and went,
The light shone and was spent.

On England's annals, through the long
Hereafter of her speech and song,
That light its rays shall cast
From portals of the past.

A Lady with a Lamp shall stand
In the great history of the land,
A noble type of good
Heroic womanhood.

Nor even shall be wanting here
The palm, the lily and the spear,
The symbols that of yore,
Saint Filomena bore.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

FIRST GAME FOR CITY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Peterboroughs Won From T. A. S. on Saturday Afternoon.

Score was 18-8—Game Full of Heavy Hitting—An Interesting Contest.

Manager Whiteroft's bunch of ball tossers had their batting clothes on last Saturday afternoon, in the first game for the City Championship against the T.A.S., and as a result, piled up 18 runs against 8 of their opponents. At the start it looked like a poor game, the winners scoring five runs on some juicy errors by the T.A.S. infield, but after that the fielding was comparatively clean, and the big score was the result of good hard swatting of the leather. The game was a most interesting one to witness, for spectators, as a rule, like to see heavy batting, combined with sharp fielding. Quinlan was batted quite heavily throughout the game, and though McCorry was frequently in trouble he kept the hits well scattered, and outside the 7th, was not hit freely.

In the first, Sheridan hit to Craig, who fumbled. Graham bunted, and Trainer dropped the ball, scoring Sheridan. Lamonte singled to right, scoring Graham. Whitcroft fanned; Pilling sacrificed, scoring Lamonte. Milligan hit a two sacker to centre, McDonald did the same trick, and both scored on Earls' hit to pitcher, Trainer muffing the throw; McCorry hit to right, the ball striking Earls who was out. For the T.A.S., Callahan fanned, but reached first on Graham's error; he was caught stealing second. Fitzpatrick got four wide ones, but was doubled up on Trainer's fly to Pilling, who made a fine running catch.

In the second Sheridan single, Graham's two bagger and Whitcroft's single brought in three runs. Grady made a two bagger for the T.A.S. and Derocher got a pass but could not score.

McDonald opened with a corking three bagger to right in the next, but was left at third, as the next three were easy victims. The T.A.S. went out in order.

In the fifth Earls singled, McCorry did likewise, Sheridan beat out a hit to Craig, Earls scoring. Graham bunted, and McCorry was caught between third and home. Lamonte's sacrificed and Whitcroft's single sent Sheridan and Graham over the pan. Pilling struck out. For the T.A.S. Callahan got to first on a hit, but was left at first.

Neither team scored in the sixth. In the seventh, McCorry flew to Fitzpatrick, and Derocher took in Sheridan's fly. Graham beat out a pretty bunt and scored on Lamonte's slashing hit for three sacks. Whitcroft fanned. The T.A.S. got five in their half. Quinlan flew to third, Flaherty got hit in the foot, Callahan hit one through Sheridan's legs, and Lamonte fumbled Fitz' grounder, Flaherty scoring. Trainer bunted, filling the bags. Grady's two bagger scored Callahan and Fitzpatrick, Craig flew to Whitcroft, Derocher hit to Whitcroft, who fumbled; Grady and Trainer scoring; Latremouille fanned.

In the eighth Pilling beat out a hit to Callahan; Milligan hit to left, and McDonald did the same. Pilling was caught going to third. Earls smashed out a three bagger to left, scoring Milligan and McDonald. McCorry hit to Trainer, and Earls was caught at home. Sheridan hit one at Craig, scoring McCorry. Graham grounded to third. The T.A.S. were retired in one, two, three order.

In the ninth Lamonte waited for a quartette of wide ones; Whitcroft beat out a hit to first; Pilling fanned; Milligan hit to short, scoring Lamonte. McDonald's hit to left scored Whitcroft; Earls singled to right, and Milligan was nipped at the plate. McDonald scored on a passed ball and McCorry fouled to catcher. For the T.A.S., Fitzpatrick singled to left. Trainer went out on a grounder to McCorry, which scored Fitz; Grady singled to left; Craig went out on a grounder to Lamonte. Derocher's hit scored Grady. Latremouille forced Derocher at second, and the game was over.

HEARD ON THE STAND.

The hitting was the heavicat seen on the local grounds this year.

Pilling's running catch of a hard fly in the first was a fine piece of work.

McDonald played his first game with the Midland Leaguers, and his batting was a feature of the game. A three bagger, a two bagger and two singles out of five times up, is pretty good work. His sliding to bases was also fine.

Grady did splendid work with the cah for the T.A.S.

Graham caught two men stealing second by perfect throws.

Latremouille gathered in a couple of difficult foul flies.

Jack Pilling was out of the game with a sore hand.

It was the T.A.S's first defeat, but they played good ball nevertheless.

The outfielders had a busy day, taking in flies and chasing the long hits.

McCorry hit the ball hard, but generally right at some outfielder.

Though the score was large the play was interesting.

BASEBALL.

The first game in the Guild League finals will be played this evening between the two district winners, All Saints and Charlotte. Some very close contests are looked for in the finals as the teams are apparently very evenly matched.

• • • •

St. Paul's Guild will play an exhibition game with Charlotte street tomorrow evening.

• • • •

The victorious B. A. C. nine will likely clash with the Charlotte street Guild team next week.

• • • •

Carr, third baseman of the Torontos, has played errorless ball in the last seventeen games.

• • • •

Three straights from Baltimore is not so bad for the Torontos. The Canucks have been trouncing the leaders and falling down to the second division clubs of late.

• • • •

This year's race for the Eastern League pennant is about the prettiest in the league's history.

• • • •

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team has got together again and is open for exhibition games.

OSHAWA PROFESSIONALS.

Uxbridge Journal.—The Oshawa Midland League baseball team has been meeting with great success during the past week and appear to have struck a winning gait. After losing four league games and receiving very little encouragement from the town citizens they deserve credit for the good standing they have again made for themselves. On Saturday last they defeated the Bowmanville team, in their own town, in a league game by the score of 8-7. On Tuesday they went to Peterborough and took part in the Orange demonstration by playing a game with the Midland League team of that town and again won by a score of 8-4. Yesterday they added another victory to the list by defeating the celebrated Cburtice team, by a score of 7-3, and thus won a purse of $50. This is indeed a good record and we hope the team will now receive more encouragement from the public which will greatly aid them in continuing to play good ball.

DELIGHTFUL PLACE TO SPEND VACATION.

Kawartha Lakes are Becoming Doubly Popular With Tourists.

The Hospitality at "Viamede"—A Toronto Man's Tribute to This Region.

The Mail and Empire of Saturday, contained an interesting sketch on the Kawartha Lakes, which is published below:—

Cross-country from Ottawa to Peterborough, via the C. P. R., and at Peterborough you must dismount, if you would explore Stony Lake, and the lakes west, the whole chain recently named Kawartha, (bright waters and happy lands,) by a man of bright ideas. Or you may go from Toronto any day by the Grand Trunk to Lindsay, Fenelon Falls or Coboconk, all entry ports into the Kawartha Lakes.

A spur line of the Grand Trunk runs north from Peterborough nine miles to Lakefield, at which wharf several steamers wait, like a line of town cabs, and on your approach, signify a more than merely hospitable eagerness to convey you — bag and baggage — across Stony Lake. If some point on the lake is your destination, then any steamer will serve the purpose, but if the intention is to explore the chain of lakes and the looks beyond, then better select the Empress, with the letters "T.V.N." on her smokestack.

The Trent Valley Navigation Company is the only company operating steamers upon the entire route. There are four fine steamers in the T.V.N. fleet, and meals are served on board. These boats run to Lakefield, Burleigh, Sturgeon Point, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Coboconk and many intermediate points.

The Empress gives you a quick run over Stony Lake, winding in and out among the beautiful shores and quaint islands, and you can take my word for it there is no prettier scenery in Ontario than that unfolding before you here, as your prow cuts the bright, dancing surface, and a feeling of safety creeps in to add to your comfort, when you remember that this steamer is manned by the surest pilot upon the lake.

Near McCracken's Landing is the cottage of Mr. S. Hunter, the clever Canadian cartoonist, who spends his summer months quietly, studying the trees, the flowers and the birds. His quaint home — called "Pepacton," after one of John Burrough's book titles—is set far back among oak and fir tree, giving its occupant not only a chance to rest ideally from the taxing work of his pen, but a rare opportunity to follow the pursuit of nature study about which he is so keen.

On the mainland, near Mount Julian—a pretty hill, which, like the Hamilton height, is by courtesy called a mountain—stands "Viamede", a big beautiful summer home, where boarders are taken throughout the season. It seems a sacrilege to use the word "boarders" here, for once you are fortunate enough to pass inspection, and be admitted within the doors of "Viamede", you are instantly transformed by some mysterious influence into a welcome guest; and when taken by your hostess, Mrs. Graham herself, to one of the cool, sweet, clean, bedrooms, the illusion is complete. You go to bed, and peaceful to sleep, though insomnia may have been your enemy for weeks. I have listened to a good deal of reliable testimony on this point, and believe it to be an excellent place for the nerves.

"Viamede" is built upon a rock, both, literally and otherwise; literally it is granite; figuratively, its foundation is equally secure, and will be, as long as the personality of Mrs. Graham is within. Verandahs encircle the house above and below, and there the guests never tire of sitting to watch the ever-changing lake and breathe the free air. And the dining-room—a place never to be neglected—where are found all the nice, wholesome things of the season, and lots of them. There are several pretty cottages in connection with the house, and their occupants assemble in the main dining hall.

You leave Stony Lake grudgingly, but find much beauty beyond. At Burleigh Falls you change steamers, transferring to the Ogemah, which makes the trip westerly through Loveiack, Buckhorn, and Chemong Lakes, to SChemong Park, then on through Pigeon Lake to Bobcaygeon. In this interesting village you will enjoy a visit, and then some fine morning the steamer Eatorion will bear you away through Sturgeon Lake to Lindsay. At Lindsay the Manita is in readiness to carry you to Fenelon Falls, and to the westerly end of the Kawartha Lakes—Coboconk.

TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

Charlotte Street Church Will Undergo Changes During the Summer.

At a recent meeting of the Trustee Board of the Charlotte street Methodist church, it was decided that the church should undergo repairs and improvements during the summer weeks, and after next Sunday, the services will be conducted in the Sunday school room for some weeks. The interior of the church will be papered, calcimined and painted, the seats will be taken out and varnished, a new carpet will be put down, and other changes made, which will considerably improve the church.

The Liver to Blame.

So long as the liver is active in filtering the bile from the blood there is no biliousness and no constipation, because the bile is passed from the liver into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic in keeping the bowels active. Because of their direct action on the liver as well and the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cure constipation, the real cause of nine-tenths of the common ills of life.

OTTAWA BACHELORS TO BE TAXED.

They Get the Benefits of Civilization, But Do Not Pay.

Ottawa, July 19.—A proposition to have a tax imposed upon bachelors in Ottawa is to be laid before the City Council by Ald. Desjardins. He intends to have the finance committee consider the advisability of an application to the Legislature to secure authority for such action.

"There are some bachelors in Ottawa," Ald. Desjardins stated, "who own property and pay taxes, but there are a great number who do nothing of the sort. They use our streets and have the benefit of the whole corporation service without paying a cent toward the maintenance of the city. These, too, nearly all belong to a class who are well able to pay by reason of their holding positions which give good salaries. They should pay taxes as well as the rest of us.

"The special tax, moreover, may have the tendency of increasing the number of marriages. Old bachelors are far too numerous in Ottawa."

Came Almost Outright.

Hamilton, July 19.—Yesterday morning shortly after 9 o'clock there was a distressing accident at the corner of King street and East avenue, when a street car crashed into a buggy containing Mrs. George Schuler, Union Park; her daughter, Mrs. Herman Myers, and her granddaughter, Bertha Myers, aged four years. The three occupants of the rig were thrown under the car wheels. The child was killed outright, Mrs. Myers was seriously injured and Mrs. Schuler was painfully bruised. An inquest will be held this evening.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SUFFER A REPULSE

Lost Over a Thousand Men in Sunday Morning's Battle.

REPORT OF GEN. KUROPATKIN

Russians Made the Attack, but Japs Assumed the Offensive and Were Soon Victorious—In Spite of Victory in a Difficult Case the Jap Losses Were Small—Chased the Enemy.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—General Kuropatkin reports that Lieut.-Gen. Count Keller lost over 1,000 in killed or wounded in the attack on Motien Pass, July 17. On July 17, in order to determine the strength of the enemy, it was decided to advance against his position in the direction of Hanshankwan. Lieut.-Gen. Count Keller had been instructed not to start with the object of capturing the pass, but at act according to the strength of the force that he would find opposed to him.

At 11 o'clock a battalion of Russians dislodged a Japanese outpost at the point of the bayonet at the crossing of the Lakho and the Sinkia roads. The details of this engagement have not yet been verified, but its general course, according to the telegraphic reports sent in by Gen. Keller, was as follows: "During the night the Japanese had evacuated Siakokao Pass and the heights surmounted by the temple leaving only outposts. At dawn Gen. Kashtalinsky's column occupied these passes, driving back the Japanese advance posts.

"At about 5.30 o'clock on the morning of July 17, the Japanese in considerable force, and with numerous guns, occupied Wafaktwan Passes and the mountainous bluffs to the south on the flank of Gen. Kashtalinsky's column. From this position and from the crest of the mountains to the east of heights surmounted by the temple the enemy directed a heavy artillery and rifle fire. General Kashtalinsky advanced to occupy the bluffs, sending forward at first one and then three battalions, but the attempt failed, notwithstanding the support given by the horse mountain battery, as our field guns could not be brought into action on account of the nature of the ground.

Strength of Enemy Great.

"At about 8 a. m., Gen. Keller, who was directing the fight, deemed it necessary to lend assistance to Gen. Kashtalinsky's column by bringing up from the general reserve three battalions to the heights, surmounted by the temple. In order to maintain the positions we had already occupied, it was necessary, owing to the enemy's pressure, to reinforce immediately with other reserves the troops in the fighting line, but these positions, owing to their situation, were untenable. Gen. Keller found the strength of the enemy so great, compared with ours, that he decided not to continue the fight and not to bring up either the special or the general reserves, especially in view of the fact that in case of his ultimately taking the offensive it would be necessary to attack without support of field artillery."

Our losses have not yet been exactly ascertained, but Gen. Keller reports that they exceed 1,000. The gallant 24th Regiment suffered most. Gen. Keller especially mentions the activity, courage and coolness shown by its commanding officers. Col. Koschitz was severely wounded in the leg, but remained in the ranks until the end of the action.

Jap Losses Trifling.

London, July 19.—The correspondent of The Times at Gen. Kuroki's headquarters, says the Japanese losses during the fighting at Motien Pass on July 17 were trifling.

Japs Pursued Russians.

Tokio, July 19.—Gen. Kuroki reports that two divisions of the Russian army made a desperate assault on Motien Pass at dawn July 17, but were repulsed. At three o'clock Sunday morning, a heavy fog veiling their movements, two divisions of Russians, commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Keller, made an assault on the Japanese positions at Motien Pass and in its vicinity desperately.

Gen. Kuroki adds, the Japanese resisted stubbornly, repulsed the Russians and pursued them for a considerable distance westward.

Battle Any Day.

London, July 19.—The morning papers have despatches from correspondents at General Kuroki's headquarters which bring the situation in the Far East up to July 16. All of the writers agree in saying that the situation is unchanged, that the armies are always in touch, and the Russians are being strongly reinforced and that a battle may be expected any day. Slight skirmishes are reported to have taken place on July 15.

To the Red Sea.

London, July 19.—The Daily Express this morning prints the following despatch, dated July 18, from its correspondent at Malta: "The British Mediterranean fleet left here to-day for Alexandria. It is believed that the destination of the fleet may be connected with the presence of Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red Sea. The British cruiser Terrible is said to have sailed from Suez to-day for the purpose of looking after the interests of British merchantmen."

Postponed Till Thursday.

London, July 19.—Earl Percy, under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in the House of Commons yesterday asked Gen. Laurie (Conservative and Unionist) to postpone a question which he proposed to ask anent the doings of the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg in the Red Sea until Thursday.

Railway Commission.

Ottawa, July 19.—The Railway commission held a brief sitting yesterday morning, and disposed of several minor applications.

MR. MONK'S ERROR

Hon. Mr. Brodeur Caused Consternation Among Conservatives.

ANSWERED BY OWN LEAFLET

Protection of Tobacco—Conservative Campaign Document That Proved a Veritable Boomerang—Condemned High Protection of Tobacco As Causing High Prices to Consumers—Quick Change of Front.

Ottawa, July 19.—On the motion to go into Committee of Supply in the House yesterday Mr. F. D. Monk moved a want of confidence motion, censuring the Government for not giving more protection and encouragement to the tobacco industry.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Inland Revenue, delivered one of the most effective replies of the session. He showed how the Government's action had encouraged the industry, until last year over 16,000,000 pounds of Canadian-grown leaf were manufactured in Canada, compared with less than 1,000,000 pounds in 1896.

Consternation Among Conservatives.

He also read, amid the cheers of the Liberals and astonishment and consternation of the Opposition, a campaign leaflet circulated by the Conservatives, condemning the Liberal Government for its high taxation of the tobacco-users of the country. Mr. Brodeur observed that he had looked for different methods from the party as large as the Conservative party. Mr. Gourley, in reply, said the Conservatives were not responsible for the leaflet, while Mr. Clancy, a fellow-Oppositionist, said they were, and tried to justify it. The amendment was lost by 19 to 50. Besides dealing with a variety of other matters, the House passed a large batch of estimates for the Indian Department and Interior Department salaries amounting to $1,245,000.

Railway Subsidies Bill.

The Minister of Railways this morning introduced his bill respecting the payment of certain railway subsidies. The bill, he explained, is to enable the Government to fix the amount of subsidy to be paid to any railway before the road is completed. Under the present law a fixed subsidy of $8,200 per mile is contracted for, and under the terms of the subsidy if the cost of the railway exceeds $15,000 per mile an additional subsidy can be paid up to the amount of $6,400. This bill seeks to make it possible after the contract has been entered into, at the request of the railway company, to have a contract entered into at the outset upon the report of the chief engineer for the payment of a fixed amount. Of the amount thus fixed $8,200 will be paid on progress, and now and then 70 per cent. of the excess above $8,200 would be payable, the remaining 30 per cent. being held until the final completion of the work.

The operation of the present act causes very much difficulty to the department and also to the Auditor-General, who favors the fixing of the amount beforehand, the amount to be fixed upon the survey and report of the chief engineer by the Minister of Railways and Canals, under the authority of the Governor-General.

Mr. Sifton introduced a bill to amend the land titles act of 1904.

Not Buying Canada Atlantic.

Hon. Mr. Haggart inquired whether any negotiations were in progress between the Government and the Canada Atlantic Railway Company for the acquisition of that road or whether any assurance had been given that the road would be taken over after the next general election.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied there had been no negotiations of any kind. The Government had been approached, but would not consider the question now.

The Destitute Italians.

Sir William Mulock stated in reply to Uriah Wilson that as soon as Judge Winchester had concluded his investigation with the employment of aliens on the Grand Trunk Pacific, he would enquire into the circumstances of the arrival of a number of destitute Italians in Montreal last winter.

The estimates of the Department of the Interior were under discussion in the House last night.

Western Indians Do Well.

When the Indian Department estimates were being considered, D. F. Clarke asked how much the Indians of the west were helped by the industrial schools.

Mr. Sifton replied that there has been a marvelous improvement in the condition of the Indians since June, 1876, but the full advantage was not derived from the industrial school, where the Indians were taught trades because the Indians had not the mental, moral or physical stamina to compete with the white man.

Day schools and boarding schools were found to give better results. At the Qu'Appelle agency the young Indians are placed on separate farms on a separate part of the reserve where their relatives cannot eat them out of house and home. These Indians last year raised 65,000 bushels of wheat, and have large herds of cattle.

Indian Estimates All Passed.

Thanks to the oppressive heat, which took the life out of the House, Mr. Sifton was able to make fine progress. All the appropriations for the Indian Department were passed, whereupon the House concluded that it had sweltered long enough and adjourned at 10.30.

Royal Assent to Bills.

Mr. Justice Sedgewick, Deputy Governor, attended at 4 o'clock and gave assent to fifty-two bills, making 100 in all so far this session.

THE BISLEY MATCHES.

Colonials Visited at the Canadian Hut by Duke of Connaught.

Bisley Camp, July 19.—Colonials were on the alert yesterday when the Duke of Connaught visited the Canadian hut and inspected the Canadians, Natalians and New Zealanders, who were drawn up in open squad in front. After the parade His Royal Highness visited the quarters and remarked to the commandant on their comfortable appearance. It is announced the Prince and Princess of Wales will visit the hut on Saturday.

The principal events yesterday were the first stages of the Alexandra and Prince of Wales competition. The Alexandra is competed for by individuals at two distances, 200 and 600 yards, seven shots at each, the first prize being £30 and the total number of prizes 350. At 200 yards Pte. J. G. Goudie, Quebec, made 35, and at 600 yards 33, but one competitor made 33 at the 200 yards range, and then a possible at 600 yards, so beating Goudie.

Prince of Wales—First Range.

This is a squadded competition open only to winners of N.R.A. gold, silver or bronze, affiliated associations or counties medals (not recruits or revolver medals). Distances are 200 and 600 yards; ten shots at each. There are 64 prizes, aggregating £300, the winner receiving the Prince of Wales prize of £100 and the badge. At 200 yards Pte., Goudie, 8th Que., and Pte. Smith, 21st, made each 49, but other competitors than Canadians made five possibles and fourteen forty-nines.

Capt. John Crowe and Staff-Sergt. C. R. Crowe are so disgusted with their scores in the Prince of Wales at 200 yards that they will not shoot over the 600 yards range in the same match. The first made 43 and the second 40.

Other Results.

In The Daily Telegraph match, seven shots at 600 yards, the following places and prizes were taken by Canadians:

Pte. Neil Smith, Stewart, 84th place, £9.

Sergt. W. Gould, Guelph, 74th place, £2.

In The Graphic, seven shots at 500 yards, Lance-Sergt. Fowler of the 12th York Rangers, took 60th place, winning £3.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Thompson, of Lillydale, N.Y., Grand Worthy Wise Templar, and Member of W.C.T.U., tells how she recovered by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am one of the many of your grateful friends who have been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and who can to-day thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old, I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact, I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles.

"My family and relatives were naturally as gratified as I was. My niece had heart trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time, and she became well and strong, and her home to her great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby. I know of a number of others who have been cured of different kinds of female trouble, and am satisfied that your Compound is the best medicine for sick women."—MRS. ELIZABETH H. CANADIAN CAPITAL AND FOREIGN ENTERPRISES.

Among the noteworthy incidents that have marked the last few years in Canada must be reckoned the numerous flotations of foreign enterprises by Canadian capitalists. It is only necessary to name a few. There are the Havana Electric Railway and other Cuban enterprises the Sao Paulo Tramway, there are the numerous schemes for the development of Newfoundland, and among the latest, the Mexican Light and Power undertaking. Besides these are numerous other plans, and undertakings in which our financiers have embarked, which have for their object the exploitation of the resources of some country other than the Dominion. We do not propose to question the merit of these foreign enterprises or to suggest doubts about their profitable nature, but simply to raise a few points about the amount of capital they absorb, and the advisability of putting large blocks of Canadian money into them.

In the first place it should be said, that the general public has not a very accurate idea of what it means when one of these large companies is floated. People read in the newspapers that certain wealthy capitalists have subscribed, and paid in say $4,000,000 to form a new power concern. Most of them suppose that the capitalists in question use their own money for this purpose, when in reality the capitalists do nothing of the kind; they use instead the captial of the banks. Usually when a large new concern is launched it means a bank loan of several millions made to the promoters or the underwriters; and the chances are in times like these that loan will be paid off slowly, as the securities are distributed. And even when they are pretty well placed it will be found in the majority of cases, that a large number of the people who buy them, do so on money borrowed from their bankers, and the true effect of the distribution is that, whereas formerly there was a big loan made by one or two banks amounting to say $3,000,000, there will afterwards be scattered loans held by bank branches in different parts of the country for perhaps as much as $5,000,000. In time, of course, as the income of the purchasers accumulates the loans are paid off.

Then again, a financial operation of this kind when applied to a foreign enterprise, very often has economic effects very different from the effects, which the same operation would have, when applied to home industry. If such a company were formed to develope Canadian industries the chances are that a great deal of the capital advanced by the bankers would be expended at home; the wages, and the running expenses would keep in circulation a large amount of money in the neighbourhood of the work. For example we have only to look at the formation of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company. Unfortunate though this company has been no one can doubt that numerous industries in Canada benefit largely by the construction and equipment of the plants at Sydney; and anyone can see how the town of Sydney itself has thrived because of the establishment and operation of the work.

In the case of a foreign concern established in Cuba or Mexico the effect is different. Those at the head of the enterprise may, it is true, be able to place some orders for equipment with Canadian firms in which they are interested, but perhaps the bulk of the outfitting will need to be done nearer at home, if for no other reason than to save excessive freights. And afterwards the expenses of operation benefits only the district where the works are built, and perhaps some other foreign country. Probably for quite a time the bankers at home will be under the necessity of remitting considerable sums, which proportionately lessen the amount of money they have available for home business.

If the enterprises turn out profitable, and there comes no squeeze for capital in Canada, all is well and good. The dividends come in, and the owners of the securities and the bankers who have them on pledge, are happy. But if they turn out bad it is a different story. In justice it should be said that the principal foreign enterprises into which our people have entered have, so far, apparently done well, and they seem to hold good promise for the future.

Investors, however, would be wise to bear in mind the fact that the promoters aim, when they float these new schemes at getting their profits out of them; and these profits frequently are looked for in the shape of sales of the securities, at satisfactory prices, rather than in the form of dividends from profitable operations in the future.

If from any cause it should unfortunately happen that the banks were pressed for funds, it would very likely be found that these securities representing far away enterprises, held on pledge against call, and short loans were almost unrealizable. People who had money to lend or to invest would prefer to have securities representing properties nearer home, about whose working they were more familiar.

It should also be noted that for investors in these foreign countries there is always the possibility that political troubles may affect the affect the value of their investments. The European countries, whose citizens go in largely for this kind of investment are obliged now and then to send war ships to endeavour to protect their citizens from spoliation and robbery. Although these measures are sometimes effective in forcing some kind of compensation it is not often that the compensation received equals the expectations of the investors. The idea has always been current in the Dominion that as we are a new country, in process of development, we could find use for all our own capital, and also all the foreign capital we can enlist, in exploiting our own resources. The rate of interest prevailing here as compared with the rate in older countries, seems to bear out this idea. Apparently it is contradicted however by the tendency to place our money abroad. Perhaps it will turn out that this tendency is not destined to be permanent; in a few years we may not hear so much of the foreign enterprises carried on by Canadians.—Financial Chronicle.

BRITISH VIEWS ON EMIGRATION

Emigration, except of the burdensome classes, has never been regarded with favour in Great Britain. Whenever the tide of population sets strongly westward, there are serious complaints as to the resultant loss to the country. "Traction and Transmission," a special London publication of good standing, declares that Britain cannot afford to be depleted of her intellectual and muscular thoroughbreds, even for the sake of boundless prairies. It is urged that there are fertile places in England, wholly or partly unproductive owing to the short supply of labour. That there are a certain number of unemployed in the towns does not signify that the country is overpopulated. It is attributed largely to defective organisation, for it is impossible that in a free country every man, woman and child should be always in the right place and doing the right work. Only a benevolent and all wise despot could drill and manoeuvre forty million human beings in such a manner that none should ever be idle, or hungry, or homeless, or unhappily wed, or incommoded by any sort of struggle for existence.

According to "Traction and Transmission," any theory of colonial expansion which is based on the false assumption that Britain is overpopulated, should be promptly abandoned. It would be the height of folly for the Imperial Government to take active steps to encourage the transportation of sound stock, which is so much wanted at home. While there is ample room in England for a considerable increase of population of the right quality there must be fair competion between England and the colonies. That the Imperial Government should in any shape or form pay a bounty on the export of such national wealth is declared to be a grotesque proposition. In a spirit of generous rivalry it is conceded that the Dominion Government may take all means in its power to encourage immigration, and the British people are free to go forth in search of fortune and adventures; but however desperate may be the plight of England, as described by eminent orators, she has not yet descended to state aided emigration of her able-bodied population, which is regarded as nothing less than a kind of national voluntary liquidation. This attitude is quite common among British journals devoted to manufacturing and industrial interests. There is an evident reluctance to complain, but a strong feeling against any influence likely to draw away the best elements of the population. They recognize that while Canadian state-aided immigration attracts the dependent classes, a policy of judicious advertising attracts the best and most enterprising. There is much that is suggestive in this for the guidance of our immigration officials.—Globe.

CLOVER SOD.

Clover is one of Ontario's most valuable farm crops. It is generally recognized by Ontario farmers to be a heavy yielder of hay, which furnishes a large amount of valuable food constituents. Its beneficial effects upon the soil, however, do not seem to be so clearly understood. Scientists, who have made a careful study of the influence of clover on the soil, tell us that after large crops have been removed from the land the soil is actually richer in nitrogen after growing clover than it was before, owing to the large amount of nitrogen which the clover roots have obtained from the air. As a rule, farmers grow clover and timothy together, and are therefore unable to ascertain the comparative influence of each of these crops on the soil.

We have conducted a series of experiments at the Agricultural College, Guelph, on three different occasions, in order to ascertain the comparative value of clover and grass sod for crop production. We first grew clovers and grasses upon separate plots and removed the crops, after which the land was plowed and other crops were sown. The results, therefore, show the influence of the roots remaining in the soil upon the productiveness of crops following the clovers and the grasses. In 1902, barley was sown after each of four varieties of clover and three varieties of grasses in four different places in our experimental grounds. The average results of the four tests in pounds of barley per acre were as follows:—Red clover, 1516; Lucerne, 1450; Alsike clover, 1427; Mammoth Red clover, 1408; Meadow Fescue Grass, 1068; Orchard Grass, 1013; and Timothy, 946. It will therefore be seen that the Red Clover sod gave an increase over the Timothy sod of 570 pounds, or nearly 12 bushels per acre.

In another experiment which was completed in 1900, in which winter wheat was sown on both clover and grass sods it was found that an average of 3194 pounds of wheat per acre was obtained from the clover sod, and only 2,390 pounds from the grass sod.

In 1901 a mixture of oats and barley was sown on clover sod and also on grass sod. The results were very marked, as an average of 3,256 pounds of mixed grains per acre was obtained from the clover sod, and only 1078 pounds of mixed grains per acre from the grass sod.

By averaging the results of these three grains, we find that the crop grown on the clover sod gave an increase over the crop grown on the grass sod by fully 50 per cent.

The results of these experimental help us to appreciate the beneficial influence on the soil from growing clover. It also indicates the suitability of a properly cultivated clover sod as a preparation for winter wheat or for spring grains.

GIFTS TO UNITED STATES.

Some Bad British-Canadian Bargains of the Past Hundred Years.

British treaty gifts of Canadian territory commenced with the Treaty of Independence, 1782-3, when the Ohio and Mississippi valley of the Canada ceded by France in 1763—now comprising the States of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois (with its Chicago), Wisconsin and Minnesota—which had formed no part of the revolted colonies, was gratuitously ceded to the United States. "An instance," says an American author, "of the sacrifice of territory, of authority, of sovereignty, and of political prestige unparalleled in the history of diplomacy."

In 1814 the British and Canadian conquests of Maine and Massachusetts to Penobscot, on the Atlantic coast, and of Michigan and the western territory to Prairie du Chien, on the Mississippi, during the war of 1812, were restored to the United States—without insisting upon the territorial boundaries obtained by the war, and rightly claimable under the international doctrine of uti possidetis.

In 1818 another large territory of the French Canada of 1763, extending from Lake Superior west, and including the district about the upper waters of the Mississippi, which the American Plenipotentiaries of 1782 reported to Congress "was then possessed by Great Britain," and also including the Red River Valley, which the Hudson's Bay Company had granted to Lord Selkirk in 1814, and further west to the head waters of the Missouri River (now Dakota and adjoining territory), "went," as a Canadian writer once said, "to satisfy the thrifty appetite of the Republic."

In 1842 Lord Ashburton, in ignorance of the boundary lines on the Franklin "Red Line Map of 1782," ceded over 4,600,00 acres of Canadian land, and by extending Maine 86 miles north into Canada, placed a barrier between Montreal and the Atlantic. The map had been discovered by Dr. Sparks, of Harvard University, in 1842, and forwarded by him to Mr. Webster. In his report to the Senate he stated that the red boundary line throughout the United States "is exactly the line now contended for by Great Britain." And Greville's Memoirs record—"Our successive Governments are much to blame in not having ransacked the archives at Paris, for they could certainly have done for a public object what Jared Sparks did for a private one, and a little trouble would have put them in possession of whatever that repository contained."

In 1846 Oregon, with its splendid harbors on the Pacific coast—owing to the British yielding to the threat, "54 deg. 40 min. or fight," and apparently agreeing with Lord Ashburton that Britain's right to the territory was "a mere question of honor"—was also ceded.

In 1871 Britain agreed that the Fenian Raid claims of Canada, amounting to over $1,600,000, should be made against the United States, but owing to the ambiguous wording of the despatch proposing a treaty to settle the Alabama and and other claims, the United States rejected them, alleging that "they did not commend themselves to their favor," a denial of justice which the then Colonial Secretary acquiesced in, by saying that "Canada could not reasonably expect this country should, for an indefinite period, incur the constant risk of serious misunderstanding with the United States."

Sketch of Judge Magee.

Of Mr. James Magee, K.C., of London, County Crown Attorney, who has been appointed a Judge of the Chancery Division in succession to the late Mr. Justice Ferguson, The London Free Press says in part: "The citizens of London will extend their most cordial congratulations to Mr. Magee. It is an honor well won, the crowning of a career of hard work as a member of the Middlesex Bar, and conscientious service as an officer of the Crown.

Mr. Magee was born in Liverpool, England, and was doubtless inspired by his proximity to the starting point of the great ocean steamers to try his fortunes on the far side of the Atlantic. He came to Canada about the year 1855, and settled in London, thus having spent nearly half a century in this city. He studied at the old Union School, then in charge of Principal Boyle, and Mr. Nicholas Wilson was his teacher nearly all the time he attended there. Mr. Magee became a law student in the office of Harris Brothers, in 1862, and was admitted a solicitor and called to the Bar in 1867. He began to practice the same years, being admitted into partnership with Messrs. Harris. He was afterwards senior partner, successively, in the firms of Magee & Thomas, Magee, Greenless & Thomas, and Magee, McKillop & Murphy, the present firm, which was formed in 1893. He was made a Queen's Counsel and appointed County Crown Attorney in February, 1893, in succession to the late Mr. Charles Hutchinson.

Safeguard the Children

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Frank Riggs, of Franklinville, N.Y., in speaking of this remedy, said: "I have found it expedient to have a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. It has been a family safeguard, and while especially beneficial to children it is equally good in adult cases. I recommend it cheerfully and without reservation." For sale by all druggists.

A HOUSE OF TREASURES.

Anglesey House Contains Many Rich and and Costly Jewels.

Anglesey Castle, which was recently taken possession of by bailiffs as a consequence of an action taken by the creditors of the Marquis of Anglesey, is declared to be a treasure house full of astounding surprises. A report was current the other day to the effect that gems to the value of $125,000 had been found lying "higgledy piggley" in a drawer, and it is now stated that the castle contains property affirmed to be in the aggregate worth more than $5,000,000. Exports have been allowed to see some of the jewellery so far discovered.

"For two hours," says a despatch to hand this morning, "one expert gazed at box after box of glittering gems, till his eyes positively ached with the brilliant galaxy. He valued one boxful alone at $300,000.

"Scores of objects of the richest art have been found just as they arrived from Paris—simply opened and put aside unpacked. The carriage alone of a comparatively small quantity of these things cost $3,000.

"There are several hundreds of superb suits of clothes absolutely untouched, and walking sticks ranging in price from $25 to $2,500."

Unfortunately no description of one of the canes worth the latter figure is forthcoming, but the despatch adds that the sight of this almost incalculable wealth lying idle has led some of the parties most nearly concerned to condemn in strong terms the action of those who precipitated matters and convened a meeting of creditors and obtained a deed of assignment, for in viewing the enormous mass of unrealized wealth at Anglesey Castle they are of the opinion that another method of settlement might have been devised.

At the meeting of the Marquis' creditors it was stated that he had expended on jewellery the sum of $1,065,000. Some of the family jewels are heirlooms, on which there was a charge of $90,000. In six years the Marquis had incurred liabilities amounting to more than $2,720,000. His income is $550,000, and the unsecured liabilities were put at $1,250,000.

Lord Rosebery's Son-in-Law.

The Earl of Crewe, who has been telling the British Farmers' Association that an Imperial race cannot exist on stewed tea and white bread, is a great agriculturist, and a keen farmer. Before he became Lord Crewe he was, as Lord Houghton, assistant private secretary to Earl Granville at the Foreign Office, and from 1892 to 1895 he held the Vice-Royalty of Ireland with great success. The Earl has also been a Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria.

Lord Crewe's father, the famous Richard Monckton Milnes, by which name he was known to his dying day, collected a very fine library, which has been considerably added to by the Earl, who has a happy knack of writing verse. There is a good story told of the late Lord Houghton, who, when Crewe Hall was burned to the ground in 1866, ordered a table, pencil and telegraph form to be brought to him on the lawn, and there, with his home blazing fiercely before him, wired to his architect: "Dear ——, Crewe is burning. Come and build it up again."

Lady Peggy Primrose, Lord Rosebery's daughter, is now Lady Crewe and the Earl's second wife. She was a great favorite of Queen Victoria's, and Queen Alexandra and she are close friends. In politics Lord Crewe is a Liberal, and personally a rather shy, reserved man, with a great love for his books.

It is now 64 years since the penny postage was established, and it may interest those who were not born then to know that previous to that time (1840) it took 1s. 2 1-2d to post a letter from London to Kilmarnock.

MEREST DEMAGOGUE

London Daily Mail on Dundonald's Appeal to Opposition.

J. H. HEATON'S QUESTIONS

Daily News Asks If Britain Is to Have Imperial Crisis Over Trumpery Quarrel in Which Lord Dundonald Has Not the Shadow of a Case—Classic Fire-Eating General.

London, July 19.—(C.A.P.)—J. Henniker Heaton, M.P. (Conservative), asked the War Secretary yesterday whether the name of Lord Dundonald was on the active list of the War Department, whether his services had been dispensed with by the Canadian Government, whether it had come to the knowledge of the War Office that Lord Dundonald had been making inflammatory speeches in Canada against the Government of Canada, and that at meetings largely attended by the Opposition he had been cheered and hooted by the various parties. The Speaker intervened and said: "I hope the question will not continue in the same tone, because those controversial expressions are not admissable. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Heaton continuing, asked whether the War Secretary had been warned that the action of Lord Dundonald might be resented and might greatly endanger the loyal and kindly feeling now existing between Canada and Great Britain.

W. Bromley-Davenport, financial secretary to the War Office, replied: "I think the honorable member will see that these are questions which the Secretary of State cannot properly answer without full notice. (Hear, hear.)

Like the Merest Demagogue.

The Daily Mail says the sooner the War Office and the British Government turn their attention to the doings and sayings of Lord Dundonald, the better it will be for both the Motherland and Canada. Lord Dundonald has embarked upon what looks perilously like a political campaign against the Canadian Government and has appealed to the Opposition like the merest demagogue. It is no part of the duty of an Imperial officer to cause friction between England and Canada, and a soldier who does so serves the larger interests of the Empire most indifferently.

Risk of Imperial Crisis.

The Daily News asks: "Are we to have the risk of an Imperial crisis raised over that trumpery quarrel in which Lord Dundonald has not the shadow of a case. The threatened meeting at Montreal should be emphatically vetoed. It is high time the British Government, which closures Parliament, closured this indiscreet bearer of a great name and assured the Canadians that England disassociates itself from this fire-eating general."

No Difficulties Raised.

London, July 19.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Balfour, replying to T. Gibson Bowles, M.P., (Conservative), said the Newfoundland Government had raised no difficulties affecting the rights conceded to the French in connection with the local regulations for bait fishing and the concurrence of the Newfoundland Government had been obtained during the negotiations.

Woe unto the politician whose nerve has become effete.

Were it not for the fools the wise guys would get left.

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck, you cannot afford to trust it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissues, and revitalizes the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

They Are at Liberty.

Toronto, July 19.—At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Samuel Thompson, Thomas Kerr and Abraham Caboon walked out of the Central Prison. They had been sentenced by Judge Winchester to two years for ballot-stuffing, conspiracy, etc., at the last municipal elections. None of them look any the worse for their confinement.

Fell Off a Bridge.

Brockville, July 19.—A man named James Beggs was brought to the General Hospital yesterday in a serious condition. He went to sleep on the bridge across the canal at Cardinal and fell off. He sustained a compound fracture of the thigh, lip and chin cut and numerous bruises. He is about 30 years of age.

After One Year.

Ottawa, July 19.—The Government has just received the first official information of the wreck of a steamer in charge of the Northwest Mounted Police at Herschelle Island, which occurred on Aug. 25, last year. This station is 2,000 miles north of Edmonton, which accounted for the belated information.

Killed By Lightning.

Chalk River, July 19.—During heavy thunders and hail storm Sunday night, William Hurley, a station man, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He leaves a wife and three small children. The Presbyterian Church was also struck and slightly damaged.

Died From His Injuries.

Toronto, July 19.—Joseph Hopkins of 99 Beverley street, the man who fell while mending the boiler in Barchard's box factory on Sunday, died yesterday morning at the General Hospital.

WILL MAKE AMMUNITION.

Government Completing Contract With English Firms to Establish Factories in Canada—First at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 19.—Sir Frederick Borden has about concluded a contract with the Armstrong-Whitworth firm in England to erect in Ottawa an ammunition factory, which will be capable of turning out 10,000,000 rounds of ammunition per year. Working night and day the factory will be capable of turning out 20,000,000 rounds. It is understood that the company also agrees to erect factories of small capacity in Manitoba and British Columbia whenever required to do so by the Canadian authorities.

SLEW HIS ENEMY IN BED.

Aged Farmer Tries to Exterminate a Family in New Brunswick.

Woodstock, N.B., July 19.—While Carleton county is preparing to hang one murderer on Friday next, the community has been greatly excited by another wretched tragedy, particulars of which are now coming in. Briefly stated, Thomas Cimmic, an aged farmer of Chapmanville, Carleton county, murdered Wm. Doherty and seriously wounded Doherty's brother, in their home at Rutter Glen, a neighboring hamlet, at midnight Sunday. He then set fire to the house, destroying the body of his victim.

Cimmic, after attempting suicide at his own home, was captured yesterday morning, and will probably live. He considered the Dohertys his enemies.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering

'I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from Chronic Diarrhoea for ten years, and during that times I tried various remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well, and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favour of that wonderful remedy." This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

DROWNED IN B. C.

Rev. M. Swartout, Who Went to Vancouver in 1894, Meets Death.

Victoria, July 19. — Swartout drowned on 11th. Boat capsized outside Ucluiet. Part of boat found today. James R. Motion.

Toronto, July 19.—The above is the telegram received by Dr. R. P. MacKay of the Presbyterian Foreign Missions yesterday. Rev. M. Swartout was a former Torontonian, who went out to Vancouver Island in 1894 as mission teacher.

Prior to his appointment in the West, Mr. Swartout was an elder in Parkdale Presbyterian Church and superintendent of the Sunday school. He has a wife and two daughters living in the city.

Western Canada Crops.

Winnipeg, July 19.—Within the last five days crop conditions throughout the entire Canadian West have shown marked improvement. Up to that time parts of districts of Saskatchewap, Alberta, Assiniboia and Western Manitoba were beginning to suffer for want of rain, and the crop was at a standstill. Within the past forty-eight hours abundant rains have fallen all over these districts and the drouth is relieved before any damage had been done. The weather is now most favorable, warm enough for good progress and not too hot. Straw is strong and vigerous, but not too lush to prevent early ripening. All grain is well headed out, except in small areas where sown late, and even there the heads are formed, though not so far advanced.

After Lovers' Quarrel.

Berlin, July 19.—A young woman, Lucena Melitzer, aged about 28, committed suicide here Sunday night by taking Paris green. It would appear that she was in company of her young man about 10 o'clock Sunday night at the home of her sisters, Frederick street, and it is thought that she had a quarrel with her lover, as immediately after he left her she went to her room and took Paris green, lingering in dreadful agony till about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, when she died.

Fell Off Train While Asleep.

Kingston, July 19.—The remains of a man were found Sunday on the G.T.R. track near Kingston Mills, but no identification was possible. They were those of a canvas man employed with Forepaugh & Sells' circus, its trains having gone east on that day. The body was not mutilated, and it would seem to have fallen off while asleep and been killed.

Sheriff Archibald McNab Dead.

Cornwall, July 19.—Archibald McNab, sheriff of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, died on Saturday night at Breadalbane, Glengarry, aged 79 years. Mr. McNab sat in Parliament as a Liberal from 1875 to 1878, as representative for Glengarry. He was reeve of Lochiel township several years, and also held the position of warden of the united counties.

Struck By Lightning.

Comber, July 19.—During a severe thunderstorm here yesterday afternoon, Adam Fennie, a farmer, living near the village limits, while in the act of putting up an eavetrough on his residence, was struck by lightning and lies in an unconscious condition. The Town Hall was also struck, and one corner shattered.

SUNDERED.

O love, since you and I must walk apart,
Spare me one little corner of your heart—
A shrine
That shall be only mine!

Others may claim, and rightfully, the rest;
If there I know I am not dispossessed
All bliss
I, eager, shall not miss.

And if so be you sometimes offer there,
Though but in thought, the fragment of a prayer,
No more
Can I, alas, implore!

But that is much and shall, forsooth, avail
To make my footsteps falter not nor fail,
Though far
Our pathways sundered are.

Then, love, since you and I must walk apart,
Spare me one little corner of your heart—
A shrine
That shall be wholly mine!

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE.

Has Been Trained For His Duties Ever Since He Became Heir Apparent at Six Years of Age.

A great inheritance like the German Imperial Crown is apt to weigh a trifle heavy on the youthful shoulders. The German Crown Prince was only six years old when he became heir-apparent, and from that time the idea of his future duties and responsibilities was always kept before him till the boy became serious beyond his years. Now, as a young man of nearly twenty-two, he shows the marks of his rigid education, being of a quiet and thoughtful disposition and still somewhat shy. With a father of such striking personality as Emperor William, the Prince is naturally somewhat in the background, but it is not from weakness of character. The Emperor has always made a great companion of his eldest boy, and father and son are much alike in many ways—the stern sense of duty, military tastes and love of sport, for instance. As the future head of a soldier-nation, Prince William was encouraged in things military from his very cradle, tradition relating that at two and a half years he insisted on sleeping with a miniature rifle on his arm. He was a delicate, slight boy, and made a tiny soldier indeed when he entered the Prussian Foot Guards at the age of ten, according to the custom of German Princes. With his next brother, Eitel Fritz, the Crown Prince worked very hard, first at home in Potsdam, and then at the college at Plon, in Schleswig-Holstein. On finishing his course there, the Prince went to Bonn, where he thoroughly enjoyed university life, and matriculated with due honors. It was whilst he was at Boon that he was besieged one day by a deputation of schoolgirls, who brought postcards for him to sign. After the Prince had attained his majority—celebrated with much ceromony at Berlin—he came out into the world by visiting foreign courts. Now the Prince has settled down to military duty in Potsdam with his Guards' Regiment. He is a crack rider, and has competed in several military races—hardly altogether to his father's satisfaction, as the Emperor detests horse-racing. But shooting is his favorite pursuit—not in big court drives, but quiet day's sport, with only a forester in attendance. The Prince has been very successful in deer-stalking, and displays the utmost patience in following his quarry. At home he proves his talent as a pianist, for all the Princes have been taught some musical instrument, and the Emperor and Empress are very fond of quiet family musical evenings at Potsdam.

Both Legs Taken Off.

Arnprior, July 19.—A terrible accident occurred here at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. John Murphy was drawing a carload of lumber out of McLachlin Bros.' yard, and fell in front of the car. Both legs were taken off.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why now buy it now? It may save life. For sale by all druggists.

THE LAND OF REGRET.

There is a city whose gates are wide,
Its pavements pure and clean,
Where shadow forms flit side by side
On the road called "Might Have Been."
But folks walk there with their heads bowed low,
And heavy eyelids wet,
For ev'ry corner is haunted so
In this, "The Land of Regret."

They meet the ghosts of those other years
In dreams of memory sweet,
And wet with passionate, frenzied tears
The graves which lie at their feet;
But never, long as their lives shall last,
Can they ever again forget
Who once have walked with ghosts of the Past
In this, "The Land of Regret."

They feel the touch of a hand grown still,
Its fingers softly press,
The tender passion of kisses thrill
Their own in a fond caress.
Ah, me—but pity the folks who stray
Where long the sun hath set,
And walk with the ghosts who're laid away
In this, "The Land of Regret."

LAND LEAGUE ANECDOTES.

Some Original Letters Brought to Light in Mr. Davitt's Book.

An entertaining chapter in Michael Davitt's "The Fall of Feudalism in Ireland" (Harper's), is given up to "Some League Anecdotes." Among the numerous letters of an original kind which reached the Land League offices in 1881, was the following:

"Ballinrobe, Mayo, January 8, 1881.

"To The Honorable Land Lague,—Gintlemin, in a momeat of wakeness I pade me rint. i did not no ther was a law against it or i wud not do it. the people pass by me dure as if the smal pox was in the hous. I heer ye do be givin pardons to min that do rong, and if ye will sind me a pardon to put in the windy for every one to rede, as God is me judge I will never komit the crime agin. Misther Scrab Nally will give me a Karacthur if ye write to him at Bal.

"Yours thruly."

One of the most popular platform speakers in early League years was Thomas Brennan. He was replete with references to Stuart Mill and to the legislation of Stein and Hardenberg, and was eagerly listened to by the local aspirants to platform fame, who tried to imitate him.

One of these talked on one occasion very learnedly about "the laws which Shteel and Harly Burke had passed for the tinnents of Prussheea." On another occasion the same speaker denounced the landlords as "the Tyrant class who spint the rents of daycint people in Rotten Row and other disreputable places in London."

Another Effort to Be Made.

Chicago, July 19.—Another effort is to be made to settle the stock yards strike by arbitration. To-day President Donnelly of the striking unions will send to the packers another letter, asking for a conference. In his letter yesterday President Donnelly urged the men against violence.

Died on the Train.

Winnipeg, Man., July 19.—John McMartin, hotelkeeper, of London, Ont., died on the train leaving Winnipeg Saturday night. He was going to Calgary for treatment, and was accompanied by his wife and nurse.

A BIG FAMILY.

New names have to be designed every year to accommodate the Disease Family, but they all revolve around one cause—The Stomach.

The receptacle of all you eat or drink cannot help but get crippled—very few escape. How can they? Just think of what lands in the stomach during a few hours—All sorts of things—sour, sweet, acid, starchy, light, heavy, vegetable and animal; all this raw material is tumbled into the stomach without much thought as to the order of its going, every particle of which has to be worked over, digested, and converted into food for nerves, blood, brain, kidneys, liver and bowels—for every tissue, cell and fibre of the body. Sometimes the stomach is overloaded, shocked and deranged and cannot do its work properly, and right here begins the starting point of disease, as no organ now receives proper nutriment, and usually the weakest cry out their warnings. That's why a well stomach means a well body, and that's why ANTI-PILL has such a marked effect. It soothes the irritated linings of the stomach, and so acts on the mucous membrane that the necessary supply of gastric juice to secure digestion is assured—ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment makes a well stomach.

Lift Lock Excursion.

What promises to be the best excursion of the season, has been announced to take place on Thursday, the 21st inst., to Burleigh Falls. The steamer City of Peterborough will leave the Wolfe street wharf at 8 a.m., the Lift Lock at 8.30 and Nassau at 9.30, arriving at Burleigh Falls at 1 o'clock, where special arrangements for dinner have been made. This will afford the best opportunity of the season to view the canal and experience the thrilling trip over the Lift Lock in the largest and most commodious steamer on the inland waters. It will be the first appearance of a Rice Lake boat on Stony Lake. Special pilots have been engaged, so that no delay may be occasioned. The steamer will leave Burleigh Falls on her return trip at three o'clock, arriving at Peterborough at 8 p.m. The Examiner is requested to state that only a limited number of tickets will be offered for sale so that those who desire to go should secure them at once. Tickets for the round trip $1, and may be procured at the Times Bookstore, Ormond and Walsh's, and Sailsbury's Bookstore. The sale of tickets will be withdrawn as soon as the limit is reached.

THE MASTER MECHANIC'S PURE TAR SOAP heals and softens the skin, while promptly cleansing it of grease, oil, rust, etc. Invaluable for mechanics, farmers, sportsmen. Free Sample on receipt of 2c for postage. Albert Toilet Soap Co., Mfrs. Montreal.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. GEORGE MONCRIEF.

Expired in Dr. Bradd's Office From an Apoplectic Stroke.

Deceased was Sister of Mr. E. Gardiner of Peterborough—A Highly Respected Lady.

A very sudden death occurred in town yesterday. Mrs. George Moncrief, of Smith township, a sister of Mr. E. H. Gardiner, came into town during the forenoon, in her usual health to do some shopping.

While in town she went to Dr. Bradd's office to procure some medicine for her daughter, who was not feeling well. While there she was suddenly seized with a violent pain, and before the doctor, who was right there, could render any assistance, she expired, the cause of her death being apoplexy. Dr. Gray, who was made acquainted with the circumstances, decided that an inquest was not necessary.

The deceased lady was removed to her home in Smith township, where she was one of the most highly respected residents.

The late Mrs. Moncrief, whose maiden name was Harriet Gardiner, was the mother of four children, George, Walter and Alonzo being married, and living in Emily, and two younger, one son and a daughter, living at home. She also leaves four brothers and one sister.

The deceased was born in Hope township 57 years ago, in which township she lived until her marriage with Mr. Moncrief, which took place 34 years ago, when she went with her husband to Emily to reside, and until six years ago continued to reside there; since that time they have lived on lot 3, concession 3, Smith township, from which place the funeral will take place on Wednesday at one o'clock.

ANNUAL PILGREMIDGE TO ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRA.

About one Hundred From Town Went on Excursion.

The annual pilgrimage to Ste. Anne de Beaupre, below Quebec, took place to-day from various points in Eastern Ontario. The pilgrimage was under the patronage of His Grace Most Rev. Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston, and the direction of Rev. D. A. Twomey, of Tweed. A special train, which was made up at Myrtle, arrived in Peterborough about 12.30 o'clock to-day, and ninety-seven boarded the train for the trip. The tickets are good to return until July 26th.

CATHEDRAL WEDDING.

Miss Louise Laplante Married to Mr. Louis Houedry This Morning.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at 6 o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Miss Louise Laplante, eldest daughter of Mr. Ernest Laplante, 97 Wescott street, was married to Mr. Louis Houedry. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father O'Brien. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Georgina Laplante, while the groomsman was Mr. Maurice Houedry, brother of the groom. The bride was gowned in a handsome dress of champagne silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Houedry will reside at 97 Wescott street.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Howson in Otonabee.

Otonabee lost one of its oldest residents on Saturday, July 16th, by the death of Julia Poole, wife of Mr. William Howson of Otonabee, in her 85th year. The deceased was a daughter of the late Thos. Poole, Esq., of Peterborough, and sister of the late Col. Poole. She was born in Yorkshire, Eng., in 1820, and came to Canada with her parents in 1830, residing in Peterborough until her marriage in 1839. Her husband, four sons and two daughters survive her. The sons are John W., of Campbellford; Thomas P., of Otonabee; Geo. H., and Edwin C., of town, and the daughters are Mrs. Wm. A. Pugh, of Fraserville, and Mrs. Thos. Pugh Otonabee. The funeral service was conducted at the Methodist church, Keene, of which Mrs. Howson had been a member for over 60 years, by the Rev. Mr. Seccombe, assisted by the Rev. Mr. McDonald.

The Liver to Blame.

So long as the liver is active in filtering the bile from the blood there is no biliousness and no constipation, because the bile is passed from the liver into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic in keeping the bowels active. Because of their direct action on the liver as well and the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cure constipation, the real cause of nine-tenths of the common ills of life.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF OMEMEE DEAD.

Mr. Thomas Stevenson a Cousin of Mr Jas. Stevenson Passed Away.

The Lindsay Post has the following on the death of Mr. Thomas Stevenson, a cousin of Mr. Jas. Stevenson of Peterborough:—

Thomas Stevenson, J. P., died at Omemee yesterday morning, after a short illness, at the age of 82. Deceased was born in Fermanagh County, Ireland, and came to Canada in 1848, settling in Omemee in 1853. He had extensive business interests, keeping a store and running a saw mill and flour mill, besides farming. Mr. Stevenson took an active part in public business, and has filled at various times all the municipal offices in the gift of his fellow-citizens, being reeve of the township and village warden of the County of Victoria, etc. He was for many years chairman of the Board of Education. Mr. Stevenson was a lifelong Conservative, one of the oldest Orangemen in Ontario, and a member of the Anglican church. Mrs. E. Woods, of the south ward, is a sister of deceased.

ELECTRIC WIRE CAUSES ACCIDENT,

A Narrow Escape of a Lindsay Boy who Stepped on Charged Metal.

(Lindsay Post.)

Last Thursday evening the Light, Heat & Power Co's wire at Dr. Poole's corner snapped in two, and one end fell on the iron drain cover spanning the cement walk, where it threshed about, emitting vivid sparks at intervals. Just then a lad came racing along from the direction of the G.T.R. station, and before Mr. S. Griffis—who was standing on the opposite corner—could utter a warning cry the boy stepped on the metal plate, and received a shock that hurled him into the roadway—fortunately away from the deadly wire. He was up again in a moment, and after rubbing his leg he hurried onward with a decided limp. Mr. Reesor was called up by telephone and the dangerous wire was guarded until a man arrived to make repairs.

T.A.S. WON FROM HASTINGS YESTERDAY

Score was 5—2 After a well Played Contest.

With their eyes peeled in the R. R. Hall Trophy the T.A.S. lacrosse team went to Hastings yesterday to play off the tie game of a few weeks ago, and the boys in red and black added another victory to their string, winning the match by a score of 5—2. The game was an interesting contest from start to finish and the play was well contested. The Hastings boys had the best of the play in the initial quarter though no goals were scored by either team. In the second quarter the play was very even, each goal being attacked in turn; the home team notched their two points in this quarter while the Total Abstainers scored one goal. For the remainder of the contest the play was in favour of the winners, who scored four goals, two in the third and two in the fourth quarter.

The T.A.S. team was the strongest which has been yet placed on the field and the boys put up a splendid game. McGrath at centre strengthened the team considerably. The team's hardest game will be with Port Hope and if the boys play the game they are capable of, a victory should result. The line-up yesterday was:—Goal, O'Brien; point, Boyle; cover point, Derocher; defence, W. Donovan, Meagher, Crowley; centre, McCrath; home field, Parnell, F. McCoy, H. Donovan; outside home, McCabe; inside home, L. McCoy.

Referee—Lancaster, of Havelock.

Goal, L. Scriver; point, Clapper; cover point, Coughlin; defence, E. Scriver, McCarthy, W. Rice; centre, Jas. Welsh; home, H. Scriver, Carey, J. Welsh; outside, Dodd; inside, L. Rice.

In the second half and for the remainder of the game Derocher and McCabe exchanged places.

The Charlotte St. Young Men's Guild, will run a Moonlight Excursion by the Steamer North Star, Monday evening, July 25th. Tickets limited to 125. Orchestra and Male Quartette on board.

BRITISH WARSHIPS CHECK THE RUSSIANS

A Fleet of Eighteen War Vessels Despatched to Alexandria—A Probable European Complication.

Special C. N. W. Despatches to the Examiner.

Berlin, July 19th. — Great Britain has informed Germany of the despatch of a British fleet of eighteen warships to Alexandria, with the intention of checking Russian Illegalities in the Red Sea. It is expected that the demonstration will cause Russia to subside meekly. The general feeling is that the first European complication with regard to the war in the east has arrived.

McMASTER BAND'S LARGE AUDIENCE.

Murray Street Church Filled Last Night to Hear the Young Men.

A large audience greeted the McMaster Band in the Murray Street Baptist church last evening. The tone of the meeting was quietly intense and convincing. The young men proclaim the simple Gospel fearlessly and with great earnestness, without resorting to any of the sensational methods that have become so distasteful to the thinking classes. The emotions are appealed to but the reasonableness of the Gospel is emphasized. Promptly at eight o'clock they took their places on the platform. Mr W. A. Cameron, the leader of the band took full charge of the service. The band quartette sang "O My Redeemer" in a pleasing manner, and Mr. Huddlestone followed in a pointed address on "The Human Element in Salvation". Then Mr. Williamson sang sweetly "Wandering Child Come Home." The next speaker was Mr. Noble, who took as his theme, "The Universality of Sin". When he took his seat the quartette immediately arose and sang "Jesus Will Let You In". Mr. Cameron then spoke briefly and called upon the unsaved present to face the claims of Christ. At 9.15 the service closed.

GOODNESS KNOWS THEY NEED IT.

The Belleville Intelligencer goes into raptures over the fact that a little dinky rolling mill is to be started there, and remarks:—"By the way, have you noticed that things have been picking up lately, and that most people you meet are impressed with the idea that a mild boom is soon due to hit Belleville? Fact, just the same, whether you have noticed it or not. Plenty of work for those who want it, real estate changing hands rapidly, and a more hopeful feeling in the air. Cheerful prospect, isn't it, and makes one feel like wearing the smile that won't come off."

LATEST SPORT

LAWN TENNIS.

Interest in this popular game is increasing, a fact attested to by the announcement that a series of games is being arranged to decide the junior and senior championships of the town. A meeting of the six persons eligible to compete in this tournament will be held in the near future, when a schedule of games will be arranged between those contesting for the two championships. The games, the first of which will be played next week, will take place on the cinder courts at the Y.M.C.A. building and will no doubt be followed with interest. Those who will compete for the senior championships are;—Messrs. R. H. Elliott, Harold Armstrong, Dr. McFall and Dr. Wightman. The two aspirants for junior honours are:W. H. Cavanagh and R. M. Glover.

A meeting is called for to-morrow night at 7.30 o'clock at the Examiner office to arrange a schedule and the above players and any others who wish are invited to be present.

LACROSSE.

Hastings plays in Port Hope on Saturday.

• • • •

The Capitals of Ottawa and the Tecumsehs have arranged for home and home games.

• • • •

The players stood the pace remarkably well at Hastings yesterday considering the very oppressive heat.

• • • •

The T. A. S. has won three, tied two and lost no games this season. They have three games to play and should win them all.

• • • •

On Friday evening a good game of lacrosse will be played on the Murray street grounds, between Millbrook and the T. A. S. This will be the first appearance of a Millbrook lacrosse team in Peterborough and though they are out of the running for the championship they are playing a fast game. Last week they played Hastings a 3-3 game and will make a desperate effort to down the Total Abstainers here on Friday. The T. A. S. must win to keep in the running and a splendid game is assured.

The Belleville Intelligencer says of "Reddy" McMillan: — "Our old friend, 'Reddy' McMillan, bumped into another bunch of misfortune on Saturday, when the Shamrocks, of Montreal, and Cornwall, played. 'Reddy' was playing inside home, and it seems that, according to a despatch, in the third quarter McMillan checked Currie with considerable force, and the guts of his stick put an ugly gash on Currie's head, which bled profusely. Currie then did the baby act, throwing the ball at McMillan and rushing after him with his stick. Robinson more than avenged him, however, by cracking McMillan over the head. There was a general mix-up for a time, and the referee penalized McMillan for twenty minutes, Currie ten and Robinson only five. 'Poor Reddy!' he seems to get up against most of the trouble there is going."

All the Midland League teams are scheduled to play next Saturday. The games are Port Hope at Oshawa, Bowmanville at Lindsay, Cobourg at Peterborough.

• • • •

There is some talk of forming a city league between the T. A. S., Auburns, Y. M. C. A. and any other team desiring to enter, and though it is getting rather late in the season to organize leagues, the plan seems a feasible one and an interesting series could be arranged which could be run off in a short time. That the T. A. S. and Auburns are very evenly matched was shown when these teams last met and from the material which the Y.M.C.A. has gathered together they should give either team a warm argument. With three or four well matched teams in a league, there is no reason why it should not prove a success and provide some very interesting contests.

• • • •

The first game in the finals for the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Guild League, was played at the Patterson street grounds last evening between All Saints, winners of district No. 1 and Charlotte Street winners of district No. 2, and resulted in rather a decisive victory for the Methodists, by a score of 12-4. It was agreed before the game, to play four innings last night and play four more on All Saints' grounds next Thursday, the team scoring the most runs in the two games to be champions. The match will be concluded on Thursday and the chances of the Charlotte Street boys look to be rosy. Last evening's game was an interesting contest and was marked by hard hitting on the part of the winners who took kindly to Pilling's offerings. All Saints did not field as well as usual while their opponents handled the ball cleanly and gave fine support to their twirler, Roddy who was in good form. The winners scored three in the first, one in the second and eight in the third. Two double plays spoiled chances for scores for All Saints.

The scores were:—All Saints,—Pilling, p.; G. Campbell, c.; Bullen, 1 b.; Nicholson, 2 b.; Adamson, 3 b; F. Campbell, s.s.; McWilliams, r.f.; Rickey c. f.; Dusty, l. f.; Charlotte Street,—H. Roddy, p.; Thornton, c.; Jolliffe, 1 b.; Squires, 2 b.; R. Roddy, 3 b.; McWilliams, s.s.; Sanderson, l. f.; Carr, c. f.; Fuller, r. f.

H. R. H. Kenner gave perfect satisfaction as umpire.

STRIPPING OLD QUEBEC.

Antique Household Utensils Are Fast Disappearing From the Province.

Antiquity is fast becoming one of the chief gods of the ancient city of Quebec, but it is a sad thing to observe that reverence for the remnants of bygone days usually settles on how much an article will represent in gold. An old copper kettle, in which the hammer-beats and the brazing of the early blacksmith can be readily detected is esteemed, not so much as a sample of a changing art and oftentimes marvellous skill, but as something worth more in the curiosity shop than in the junk shop. Happily, however, there is something to induce a preservation of these things, even if eventually the rarest specimens find a way into foreign museums or the homes of wealthy tourists. Old brass, old copper, old pewter, old earthenware—these are the things that are being gathered in, and it is safe to say that within a very few years the Dominion will be stripped of the unappreciated homely relics that Canadians should prize next, almost, to their nationality. The day of the grease dip, the candle pan, the old brass snuffers, the huge brass knockers, the log fireplace, the iron crane, the swinging kettle, is gone, but from musty garrets and century-old kitchens the evidences of an earlier civilization are being brought to light. Now the beaten metal that decorated the living room a hundred years ago finds an honored place in the best parlors.

The big search for curiosities in the Province of Quebec began three or four years ago, encouraged purely as a commercial undertaking by wealthy tourists passing through the ancient capital. Huge hand-made cauldrons of brass or copper that had been regarded as so much scrap, splendidly modelled brass demijohns and kettles of all sizes and shapes, slipped through the fingers of the original and unappreciative owners and passed over to those who really should prize them least. An old metal kettle, dented and covered with verdigris and smut, is a very different thing from the old metal kettle, burnished and sparkling, showing the marks of a rude yet artful craft, and giving evidence of its years in the apparent methods of its production. So articles picked up by the gatherers for 25 cents are cleaned, placed in a shop window and marked three or five or ten dollars, as the case may be. Very rare specimens, of course, sell for more or less, according to the knowledge of the persons who handle them.

Being of itself an attraction for tourists, the city of Quebec has become a distributing point for curiosities. Numerous shops have been established for the purpose, and during the summer season places for the sale of this ware appear with little more accommodation than the ordinary candy stand. Every shop of any consequence maintains a staff of collectors, who scour the countryside for their stock-in-trade. It is becoming more and more difficult all the time to get the goods, because the owners are awakening to the fact that they hold something to which a sentimental value is attached. The quest for brass and copper has given way in a measure to a search for the products of old English or "habitant" potteries long out of existence. Old delft is in good demand, and a dealer will ask ten dollars for an odd plattor or two dollars for a willow-patterned plate with the same grace as the baker asks five cents for a small loaf. A connoisseur may pay five or fifty dollars for a rare piece, according to his taste and means, and oftentimes according to the impression he makes on the seller. The dealers in antiquities here estimate the style of their patrons with great skill, and their prices fluctuate accordingly. As a rule the stuff does not cost them much, so the price depends on the customer. Grandfather clocks and spinning wheels are by no means neglected, and it is the boast of one dealer that clocks having no claims of antiquity or uniqueness, and fit only for kindling wood, sell readily to American visitors for five dollars each.

The observation "Distant hills look green" seems to apply in this connection, for while the collectors have scoured the outlying districts they apparently have neglected the opportunities that lie within sight. A recent visitor to Quebec before going a mile from the city procured from a habitant on the verge of the century mark twenty-three pieces of long-used delft for what had been asked for one piece of a similar kind in the city. The regrettable part of this trade is that most of the best specimens are leaving the country. After a while, when it is too late, Canadians will awaken to their lost opportunities.

THE AIM.

Thou, who lovest not alone
The swift success, the instant goal,
But hast a lenient eye to mark
The failures of the inconstant soul.

Consider not my little worth—
The puny achievement, stamped in act,
The high resolve and low result,
The dream that durst not face the fact.

But count the reach of my desire;
Let this be something in thy sight;
I have not, in the slothful dark,
Forgot the vision and the height.

Neither my body nor my soul
To earth's low ease will yield consent.
I praise thee for my will to strive;
I bless thy goad of discontent.

In the Country.

When the rattle of the reaper
Wakes the echo of the hill,
Rousing me, an idle sleeper,
Down behind the old sawmill,
Lazily I turn me over
On my bed of fragrant clover.

Seems to me, our country cousins
Don't appreciate the tunes
That the birds, by tens and dozens,
Warble through the leafy Junes.
Very simple is the reason,
They are grubbing all the season.

Not for me the rasp and rattle
Of the reaper in the wheat.
I had rather watch the cattle
Of the fragrant clover eat.
Rather lie here, cool and lazy,
Than to labor till I'm crazy.

Draughts of perfume, sweet as honey,
Loose are lying round up here,
But the hired man—it's funny—
Says he'd rather have some beer;
Says the stuff that nature mixes
Isn't what the barkeep fixes.

Did You Ever?

Did you ever wake up in the morning with a start under the impression that you had overslept yourself, jump up and on looking at your watch discover that it was a half hour earlier than usual and then crawl back for a little nap?

It is just like finding money. You had expected that you would have to jump into your clothes, hurry through your breakfast and run to catch the train, and you find instead that you have time for one more dream and then sufficient time to tie your necktie and leisurely discuss the coffee and rolls.

Few joys are equal to this. Meeting an old friend or discovering a stray dime in the pocket of an old vest cannot match it.

You stretch yourself thoroughly, lay out plans for the day and when the half hour has about expired you slowly arise and look at your watch again and find that it has stopped and that according to its count you still have that half hour.

Such sayings always make one cry
"Enough."

So it's enough on which to hang a bluff.

SUMMER STYLES.

Smart and Practical Linen Suits. Dainty Waists For Hot Days.

This year the linens are so charming and so varied, ranging from the coarsest crash to the finest linen voile, that the difficulty of choice lies in the multitude of riches. In the making of the linen frock the skirt claims great attention, for the making of this garment has witnessed many changes of late, rendering new models not only a choice, but a necessity, and, while very many of the cotton and so called wash fabrics are made up without a thought of the laundry, a linen suit may be quite practical if one so wishes.

A popular skirt of this order is the plaited one, the material set into inverted box plaits all round, heavily pressed and stitched down for certain distances, growing shorter as the back is reached from the waist. The skirt is cut the popular ras terre length, but is one which lends itself kindly to curtailment where country or special wear makes this desirable. Beneath the plaits at the waist and completely hidden by them are certain darts, by whose aid the skirt is fitted absolutely round the hips and waist.

Very taking is the simple model shown, which perfectly strikes the prevailing note of the season. It is slightly eased round the waist, the fullness being so slight as to barely admit of gathering, for voluminous folds are hardly suitable to the fabrication of linen, which in itself is a slightly bulky, heavy fabric and is rendered doubly so by the laundress' machinations.

As its only and effective decoration the skirt carries a hem band of either blue or red material spotted with white, and so is particularly suited to mate with one of the spotted linen shirts of the day.

Any other scheme of trimming may be adapted at will. For instance, a deep band of broderie Anglaise would prove a charming completion to a skirt of linon de soie.

Silk skirts are giving way to those of lawn, and these are of the finest, hemstitched in the most wonderful fashion, and embroidered in satin stitch with no less elaboration, and proclaiming the date of their building by their long shoulder seams. Shoulders, by the way, are being deftly broadened by means best understood by the modistes without lessening their length.

Wide horizontal tucks and flat bows both enter largely into trimming schemes. Some of the popular taffeta gowns have a row of tiny little flat bows straight down the front of the bodice and the skirt, a very excellent device for giving length to the over-short figure.

A charming toque is of hyacinth blue tulle, trailed about with wisteria in the same soft shade, green foliage striking a softening and becoming note.

A striking little hat boasts a brim of white straw with rose petal crown, either white, cerise or yellow, and is draped in artistic fashion with a handsome blue lace veil.

J. VERNON WALDER.

An Amusing Misconception.

Children sometimes quite misapprehend the point of a teacher's remarks, especially if it be expressed in the least degree idiomatically. For example, a lady teacher had been giving her class a lesson on the rabbit, and in the course of it she said: "The rabbit has a tail, certainly; but nothing to speak of." Later in the day the children were required to write down the substance of the lesson in their own words, and one little girl reproduced the above statement as follows:

"A rabbit has a tail, beyond all doubt, but it is very naughty to ever speak about it."

MODERN ENOCH ARDEN.

Romantic Story Related at Osgoode Hall, Toronto—Mary Doyle's Suit for Damages for Husband's Death.

A romantic story is connected with the suit of Mary Doyle against the Diamond Flint Glass Co.,' rivalling the story of Enoch Arden. The characters are: Mary Doyle, Toronto, alleged widow of John Doyle; John Doyle, alleged husband of Mary Doyle and Ellen Doyle; Ellen Atkin, alias Ellen Doyle, alleged wife of John Doyle and Isaac Atkin; Isaac Atkin, mariner, not heard from by Toronto acquaintances for years.

The curious matrimonial tangle was disclosed in a suit recently tried at the Assizes in Toronto in which the two sets of husbands and two sets of wives appear.

The case arose in the form of an action brought by Mary Doyle, purporting to be the widow of John Doyle, for compensation for his death, which occurred on the premises of the Diamond Flint Glass Company at Dovercourt and Armour streets a year ago. Mrs. Doyle asked for damages under the Workmen's Compensation Act, but at the trial counsel for the Glass Company produced a Mrs. Ellen Doyle and proved her marriage to Doyle previous to the date of the marriage to Mrs. Doyle No. 2. Mr. Justice Idington, therefore, dismissed the case.

It was hinted that the first Mrs. Doyle had enjoyed at least as many marriages as had Mr. Doyle. The firm of Clute, Macdonald, MacIntosh & Hay, who were acting for Mrs. Mary Doyle, began a search for this missing husband of Mrs. Ellen Doyle. It was known that he was a mariner named Isaac Atkin, sailing on the great lakes, but for some time no trace of him could be discovered. Mrs. Mary Doyle's solicitors were persistent, and finally through a description a clue was obtained near Toledo and the missing husband was at last located at the village of Edgewater. The representative of the firm who found Atkin secured from him an affidavit that he had married the woman now known as Mrs. Ellen Doyle long before she met Doyle, and that her marriage to the glass worker was a mere form.

In view of this, Mr. R. C. Clute, K. C., applied to the Divisional Court for a new trial on the ground that, as Doyle's first marriage was illegal, Mrs. Mary Doyle was his rightful wife.

At the trial the jury, conditional on His Lordship finding that Mrs. Mary Doyle was the lawful widow, awarded a verdict of $1,500 to her and the dead man's mother.

V.C. HERO.

How the Cross Was Won in Somaliland by Lieut. Smith.

For conspicuous bravery in Somaliland, the King has conferred the coveted Victoria Cross on Lieut. Clement Leslie Smith of the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry. Thrilling, indeed, was the act that won the cross. Hospital Assistant Rahamat Ali was hit early in the fight with the dervishes at Jidballi on Jan. 10. Lieut. Smith and Dr. Welland went out to his assistance and endeavored to bring him out of action on a horse. But Ali was killed, and his two brave would-be rescuers were surrounded by the enemy.

Helping the doctor on to his horse, Lieut. Smith turned his head to the lines of safety. Fate was against the two; the beast went down with a crash. A passing mule was caught. There was another attempt to mount; the mule was killed.

Then Dr. Welland was speared, but his dauntless companion stood by him to the end, pouring the contents of his revolver into the surrounding foes.

DIZZY SPELLS AND DYSPEPSIA

Soon Disappeared When the Nervous System was Set Right by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street Peterborough, Ont., states:— "For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of the use, I am quite restored to health."

HIS COMPOSITE

By ELSIE CARMICHAEL

Copyright, 1903, by Elsie Carmichael

"Hello, Nan!"

Nan stopped swinging and laid down her book.

"Hello, Dicky!" she called. Then she laughed as she looked up into his lugubrious face. "Why, what's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing," responded Dicky, throwing himself down on the upper step of the veranda.

"Yes, there is," contradicted Nan, extricating herself from the hammock. "Something has been doing, and you must tell me all about it."

Dick laughed as he looked down at the diminutive figure with her imperious little ways. He rose to his six feet one with an amused glance. "Come out for a paddle," he begged. "I am grouchy, and I want to be jollied."

"Shall I paddle bow or sit and talk to you?" she asked, hesitating before she stepped into the green canoe.

"Ah, don't turn your back on me," he said. "That's what Helen does. She always wants to paddle, and it isn't any fun to talk to a girl's back, you know."

Nan loved to kneel in the bow and watch the new unbroken water ahead as they stole silently across the lake, but instead she seated herself among the cushions facing him. She had a tactful way of adapting herself to other people's moods that made her a charming companion.

"Isn't it a corking day?" he said after a long silence while he sent the canoe forging ahead under his slow, powerful strokes.

"Yes," responded Nan absently as she trailed her hand in the water and watched the slow moving masses of white cloud piling up in the south. "So Helen always likes to paddle, does she?" she asked.

"Always," he assented. "She never is content to sit still for two minutes. She isn't a bit restful."

For a moment Nan felt inclined to laugh. Dicky in his strength and with his superb physique was the last one who looked as though his nerves needed a restful person to quiet him.

"SO HELEN ALWAYS LIKES TO PADDLE, DOES SHE?" SHE ASKED.

She has such a lot of extra energy and vitality that she has to do something to use them up," she said.

"Yes, I know!" cried Dicky enthusiastically. "Isn't she a corking looking girl, Nan? Jove, she carries herself like a queen! And strong! Why, she has more good hard muscle than many men. I love to see her play tennis or paddle a canoe, but still sometimes, Nan, a fellow wants some one to sit around and listen to him and sympathize, don't you know?"

"Yes, I know," she said thoughtfully. "I have a little of that feeling about Helen myself. She has so much strength and health that it almost tires one. Still she is a perfect dear, Dicky, and has a great deal of character." Nan always was a loyal sort of girl.

"Yes, she has," he said earnestly. He laid down his paddle and lighted his pipe in silence. Then he leaned back comfortably against the thwarts and let the canoe drift through the cloud reflected water.

"Then there's Betty," he went on after a pause. "She is all that Helen is not. She is the daintiest, prettiest piece of Dresden china I ever saw. See here, Nan"—he sat up straight, and a flush rose under his tan—"do you know I'm in a sort of a fix. Don't laugh, will you? You must help me out. I think I'm in love with both those girls at once."

He looked so distressed and embarrassed that ordinarily Nan would have difficulty in suppressing a laugh, but now the color faded from her cheeks, and she looked at him seriously.

"That is very hard luck, Dick," she said slowly. "Can't you really tell? You must like one better than the other."

"It's like this," he explained. "You see, I care an awful lot for them both, and first I think it's one and then the other. The queer part is that almost always when I'm with one I am thinking about the other one and wishing I were with her. It's awfully queer."

"It is strange," she assented, with a little catch in her voice. "They are so different that you like some things in one the other has not. If they could be made into a sort of composite you would be all right."

"Yes, that's it," he cried. "You always understand so well, Nan. I feel you won't look on me as a fool to tell you all this. I always do tell you things somehow. You see, I love Helen's strength and health and beauty, but I'm always wishing she had Betty's little sympathetic ways and wasn't so brusque. And then when I am in a certain mood I love Betty with her poetic nature and her fascinating quiet manners. Sometimes I feel as though I would like nothing better than to take care of her and shield her all my life, she is so frail and helpless. But there are times when I feel so full of strength and life and energy, and then she doesn't seem to enter into things. It's then I love to go galloping off with Helen over fences and ditches, feeling the wind whistle in my ears and the exhilaration and spice of danger in it, or to sail right into the teeth of a storm that would make Betty sick. Helen is a great sailor. Why, she can manage a boat, Nan, quite as well as you."

Nan flushed with pleasure, though he said it as he might have said it to another man.

"You see what a hole I'm in," he finished.

"Yes," said Nan slowly. "Dick, I would go slow. You don't want to make a mistake. It would about break my heart if you weren't happy." She choked a little.

Dick leaned over and grasped her hand. "You are a dear, Nan," he said. "I know you will stick by me whatever happens." He puffed away at his pipe with his dark eyes fixed thoughtfully on her face.

The next day Nan went away. A mysterious telegram had called her back to the great hotel where her family was staying, and she left Dicky feeling very lonely and forlorn.

She was sitting on the hotel piazza one day a week later, a book open in her lap, but her eyes fixed dreamily on the distant mountains across the lake, when she saw a familiar figure swinging up the path between the pines that lead to the station. She started up, and for an instant her heart seemed to stop beating. Then the color surged back into her face, and she ran down the steps to welcome him.

"Dicky," she cried, "how good to see you! Why this sudden apparition?"

Dick's face was flushed, too, under his tan. There was a light in his dark eyes Nan had never seen there before, and in an instant she knew his secret. He had come to tell her that he was engaged to Betty or Helen—which?

The color faded from her cheeks. Dick gave his suit case to a bellboy and turned to her again.

"Let us walk down to the lake," he said quietly. There was a new dignity about him that was beautiful in Nan's eyes.

The shadow of the pines enfolded them as they entered the woodland path. Their footsteps were hushed in the red gold pine needles. Through the dim mysterious vistas of tall tree trunks gleamed the lake.

"Nan," said Dick abruptly, "I've come to tell you something. You will probably think I have acted like a fool, but you must forgive me, dear. You always understand and make allowances for me. I have decided whom I love at last."

Nan trembled and moved a little away from him so that the width of the path was between them. Then she looked at the lake before her with steady eyes. "Is it Betty or Helen?" she asked softly.

Dick stopped and laid his hands on her shoulders, compelling her to look up. "It's neither of them, Nan," he said. "The only girl I have ever loved is you, sweetheart. I did not find it out until you went away, and then I realised it. Oh, I've been so lonely without you, dear; so lonely. Do you remember you said I ought to have a composite of those two? Well, you are that composite. It was always you, only I was blind before."

Once in a while some one who has traveled to the very edge of the danger line of stomach disease stops just in time to save his health. But the majority of people go across the line, and slight symptoms of indigestion grow to disease of the stomach, involving the other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Indigestion and other forms of stomach "trouble" are perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the whole body by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"I have been suffering for about eight years," writes Mrs. H. Pierce, of Millsprings, Ky. "Have had several doctors to treat me—some for female weakness and others for stomach trouble, but received no relief. When I wrote you for advice I was hardly able to work, and you advised me what to do. I took nine bottles, five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' four of 'Favorite Prescription,' also two vials of the 'Pellets.' Dr. Pierce's medicines will do all that you claim for them. Believe I would have been in my grave if I had not taken them."

THE JOY.

The joy is in the doing,
Not the deed that's done;
The swift and glad pursuing
Not the goal that's won.

The joy is in the seeking,
Not in what we are;
The ecstasy of vision,
Far and clear and free!

The joy is in the singing,
Whether heard or no;
The poet's wild, sweet rapture,
And song's divinest flow!

The joy is in the being—
Joy of life and breath;
Joy of a soul triumphant,
Conqueror of death!

Is there a flaw in the marble?
Sculptor, do your best;
The joy is in the endeavor—
Leave to God the rest!

Puns and Promotions.

Canon Melville, who died the other day in his ninety-second year, owed his earliest promotion to a pun, affirms a London paper. When the late Earl of Dudley, who knew Mr. Melville sufficiently to remember that his Christian name was David, had a living at his disposal, he received a letter containing only the words, "Lord, remember David." The Earl's reply was no less terse and Scriptural: "Thou art the man!" Perhaps the earliest instance of ecclesiastical promotion won by a pun is that of a curate named Joseph, who was prompted by Swift to take this text for a sermon preached in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, before the Viceroy, "Butler," the Duke of Ormond: "Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph, but forgat him." The Rev. Dr. Mountain, who was the son of a beggar, owed nearly every step of his successive promotions in great part to his facetiousness, and won the last step of all by a single jest. When he was consulted, as Bishop of Durham, by George II. as to the fittest person to fill the vacant archiespiscopal see of York he replied: "Sir, hadst thou faith as a grain of mustard seed thou wouldst say to this Mountain (dramatically striking his breast), 'Be thou removed and cast into this sea (see).'" That George II. should so understand and appreciate the joke as to accept its suggestion is perhaps the strangest part of the story.

Death of the Sun.

Among the Ojibway Indians, who once occupied the lands about the great lakes in Canada, the sun, moon and stars were all objects of worship, for the red man was in his own way a decidedly religious person. At dawn the old chief and warriors chanted the praises of the sun, and at nightfall they thanked him for the light and heat with which he had supplied them during the day. An eclipse of the sun filled them with dismay. That event was looked on as his death, and they were then very anxious about his safety. They used to fasten bits of live coal to the points of their arrows and shoot them into the air in order that the expiring sun might be relighted. As for the moon, it was equally precious. They reckoned their months by it. Their children were forbidden to point at it with their finger lest it should be bitten off.

Oil, Water and Long Life.

According to a Californian, people who would preserve undiminished spryness and at the same time attain length of days have only to drink distilled water and rub olive oil on the joints, besides taking proper exercise. "Ordinary water," he says, "contains mineral substances and sediment which find their way to the joints. Thus we find men and women troubled with rheumatism. Their joints prematurely ossify, and old age comes on. The method which I have put into practice has proved its efficiency in warding off old age. There is no reason why any one should not live to be a century old and enjoy his declining years if he will simply use pure olive oil and drink only distilled water."

The Rage for Insurance.

A curious case in insurance has come to light lately, and is causing much comment in London. A Canadian lady married a nobleman who was in his eighty-first year. The Marquis of Donegal had taken out an insurance policy in his seventieth year against issue being born to him. The first Marchioness died, and by his second wife he had a son, who now claims from the Norwich Union the sum of £2,500 payable on his father's death. It is the first time that this company have had to pay, and it brings to light what the rage for insurance is in this ago. The old Marquis paid one premium, a lump sum of £131, and doubtless the mother of his heir rejoices in his forethought. I am told by those who ought to know that among the middle class in England insurance in every form is popular to a degree, and that romances without number could be written on the extraordinary credulity of the mass of the public.

Asking Too Much.

"You are sure you have that confidence in me which is so essential in choosing a life partner?" she said inquiringly. "You trust me fully?"

"Oh, implicitly!" he replied. "I would trust you with my life. Only show me how I can prove it."

"I will," she said with a happy sigh. "Promise me"—

"Anything you ask," he interrupted. "The promise is given beforehand. For you I would go through Niagara's whirlpool in a barrel. I would cross the ocean in an open boat."

"Promise me," she repeated, slowly and deliberately, "that when we are married you will put your banking account in my name."

However, there are limitations to even the most devoted love, and so he left her weeping over the hollowness of masculine protestations.

A very sad event took place in the sudden calling away of Mr. Thomas Beatty, formerly of Havelock. The deceased was a son of Richard Beatty, of Central Ontario Junction, and was a brakesman on the Grand Trunk Railway. It is supposed that at a place called Sunbridge he went back to couple up a train, when he slipped. He was taken to the hospital at Huntsville, but died two hours after the accident, on July 13th. The remains were brought to Havelock for burial. His parents, five brothers and one sister, are left to mourn his loss, and they have our deepest sympathy.

The following is a piece of "poetry" written by one of our school boys, aged 14. It tells of a laughable incident which happened to a friend of his:—

There's a man in our town,
And know drim you might,
He courted a girl bright and fair,
He would do nothing naughty,
A man like this one is rare.

When he came to this place
He was good as a dime,
And had a good look on his face.
He wouldn't "bacco" or "beer" at all
Couldn't tell you a spade from an ace.

He got stuck on a girl
A sweet pair of lips and nice little feet.
Her eyes were like diamonds
Her teeth they were pearls
When this "Willie" he saw her
His head it did whirl.

He got inter-ducted
Got stuck on her hard
And wherever she was
He was there as her pard.

She taught him to sing
The pipe and the bar
At last she got him into the choir,
If you'd swear he'd be shocked
And this head it would sway,
For girlie was bringing him
In the straight and narrow way.

Months passed and he went with her
Clung to her still,
The look on his face
It would give you a chill.
His face it was haggard
His eyes they were dim.
It was plain he was tired of her
Or she of him.

All at once dame fortune
Smiled on him at last.
He looked at her once
And the vote it was cast.
When he met this sweet girl
Whom he had thought so nice.
His features were hard
And this had was like ice.

His girl never fainted
Was mutual I guess
She just curled her lip
And say'd a "poor mess",
He smiled and looked happy
And I will confess
That in his line of business
He is now a success.

Now he's in with some sports
Of a very fast class
He has started to smoke and to chew
He goes round and plays baseball,
Stays up late at nights
And to me it seems very queer
He goes around flirting
With other men's girls
And the love in his heart
To them he unfurls.

People say he is batty
Sort of off his base
You can nearly tell that
By the look on his face.
He's a wild sort of creature
Who once fell in love
When he dies we all hope
He will go up above.

Concerts will be given near Mathison's old bake shop by a gentleman who is advertising something as yet unknown. But his views on the canvas on the side of the wall are very good. Jeffries and Fitzsimmons' last fight will be given in moving pictures to-morrow night.

The regular meeting of the town council was held in the council chambers on July 4th. Those present were Reeve Knox, Councillors Cooper and Campney. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Nothing special was done outside of the presentation of a number of bills, amounting to $205.55. The council adjourned very early.

A special meeting of the town council was held on July 5th. Those present were J. Knox, reeve, and Councillors, Wm. Cooper, J. Campney, J. Thompson and F. Haig. The meeting was for the purpose of considering the question of fire protection.

On motion of Councillors Thompson and Cooper the clerk was instructed to have a bylaw drawn up prohibiting the erection of any buildings but brick, concrete metal covered, brick veneer, stone, rough cast, brick lined nogged walls, roofed with shingles laid in mortar or gravel, metal slate or other incombustible roofing within a district covered by Mill Lane on the east, Ottawa street on the south, Quebec street on the west and George street on the north; also village lots 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186 and 187 north of George street; repairing also to be done according to said regulations; also appointing officers for the purpose of inspecting buildings and yards within the fire limits, and to pull down or remove buildings in contravention of bylaw, yards full of rubbish likely to cause fire; also prohibiting anything except electric lights in hotels, livery and all public places. The council then adjourned.

Anyone wishing to build must first deposit a plan and description of the building to the inspector, Mr. J. W. Bryans. When this is done the inspector will bring it before the council and if approved by them issues a permit.

The success of your cake depends upon the baking powder.

Cheap baking powder makes poor cake and a poorer cook.

The wise housewife uses a pure cream of tartar baking powder like Cleveland's. The result,—good, wholesome, digestible cake every time.

HE OF THE BULLET-HEAD.

M. Belloc's Brilliant Sketch of What the Norman Conquest Did for England —Strong in Isolation.

The Speaker, the British Liberal review, in a recent issue contained the following brilliant sketch by Monsieur Belloc of the result of the Norman conquest of England:

I had known the Ouse—(how many years ago!)—I had looked up at those towers of Ely from my boat: but a town from a river and a town from the street are different things. Moreover, in that time I speak of, the day years ago, it was blowing very hard from the south, and I was anxious to be away before it, and away I went to Lynn at one stretch; for in those days the wind and the water seemed of more moment than old stones. Now (after how many years!) it was my business to go up by land, and as I went the weight and domination of the cathedral filled the way before me.

Impressions of this sort are explained by every man in his own way—for my part I felt the Norman.

I know not by what accident it was, but never had I come so nearly into the presence of the men who founded England. The isolation of the hill, the absence of clamor and false noise and everything modern, the smallness of the village, the solidity and amplitude of the home and their security, all recalled an origin.

The little bullet-head men, vivacious, orderly, splendidly brave, we know that they awoke all Europe, that they first provided settled financial systems and settled Governments of land, and that everywhere, from the Grampians to Mesopotamia, they were like steel when all other races were like wood or iron. We know that they were a flash. They were not formed or remarkable at all before the year 1000; by the year 1200 they were gone. Some odd transitory phenomenon of cross-breeding, a very lucky freak in the history of the European family produced the only body of men who all were lords and who in their collective action showed continually nothing but genius.

We know that they were the spear-head, as it were, of the Gallic spirit; the vanguard of that one of the Gallic expansions which we associate with the opening of the Middle Ages and with the Crusades. . . . We know all this and write about it; nevertheless, we do not make enough of the Normans in England. * * *

Yet it is in England that the Norman can be studied as he can be studied nowhere else. He did not write here (as in Sicily) upon a palimpsest. He was not merged here (as in the Orient) with the rest of the French. He was segregated here; he can be studied in isolation, for, though so many that crossed the sea on that October night with William, the big leader of them, held no Norman tenure, yet the spirit of the whole thing was Norman; the regularity, the suddenness, the achievement, and when the short fighting was over the creation of a new society. It was the Norman who began everything over again—the first fresh influence since Rome.

The riot of building has not been seized. The place was conquered in 1070. It was a place of heavy foolish men with random laws, pale eyes, and a slow manner; their houses were of wood; sometimes they built (but how painfully and how childishly!) with stone. There was no height, there was no dignity, there was no sense of permanence. The Norman Government was established. At once rapidity, energy, the clear object of a united and organised power followed. And see what followed in architecture alone, and in what a little space of the earth, and in what a little stretch of time—less than the time that separates us from the year of Disraeli's death or the occupation of Egypt.

The Conquest was achieved in 1070. In that same year they pulled down the wooden shed of Bury St. Edmunds, "unworthy," they said, "of a great saint," and began the great shrine of stone. Next year it was the Castle at Oxford, in 1075 Monkswearmouth, Jarrow, and the Church at Chester, in 1077 Rochester and St. Alban's; in 1079 Winchester; Ely, Worcester, Thorney, Hurley, Lincoln, followed with the years; by 1089 they had tackled Gloucester, by 1092 Carlisle, by 1903 Lindisfarne, Christchurch—tall Durham. . . . And this is but a short and random list of some of their greatest works in these few years; some, though recorded, are not mentioned here. Hundreds of castles, houses, village churches are unrecorded. Were they not indeed a people? . . . And all their effort realized itself before Pope Urban had made the speech which launched the armies against the Holy Land. The Norman had created and founded all this before the Mass of Europe was urged against the flame of the Arab, to grow fruitful and to be transformed.

One may say of the Norman and of the Gothic what Dante said of Virgil and the Faith: Would that they had been born in a time when they could have known it!

CARPET BUYERS

For the next two weeks the Carpet floor of the Golden Lion will be the scene of busy crowds after rare bargains. July is the month for clearance of Carpet stocks—the time when we are compelled to pocket quick losses. All through the store real and radical reductions appeal to buyers, but nowhere more temptingly than in our Carpet Department.

The importance of this five weeks' sale is enhanced by the fact that manufacturers have just advised us of an advance of from 8c. to 10c. per yard—doubtless owing to the scarcity of the wool. If you want to save money on floor coverings put that and this reduced price list together:—

Best English Five-Frame Brussels Carpet—Eight good patterns to select from, 5/8 Border and 3/4 Stairs to match, worth to-day $1.35 per yard. Sale price, made and laid..... $1.17

REPORT OF LORD STRATHCONA.

Good Opening in Great Britain For Canned Eggs.

London, July 20.—The annual report of Lord Strathcona has been received, and will form the weekly report of the Department of Trade and Commerce for Aug. 9. The High Commissioner forwards extracts from the returns of the British Board of Trade which indicate a very gratifying development in Canadian trade.

Speaking of the butter trade, the High Commissioner says that it is generally conceded that the standard and quality of Canadian butter have been improved and the refrigerator service has likewise been found of a more satisfactory character. There is an increasing demand for apples.

The High Commissioner reports there is a good opening for canned eggs in gallon tins, for which the baking and confectionery trade are waiting. Quite a trade, which is capable of great development, has sprung up during the last year in bottled fruits. The report also speaks very highly of the samples of Canadian tobacco which have been sent over and examined by experts in London, who made a decidedly favorable report.

Sir Henri Taschereau.

London, July 20.—Sir Henri Taschereau says he is indignant that political capital is being made of the Dundonald affair. The Times is loaded up by Ottawa Tory sources, and a few Scotsmen are at the back of the whole agitation. He cannot see how the British Government, if alive to its own interests, can fail to recall Lord Dundonald before the end of the week.

THE RECALL OF LORD DUNDONALD

Announcement by the Secretary of State for War.

CONDEMNS HIS CONDUCT

Canadian Government Made No Representations—Liberal Party in the British House of Commons Approves of the Action of Mr. Arnold-Forster—Interesting Debate—Views of Canadians.

London, July 20.—(C. A. P.)—Lloyd-George, M.P. (Liberal), introducing the debate in the House of Commons, contended that Lord Dundonald's conduct was such as could not be encouraged in the future. After his dismissal Lord Dundonald had practically initiated an agitation against the Canadian Government. It was a purely political agitation with Lord Dundonald as the centre of it. The case was similar to that of General Buller, but there was a double reason why it should not be permitted in the case of Canada. It was grossly unfair and mischievous that Lord Dundonald should be allowed to stir up strife and feud between the two races in Canada.

During his speech Mr. Lloyd-George quoted from The Toronto Globe's correspondence in The Standard as proof that the Toronto speech was purely a political agitation. There was nothing more dangerous and pernicious if Lord Dundonald went to Montreal, where all the material was ready for a conflagration, and set a match to the material. General Buller only made a speech at a luncheon to defend his own conduct, and was practically dismissed. Lord Dundonald, on the other hand, made violent speeches in a political propoganda, accusing the Government of corruption. Lord Dundonald should be reprimanded both for his speeches and general conduct.

Winston Churchill, along with whom rose Arnold-Forster, the latter giving way, amid a scene of considerable commotion, seconded the motion, declaring that no motion for adjournment had greater reason behind it. Though Lord Dundonald considered himself right in making his protest, he could have done so in a less harmful way. He ought to have been at once recalled by the British Government. No one could deny Lord Dundonald was being exploited by the Opposition for party purposes. He deprecated prominent intervention by military officers in the party politics of self-governing colonies, where the position of an Imperial officer should resemble that which he bears towards the Crown in England. He wanted the Government to make it clear that they were in no way associated with the action taken by Lord Dundonald.

Winston Churchill said that Lord Dundonald's utility as a militia officer absolutely terminated at the publication of the correspondence and his dismissal, when he should have been ordered home. Instead, however, he had gone on a triumphal tour in the provinces, making scathing remarks about Canadian ministers, who were ministers of the King.

Arnold-Forster, Secretary of State for War, welcomed Mr. Churchill as the spokesman of the Opposition. This debate was not calculated to contribute to the public advantage. (Hear, hear.) The one question was that of discipline, of which he was in charge, and the other of the advisability of this debate. He saw no advantage that could arise from this debate except to make bad blood between two great branches of the Empire. (Cheers and cries of "Oh, oh.") He asked did Lloyd-George speak as the representative of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cries of "Oh.") No representation had been made by the Government of Canada, which was well able to take care of itself. (Opposition cheers.) The discussion would not tend to establish good feeling between the motherland and Canada. Lord Dundonald went to Canada as an officer of the Canadian Government, and no one imputed any misconduct to him other than want of judgment. Not being in agreement with the Canadian Government, the latter dismissed him at once. When he became an officer on half-pay he could stand as member of the Canadian Parliament and could not be deprived of the right to take an active part in public life. He believed it to be undesirable for any officer to take part in public controversies, and the War Office had informed Lord Dundonald that his conduct was undesirable and requested him to return, when he could be heard in his own defence. He had instructed Lord Dundonald to return home and not to take any further part in political controversies. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Arnold-Forster said Lloyd-George had spoken of the pain this controversy would cause Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, as he truly said, was one of the staunchest friends of the Empire in the time of its great struggle. Did Lloyd-George speak as the agent or representative of Sir Wilfrid Laurier?

Lloyd-George: I spoke as a member of the House of Commons, with as good right as the right honorable gentleman. (Opposition cheers.)

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman (Liberal leader) said it was a grave piece of bad taste for Lord Dundonald to act as he did, but Mr. Arnold-Forster had taken the course the Opposition approved in recalling him home.

T. Healy (Irish Nationalist) found no fault with Lord Dundonald, who was only attacking the War Office, but why was Lord Dundonald not recalled sooner, instead of six weeks after his dismissal? When was the order to return home conveyed to the noble Lord?

Mr. Healy believed Dundonald had attacked the Government of Canada because it was French and Catholic. It was very useful to have the French Catholics on the side of the British Empire in the Boer war, but was there ever an officer of the Imperial army who made partisan statements outraging the feelings of the majority of the people of Canada? He would like to know why Lord Dundonald was permitted to remain while his speech was rankling in the French heart. When was the telegram of recall sent. Yesterday the right honorable gentleman's subordinate knew nothing about it.

Lloyd-George offered to withdraw his adjournment motion, but the Government side insisted on negativing it, and this was done without a division.

Dr. Goldwin Smith.

London, July 20.—Dr. Goldwin Smith writing on The Manchester Guardian on the Dundonald affair, says the quarrel of Lord Dundonald with the Canadian Government is the last in a long series in the clash of opposite interests representing the Imperial need of armaments and the Canadian need of bread. He ridicules the necessity of providing defence fortifications along the frontier, adding that, to bid Canada arm against the States, you might as well bid Yorkshire arm against the rest of England.

TAKING THE VEIL.

Seven Young Ladies Admitted to Community of Loretto.

His Grace Archbishop O'Connor, assisted by Rev. Father Rohleder and Rev. Geo. Williams, received into the community of Loretto, seven young ladies, who took their first vows, and will wear the white veil until their novitiate is completed.

The Chapel of Loretto Abbey, in which the ceremony took place, was tastefully decorated and the ceremony was most impressive. His Grace Archbishop O'Connor delivered a short address to the young ladies on the life they are about to enter and what would be expected of them.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

RUSSIA TO DISAVOW RED SEA FLEET'S ACTION

Commander Misunderstood Orders — Russian Squadron After Japanese Vessel.

Tokio, July 20th. — The Vladivostock fleet was sighted to-day passing through the Tsugaru Straits in pursuit of a Japanese vessel, the name of which is not known.

Paris, July 20th. — It is learned from a high diplomatic source that Russia is prepared, at least in part, to disavow the actions of the Red Sea fleet, because, it is claimed, the fleet's commander, misunderstood orders.

STEWART HUGHES KILLED.

Striking Breech of Rifle Barrel the Gun Exploded and Ball Entered Forehead.

Winnipeg, July 20.—The mystery of the disappearance of Stewart, the nine-year-old son of Joseph Hughes of Ninette, who has been missing since Friday afternoon, was solved by finding his body in the woods about a mile from Ninette. On Friday morning the boy and a companion some years older than himself, were out shooting in the woods, and returning about 2 p.m. separated near the schoolhouse.

After leaving his companion, the boy started through the woods, carrying an old .22 rifle, the barrel of which was found near a stone on which he had evidently been striking the breech of the barrel in an attempt to dislodge a jammed cartridge thereby causing it to explode. The ball had entered his forehead.

THE NATIONAL IRRIGATION SCHEMES.

The adoption in Canada of irrigation as a means of reclaiming lands where the annual rainfall is often insufficient to insure crops lends a particular interest to what is being done in the United States in a similar direction, says the Globe. The problem in the two countries is not entirely the same. The lands which it is sought to reclaim in the United States are really arid lands, from which, without artificial means of moisture, no crops could be looked for. Our western lands, which it is proposed to bring under the influence of irrigation, are only semi-arid. There are years when the rainfall is quite sufficient for all purposes. Observation seems to justify the conclusion that a few years of sufficient rains are followed by corresponding years of drouth. Farming operations could scarcely be successfully maintained where a few years of plenty were succeeded by a few of scarcity. The remedy is seen to be in irrigation. In southern Alberta miles of canals have been dug, and still larger projects have been decided upon, and others are being studied.

In the United States the problem is being considered as a matter of national concern. Uncle Sam is still the owner of a half to nine-tenths of the total area of the western States and Territories. A great part of it has remained in the hands of the national Government because it was unsuited for anything else but grazing, and a great deal of it worthless even for that. The duty of reclaiming some of these lands by irrigation was urged on Congress for the past ten years, and two years ago appropriations were made and the work inaugurated. Gloomy prophecies were uttered as to the corruption and "grafting" which were likely to occur in administering the system. It was proposed that the work should be carried out as a branch of the United States Geological Survey. The survey has always enjoyed a high reputation for the character of its officials and the efficiency and probity that distinguish its work. Those who opposed the assumption of the work of reclamation by the National Government declared that the administration of these appropriations for irrigation by the officers of the survey would soon change the character and reputation which that branch of the service had always enjoyed. Mr. E. Smythe, an early advocate of Governmental reclamation of arid lands, writing in The Review of Reviews for July, declares that all these forebodings have so far not been realized.

Thirteen States and three Territories are embraced within the climatic influences that produce arid lands, and the problem of reclamation has been considered with reference to them all. Works have already been begun or planned in seven States and one Territory, and it is expected that the Idaho lands will be ready for the settler next spring. There has, of course, been some grumbling, but Mr. Smythe asserts that it has arisen because of the absolute fidelity with which the public interests are being guarded in carrying out the work. No position is filled because of the incumbent's politics or friends, but wholly because of his personal fitness for the work required of him. Work has been inaugurated wherever conditions seemed most favourable for achieving the largest results. Criticism has been levelled at the commission because it has turned down this or that scheme, but it has always been because scientific investigation has shown that the expectations were based upon incorrect knowledge or visionary hopes. Men talked of millions of acres being reclaimed where no human agency could procure or store water. The resistance to such impossibilities has not been the least part of the work. But they have been steadily and patiently resisted, and no scheme entered upon that did not promise both immediate and future returns. The plan pursued is to use the returns obtained from one work of reclamation to undertake another. If it succeeds a tremendous boon will have been conferred on the nation with comparatively little charge on the exchequer.

THE CRITICAL GIRL.

The critical girl may be pretty and clever, if not actually brilliant, a good conversationalist, and possessed of many estimable qualities, but you rarely find her popular. People rather stand in awe of her and her sharp tongue. If they are of the quiet, domesticated order, shy in society, but shining lights in their own home circle, they are afraid to open their lips in her presence almost, and have the uncomfortable feeling that she may be "taking them off." The critical girl may be unconscious of the fact that she is inclined to rub people up the wrong way. She is usually more than a trifle self-conceited and has an idea that she is capable of putting others right on any and every subject, and without knowing it she has drifted into the disagreeable habit of censoriousness. Instead of bestowing encouragement, sympathy or praise, on her friends, when they excel in anything, she pounces on their slightest short-comings and lays a somewhat rough finger on the weak spot of their armour. She is inclined to misjudge people also, and not content with misconstruing their actions, she proceeds to analyse their motives, while her own motives are not always wholly disinterested or even explicable to herself, far less to others who know nothing of the innermost workings of her own complex individuality. At home the critical girl finds fullest scope for the exercise of fault-finding. The members of the household are daily subjected to the lash of her tongue. Her younger sisters make themselves frights and are so untidy in their habits; her brothers forget to wipe their feet on the mats, litter their rooms with all sorts of rubbish, slam the doors and otherwise continually offend her susceptibilities.

The parents of such a daughter do not even escape criticism, and are not immune from her attempts at reformation. Her mother's method of house-keeping is too old-fashioned, her speech is homely and ungrammatical, her father's manners displease her fastidious taste, and so she goes on with her nagging habits, making dispeace in the home, earning an unenviable reputation, incurring antagonisms, and ruining her own nature by her fault-finding temperament. When she goes a visiting it is a difficult task to entertain her, for you cannot arouse her enthusiasm about anything. She simulates an indifference to everything in nature or art. She has seen better sights or finer pictures, and the cherished romantic traditions of some historic buildings she airly tears to shreds, and proves—to her own satisfaction—that they are but a myth or an old world superstition. Take her to a concert, and she is keenly conscious only of the discords and the false notes which jar on her sensitive nerves and ear; what others enjoy immensely she votes "dull," "thin," or interesting, and passes superficial comments on the performers in order to impress her superior musical knowledge for her friends. Invite her to hear your favourite preacher, and she criticises his appearance, his mannerisms, his gestures, and his sermon—until you wonder what on earth would elicit a word of praise from those fault-finding lips.

Now, readers mine, we all know girls of this type, who are constantly turning a microscope upon their fellows and their doings. Everything is subjected to the ever-ready mental glass, and all manner of imperfections are constantly being discovered. They remind one of the old lady who remarked:—"I suppose science is a great thing, and all these new-fangled fashions of investigating is useful, but seems like we haven't much peace at our home since John's taken to looking at everything through a microscope. The water ain't pure, the vegetables are inhabited, and all the wholesome, comfortable things that we've enjoyed and been thankful for all these years are discovered to have specks and spots, till 'most everything is spoiled." That's the worst of these carping critics—they take the gilt off everything, rob themselves of much that is pleasant and happy in life, and constitute themselves wet blankets on the enjoyments of their friends.

BRIGHT FOR CANADA.

New York Post.

This looks like a lucky year for Canada, and if she has many more such, she may get the idea that she has the whip hand on the United States. Nobody can tell what the size of our wheat crop will be in the fall, but at the moment the outlook is far from what could be wished. From Kansas comes the news that a "magnificent crop has been largely damaged by weeks of almost continuous rain." Similar reports are received from the Red River Valley and other regions, and President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern Railway, says that the United States will not raise more than 600,000,000 bushels of wheat, against the 664,000,000 bushels which had been looked for by experts, and against the 637,000,000 bushels harvested last year. The news from Russia is unmistakably bad, the fear of a wheat famine is becoming more acute. The Roumanian crop is in poor shape, and a heavy decrease in the Austro-Hungarian yield is now predicted. But the crop in Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest is expected to exceed all records; at least 77,000,000 bushels are predicted for Western Canada this year, and as high as 87,500,000 bushels may possibly be reached. In 1900 that region produced only 30,000,000 bushels. This year 3,500,000 acres are under cultivation, but it is reported that 171,000,000 acres are suitable for wheat. While our Republican politicians affect an air of condescension towards our northern neighbour, that lusty infant gives increasing promise of attaining proportions that will some day make us rub our eyes.

NERVES GAVE WAY— PE-RU-NA CURED

Mrs. X. Schneider, 2609 Thirty-seventh Place, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"After taking several remedies without result, I began in January, 1902, to take your valuable remedy, Peruna. I was a complete wreck. Had palpitation of the heart, cold hands and feet, female weakness, no appetite, trembling, sinking feeling nearly all the time. You said I was suffering with systemic catarrh, and I believe that I received your help in the nick of time. I followed your directions carefully and can say to-day that I am well again. I cannot thank you enough for my cure. I will always be your debtor. I have already recommended Peruna to my friends and neighbors and they all praise it. I wish that all suffering women would try it. I testify this according to the truth."—Mrs. X. Schneider.

Mrs. Fanny Klavadatscher, of Sunnitsville, N. Y., writes as follows:

"For three months I suffered with pain in the back and in the region of the kidneys, and a dull, pressing sensation in the abdomen, and other symptoms of pelvic catarrh.

"But after taking two bottles of Peruna I am entirely well, better than I ever was."—Mrs. Fanny Klavadatscher.

INCREASED SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION.

Large Factory Soon to be Established in Ottawa.

Information supplementing that given in yesterday's Examiner, stating that an ammunition factory would shortly be established at Ottawa, is supplied in the following despatch from that city to the Globe:

"The Minister of Militia has practically completed the negotiations which he has been carrying on for some time past with the celebrated English gun and ammunition manufacturing firm of Armstrong & Co., for the establishment and operation of cartride factories at various points in the Dominion.

"A contract is now being prepared and will be executed shortly, under which Armstrong & Co. will establish and operate at or near Ottawa a cartridge factory with a capacity of 20,000,000 rounds annually, when operated day and night. The capacity of the existing Government factory at Quebec is 24,000,000, so that the establishment of this factory will almost double the existing resources of the Dominion for providing ammunition for the militia force.

"Sir Frederick Borden has also made provision in the contract for the establishment of factories of similar capacity in Manitoba and British Columbia whenever required by the Department.

"The output of ammunition in Canada in 1896 was 1,200,000 rounds, last year it was 3,000,000, and this year it will be increased to 6,000,000 rounds. Under the contract provision is made for an immediate increase in the capacity to 44,000,000 annually, should the necessity arise to work the factory to full time, and a further provision is made by which as the necessities of the Dominion increase, owing to the filling up of the west, the capacity can be augmented to 84,000,000 annually, an amount calculated to fully meet the requirements of the militia of Canada for many years to come.

"Hitherto Canada has had to rely upon the old country for the supply of cordite necessary to manufacture her ammunition at the Government factory at Quebec. This, the Minister felt, was a possible source of weakness in the event of war, and he has insisted, as a condition of the contract, that the Armstrong Company shall manufacture their own cordite in Canada. The company has agreed to establish a cordite factory in order to meet the wishes of the Government."

PILLS AND PILES.

A prolific cause of piles is the use of cathartics and pills of a drastic, violent nature.

Followed by a reaction on account of the resinous, drying properties they contain.

There are other causes, but no matter what the cause or what the kind of piles, Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid can be relied upon to cure—to stay cured.

It's an internal remedy that removes the causes of itching, blind, bleeding or suppurating Piles.

A guarantee goes with each package containing a month's treatment.

It can be obtained for one dollar at James Lynch's, druggist, No. 166 Hunter street, Peterborough.

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease. 26

THE VALUE OF CLOVER CROPS.

Soil Moisture Conserved for Orchard Trees for Dry Season.

At the conference of Dominion Fruit Inspectors recently held at the Central Experimental Farm, Prof. Shutt gave a very clear and scientific explanation of the value of cover crops to the orchardist, of which the following is a synopsis.

Among the many advantages to be derived from the system of orchard culture which includes the growth of cover crops, we may cite as the two most important, the control of the soil moisture and the improvement of the soil.

CONCERNING SOIL MIXTURE.

Speaking generally, it is desirable that the soil moisture should be conserved for the orchard trees during the earlier months of the season. Up to, say, July 1st, the tree is making new growth and is transpiring through its leaves large quantities of water. Further, the swelling fruits is making its demands for water. For every pound of dry matter of leaf or wood or fruit, the tree uses at least 300 lbs. of water. Hence, in districts where droughts may prevail in spring or the rainfall be scanty, the importance of surface cultivation is marked. By this means an earth mulch is produced, and thus evaporation checked or prevented. The cover crop system allows of surface cultivation on soil moisture on the Central Experimental Farm for several years. Thus, May 6th, 1901, we found that there was 138 tons more water per acre, to a depth of 14 inches, in cultivated soil than in the adjoining plot carrying a vigorous growth of clover. The means that the latter soil contained one half the water in the cultivated soil. But grass sod is more exhaustive than clover sod. In 1902, from May to July, trials every two weeks showed that the soil in sod contained from 50 to 100 per cent. less water than adjoining soil in cultivation—the difference being at times over 200 tons per acre. The drought in the early part of 1903 emphasized these facts and showed most markedly the value of cultivation.

In the autumn, on the other hand, it is desirable that the water supply should be diminished, so that vegetative growth should be checked and the wood given an opportunity to ripen before the winter sets in. This is readily brought about by sowing the cover crop in June or early part of July.

LEGUMES FOR SOIL IMPROVEMENT.

The improvement of soils by the growth of clover or some other legume is affected by the addition of humus and nitrogen. Experiments go to show that by this means the soil can be enriched to the extent of 100 lbs. or more of nitrogen per acre—this nitrogen being appropriated from the atmosphere by the plant through the agency of certain bacteria that reside in the clover roots. It seems more than probable that a good crop of clover turned under will enrich the soil to an extent equal to an application of 10 tons of ordinary barnyard manure. Not only is that valuable and necessary plant food, nitrogen, furnished cheaply by this means, but humus forming material is added in large quantities, and this by its partial decay is particularly important in ameliorating the physical condition of the soil. And, lastly, the mineral matter stored up in the cover crop is finally set free in forms readily assimilable by the roots of the orchard trees.

TESTING DAIRY HERDS.

The Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, has for some time been recommending the establishment among Canadian dairy farmers of co-operative testing associations, somewhat similar to those which have had such a marked effect in increasing the milking capacity and reducing the cost of production in Danish dairy herds. Under the direction of the Minister of Agriculture, an object lesson along that line is now being given in the district about Cowansville, Que., with the Government Cool Curing Room as the centre where the testing is done and the records kept. Arrangements have been made whereby 83 farmers in the vicinity undertake to keep accurate records of the daily milk yield of each cow in their herds. Samples of both morning and night's milk are taken three times a month and tested for butter fat at the Cool Curing Room. The milk record sheets are collected monthly, and these are compared with the books of the cheese factories to which the farmers send milk, so that a fairly efficient check on accuracy is provided. Some 1,450 cows are concerned in this Cowansville cow census, which shows that the large dairymen of that district are alive to the importance of weeding out the unprofitable producers. This testing association is, as yet, merely in the experimental stage but if it works out satisfactorily, it will doubtless lead to a considerable extension of the movement.

ORMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Ormemee, July 19.

Yesterday was one of the warmest days of the season.

The crops are ripening up nicely. Fall wheat will soon be in.

The hay harvest is pretty well advanced, and excellent in every respect.

The 300 citizens arrived safely, all in good shape and sober and orderly from the 12th of July celebration at Peterborough. Ormemee claims the celebration next year.

The funeral was held this morning of the late Thos. Stephenson, aged eighty-two, who died on Sunday morning, after a prolonged illness of complication troubles, passing away very peacefully. The funeral was under the auspices of the L.O.L. brethren, with whom he has been a life member, and a good supporter and upholder of the Anglican church, also. The deceased engaged in mercantile business here in 1852, at the time of constructing the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton Railway, he was very successful, and a prominent man in municipal affairs. There is a widow, four daughter and two sons—Thos. and William—proprietors of the Ormemee flour mills, to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband and father. The funeral was one of the largest seen here for a long time.

FRENCH AND ENGLISH.

Business Incident Which Shows Each on an Equality in Canada.

Le Rappel of Montreal, has discovered racial intolerence in Hamilton, Ont., and gives a long account of the "proudly patriotic act," whereby it was dealt with by Rev. Father Benoit, Superior of the Canons of the Immaculate Conception of Notre Dame de Lourdes, Manitoba. The Rev. Father wrote to a well-known Hamilton house giving an order couched in French, and received the following reply:

Hamilton, Ont., April 29, 1904.

Dear Sir:

We have received a letter from you written in French; also one of our order sheets on which you have written: an "Iron Mitre Box $6.75." We would ask you to tell us what you wish us to do in reference to this, and would request that you write us in English, as we do not understand French.

Yours truly,
Stanley Mills & Co., Limited.

To which the French-Canadian cleric retorted as follows, needless to say, in French:

"I have just received your postal card of April 29, in which you ask me to renew in English the order I had previously given in French to your firm.

"My good friend, I shall send no further orders to your firm until I learn that you have an employe who can speak and write French. I shall further request all the superiors of our religious houses to adopt the same line of conduct.

"What! Frenchmen to-day travel all over England, and make themselves understood in their own language by every Englishman who has a smattering of education; and here in Canada, where politically and socially French is on an equality with English, must a Frenchman find a translator to give an order to a commercial house which floods the whole Dominion with its price lists?

"I assure you, my good friend, that I shall take my time about looking for a translator, and with all the respect that is due, I remain, etc."

Canning Peas and String Beans.

"Select tender green peas, shell and place in pint or quart jars within an inch of the top and fill the jars with cold water. Let them stand an hour, then fill up those that have settled and seal air tight. Make a frame of slats nailed together to fit the bottom of the wash boiler, set the jars on the frame and fill with cold water within two inches of the top of the jars. Boil for three hours after the water commences to boil, then take the jars out of the water and try each jar to see that it is perfectly air tight. Put away in a cool, dark place," advises a correspondent in the Woman's Home Companion, in which the following is also given for canning string beans: "String the beans and cook until perfectly tender in enough water to cover them, adding hot water if needed. When half done, salt slightly. Use only good tin cans. Rinse out the cans with hot water, pack the beans closely in the cans while very hot, cover with the liquor and pour a teaspoonful of hot vinegar on top of each canful. Dry the edges of the can thoroughly and seal. Fill only one or two cans before sealing, as they must be sealed while hot."

Owner of Stonehenge.

Sir E. Antrobus, who claims the right as owner of the land on which Stonehenge stands, has asked £50,000 for his rights, and the Commons and Footpath Preservation Society had offered what they considered a reasonable price—£10,000. The Attorney-General's fiat has been obtained, and the case is likely to come before the High Court in the course of the next few months. Mr. Bryce, M.P., said the case would have a bearing on rights of way throughout the country.—London Chronicle.

AT BISLEY RANGES

Canadian Scores in First Stage of the King's Prize.

STAFF-SGT. CROWE'S BIG WIN

Takes First in the Alexander Martin Competition and Gets Rifle Valued at £20 16s.—Two Canadians Make Possibles at the 900 Yard Range For the King's Prize—Winnings in Other Matches.

Bisley Camp, July 20.—In the Alexander Martin Competition yesterday, at eight hundred yards, Staff-Sergt. C. R. Crowe, of Guelph, took first place, winning a Martin match rifle, valued at £20 16s.

Staff-Sergt. Bayles of the 10th Grenadiers, was sixth, winning £2.

Pte. H. Tyers, of the Grenadiers, was eighth, winning £2.

Pte. A. Baynton, of the 48th Highlanders, took seventeenth place; Staff-Sergt. W. Mortimer, 10th Grenadiers, 24th place; Corp. R. McGregor, Ottawa, 26th place. Each of these latter won £1.

Keystone Burgundy.

In the Keystone Burgundy, a 1,000 yard match, Pte. H. Tyers was fifth, winning £2. Sergt. Mortimer, with eighth place, won a similar amount. Sergt. Bayles, with 10th place; Sergt. Crowe, with 11th place; Pte. Neil Smith, with 18th place; and Sergt. Davidson, of Montreal, with 29th place, each won £1.

Hour Glass.

In the Hour Glass Competition, at 600 yards, Canadians took the following places and prizes: 4, Pte. J. W. Smith, £5; 11, Pte. Smith, £2; 19, Sergt. C. R. Crowe, £1; 21, Pte. H. Tyers, £1; 33, Sergt. Davidson, £1; 35, Pte. T. Westman, £1.

Armourers' Company.

In the Armourers' Company match at 900 yards, the following were the positions of our men: 2, Major Moore, £6; 3, Corp. McGregor, £4. 5, Sergt. Bayles, £2; 7, Pte. Neil Smith, £2; 15, Pte. H. Tyers, £1; 10, Sergt. C. R. Crowe, £1; 27, Capt. Dillon, £1; 32, Sergt. Davidson, £1.

Prince of Wales.

In the Prince of Wales competition at 200 and 600 yards, the Canadians did not do so well. The following is their standing: 18, Pte. Neil Smith, £3; 14, Corp. McGregor, £3.

Alexandra Match.

In the Alexandra, at the same distances, they had better success. The following got into the prize list: 5, Pte. J. G. Goudie, £10; 28, Pte. H. Tyers, £5; 96, Major Moore, £3; 99, Pte. C. S. Scott, £3; 109, Sergt. Crowe, £3; 189, Sergt. Davidson, £2; 190, Capt. Anderson, £2; 228, Corp. McGregor, £2; 308, Sergt. Youhill, £2.

Secretary of State.

It looks as though the first prize in the "Secretary of State for War" competition was going to fall to a Vancouver man. Pte. J. Perry, of the 6th D.C.O.R., has scored 48 out of 50. The range is 800 yards. The first prize is £20.

In the "Secretary of State for War," Pte. T. Westman, of Ottawa, made 44; Sergt. W. Fowler, of the 12th York Rangers, 40; Major W. P. Moore, 38.

Kynock.

In the Kynoch Competition, at 1,000 yards, Major Moore succeeded in making only 38 out of a possible 50. A bicycle and 1,000 rounds of ammunition is the first prize in this match.

Shooting For King's.

In the "King's Prize" Competition Pte. Neil Smith, of the Essex Fusiliers, who has been doing things at Bisley, made a possible in the first stage at the 200 yards range.

"His Majesty the King's Prize" has never been won by a Canadian. It is the most coveted of all Bisley honors, consequently of all shooting honors in the world. To win it a man must excel at the 200, 500, 600, 800, 900 and 1,000 yards' ranges.

The King's Prize was instituted in 1901, replacing the "Queen's Prize," which had been given since 1860. The "Queen's" was won only once by a Canadian, that was when Pte. Hayhurst, of the Hamilton 13th, brought it home in 1895.

The winner gets £250 given by the King; the N.R.A. gold medal, and the N.R.A. gold badge.

Canadians at 200 Yards.

Shooting at 200 yards, Pte. Neil Smith, of the Essex Fusiliers, and Staff-Sergt. T. S. Bayles, of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, each made a possible. Other scores were: Baynton 29, Blair 32, Capt. J. Crowe 33, Staff-Sergt. C. R. Crowe 31, Davidson 32, Dillon 32, Gardner 34, Goudie 32, McGregor 31, Mortimer 30, Perry 31, Scott 30, Youhill 32, Fowler 29, Gould 20, Tyers 29, Westman 32, Moore 34, Will 32.

Besides the Canadian scores, there were 25 possibles at the 200 yards range and 60 cards were returned with 34.

Sergt. Fowler, of the 12th York Rangers, made 29; Sergt. W. Gould, of Guelph, made 30; Pte. H. Tyers, of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, made 29; Pte. Westman made 32.

In the "Secretary of State for War," Pte. H. Tyers scored 46 out of a possible 50.

WAR UPON THE DOGFISH.

Ravages of the Pest Discussed in the House—Rapid Progress Is Made With the Interior Estimates.

Ottawa, July 20.—The ravages of the dogfish on the smaller inhabitants of Nova Scotia waters formed the text upon which all shades of opinion in the House united yesterday, and if the discussion is followed up it bodes ill for that popular member of the shark family. One suggestion is the granting of a bounty for each dogfish caught, but Mr. Macpherson showed how private enterprise had restrained the pest in British Columbia, where the products had been used for oil and fertilizing. The House entered Committee of Supply at 5 o'clock, and as the hot weather appeared too much for the controversialists, estimates to the amount of nearly two and a half millions were passed for the Interior Department. The same program will be proceeded with to-day.

Answer to Colonel Hughes.

Sir Frederick Borden on the opening of the House moved for leave to lay on the table certain papers referring to the School of Musketry at Rockliffe, in view of the charges recently made in the House by Col. Sam Hughes. The latter said he had been informed that those attending the school were oppressed in various ways by having to act as servants of officers, pay large sums for board, etc. Sir Frederick read two letters from Col. Cartwright, Commandant of the school, to the Adjutant-General. These showed that there were no privates taking the course, that those who acted as officers' servants gladly did so to earn the extra money; that the proportion of officers' servants was much less than the regulations allowed; that the conditions regarding bedding, passes, etc., were reasonable, and as lenient as any camps, and that the officers attending the school had made a strong protest that Col. Hughes' statements were inaccurate and misleading.

Mr. R. L. Borden informed the House that Col. Hughes was absent attending a funeral, and would be here to-day.

Hon. Mr. Prefontaine's bill to amend the seamen's act, which stood for introduction, was dropped.

Taschereau and Dundonald

Mr. E. F. Clarke read a Canadian Associated Press cable in the evening papers quoting Sir Elzear Taschereau as stating in London that Lord Dundonald's agitation was fomented by a couple of Scotchmen, and that His Lordship would probably be recalled this week. Mr. Clarke thought if the cable was true it was not right for the Chief Justice to criticize the action of Lord Dundonald, who was only defending himself from unfair and unjust attacks. He asked if the statement was authorized.

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied that the Government could not assume anything to the disadvantage of the Chief Justice of Canada on the cable just read. Before forming an opinion they should get fuller information.

ESSEX WIND STRUCK.

Houses and Barns Unroofed and Barns Struck By Lightning.

Walkerville, July 20.—A cyclone swept over the county between Wolf's Motel and Walkerville Monday afternoon. Trees were uprooted and broken and barns demolished. The barn of Joseph Balliergeon, a Sandwich East farmer, was struck by lightning. The structure burned, entailing a loss of $400.

The house of Ernest Langlois, another farmer, was unroofed by the storm, but fortunately the inmates escaped harm. Four Windsor young men who were in the boathouse owned by Alexander St. Louis, on the river front, had a thrilling time. The storm ripped the boathouse to pieces. The party was blown into the river, where they remained throughout the hailstorm.

Drowned at Sutton, Que.

Sutton, Quebec, July 20.—The sad news has just been received from Knowlton that Harold Baker, son of Martin Baker, of this place, had been drowned in Bspok Lake yesterday afternoon.

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck, you cannot afford to trust it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissues, and revitalizes the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

Deaths From Heat.

New York, July 20.—The hot wave which struck the city Monday, bringing death and prostration, increased yesterday to the highest temperature of the year and added more victims to the list. Five deaths from heat occurred in Brooklyn between Monday and noon yesterday.

G.T.R. Telegraphers.

Montreal, July 20.—The G.T.R. officials, fearing that a telegraphers strike would be called, have made a personal canvas of the men, but matters are now in the hands of the Minister of Labor, who is applying the Railway Labor Dispute Act.

Deadly Rioting in France.

Cluses, France, July 20.—During a riot of strikers here Monday several shots were fired, resulting in the killing of four persons and the wounding of twenty-five. The gendarmes, who attempted to disperse the rioters, were stoned.

England's Only Woman Grave Digger Dead.

By the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Goose at Lewes, England loses its only woman gravedigger. On the death of her husband in 1879 she was appointed to carry on his duties at the Lewes Cemetery. She was 76 years of age.—London Daily Mail.

Statement Untrue.

Montreal, July 20.—Judge Winchester has arrived in Montreal to wind up the Grand Trunk Pacific alien labor commission, and take up the enquiry into the recent flood of Italian pauper immigrants which invaded Montreal. Sir William Mulock wired Judge Winchester in the following terms: "Have been asked in the House whether the statement of Mr. Griffith is correct that Grand Trunk or Grand Trunk Pacific was furnished daily with verbatim copies of evidence taken by you in connection with present enquiry. What are the facts?" To this Judge Winchester replied: "No evidence whatever has been furnished any one in connection with enquiry. I have myself only received certain portions of it on which to found my interim reports. Griffith's statement untrue."

Wife's Body in Fire Ruins.

Halifax, July 20.—William S. Robinson, charged with the murder of his wife, Theresa Robinson, on the night of May 25th, at Burlington, N.S., was brought before Judge Townsend, Kentville, yesterday. Robinson's house was burned to the ground and the remains of Mrs. Robinson found in the debris mutilated. Robinson, who was first at the scene of the fire, did not attempt to rescue his wife, but went to a neighbor's some distance away, and gave the alarm.

THE BRITISH SOLDIER.

Numbers, Nationality, Religion and Progress of Tommy Atkins.

The annual report on the British army, says The London Express, forms an elaborate statistical guide to the numerical strength, the nationality, the religious beliefs, the progress, and condition of recruiting of the British army. The report is only for the first nine months of 1903, because the decision of the Secretary for War that it should be rendered annually in future as from Oct. 1, instead of Jan. 1.

For the regular army the number of recruits enlisted in the period under review was 29,324, and for the militia 25,774, these figures showing a large diminution on the numbers in the corresponding period of previous years.

The falling off, however, says the Inspector-General of Recruiting, is easily explained. At the commencement of the year, in consequence of the special recruiting for the mounted corps during the war, practically all these corps were very largely in excess of the establishment. For this reason recruiting has been either partially or wholly suspended in the case of these corps during the whole period covered by the report.

The order that no recruit was in future to be accepted who could not produce a satisfactory reference as to his character and antecedents, also resulted in a diminution of numbers, and in March last year the standards of height for recruits in certain corps were materially raised.

Notwithstanding these restrictions, the regular army was on Oct. 1, 1903, 6,486 above the normal establishment, the figures being:

Actual strength..... 292,411
Normal establishment... 285,925

During the year some concessions have been made, the general tendency of which is to improve the position of the soldier. For instance, a third shirt is now supplied as part of the free kit of necessaries to every soldier.

Much is expected from the increase in daily pay, which took effect for the rank and file on April 1.

Arrangements have also been made for the free provision of artificial teeth in the case of soldiers who have incurred loss of teeth directly attributable to active service. The services of the two dentists experimentally employed in London and Aldershot have been continued for a further period. The results of the experiment have been such as to lead to the extension of the scheme, and an additional number of dentists have been appointed.

How preponderating is the representation of England in the British army is shown by the following table:

Englishmen..... 202,562
Scotsmen..... 22,442
Irishmen..... 51,467
Indian and Colonial..... 10,461
Foreigners..... 155
Not reported..... 266

The social status of the recruits in 1903 is shown in the appended summary:

	Per 1,000 Inspected.
Laborers, husbandmen, etc.....	674
Artisans.....	113
Mechanics.....	113
Shopmen and clerks.....	51
Professions and students...	8
Boys under seventeen.....	41
Total..... 1,000

A similar proportionate table estimates the educational efficiency of the would-be soldier'

	Per 1,000 Found Fit.
Well educated.....	67
Able to read and write.....	907
Able to read only.....	15
Unable to read.....	11
Total..... 1,000

Religious beliefs are tabulated thus:

Church of England..... 182,963
Presbyterian.....	20,139
Wesleyan.....	13,450
Other Protestants.....	3,232
Roman Catholics.....	44,119
Mahometans and Hindoos... ...	2,999
Jews.....	185

The percentage of deserters in 1903 among the regulars was 8.2. The Inspector-General of Recruiting regards this proportion as still too high, though it is hoped that it will be reduced as a result of the character system for recruits.

McMASTER BAND DRAWS CROWDS.

Murray Street Church Filled Last Night to Hear Young Men

Addresses by Messrs Buchanan and Hilts—Noon Meetings in Factories.

Last night in spite of the heat the Murray street Baptist church was crowded to the doors to hear the McMaster Evangelists, who are conducting a week's series of meetings in that church. The congregation was fully nine-tenths women, the male portion being decidedly in the minority. Last night in addition to the eight members of the Band, Rev. Mr. Quarrington, of Lakefield, late of McMaster, was on the platform. The quartette sang two selections, both of which were much enjoyed. The meetings are kept bright, and so long addresses are given to weary the audience. After the opening exercises, a hymn sung heartily by the whole congregation, and a prayer offerred by one of the Band, the quartette sang "The Beautiful Country," after which Mr. Buchanan spoke briefly, but pointedly on "Refuges—True and False." The speaker said that it is customary for people to provide themselves with refuges. These are provided in a time when they are not required, in order that they may be of service when needed. He remarked that while it is a common thing for refuges in temporal things to be provided, it was different when it came to spiritual matters, and procrastination though commonly indulged in was dangerous.

There are two classes of refuges, True and False. There are many false refuges, but only one true one—Jesus Christ. Many persons when asked to become Christians hide behind the inconsistencies of church members, which, he said, was a false refuge. What does it matter to you, said he, how any church member acts? All must answer for themselves before God, and all these excuses will count for nothing at the last day.

Many others do not become Christians for fear that they cannot hold out. This is another false refuge, for why should one be afraid when God rules the Universe? Paul was not afraid of this, declaring that nothing could separate him from God. The Bible says that we are held by the everlasting arms of God, and nothing shall pluck us out of His hand.

The third false refuge is that some are afraid that it is not in the decree of Heaven that she should be saved, and say, "If I am to be saved I will be," and do not offer assistance themselves. There is a human agency in salvation, and man must do his part. He urged his hearers strongly to flee from the false refuges, and seek the only true Refuge, Jesus Christ.

Following this address, Mr. McDonald sang, "Let Him Have His Way with Thee," with guitar accompaniment.

Mr. Hilts, another member of the Band, then gave a short address, taking as his text, "The Wages of Sin is Death." He said that in these times a great deal was heard about strikes in the industrial world. Some of these were justified, and others were not. There is one strike which everyone should go out on, however. This is a strike against the wages paid by the Devil to his followers. All that Satan gives for a life spent in his service is eternal death, which means a life of death for eternity. Contrast this with what God gives; the free gift of eternal life. We do not have to work for it; it is a free gift. God gives the best for this life and the best for eternity.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hilts' address the quartette sang, "Let Him In," and Mr. Cameron conducted the closing exercises, giving a short, earnest talk, urging his hearers to become Christians.

Results of the work were seen in a number signifying their desire to lead better lives.

Every day at noon the Band conducts service in one of the factories in town.

The Band has decided to remain until Tuesday evening of next week.

EXCURSION DELAYED.

C. P. R. Railway Bridge over the Canal Would not Work This Morning.

The C.P.R. railway bridge crossing the canal below the lift lock would not work this morning and as a result the Stony Lake could not reach the C.P.R. wharf to take on the passengers for the C.M.B.A. excursion to Burleigh Falls. The excursionists had to walk over to the Fifth Ward and boarded the boat above the railway bridge causing a delay of over an hour. About 150 took in the outing.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS INJURY

Mrs. Thomas Hooper the Victim of an Accident Yesterday.

About nine o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Thos. Hooper, of Otonabee, was the victim of an accident which might have resulted fatally. She was driving north on George street and when crossing the C.P.R. tracks, the horse became frightened at an engine standing close to the crossing. The horse shied and the carriage struck against an express waggon coming from the opposite direction. The whiffletree broke and the horse became detached from the buggy, pulling Mrs. Hooper over the dashboard to the ground. Fortunately she did not fall heavily and escaped with a few scratches and bruises on her arms, no bones being broken. The horse which is not a high spirited one, stopped as soon as the accident occurred.

PROGRESS OF THE STREET RAILWAY.

New Track Being Laid on George Street South of Smith.

George street, from Smith street south, now presents a very busy scene. About fifty men are engaged in building a new line of track for the street railway. On the section from Dublin street to Smith street, on George, the track was lifted some years ago, when the sewer was laid, and it was not replaced, thus necessitating the laying of new track now. Immediately south of Smith street a switch is being put in to allow cars to pass each other.

This is the first piece of new track that has been laid as yet in the rejuvenating of the system, though it is probable that extensions will be made when the old track has been restored.

The company is pushing the work as rapidly as possible and when the cars arrive the system will be ready for operation.

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED AT POLICE COURT.

Young Man Fined for Breaking the law—Another Case.

At the police court this morning, the young man who last week pleaded guilty to a charge of theft, was allowed to go on suspended sentence, after making restitution, and paying the costs, which amounted to $10.75.

Charles Clarke was charged with depositing night soil in a stream near McDonel street. He pleaded guilty and was fined $20, to be paid forthwith, and in default of payment distress, and in default of distress imprisonment for 14 days. The Magistrate said that he would make the fine a heavy one as the scavengers were well aware of the law in the matter, and if they were caught they must suffer the consequences. He hoped that this case would serve as a warning to others.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—A union prayer and praise meeting will be held in St. Andrew's this evening. Rev. J. G. Potter will give a short address on "The World's Gain through Universal Peace."

—The repairs to the C. P. R. swing bridge over the canal have been completed and the City of Peterborough will be able to make her trip to-morrow as advertised.

—Twelve large oil paintings, 20x30 inches, framed in 3 1-2 inch oak finish and gold frames, will be put on sale at 97 cents each on Saturday at the "Framery," 428 George street.

New Beans, Cabbage, Carrots, Beets, Lettuce, Onions, New Potatoes, Old Potatoes, Bananas, Oranges, Lemons, also a complete line of Groceries and Fancy Cakes etc., at Jas. R. Bell's, 161 Hunter street.

—The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. Albert Winslow, late of the firm of Ambrose and Winslow, proprietors of the Port Hope Brewery, will learn with regret of his death, which occurred at Kingston. The funeral took place yesterday in Port Hope.

—I have the only photographic views of the Lift Lock, showing the new steamer Stony Lake in three different positions in the Lock, viz., when entering, when in the Lock, when partly lowered. These and various other interesting views, showing the different features of the Lock, are for sale at the only ground floor studio, Charlotte street. W. G. Lendrum.

—The Northern Advance, published at Barrie, in reporting the 12th of July celebration there, says that the streets of the town were gaily decorated for the occasion, and never presented a brighter or more attractive appearance. Strings of pennons, streamers and flags, intermingled with mottoes, were artistically draped across the principal streets, and the Peterborough firm of J. J. Turner & Sons is deserving of the highest praise for the manner in which the decorating contract was carried out.

—Yesterday was a very warm day, and the general opinion seemed to be that it was about as warm as we get it. The oppressiveness of the heat was due, however, to the humidity, or dampness, in the air rather than to the high reading of the thermometer. Eighty-nine in the shade are the official figures. An illustration of the effect of humidity is also seen in winter. Extremely low temperatures are almost invariably observed when the air is very dry, and are borne with much less discomfort than when the thermometer may mark a comparatively moderate degree of cold but which may be accompanied with a damp east wind.

Over the Lift Lock and up the Canal.

Mr. E. Mann, of the Peterborough Planing Mill, will give his employees a free trip over the Lift Lock and up the canal to Mount Julian, Stony Lake, per steamer "Sovereign" on Wednesday, July 27th. A limited number of tickets have been reserved for the public at 75c each for the round trip, which may be had from Mr. Mann. Steamer leaves the wharf at 7 a.m. Dinner may be had at the Mount Julian Hotel. 4d

LATEST SPORT

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

The tournament in Toronto starts on either the 8th or 15th of August, and as Peterborough is to be represented there, it is time the rinks that propose to go should announce their intention. It has been suggested that a competition between them would be advantageous. Millbrook, smarting under their recent defeat is anxious for a return match and if Peterborough is to hold position, they will require to send good rinks.

The following games were played last last night:—

Mr. Constant	G. Meredith
L. A. Potvin	A. Talbot
D. H. Moore	J. McClung
W. J. O'Brien	Dr. McClellan
A. E. Runnels, sk. 7.	J. McIntyre, sk. 19.
W. E. Elliott	F. McFadden
R. Matchett	S. Sharpe
W. Lang	R. Sturgeon
W. F. Johnson	R. Kerr
S. T. Medd, sk. 18	E. W. Cox, sk. 16.
S. Munro	A. Laidlaw
M. R. Kidd	Dr. Kernaghan
Geo. A. Cox	G. K. Martin
G. E. Whiten, sk. 24.	R. Frost, sk. 7.

Games for to-night:—
Salisbury versus Armstrong.
Ferguson versus Lech.
Medd versus Giroux.
Stratton versus Greer.
Games for to-morrow night.
Waddell versus Frost.
Matthews versus McIntyre.
Frost versus Brooks.
Oke versus Runnels.

BASEBALL.

The directorate of the Toronto Ball Club has decided they are in need of a couple more pitchers, while the sporting public isn't so infernally sure the T. B. C. doesn't require a brand new team.—Telegram.

* * * *

This afternoon the Little Pirates defeated the Little Maple Leafs 13-0 in a four innings game. The batteries were White and Phelan and Maher and D. Morgan. Phelan is reported to have played a good game behind the bat. Maher made a good catch of White's fly.

FOOTBALL.

Locust Hill has offered the Toronto Scots, senior champions of Ontario, twenty-five dollars to play them at Markham.

LACROSSE.

The game on Friday between T. A. S. and Millbrook will be called at 6.30 o'clock. The Total Abstainers are taking no chances for this game, as a loss would mean a serious set-back in the race for the championship and a strong team will be placed on the field. The Millbrook team has been playing good lacrosse and can be relied upon to put up a stubborn fight.

LAWN TENNIS.

Last night two aspirants for the Tennis championship honours played a friendly game, in preparation for the championship games. Those interested are requested to remember the meeting to arrange the schedule to-night.

CLOSING DAYS OF Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

The Scribe Writes Telling of the Events of the Last Few Days.

Visitors From Town are Appreciated—A Baseball Game—Other News.

Monday, July 18th, 1904.

This bright, warm Monday morning brings us to within two days of the close of our camp and before you hear from us again we will have folded our tents like the Arabs and quietly stolen away.

Signs are not lacking to indicate that the end is not far off. The boys feel that the two weeks is too short altogether and that a month would be nearer satisfaction.

I think it was last Thursday since I wrote you, and much of interest has transpired since then.

Thursday afternoon proceedings were enlivened by the second game in the baseball league between the "Red Feathers" and "Cordelias". The former won their second game by 13 to 5 and an innings to spare. It looks as if the Indian fellows would be the victors. Each game has created considerable amusement to the spectators in the "bleachers" and although the umpire's decisions are always fair, yet it is hard to persuade the losing side of this fact.

Thursday night's mock trial was the most amusing feature of the camp thus far. Sir Max. Dobbin, with blue spectacles and gown, and seated on a high pedestal, acted as judge, and conducted the business in the most solemn tone of voice conceivable. The prisoner was Maguire, who was charged with allowing his beard to grow contrary to law. Although Crown Attorney Robinson made a strong case, yet the prisoner was ably defended by G. Hutchinson. Owing to the Judge being "unduly influenced" the verdict was against the prisoner.

Friday was visitors' day and it brought Mr. and Mrs. Madill, Mr. Jack MacDonald and Miss Dobbin, all of whom spent a very pleasant day with us.

Friday night a large bon fire was lighted directly in front of the tents and a concert held beside it. Cliff Mulligan proved a capital chairman. A mouth organ overture by E. Eyres opened the programme and one of the boys appeared dressed up as a Sandwich Island Cannibal and challenged Mr. Jackson, the man in the role of a minstrel to a duel which then took place. Both make-ups were almost perfect and provided roars of laughter. Yankee gave a recitation in sailor costume, one was also given by Billy English. Mr. Aplin read a humourous selection, and Mac. imitated the bag pipes. A clever feature of the programme was the first number of the "Camp Jollier" official organ of the camp. In a good natured way almost everybody from the cook to the walking boss were criticised or roughly scored. Our leader then gave a short address of farewell to Mr. Aplin, expressing how much his stay in camp had been enoyed. Mr Aplin replied and the pleasant evening was brought to a close with a hymn and prayer.

Saturday was a day which will be remembered in the history of our camps for it marked the opening of the "Chute" which with much difficulty, was built by Messrs. H. Hutchinson and his faithful Friday "Sandy". They both deserve unstinted praise for their persistent toil. The late arrival of the lumber, and the lack of sufficient of it—together with words of (comfort?) from some of the wise heads of the camp who never saw a chute or heard of one. All these only served to spur on the activity of the camp engineers, who must have felt no small degree of pride when the first descent was made about tea time on Saturday and everything worked without a hitch. It is strongly built and no chance is left for accident of any kind. It is a new feature which has been so successful and enjoyable that it will be permanent. Stan Fife and Eyers were the first to the trial trip.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Arthur Beall and Roy Webster, of Toronto, joined our party, while the Harrier allegation composed of Messrs. W. D. Campbell, Ross Dobbin, and W. Richardson came up on the evening boat, accompanied by P. G. Might. They were loaded down with good things for the camp, which received due attention in their course.

Sunday was another guest day. The Bible study was led by Mr. Might and Mr. Beall conducted the morning service.

A good five course dinner was soon disposed of and many of the boys spent a part of the afternoon enjoying the breeze on the point or in the woods.

During the evening an informal talk on Japan was given by Mr. Beall and before the boys retired they enjoyed a treat of chocolates at the hands of Mr. Campbell.

I think this is all for this time.

SUCCESS OF LOCAL IZAAK WALTON.

Mr. Thomas McDonagh Spends a Week at Campbellford in His Favorite Sport.

Mr. Thos. McDonough, the popular clerk at the Oriental, is spending his holidays at Campbellford, and while there is pursuing his favourite pastime. Tom is an enthusiastic disciple of Izaak Walton, an evidence of his success in this line being furnished this morning when he sent a nice assortment of fish to the Oriental, among them being a twenty pound lunge. Needless to say, his generosity was duly appreciated by those who partook of the delicious repast, which his gift provided.

To Take on Your Vacation.

Every boy should have a copy of "Henty" to take to camp or on his summer holiday. We have just received one hundred copies of Henty's works, and while they last will cost only 25 cents. Don't forget we have the best value in Hammocks. You may need a Purse or Wrist Bag, and we have them from $5 down to 25c., to suit everyone. A. H. Stratton & Co..

ST. ANDREWS PICNIC AN ENJOYABLE EVENT.

Excursion to Idyl Wyld Yesterday was well Attended.

Over 300 were Present—Winners of Races.

St. Andrew's Sunday School held their annual excursion yesterday to Idyl Wyld. Two boats, the City of Peterborough and the Sovereign, were chartered for the occasion and both were well filled, over three hundred being present. The outing was greatly enjoyed by all present, who appreciated the opportunity of getting away from the heat of the town and enjoying a sail down the river and the cool breezes of Rice Lake.

Idyl Wyld was reached about noon and dinner was served. Just after dinner a thunderstorm came up and lasted for nearly two hours. All were safely under cover, however, and when the rain ceased the day was a glorious one, just cool enough to make things pleasant. A programme of sports was run off under the management of Messrs. J. Gerrard, G. McBain and R. Ray. The prize winners were:—

Boys, 12 and under—Allan Wade, Norman Patterson.

Girls, 12 and over—Annie Girvin, G. Botsford.

Boys, 14 and under—Ernest Thornton, Allan Wade.

Girls, 14 and under—E. Kemp, Annie Girvin.

Boys, 16 and under—A. Wade, S. Wade.

Biscuit contest, girls—Maggie Reid, Millie Laferty; boys—Robbie Langford, Norman Lang.

Three-legged race—Stanley Wade and Norman Lang, Charles Thornton and Allan Wade.

Girls, 16 and under—Mabel Ray, Maggie Reid.

Wheelbarrow race—Norman Lang and Stanley Wade, W. Byers and N. Patterson.

Willing Workers' race — Maggie Reid, Mabel Ray.

Straw Hats—Fred Richardson, Hall Roseborough and Arthur Vanevery, a dead heat.

Young ladies' race—Mamie Menzies, Olive Kyle.

Boys' boot race—W. Byers, N. Brand.

Obstacle race—Stanley Wade, Allan Wade.

Consolation race, girls—Miss Matthers.

A start for home was made at 4.30 o'clock, the wharf being reached about 8 o'clock. The sail home was a most delightful one. Everyone pronounced the excursion to be the best yet held and those who had charge of the affair are to be congratulated upon its successful issue.

REV. J. C. DAVIDSON WAS ELECTED RURAL DEAN.

Meeting of Rural Deanery of Northumberland at Norwood.

A meeting of the Rural Deanery of Northumberland, comprising the counties of Northumberland and Peterborough, was held in Norwood on Monday and Tuesday.

Service was held in Christ church on Monday, with sermon by Rev. J. C. Davidson. There was a good attendance of clergy at the meeting, which was chiefly convened for the election of a Rural Dean, in succession to Rev. G. Warren, of Lakefield, whose term of office had expired.

A ballot was taken, on which the Rev. J. C. Davidson was elected, and his name will be transmitted to the Bishop for appointment.

Rev. E. W. Pickford, of Norwood, was elected as secretary in succession to Rev. W. L. Armitage.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the retiring Rural Dean.

KEENE CHRONICLES WEEKLY INSTALMENT

Gossippy Record of the Week's Events in the Valley Village.

The beauty and healthfulness of our little picturesque burg seems more than ever to be appreciated this week by foreigners who are here in scores, and who can blame them? The landscape is indeed beautiful, clothed in an abundance of variously tinted grain and luxuriant foliage of interspersed woodland, and between runs the winding river out to the wide expanse of Rice Lake with its refreshing breezes. It is indeed a spot to dwell in for a few sweet quiet days and then dream of and long for ever afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryce and children, who have been visiting friends here for two weeks, left for their home in Sherbrooke on Wednesday.

Mr. Lou Bolin, of Peterborough, is spending his vacation at home.

Mrs. M. Galvin, of Toronto, is visiting her father, Mr. C. Bell, for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bryce and children, of Toronto, are the guests of the former's father during the holidays.

Miss Maher, Miss Bella Maher and Miss Marguerite Nier, of Rochester, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Wallace for a couple of weeks.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. William Graham, who was injured at a barn raising on Friday last, is steadily improving, and that no permanent injury is likely to result.

Mrs. William Howson, one of the pioneer settlers of Otonabee, passed peacefully away, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. Pugh, on Saturday. The deceased, who was 86 years of age, had been ailing for some time. Her husband, who is 90 years of age, survives her, also four sons and one daughter. The funeral took place on Monday from the Methodist church, when services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Seccombe.

Misses Wilma and Isabel a Clark, of Lindsay, are spending a few weeks with their uncle, Dr. Shaw.

Mr. Herb Quinn, who has completed a course at the Peterborough Business College, leaves this week for Winnipeg, where he has accepted a situation.

Mrs. J. W. Henry and son, of Warkworth, are the guests of Mrs. Will Read.

Miss Wood, of Peterborough and her brother, Frank, of Toronto, were the guests of Miss Campbell, of Lakeview, a few days last week.

Miss Lizzie Powel, B.A., of Norwood, is spending a few weeks with her aunt, Miss Read.

Mr. and Mrs. Bushel, of Williamsville, and little son, William, are at the manse this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell and Miss Campbell, went to Ste. Anne's on the annual excursion.

Miss Seccombe, of Ontario Ladies' College, is home for the summer months.

Mr. F. R. Yokome, editor of the Examiner, Peterborough, is spending a few days in our village, the guest of Mr. M. Weir. Mr. Croyland Yokome is here for a couple of weeks.

Misses Gertie and Katie Roach, spent Sunday with friends in Westwood.

Mrs. Jas. Roach and Flora, are the guests of Campbellford friends this week.

The annual Union S. S. picnic was held on the 13th to Idyl Wild, per the City of Peterborough, and it was certainly one of the most enjoyable held this season. The boat left the wharf at 8.30 a.m., and reached Idyl Wild about ten. Games and sports were indulged in by the children during the afternoon. All were loud in their praise of the crew of the City of Peterborough, who did all in their power to make everything pleasant.

The hockey club intends having a moonlight excursion on the 29th per the steamer Sovereign.

A series of meetings are being held for the purpose of establishing suitable assembly rooms for young men. The ladies of the community are interesting themselves in the cause, but since the men have taken the matter in hand they seem to have over hit the mark, and can arrive at no definite conclusion. It seems to be plain that if the attempt should be made to turn the meeting into a religious matter that the young men will not fall in with the idea. It is quite clear that the young men need healthful, live recreation, suitable for Christian boys, where they can continue their social relations without being disturbed by any sectarian formalities. Let us have it by all means.

On Monday morning a party of excursionists left Keene for a visit to the huckleberry orchards of Harvey. The party was composed of Messrs. John Lang, M.P., Jas. Lang, sr., Jas. Lang, jr., Wm. Shearer, Andrew Shearer, Wm. Drummond, and the following ladies: Misses Mary and Bella Drummond, Miss Sarah Miller, Miss Jane Lang and Miss L. Shearer. They expect to return on Wednesday.

On Tuesday the following local representatives of the Masonic Order left on the morning Grand Junction train for Brockville, to attend the annual communication of the Masonic Grand Lodge: Bl. W. Bro. Dr. Shaw, P.D.D.G.M., V. W. Bro. Jas. McNeil, P.G.S.; W. Bro. Robert Humphries, W.M.; and W. Bro. Richard Hope, D.M., Keene Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 374. Miss McNeil and Miss Hope accompanied the party.

On Tuesday afternoon about one o'clock, Keene was visited by a very severe storm. The rain fell in torrents and was accompanied by very severe thunder and lightning, and a strong wind. Several trees were blown down or struck by lightning, and a number of fences levelled. There was some hail fell but it was not so severe here as farther south.

Miss Lena Cummings of Woodstock is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Will Read.

On Monday evening a meeting for young men was held in the hall. About fifty attended and a successful meeting was held.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.

Sturgeon Lake the Scene of an Upset Monday Night.

Lindsay Post.

Last night about 12 o'clock, when the cottagers at Graham's Landing, Sturgeon Point, were wrapped in slumber, Mrs. Robert Kennedy was awakened by cries of distress in the direction of the lake. She at once aroused her husband and he in turn awakened Mr. A. D. Kitchener, occupying the adjoining cottage. Without awaiting to dress and clad only in pajamas, the two men hurried to the shore, launched a boat and headed in the direction of the cries, which were repeated at intervals.

When they had rowed about 30 rods out into the lake a dark object loomed up ahead, which proved to be an overturned canoe, with a man and a boy clinging to its sides. The rescurers first lent aid to the boy, who was greatly exhausted, and their boat being small they decided to take the lad to shore and make a second trip but the man left clinging to the canoe saved further trouble by swimming to land after them. When he endeavoured to find his sea legs it became plain that his rolling gait was the result of his having a cargo of liquor aboard, and this no doubt accounted for the upset.

The man was Jas. Ward, of Kelly's Point, on the north side of the lake, opposite McConnell's Island. He and his son had paddled up to Fenelon Falls that afternoon and were returning when the mishap occurred. They were taken care of at the cottage of Mr. Kennedy until morning, and have reason to bless the wakefulness to Mrs. Kennedy, and the prompt action of their rescurers.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. BLAKE

NO IRISH PATRIOT HAS DONE NOBLER THINGS FOR ERIN THAN HE.

Freeman's Journal of Dublin Eulogizes His Recent Self-Sacrifice to Cause He Has at Heart—Former Canadian Statesman Always Gave His Compatriots Moderate and Sage Advice—Persistent Patriotism.

The Freeman's Journal of Dublin, in its issue of May 30th, says:

In the County of Longford we have evidence, the practical experience through many years, of what a faithful and devoted representative like Mr. Blake can become to his people, and how strong their attachment can, in the course of time, be to him. Mr. Blake's position in the Irish national movement is unique. He had been known in Ireland, no doubt, as a powerful Canadian friend of Home Rule before he actually joined the Parliamentary party; but it may be said that when he was first elected for Longford he was a stranger to its people. The people of Longford, however, soon found out the calibre of the man they had made their representative. He had been leader of the Liberal party in the great Dominion of Canada, but, as a member of the Irish Parliamentary party, he observed the rules of discipline which made that party so powerful in Parliament with as strict a punctiliousness as the rawest recruit to its ranks, who, through inexperience, might have feared making some mistake that would have brought down on him the censures of his leaders. That was the first characteristic of Mr. Blake that appealed to the electors of Longford, and to the people of Ireland. From the first he was prepared to shoulder his musket and to march in the ranks, if need be. He came into the fight, in fact, not for glory or gain, but for the deep and profound love he bears the country from which his forbears came. It was not in the nature of things, however, that a man of his commanding ability and long political experience should fail to influence profoundly the counsels of the party. From the beginning his advice was sought; it was always moderate and sane, but always firm and definite. He went through many miserable years with as quiet and firm a determination to see the Irish cause triumphant as if no catastrophe had ever occurred, hoping always that the dark days would soon pass. They did pass at last, and found the member for Longford still at his post, still giving to the benefit of the Irish cause in the English Parliament the weight of his influence and individuality. This persistency of patriotism was the second feature in the character of Mr. Blake that appealed to Longford and to Ireland. He had put his hand to the plough, and there was no turning back. And now he gives the final proof of his devotion to Ireland. In his speech yesterday to his constituents he referred to his recent illness, to the fact that the home of his children and his grandchildren is four thousand miles away across the ocean, to old age creeping in on him. "I have been convinced at last," he said, "that I can no longer do all the work that I used to be able to do, and that I have got to give up some of my work, and the choice was before me, therefore, whether I would give up the professional work with which I had been connected for nearly fifty years or the representation of this constituency. I have decided to give up the one and to stick to the other so long as you want me to stick to you; and, therefore, although with lessened energies, yet with a more concentrated use of those energies for the Irish cause, I hope, as soon as arrangements can be made, and in the course of the next year, to give my single attentions to those concerns which you entrust me to represent." This is a decision the self-sacrifice of which only those who understand the professional position of Mr. Blake can appreciate. From time to time Irish patriots have given up much for the love of Irish liberty, but never, we believe, has any Irish patriot, considering all the circumstances, short of giving up his life, done a nobler thing than this. Mr. Blake, a man who might to-day have been Prime Minister of Canada, gives up entirely a great legal position and large income rather than resign from the ranks of the little army that he rightly believes is keeping, through every criticism and every discouragement, the flag of Irish nationality flying. The people of Longford should be proud, indeed, to have such a member.

Mr. Blake's speech to his constituents covered the whole field of Irish affairs as they are at the present time. He dealt at some length with the question of land purchase, showing why it is that Mr. Wyndham's act has not been the success it might have been. First, the Government refused, and still refused the necessary amendments demanded by the National Convention. Secondly, the landlord has attempted to play the part of Shylock. "What the landlord," he says, "has been attempting to do is to obtain all the advantage gained by the use of British credit—this money being lent at a moderate rate of interest—as well as all the advantage of the bonus, and to suggest to you to take upon yourselves for the whole of your own lives, and for the lives of the children who live after you, certain fixed burdens as to which you will have an inexorable creditor, the Government of the country, whom you will have to pay to the day, and as to which the credit of all your local funds is charged for the default of anyone amongst you, so that the country, the locality and your neighbors go bail for the defaulters. They want to get all the benefit of that as well. You have therefore a long day to look forward to, and you have to make your bargain a fair and liberal bargain, but a bargain made with due regard to the inexorable nature of it, the length of its term, to the circumstances of agriculture, present and future, and to the consideration of whether it affords you a reasonable chance of seeing in your own day, if you are very young, or seeing, at any rate, daylight for those who come after you. Now, that is a question which is to be disposed of by yourselves, and there is nobody better able when the position is set before them to judge of it than the farmers of Ireland, but you must never forget that you have always at your back the old safeguard, unsatisfactory as it is, of the judicial rent. You are not shut up to buy on any terms the landlord demands, and to hold your hand may often be the best way, and to demand a second term may often be the best way of making a tolerable bargain." It is to be hoped that the farmers of Ireland will ponder these wise words. Mr. Blake had also some timely remarks to make on the question of the redistribution of grazing lands, on that of the laborers and the town tenants, and his references to Sir Horace Plunkett's schemes for doing away with the necessity for Home Rule will perhaps repay perusal as much as any other portion of his address. The speech is worth studying from beginning to end. It is the pronouncement of a statesman and a patriot, of a man to whom Ireland owes a deep debt of gratitude for wise advice in moments of crisis, and for an unsurpassable devotion to her ideals through all vicissitudes.

WHAT THE KING CANNOT DO.

Reservations of the Royal Prerogative in England.

It is a prevalent and popular notion that the power possessed by the monarch is absolute and almost without limitation. This is a fallacy, as the following facts will attest, says The London Hour Glass. The privileges and powers relegated to royalty are manifold and peculiar, but there are certain things that a king may not do.

While it is quite within the province of the royal prerogative to dispose of the entire army or navy, and also to declare war without consulting anybody, yet our King could not utilize a penny of the public funds without permission from Parliament. However excellent and beneficent his motive may be, for so doing, the King is debarred from communicating with any of his loyal subjects, and the same limitation prohibits him from accepting gifts from any of his people, except in cases where the offerings are presented through the medium of an officer of the state or an intimate friend of His Majesty. After an individual has been elected by his constituents to take his seat in the British House at Westminster it is not in the power of the King himself to prevent the member from occupying his place in that august assembly.

Of his own royal prerogative King Edward possesses full power to pardon a murderer, even after he has been found guilty and sentenced to death by the representatives of the law. Yet, by a curious statute of one of the Georges, the King is prevented from exhibiting mercy or grace to a wilful Sabbath breaker. To render every new law absolute and irrevocable the royal autograph must be invariably attached thereto, nor is His Majesty ever permitted to perform this duty by proxy. Even the salaries of the King's servants are fixed by state officials, and he cannot raise the salary of his own butler except by permission or out of his own private purse. That the King can do no wrong is obviously the view taken by his counsellors, for by the laws that hedge the throne no person can take action against His Majesty, and he cannot be arrested by the emissaries of the law on any pretext whatever.

Inmate's Legacy to a Workhouse.

At a recent meeting of the Birmingham Board of Guardians it was announced that a legacy, worth £150, had been left to them by an inmate of the Workhouse infirmary. This bald but interesting announcement has, on inquiry, ripened into quite a singular story.

The testator is a man of culture. Years ago he was a prosperous merchant, and executed large orders for helmets for the army; indeed, he once fashioned a Life Guards helmet for the King. He spent a good deal of time in traveling on the continent, and was an ardent student of French literature. He was, however, something of a misanthrope, and lost touch with all his relatives and friends. Of late years he has earned his living as a metal worker, but failing health and lack of energy caused his trade to leave him.

Lying neglected in a squalid lodging, the thought came to him a few weeks ago that he would be much better off in the workhouse infirmary, and a messenger was sent to the relieving officer. The official immediately decided that it was a suitable case for admission, and, incoherently muttering his feelings of gratitude, the old man was removed to the institution. The following day he called on the relieving officer, and handed to him his will, legally drawn up, leaving to the Guardians the deserted metal shop, with its plant and fittings, his books, and a sum of money, the whole of which, it is estimated, will result in £150 being available.

The old man told the relieving officer that he was very comfortable where he was, and that he wanted to pay for the comforts he was receiving during the few brief weeks which remained for him.

Fatal June 3.

The tragedy of a day is revealed in the following notice published by The London Morning Post on June 3, 1904:

Murray—In loving sacred memory of my husband, Houble. Sir Charles A. Murray, 3 June, 1899; of my child Cecil Henry Alexander Murray, 3 June, 1899, and of my mother, Dowager Lady Castletown, 3 June, 1899.

THE PLAINS OF ABRAHAM.

Major Woods' Description of the Battle in His Recent Book.

In his recent work, "The Fight for Canada," Major William Wood, of the 8th Royal Rifles, Canadian Militia, secretary Quebec branch of the Navy League, president Literary and Historical Society, Quebec, thus describes the Battle of the Plains:

The bad example of the Canadians was presently followed by the French, and a scattered fire broke out at some two hundred paces. It was a hurried, nervous, and undisciplined attempt to shake the British at long range before closing in on them for the final charge. And it was all in vain. There stood the long, straight, two-deep line, with shouldered arms—a steadfast, living wall of red, flashing defiance from its steel-pointed crest of bayonets—magnificently silent, yet eagerly waiting to seize the long-despaired-of-chance to fight it out fairly, hand to hand, on equal terms, and in the open field. Closer and closer came the densely massed attacking line of battle, its officers leading it on with the utmost gallantry to the very last; but with its far right and left both melting away as the Canadians sought their familiar brushwood cover and its French battalions themselves breaking it asunder as they instinctively bore outwards from the centre to save their deserted flanks for a double overlap of fire and steel. And soon even these tried veterans lost heart a little when they began to near the narrow forty paces where they had to meet that silently expectant line in the death-grapple which was to decide the fate of half America. They still came on, however; though now their thronged white ranks only surged forward a few steps at a time and broke again and again in wild bursts of impotent flame and smoke, like baffled waves off a reef-protected shore. And as they came, Wolfe's straining eye was measuring every pace of the fast closing interval—a hundred—seventy-five—fifty—forty—"Fire!"—and the first volley thundered from the Grenadiers, being instantly followed by another one from each battalion all down the British line. So perfectly delivered were these famous volleys that they sounded like single discharges of artillery, and so truly aimed that the whole front rank of the enemy went down, almost to a man, before their terrific storm of bullets.

Mastodon Found in Ice.

James H. Startman, popularly known as "Slim," who, with Joe Oates, returned to Nome recently from a search on the Koyukuk for Midas Creek, affirms with great deliberation that, in a sort of ice cave, about five miles from the Koyukuk River, a huge mastodon rests enshrouded in a sheet of ice. Startman avers that he accompanied a number of natives to the cave, and, while he did not obtain the exact dimensions of the huge beast, he convinced himself that the extinct animal was there in a good state of preservation. Startman's story is confirmed by Oates, who states that the natives of a village about 400 miles above the Koyukuk's mouth, showed him a lot of mastodon's hair, about five inches long, coarse in fibre and brownish in color. The natives alleged that it was found in the cave, and through an ice-coat of three or four feet thick, the monster of primeval ages could be seen.

Sowing the Seed.

The colporteurs of the Upper Canada Tract Society during May sold 1,774 copies of Scriptures and religious books on their many journeys throughout Ontario.

The Sailors' Rest, or "Snug Harbor," is now fully open for the sailors in Kingston, and will be a great boon to such men. Hearty thanks were received by the directors at a recent meeting in Toronto from Central China for the annual grant of $500, which keeps 70 native Christian Chinese colporteurs at work in the great Provinces of Hunan and Hupeh.

Last year these men sold no less than 328,000 Chinese books of many kinds, and 4,000 copies of the Scriptures, with 31,000 Portions of the Word of God. Well might the Rev. Dr. John say at the late annual meeting in Hankow, "Our best thanks are due to the Religious Tract Society of Upper Canada for its valuable help."

DIZZY SPELLS AND DYSPEPSIA

Soon Disappeared When the Nervous System was Set Right by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street Peterborough, Ont., states:— "For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of the use, I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 1

His Awakening

By M. Louise Cummins

Copyrighted, 1904, by T. C. McClure

Lucy Grierson knocked at the door of her Cousin Royce's "den," holding a bundle of letters and papers which she had just taken from the maid.

In answer to a deep toned, muffled "Come in," she entered the snug bachelor room, with its rows of bookshelves, and stood for a moment contemplating the sleek, dark head and square shoulders bending over the desk.

He threw an impatient glance over one shoulder at the interruption, but swung around with clearing face when he saw who it was.

"Say, Luce," he said eagerly, "how's this for an idea? The hero is desperately in love with the heroine, who cares nothing for him. In his despair he remembers the old college professor who always helped him out of his dilemmas and forthwith goes to him for advice. The professor, who is an indefatigable microbe hunter and has been for years trying to discover the germ of love, thinks with glee that in this unusually bad case is his chance. After much research he finds the love germ and carries it carefully to his laboratory. But a sportive soph lets it loose among the 'co-eds,' with the disastrous result that every one begins promiscuously to fall in love with every one else. Of course the heroine gets inoculated and falls in love with the hero."

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

The germ of melancholia and paresis,
But my reputation's lost
If I can't, at any cost,
Describe the germ of love in my great thesis.

"How's that?"

"Great!"

She smiled encouragement with appreciative eyes and lips, but the light died from her face as he swung back to the desk, waving the paper hilariously above his head. She bit back a sigh between her teeth and, laying the bundle of mail beside him, turned away.

"Don't go." Royce was bending over his papers and did not look up.

"Won't it disturb you if I remain?"

"No; it will help me; it always does. I think you are my inspiration."

The blood flashed to her face so suddenly that she was thankful he did not look up and see it. She sank into a big leather chair before the open fire and took up a magazine. Speed, Royce's fox terrier, got up from the rug, stretched himself lazily and jumped upon her lap. The young man lifted his head and looked across at her sideways.

"What a picture you make!" he said meditatively.

The girl gave an unconcerned shrug to hide the suffocating beating of her heart in her throat. It was terrible to her, the suggestion of domesticity in their attitude, and to think it meant nothing to him beyond the fact that in the cosy setting of the "den" she made an artistic picture.

Royce was deep in his work again, scarcely conscious of the fact, when she rose and left the room in answer to a ring at the bell and the maid's knock. He heard the soft pitpat of her feet as she ran upstairs a few minutes later and then the clash of the front door.

Having finished the professor's soliloquy he rose and strode into the drawing room just in time to see Lucy being helped into a high dogcart by a fair faced individual in immaculate light overcoat and dogskin gloves. The horses pawed the air when the diminutive tiger left their heads and sprang into his place. Royce had a glimpse of Lucy's bright face as it was lifted to her companion's. How entirely in her element she looked! He turned away from the window, his foot tripping in a rug, which he kicked savagely back into place. "Confound those things that are always catching in people's feet!" Well, here was another day wasted. That stuff he had written was rot. He strode back into his room and tearing the sheets in two flung them into the waste paper basket. Then he threw himself wearily into the chair which the girl he called cousin, because he had known her all his life, though the tie between them was remote, had so lately occupied.

How pretty she had looked sitting there in the fire light! What could she see in that empty headed numskull that she should care to go driving with him? Was she, after all, one of the girls to whom a well weighted pocketbook atoned for any mental lack?

He recalled the evening before when after a hard day's work he had wandered into the drawing room where Lucy sat playing a sweet, illusive little melody of Chaminade's. Again the feeling of supreme content in being thus alone with her, with no words between them but the soft, tender chords, came over him. Suppose this tailor's block of a man should carry her off to a home of his own? Suppose she should be willing to go? He got up and paced through the rooms, his mind in a whirl of fear.

He met the girl in the hall when she

The Start

In married life is generally made on an equal footing of health in man and wife. But how soon, in many cases, the wife loses the advantage and fades in face and falls in flesh, while her husband grows even more rugged and robust.

There is one chief cause for this wifely failure and that is, the failure of the womanly health. When there is irregularity or an unhealthy drain, inflammation, ulceration or female weakness, the general health is soon impaired.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"A little over a year ago I wrote to you for advice," says Mrs. Elizabeth J. Flaher, of Diana, W. Va. "You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and with the most happy result. I was troubled with female weakness and bearing-down pains. Had a very bad pain nearly all the time in my left side, nervousness and headache. Was so weak I could hardly walk across my room. Could not sit up only just a little while at a time. My husband got me some of Dr. Pierce's medicine and I began its use. Before I had taken two bottles I was able to help do my work. I used three bottles in all and it cured me. Now I do all my housework. It is the best medicine I ever used."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

GOING TO LAW.

Some Pertinent Figures and Also Some Pertinent Facts—People Seem to Be Getting More Litigious.

Sir Walter Scott, who was fond of the learned professions, tells us that the clergyman lives on our sins, the doctor upon our diseases and the lawyer on our mistakes. If we want a commentary upon the matter, we have it once a year, straight from the pen of Sir John Macdonell, a master of the Supreme Court, who, in a somewhat leisurely manner, but with great ability, prepares for the nation the statistics relating to the civil courts of justice. We have here in black and white what the nation pays as the price of that delightful hobby known as going to law. And yet the bill of costs is incomplete. Many cases are settled out of court, yet not without an expenditure of cash, while, in the instances where the quarrel is fought to a finish, the costs which appear in these returns do not by any means include all that the unhappy litigants had to defray.

But let us to figures. The judicial statistics now being published apply to the year 1902, when no fewer than 1,410,484 proceedings were begun, excluding all criminal affairs. This is a record, and should be set against 1,358,587 for 1901. The statistics only refer to England and Wales, so that reckoning five to the family, we discover the cheerful fact that about one household in every four has been so enlightened as to appeal unto Caesar. The number of cases heard and determined was 472,041 in 1902, as compared with 456,242 in 1901.

It therefore seems clear enough that we are as a people becoming rapidly more litigious. Now this may be due in some measure to the legislation sanctioned year by year, in a Parliament which is largely composed of lawyers who live by the statutes they vote for. For instance, the Education Acts have led already to about 20,000 cases coming into court. Company law, in which none of the parties are the absolute owners of the property under discussion, is also full of benevolent obscurity.

Now the cost of all this quarreling is not to be measured in pounds, shillings and pence. No sum of money adequately compensates for worry, for it is nevertheless significant that the bill for 1902 rose to £1,-562,975 10s. 7d

These actualities lend peculiar point to the conviction, so ardently pressed by the Society of Friends, that it is wrong for the Christian to go to law. The basis of this belief is, of course, to be found in the New Testament, and it forms part of the more general plea for non-resistance which may be summed up in the phrase, peace at any price. In the days when the practice of Quakers was at least as strict as it is at the present time, it was yet found possible for them, while eschewing all litigation, to carry on immense businesses, including especially the conduct of banks.

But the freedom from litigation is due also to another cause. The Society of Friends is a community devoted to the ideal of exactitude. It is almost the only denomination with absolutely precise statistics of attendances at Sunday schools. Its pedigrees are a wonder of accuracy. Similarly, at each point of a private negotiation, the true method is first to deal fairly and secondly to deal in language which admits of only one, and that the intended meaning.

Litigation is the ultimate outcome of the friction caused by carelessness or overcharging. I have heard lawyers say that they spend most of their time persuading clients not to go into court, and such advice is always the act of a friend. But, of course, if men and women are to get on without incurring the penalty of the law, they must remember that there is no room in this world for lost tempers. Revenge always costs dearly, and there are few more expensive luxuries than spite. Whatever may have been the limitations of George Fox, his conceptions always produced an atmosphere in which a petty temperament could hardly survive.

It must be assumed that this attack upon the law court involves either the extinction of the lawyer or the abolition of law. The amateur will and testament is a very dangerous thing, and it would be well clearly to understand that many documents can only be drafted by an expert. Indeed, it frequently happens that two friendly parties are compelled to ask the court to decide upon the meaning of some dubious phrase upon which neither dare act without authorization. The solicitor especially performs an indispensable function when he enters as a third party into the discussion of a transaction and reduces to exact terms the real intention of his client. The very fact that such a process means the facing of all eventualities is often sufficient to prevent an imprudent step.

Lawyers are thus the best preventive of the litigation out of which they chiefly make their fortunes. But there will always remain situations where competing rights or claims must be adjudicated. It is with personal as with international affairs—we must sometimes go either to war or to The Hague. Now, in every such case, there is to be found an equitable solution, if such solution is the real aim of the rivals. And in nine cases out of ten it is cheapest for both sides to agree to the compromise. Conciliation never yet ruined anyone; and by conciliation I do not in this connection mean arbitration—which I am told is not so effective at law as it is in politics.

One may add also that these remarks hardly apply to litigation in the divorce court, which is rapidly increasing, and can only be reduced by improving the morale of the nation as a whole. Nor have I spoken of the cases which involve public authorities and vast institutions like railways. Here unfriendliness does enter, and an open court is almost the only way of arriving at the truth. A good deal of law has after all to be made by the judges.—London Daily News.

Fight With a Lion.

Details of a terrible encounter with a lion in Mashonaland are to hand by the last mail from South Africa. An Englishman named Nicholson, accompanied by his Zulu servant, sighted the animal lying on top of a stony ridge. With a view to testing the theory that a lion will, if boldly approached, turn tail and run, Mr. Nicholson advanced until he was about ten yards from the ridge, while his Zulu made a flank movement. As the lion was about to spring, Mr. Nicholson sent a bullet from his Snider rifle into the lion's shoulder, and right through its body. With an angry roar of pain, the beast sprang, and a blow from the pad of its paw sent Mr. Nicholson rolling down the slope some twenty feet. On rising, he witnessed a display of extraordinary pluck on the part of Job, his Zulu servant. Without the least hesitation, the native, carrying a shield and two assegais, made straight for the great brute, and when it sprang at him, received it on the shield, and thrust an assegai into its chest. But Job fell, though fortunately under his shield. Mr. Nicholson then jumped to the rescue. Drawing out his clasp-knife he severed the tendons of one of the beast's hind legs, and once more the lion attacked him, and threw him clean over its head. Then it turned upon the Zulu, but Mr. Nicholson succeeded in cutting the tendons of the other hind leg. This completely disabled the brute, which raved and roared till Job, who had been roughly mauled and was covered with blood, gave it the coup de grace with two thrusts of his assegai. The plucky Zulu had to undergo repairs; Mr. Nicholson was only slightly damaged.

WROUGHT IRON.

Its Decorative Possibilities, Especially in Artistic Grills.

The decorative possibilities of iron have come to be well appreciated in this country, this metal having been put to a great variety of uses for the decoration of the home. Lamps, candlesticks, door hinges and escutcheons, fireplace furnishings, screens and decorative grills for doors and windows are among the articles made of this ductile material.

Iron when heated to a certain degree may be hammered to a wonderful thinness and twisted by hand into curves and spirals of great beauty. It is this quality that gives it character and an individuality lacking in the cast metal. Hand wrought iron is expensive because it is hand wrought and must not be mistaken for the cheaper product, cast iron.

In no class of work is the ductility of iron so well shown as in artistic grills and screen work. The grill shown in the illustration is mentioned as an excellent example of simple yet artistic design by a writer in the Ladies' World, who says: A clever worker might carry it out in line by using the ready prepared iron ribbon work, which may be found at shops dealing in materials for the so called Venetian iron work. The resulting grill will be lighter in effect, but it will be pleasing.

The design may also be worked out in heavier iron by the establishments that do this sort of work, and there are quite a number in our great cities that make this their business.

Where a door or a window screen seems to be too high and narrow to present good proportions a grill set in at the top is an artistic recourse. A wrought iron grill, backed by rich orange silk, makes a very decorative feature and accomplishes the desired result.

Mrs. Parsons of Peterborough, is visiting friends in the village.

WARSAW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Crops of all kinds show signs of yielding abundantly in this locality, and in preparation for the large harvest expected some of the farmers are erecting larger barns. Mr. Wm. Spencer is erecting a fine structure to replace the one destroyed by the storm of last year. Mr. N. Payne has built a large addition to his barns, while Nathan Bell is building a barn on solid concrete foundations, so our people are "pulling down their barns and building greater."

Regrets are expressed by all at the departure from our midst of Mr. William Campbell and family. Mr. Campbell has been in charge of the Warsaw Steel Roller Mill, and in this capacity he has won the favour of both his employer and the general public. He received an offer of a good opening at Woodville. Mr. Mason has secured the services of Mr J. C. Hamilton of Goderich, as miller. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell made hosts of friends while here and are taking with them the best wishes of all.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson and his family have gone for a month's vacation.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Rev. Battisby, whose illness was noticed last week, is recovering.

Mr. Robert Mathews, our enterprising boot and shoe man, is erecting a verandah in front of his store.

The Lynn Bros. are beautifying the exterior of their store by a coat of paint.

Mr. A. F. Choate is also completing a similar job on his departmental store, which he began last year.

If all who have gone north in search of whortleberries should be successful we may expect pies and puddings for days to come.

DOURO PICNIC.

The results of the drawing for prizes at the Douro picnic are as follows: The articles were a wheel, a set of scales and single harness. Mr. V. Eastwood, of Peterborough, got the wheel on ticket No. 81; Miss M. Towns, Douro, the scales, on No. 554; and Mrs. D. Conroy, Peterborough, the harness on No. 562.

RUSSIANS TREATED AS ARMED PIRATES

Britain May Treat Russia's Red Sea Cruisers as Such.

BRITISH ADMIRAL'S VIEWS.

Cannot Permit Merchantmen to be Molested by Vessels Which Cannot be Admitted to be Men-of-War—Prompt Action Expected—The Public is not in the Mood for Trifling—Losses at Motien.

London, July 20.—Once again the leading English newspaper editorials are in the gravest tones on the Russian seizure of British vessels. Even the conservative Standard declares that the nation looks to the Foreign Office to take more effectual action than the ordinary conventions of diplomatic intercourse prescribe.

"The case is not one for fastidious treatment. If nothing is done officially to relieve the painful strain, the irritation of this country may grow into stubborn resentment. We cannot, even for the sake of peace, sit down under a series of undisguisedly provocative measures."

A similar warlike tone pervades almost every other paper. The Morning Post says Great Britain cannot tolerate the seizure of the steamer Malacca except by the abandonment of her self-respect as a great power.

The paper declares that either the volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg is an armed pirate or Russia has violated the Treaty of Paris.

Admiral Fremantle's View.

Admiral Sir Edmund Robert Fremantle, in The Daily Chronicle, says "The crisis no doubt is grave, but I hold that our safest course would be at once to inform the Russian Government that our cruisers have orders to prevent our merchantment being interfered with by vessels which we cannot admit to be men-of-war, and to request that their proceedings be disavowed, and that they be immediately recalled to Russian ports after their prizes have been released."

"Palmerston," says The Post, significantly, "would not have required half an hour to make up his mind what to do in such a case."

All details in connection with the seizures of ships by the Russian volunteer fleet of steamers are printed in the most prominent type. No such bitter feeling has been aroused in the English press since the German Emperor's telegram to the Boers.

Intense Apprehension.

Intense apprehension prevails at Cardiff and other British coal ports, and the chartering of vessels for the Far East is practically at a standstill.

From all sides come urgent demands that the Government take swift action to prevent a recurrence of seizures by the volunteer fleet.

"Russian Piracy," as one paper heads it, takes precedence of all other news.

The Daily News declares that the Cabinet yesterday drew up a strongly worded protest which will be forwarded to St. Petersburg. The Cabinet, the paper says, had an interchange of views with the Admiralty and a program of action in the case of eventualities was decided upon. It was decided also to protest to Turkey.

Another Cruiser Goes.

London, July 20.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Mail, in a despatch dated July 18, says: "A Russian cruiser has just passed through Odessa with several guns covered with canvas on her deck. She also carried torpedo tubes."

Russians Lost 2,000.

General Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, via Fusan, July 20.—More Russian troops were engaged in Monday's battle at Motien Pass than in previous engagements. There were probably double the number of those which took part in the fight at the Yalu River, while opposed to them were only one brigade and one battalion of the Japanese forces. The Russian loss is estimated at 2,000. The burial of the dead continues. The Japanese casualties aggregated 300. The engagement has conspicuously demonstrated the wonderful efficiency of the Japanese infantry. They proved incomparably the better marksmen, with more initiative, and they outfought and outgeneraled the Russians on every point.

Japanese Losses Were 299.

Tokio, July 20.—The Japanese losses in the fighting at Motien Pass and its vicinity Sunday were 299 killed or wounded. The Japanese lost four officers and thirty-nine men killed and fifteen officers and 241 men wounded. The casualties all occurred in the second division. Gen. Kuroki mentions, but he does not enumerate, the trophies captured. He estimated the Russian losses as exceeding his own.

When the Russians finally retreated, they were pursued by the entire Japanese line. Seven battalions of the enemy made a halt on the heights of Tawan and with four guns checked the Japanese pursuit.

Japs Fought on Without Officers.

The attack on Hsiamatang began at 8 o'clock in the morning. A battalion of Russian infantry and a squadron of cavalry assaulted the Japanese company on outpost there. The Russians received reinforcements until they were a regiment strong. The Japanese resisted doggedly. All their officers were either killed or wounded, but still the men fought on. The Japanese finally received reinforcements, and the Russians retired at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

That Fake Again.

Che Foo, July 20.—A junk with eight Russians and fifty Chinese on board arrived here yesterday afternoon, five days from Port Arthur. The Russians refused to talk, but the Chinese say that on July 11 and 12 the Japanese captured and occupied with 4,000 men one of the eastern forts near Port Arthur. Before reinforcements arrived the Russians cut off the 4,000 troops in the fort and exploded mines which resulted in the killing of every Japanese soldier there.

Russian Cruiser Sunk.

St. Petersburg, July 20.—A story has been going the rounds that three cruisers rejected by Germany were transferred to the Russian service, and joined the Vladivostock squadron. One of the cruisers and a torpedo boat, it is added, struck mines and went down. The story is not confirmed. The Admiralty has no news of any vessel having been lost at Vladivostock.

After the Japanese.

Tokio, July 20.—The armored cruisers Rossia, Rurik and Gromoboi of the Russian Vladivostock squadron, passed through the Taugaru Strait into the Pacific Ocean to-day.

The Liver to Blame.

So long as the liver is active in filtering the bile from the blood there is no biliousness and no constipation, because the bile is passed from the liver into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic in keeping the bowels active. Because of their direct action on the liver as well and the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cure constipation, the real cause of nine-tenths of the common ills of life.

THE BIG STRIKE OVER.

Packers and Men Get Together and Agree to Arbitrate.

Chicago, Ill., July 21.—The strike of packing house employes, begun nine days ago, and which has demoralized the packing industry throughout the country, was settled here last night at a conference between representatives of the packers, the officials of Meat Cutters' Union and representatives of all the allied trades employed at the stock yards. The whole controversy will be submitted to a board of arbitration, both sides agreeing to abide by whatever decision this board may reach.

Pending the decision of the arbitration board, the men will be taken back to work as rapidly as possible by the packers, and it is agreed by the packers that all the old employes are to be reinstated within forty-five days from the date work is resumed. If any of the former employes are still unemployed at the expiration of that time, such persons are to have the privilege of submitting their cases to the arbitration board for settlement.

Factories Poorly Equipped.

Toronto, July 21.—The report of the Ontario factory inspectors, which was burnt in the big fire, has been reprinted and issued. The accidents in factories last year were 897 in number, and of these 21 were fatal.

Miss Carlyle calls attention to the very insufficient ventilation supplied to the female workers, especially in winter time, the effect on the health of the girls being disastrous. The temperature is also kept too low in some places, 42 degrees being registered in one factory.

GREAT BRITAIN'S STRONG PROTEST.

Will Not Tolerate Seizures of Merchant Ships.

RUSSIA WILL CALL A HALT.

Czar's Attitude Shows She is Already Preparing to Recede From Her Position—British Press Lauds Lansdowne's Prompt Action and is Already Talking Openly of War With Russia—In the Far East.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—Sir Charles Hardinge, the British Ambassador to Russia, yesterday afternoon, in behalf of his Government, presented a strong protest to Russia against the seizure in the Red Sea and detention of the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca, which was carrying 300 tons of British Government stores for the naval establishment at Hong Kong, each case of which was marked with the broad arrow, which is the Government stamp.

Detained at Port Said.

Port Said, July 21.—The crew and passengers of the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca, seized by the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St.

ADMIRAL DOMVILLE.
Commanding British Fleet Heading for Red Sea.

Petersburg, in the Red Sea, have been landed here. The ship is detained by the authorities, who are waiting instructions before taking further action.

Malacca's Crew Prisoners.

The captured Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca (bound for Libau on the Baltic) has arrived here manned by a Russian naval captain, four officers, forty-five sailors and firemen.

Members of the Malacca's crew were declared prisoners and no communication with the shore was permitted. An armed guard blocks the gangway of the vessel.

The British captain and passengers complain of the Russian treatment. The former carried his protests to such length that he was threatened with arrest unless he desisted.

The Malacca is declared to have no contraband articles for Japan. Her cargo of 3,000 tons contains 40 tons of explosives for Hong Kong.

Lansdowne Worthy Britain's Trust.

London, July 21.—"Lord Lansdowne," says The Daily Telegraph, voicing the views of the Government, "has faced the situation created by the abuse of the right of search in the only manner worthy of a British Minister compelled to defend the interests of British commerce and the honor of the flag, and acting with unhesitation, firmness and promptitude, will recall the strongest days of national policy, he has justified the trust of the country.

"While not one rash word should be said which could have the effect of increasing the tension of an anxious and dangerous interval, it would be futile to disguise the character or to minimize the risks of the situation which has arisen. We hope and believe that a solution of the difficulty may still be found in the withdrawal of Russia from its false position.

Certainly Obvious.

"It is obvious if the volunteers passed the Dardanelles as merchant vessels they cannot be allowed to scour the Red Sea as warships. The doors of the Black Sea must either be open or shut. If open to warships they must be so to all warships. If the Russian fleet is to be permitted to emerge in violation of treaty provisions, the British fleet must be allowed to enter upon these terms.

"It is no secret that we have not been unwilling to remove the existing veto of the Dardanelles and enable those straits to be traversed by the navies of all nations."

War With Russia Contemplated.

Every other London morning paper devotes its leading editorial to a similar view of the situation. War with Russia is openly contemplated by the most staid papers of the Empire, and a contingency much to be regretted, but nevertheless inevitable for the honor of the nation unless reparation be made for what is alleged to be a dire insult to the British flag.

The Czar Displeased.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—The Associated Press has just been informed that Emperor Nicholas, in an interview with Count Lamsdorff, the Foreign Minister, expressed his displeasure at the turn events had taken, and at the possibility of complications with Great Britain, arising out of detention of British ships by the Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red Sea. This Pacific attitude, if the report be correct, will doubtless lead to an immediate and amicable adjustment.

More Volunteers For Red Sea.

London, July 21.—The correspondent at Odessa of The Standard, telegraphing under date of July 20, says another steamer of the volunteer fleet proceeded thence last night, to Svastopol for coal and armament, preparatory to leaving the Black Sea.

Two of the remaining five volunteer fleet steamers there will follow very shortly.

SUNK A JAP STEAMER.

Vladivostok Squadron Appears Twenty-Five Miles From Hakodate.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The Japanese Legation has received the following cablegram from the Foreign Office at Tokio: "At 9.30 a.m., July 20, the Vladivostock squadron fired on and sunk a Japanese steamboat of 318 tons, off the coast of Isoya, about 25 miles from Hakodate. All the crew were landed safely at Zesan."

Raid Japan's Coast.

Tokio, July 21.—The Russian Vladivostock squadron, unaccompanied by torpedo boats, entered the Pacific Ocean yesterday at seven o'clock. Its destination is unknown, but it is suggested that it will flank the east coast of Japan, and then either return to Vladivostock, escaping to the southward, or attempting to form a junction with the Port Arthur fleet.

Land Fight on July 18.

London, July 21.—The Standard's correspondent with the first Japanese army cabling under date of July 19, says: "Our right flank has been engaged since morning."

The correspondent of The Times with Gen. Kuroki's army, under date of July 19, confirms The Standard correspondent report that the right flank of the army had been fighting since dawn.

The China Mutual Steam Navigation Company's steamer Pakling is believed to have been seized in the Red Sea. The Pakling sailed from Middlesbrough, England, June 18, and London, July 2, bound for Yokohama. She is a British-owned vessel.

RUSSIANS WILL PAY THE DAMAGES

Offer to Make Reparation for Detention of the Malacca.

An Assurance from the Russian Ambassador—The British in Thibet.

Special C. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.

London, July 21—Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador at a conference with Foreign Secretary Lansdowne yesterday afternoon assured the latter that his Government had no intention of infringing on the rights of any neutral power and that if a mistake had been made in the seizure of the Malacca, unquestionably this steamer would immediately be restored and damages would be paid.

Lyangtse, Thibet, July 21.—The British mission to the Thibet, under command of Col. Younghusband, on July 18th, forced a passage of the Iceclad Karola, the highest pass on the road to Lhassa. The British are now 92 miles from Lhassa.

SUBSTITUTES FOR STATUTE LABOR.

The Brantford Expositor has noted the fact that many townships throughout the province have done away with the statute labour system of maintaining roadways, and have commuted the work thus done at a fixed rate per diem. Money can be handled to much better advantage than can the statute labour, and what is more it can be expended at the most favourable time of the year, and where it is most needed.

One road overseer or commissioner is appointed for the entire township, or, if desired, the township is divided into a convenient number of divisions for road purposes, usually two, three or four, and a road commissioner appointed over each. This practically amounts to a reduction of the number of pathmasters, and the enlarging of the road beats. To merely commute statute labour and retain the former number of pathmaster, giving each a small amount to spend, means a perpetuation of most of the defects of the statute labour system.

The duties of the road overseer are thus described in the report of the Commissioner of Highways for 1904:

(a) To supervise all work and repairs done on the roads and bridges within his division.

(b) To acquaint himself with the best methods of constructing and of maintaining good roads, and of operating graders and other road machinery used by the township.

(c) To employ, direct, and discharge all men and teams, required to carry on the work and to purchase necessary materials.

(d) To see that all washouts, drain and culvert obstructions, bridge failures, and other unforeseen defects are repaired or protected, with the least possible delay, so as to prevent further injury to the road or accident to the users of the road, and to act promptly in all cases of emergency.

(e) To report to the council early in each year as to the work required the coming season, to carry out the instructions of the council with regard thereto, and to perform such other services as may be required of him from time to time, under the written instructions of council.

(f) To collect the poll tax in his division.

(g) To keep an accurate record of the employed and the work done, and to furnish this written form to the reeve at proper intervals, in order that the reeve, upon being satisfied with the correctness of the statement, may issue cheques for the payment thereof.

(h) To stake out all works, and see that they are undertaken systematically, so that no time will be lost in taking men, teams and machinery from one part of the township to another.

(i) To supervise the performance of all work done by contract, and certify as to completion, acting as inspector for the township.

(j) To supervise the opening of snow roads under such regulations as, in the opinion of the council, the needs of the township may require.

(k) To report to the council at the close of each year, showing in detail the character, location and cost of each separate work undertaken.

(l) Works, the cost of which will exceed a certain fixed amount (ordinarily from $10 to $20, as may be determined by the council) may be let by contract to the lowest satisfactory bidder, but in the event of any work being duly advertised to be let by contract, and the tenders being too high, in the opinion of the commissioner or the reeve, it should be the duty of the former to undertake the work by day labour under his own direction.

The annual road appropriation is made from the general funds of the township, this to be used for the purchase of tools, machinery and materials, for small jobs and contracts, for more permanent work on heavily travelled roads, providing gravel or broken stone, for doing special work on hills and cuttings, and the more general class of improvements that are of service to the township as a whole.

The residents of the township are employed to do the work, provided they come properly equipped, and will do a fair amount of work, preference being given to the ratepayers of the division in which the work is being done, in order that as many as so desire may have an opportunity to earn back the amount of their commuted statute labour.

CANADA SHOULD HONOR THE BLACK WATCH.

Canada shou'd especially honour the famous Black Watch regiment, or Royal Highlanders, the band of which will be at the Peterborough Industrial Fair September 26th, for to them, perhaps more than to any other regiment in the British service do they owe the preservation of their country. In many of the battles, both of the Revolution in the United States and in the capture of Canada, they played a prominent and most gallant part. Here, for instance, is a little quotation from the wife of the Red Comyn given in Grant's "Legends of the Black Watch": "The old Gentleman had served in the 42nd Highlanders, or old Black Watch, in early life, and could spin to us endless yarns of the bloody affair of Ticonderoga, where the regiment had no less than six hundred and forty-seven officers and soldiers killed or wounded; the siege of the Moro, and the 'caiping, flaying alive, the tomahawking, and other little pleasantries incidental to the relief of Fort Pitt in 1763; and of that devilish business with the Red Indians amid the swamps and rocks at Bushy Run, all of which were 'familiar in our mouths as household words'; while, to the venerable narrator the smell of gunpowder, the flavour of Ferintosh, or the skirl of a bagpipe were like the elixir vitae of the ancients, and seemed to renew his youth, strength, and spirit for a time; and thus the fire of other years would flash up within him, like the last gleam of a sinking lamp, as we sat by our bogwood fire in the long winter nights of the north."

IN KAWARTHA . . LAND . .

BY A SOJOURNER

There is a tendency in these latter days to extol Canada as a fit place for the investment of capital, and a place where the rich man may speedily become richer and poor man may win a competence. We expatiate on our mines and our timber, our ranching and agricultural possibilities, and the opportunities our country affords for mercantile and manufacturing enterprise, and at times, too, there are not wanting the voices of those who would exploit us as a fine field for the consumption of cartridges.

Now, all this is right and proper, with the exception, possibly, of the last item in the enumeration.

But there is one pre-eminent merit possessed by our Dominion—and especially by our own Province—which has never been sufficiently emphasized, and that is the desirability of this country as a land to live in. And such is our territory in extent and variety that no taste or want within the bounds of reason need be left unsuited or unsatisfied.

Some seventy miles by rail, eastward and northward, from the capital of the Province, we reach a thriving town noted for its educational progressiveness and for the skill and enthusiasm with which its citizens direct over the glacial floor, the heavy stone, rounded and flattened, smooth of bottom, and with a handle fixed in the upper surface.

Here we embark upon a fine steamer, and after sailing for an hour down a sort of Stygian stream with an unmelodious aboriginal name we enter a beautiful sheet of water (known to some few as Lacus Acipenseralis,) cross it, and on its northern shore, near its western extremity, we land at Promunturium Acipenserale, so denominated by our scientific friend, who seems to have an insuperable aversion to the local terminology.

On this point of land, just where the lake takes a turn towards the north, some three score or four score families have their aestival habitations among the dark green oaks that clothe the shore. And surely no fairer site could have been chosen for a summer settlement.

It is very heaven to sit there in the golden afternoon, with the weary brow fanned by a cooling breeze just strong enough to rustle the oak leaves and ripple the gleaming waters of the lake. And in that lake's blue depths are finny denizens—bass and maskinonge—of a size and strength that would have made the heart of good old Izaak Walton leap for joy, and impressed upon that piscatorial authority and enthusiast the necessity of securing stronger tackle than any he ever used in whipping the fair trout streams of Merrie England.

But to view this noble landscape from a proper vantage point we must wend our way along woodland path and country road for the distance of a parasang until we reach the summit of a lofty, specular hill, which we shall call the Mount of Vision. Then what a panorama lies spread beneath our eyes! For twenty miles in every direction we can gaze upon a lovely vision of hill and valley, field and forest, lake and stream.

In the foreground on the right are wide stretches of luxuriant clover with its fragrant perfume, and the "murmur of innumerable bees," on the left a herd of sleek and well-fed kine, knee-deep in pasture. Beyond the road the man with the hoe is busy extirpating the occasional noxious weed or thistle from the rich green rows of the promising rutabaga field. How vastly different this wielder of the aureulum from the, weird and sorrowful creation or interpretation of Edwin Markham. When resting from his easy toil he stands erect in stalwart manhood, his height four cubits, twice seven stone his weight, strong and hopeful as beseems the lord of such lands with the prospect of so bountiful a harvest.

In the near sunny distance, the billowly wheat fields, lemon-tinted on their way from green to gold, rise and fall at the kiss of the summer zephyr, as if bending beneath the step of a fairy, and resilient from the momentary pressure as she passes on her shining way.

Farther away to south and west are the sparkling waters of the lake, bearing on its bosom steam pleasure yacht, gasoline launch, and white-winged sail boat. Yonder toils a tug puffing loud protestations as she hauls her load of logs and lumber from the pretty bustling village of Cataracta Fenelonensis, as the learned man of our party insists on calling it. Ten miles in the other direction, towards the eastern end of the lake, from amongst the islands, and almost-islands, comes the steamer that brought us hither, faring on the second of her bi-diurnal voyages to the town at which we embarked.

Then the eye rests upon the beautiful wooded southern shore, with many a rich green field studded with clumps of trees, deciduous or evergreen, sloping away beyond, a veritable home of modern peace.

High in the blue heaven cloudlet chases cloudlet across the sun's smiling face, while on the earth their shadowy phantoms follow one another in rapid succession over the sun-bathed surface of forest, lake and field.

As a glorious place simply to dwell in, this district is not so well known as it ought to be. It is doubtful whether of its kind there is a finer landscape in America. It has all the salubrity of atmosphere, all the sylvan beauty and picturesque charm of the Georgian Bay region and Muskoka, without the rocky ruggedness of the former or the dark brown water and faint suggestion of unfruitfulness of the latter.

The nearest approach in extent and soft, picturesque beauty, to this portion of the Kawartha country is some English landscape, for example, that which we feast our eyes upon looking northward from the White Horse Hill, over the fair broad valley of the upper Thames. But even that scene lacks the rich variety of lake, forest and stream that characterizes this delightful region. We hear of one place and another spoken of as the Garden of Ontario, but this locality has charms unequalled, all its own. It is the park land, par excellence, the paradeisos of the province.

It needs only a better acquaintance with the soothing and healing influence fo this happy valley to make it a Mecca for multitudes of men and women who would fain withdraw for a time from the dust and din of the city, from the brain-weariness and heart-weariness and the bodily exhaustion of the overstrenuous business or professional life, from the monotonous and unsatisfying round of the social treadmill, from "the passions and cares that wither life and waste its little hour."

The cheese factory is in active operation. From 1,000 to 1,200 lbs. are being manufactured daily, and if facilities were provided this quantity could be increased.

The crops in this vicinity are excellent this year, and the farmers are feeling correspondingly jubilant.

Mrs. Irwin, who has been spending a month with her father, Mr. James Young, has been very ill, but is now on the road to recovery. Mr. Irwin arrived from Winnipeg yesterday.

Lumbering is being carried on very extensively at present in this vicinity. the Rathbun Company having four or five camps working. Hemlock is being cut, and the bark sent to Coe Hill, the logs being held until next spring, when they will be floated.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from Chronic Diarrhoea for ten years, and during that times I tried various remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well, and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favour of that wonderful remedy." This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

Hit By a Trolley.

Berlin, July 21.—Henry Weber of St. Clements, had a narrow escape from death by being struck by a street car here last night. As it is, he lies at the General Hospital suffering from serious injuries. One thumb was severed, his left leg dislocated, in addition to which he sustained an ugly gash in the head.

Overcome By Heat.

Belleville, July 21.—Rev. George R. Boamish, rector of St. Thomas Church, this city, was overcome by heat at a Sunday School picnic Tuesday, and found unconscious under a bush. It was feared that serious results would follow, but now his recovery is hoped for.

By Cyclone and Fire.

Kendal, July 21.—Samuel Scott, a former resident of Kendal, but now of the Northwest, was storing away a cutter in the barn some days ago, when suddenly a cyclone raised his barn from its foundation, also his house, and carried them for nearly half a mile, finally throwing them down. A fire, which was in the stove at the time, set fire to everything.

Canadians Win.

London, July 21.—(C.A.P.)—The Canadians defeated the Dunfermline bowlers Tuesday by 115 to 62. In their game with Edinburgh yesterday, the Canadians stood 16 to 24 for Edinburgh, when rain stopped the game.

Devlin's Position.

London, July 21.—(C.A.P.)—Charles Devlin, M.P., refused to introduce the Dundonald incident in the House of Commons, on the ground that the Imperial Parliament had no right to interfere with Canadian matters.

Will Close Saturday.

Hespeler, July 21.—The Canada Woolen Mills will close their works on Saturday.

TALK TO YOURSELF.

Why are there so many "don't feel well" moments? What is the cause of these aches and pains? Can I banish them?

When you don't feel well your stomach is not well. That is when the ills of the body commence, and they will never end until the stomach is made right. When the stomach is wrong the whole body is liable to go wrong—Poisonous formations are thrown into the circulation in too great a quantity for the other organs to resist—Nerve tissue poisoned—Sleepless, excitable, nervous, heart irregular, headache, kidneys overtaxed, backache, kidney pains, liver clogged, constipation and bowel trouble. You can end these afflictions by helping the stomach with ANTI-PILL. It is just what a deranged stomach needs. You can prove for yourself by addressing Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for a free trial bottle. Regular size 50 cents (a months treatment).

TO STOP DUMPING.

Chamberlain Commission Reports on Iron and Steel Decline.

London, July 21.—The report of Joseph Chamberlain's tariff commission on the iron and steel trades arrives at the conclusion that the decline of the British iron and steel industry is due to the fact that the manufacturers of America and Germany have secured control of the home markets by means of high tariffs and an organized system regulating their export trade; that they are in a position to dump their surplus products on the British and other markets, irrespective of cost, and that the dumping could not be carried on except for the British system of free imports. The committee expresses the opinion that the situation can only be remedied by a system of tariffs arranged as follows:

(1.) A general tariff consisting of a low scale of duties for foreign countries admitting British wares on fair terms.

(2.) A preferential tariff, lower than the general tariff for the colonies, giving adequate preference to British manufacturers and framed to secure freer trade within the British Empire.

(3.) A maximum tariff consisting of comparatively higher duties, but subject to reduction by negotiation to the level of the general tariff.

Good Digestion.

If you can keep your digestive system in proper condition the body will be well nourished and you need have little fear of disease. Mrs. Maybrick Free.

Truro, Cornwall, Eng., July 21.—Mrs. Florence Maybrick is free.

Her imprisonment was terminated after more than fourteen years of her life in Aylesbury Prison, before the arched doorway of the white convent of the Sisterhood of the Epiphany, in this little town, with the black-robed sisters softly tittering their pleadings and good wishes for her future.

She boarded a train and started on her journey to France, and will not go to America until her presence there is considered imperatively necessary.

Taken to Toronto.

Sault Ste. Marie, July 21.—Detective Greer yesterday took Joseph Chartrand, who has been in district jail here, charged with the murder of Provincial Constable Irving at Webbwood, June 17, to Toronto jail. It is believed the prisoner will be safer there from possible attempts of himself or outside friends to effect his escape. The trial will likely be at Toronto. The prisoner was taken out of town quietly this afternoon.

Twenty Hurt in a Wreck.

New York, July 21.—Twenty persons were injured in a crash between a work car and a trolley car of the New York and Long Island Traction Company, near Hempstead, L. I., yesterday. The trolley car was filled with members of the St. George Episcopal Church of Hempstead, who were going on a picnic excursion. Many of the passengers were badly cut and bruised.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. DAY OF DUNDONALD

Leader of the Opposition Starts a Protracted Debate.

A WIDE RANGE OF SUBJECTS

Sir Wilfrid Points Out That Opposition Is Not Willing to Challenge Lord Dundonald's Dismissal in the House—Col. Hughes Attacks British Parliament and Government—Mr. Fielding Deprecated.

Ottawa, June 21.—The House covered a wide range of subjects yesterday. Opening in the morning with a criticism by Mr. R. L. Borden of remarks alleged to have been made by the Solicitor-General in England, the House passed on to a full discussion of the Dundonald incident, and in the evening Mr. George Taylor, the Conservative Whip, after a brief reference to that topic, gave the debate an entirely new direction by moving an amendment which condemned the administration of the Department of Agriculture, having special reference to the increased expenditure for the experimental farms and the establishment of chicken-fattening stations and cool cheese-curing rooms. In supply, the Geological Survey branch was subjected to criticism, especially in reference to the report of Mr. J. M. Macoun upon the Peace River country.

Mr. Borden and Sir Wilfrid.

The leader of the Opposition disclaimed on behalf of the Opposition any connection with receptions tendered to Lord Dundonald, and repudiated any intention of offering any defence for that officer. The Premier, in a dignified reply, declined to discuss the utterances of Mr. Lemieux until the full text was at hand. With respect to the dismissal of Lord Dundonald, the Premier stated that, although the Conservative press asserted that it was unjust and tyrannical, the leader of the Opposition was not willing to challenge the dismissal in the House.

Col. Sam Attacks British Parliament.

Colonel Sam Hughes added spice to the debate by censuring the Imperial Parliament and Government for interfering in Canadian affairs, and declared that the Imperial Government was cowardly in regard to its colonies. Mr. Fielding deprecated the violent and somewhat abusive attacks upon the Imperial Government, and emphasized the fact that Lord Dundonald, whether willingly or not, was being used as an instrument in an agitation not calculated to advance the best possible arrangements between the civil and military authorities or between the Imperial and Colonel Governments. The debate became decidedly acrimonious and feeling ran somewhat high, but the Opposition did not challenge a vote upon the question.

In Supply.

Having passed items of the Department of the Interior, amounting to $250,000, the House adjourned at 12.55.

In the Senate.

night, when Senator McMullen's amendment deferring consideration of a bill till the report of the investigating committee was received was lost on a vote of 21 to 21. The Speaker gave the casting vote against the amendment.

On a vote of 26 to 16 the amendments to the bill recommended by the banking committee were carried.

Grocers See Government.

Ottawa, July 21.—A deputation of leading wholesale grocers of Canada, together with representatives of the American Tobacco Company, waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Mr. Fielding and Hon. Mr. Brodeur yesterday afternoon to protest against the proposed legislation prohibiting any tobacco manufacturer making an exclusive contract with a wholesale merchant for the handling of his goods. There were about thirty-five in the deputation, the majority being members of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to take their representations into consideration, reminding them at the same time that certain tobacco manufacturers had waited upon them and had pointed out that the present conditions were detrimental to their interests. They had set out that under the exclusive contract system they had no chance to exist, as it gave a monopoly of the business to one or two manufacturers.

James Bay Railway Contracts.

Toronto, July 21.—The construction of the James Bay Railway from Toronto to Parry Sound has been contracted for. Those to whom they have been awarded are Angus Sinclair, C.E., and the firm of A. A. Mann and Archie Mackenzie By the terms of the contract the work must be done by September, 1905.

Freedom of London.

London, July 21.—The freedom of the City of London, in a gold casket, was presented to Lord Curzon of Kedleston, Viceroy of India, at the Guildhall yesterday, with all the customary ceremonial. Lord Curzon was the subject of a memorial demonstration.

Prisoners Pleaded Guilty.

St. Thomas, July 21.—Yesterday John Brown, Richard Murphy, Henry and Homer Godder, arrested on the charge of burglarizing M. B. Jackson's hardware store, were arraigned and pleaded guilty. They were remanded till Saturday for sentence.

Arbitration Ordered.

Ottawa, July 21.—The Minister of Labor has ordered arbitration or investigation in the dispute between the Grand Trunk and its telegraphers. This is the first application of the compulsory arbitration act.

KLONDYKE OF THE CLAY

A COMMON BLUE CLAY THAT RIVALS GOLD AS A TREASURE.

Wealth of the Gold Fields Has Come to Peterboro, England, Without the Hardships—Clay Deposits Which Are Simply Inexhaustible—Depths of 115 Feet of Clay Have Been Proved—Bricks by Machinery.

There is a district in Peterboro which is called Klondyke. That is its postal address, and it is aptly chosen, for the ancient city has found hidden in the earth on which it stands a treasure inestimable. It is not gold or diamonds, merely a common blue clay; but by the alchemy of modern science it is transmuted into the precious metal of our currency, and the wealth of the goldfields has come to Peterboro without the hardships.

This ancient city has witnessed the making of England, and taken an active part throughout the centuries in events which stirred the nation's life. But it was virtually saved from obscurity in modern times by a foolish Marquis of Exeter, who, when it was proposed to run a great line of railway through Stamford, set his face against such a desecration of his broad acres. Peterboro had no such prejudices, and it gained what Stamford lost, and became a busy centre of trade. Two thousand railwaymen live in Peterboro at this day in a colony of their own, and, with the aptness for nomenclature which seems native to the district, it has been called New England.

But even better fortune was in store for the city. In the regions round about Oxford clay approaches the surface, and lies in great beds covering a wide area. It is grey and blue in shade, and has a certain oiliness, as of shale. Over it a layer of plastic clay was found, which was made into bricks, and lumps of this substance appear in the Oxford clay, giving the semblance of knots in wood. So at this day a hole whence the clay is out is a "knot-hole."

Fletton, on the outskirts of the city, is in the centre of the clay fields, and "Fletton" is the trade name of the Peterboro brick. The clay deposits are literally inexhaustible. Their superficial area is of many square miles, and the depth varies, but is always great. Depths of 115 feet of clay have been proved, and the local feeling is that men may dig for ever in these regions, and still find the pay dirt. It is soft and easily workable; the oil in it facilitates combustion, and lessens the coal bill in firing; it can be made by the dry process, very simply and expeditiously. The London stock brick, so called, is made laboriously, and is weather-dried; and the process is slow. The Peterboro brick is made more cheaply, with less labor, and has the advantage of being absolutely true and regular in shape, so that setting can be done more quickly.

About 20 years ago machinery to deal with this clay came into use, and Peterboro has grown because of the possibilities thus opened out. To-day there are some 30 brickyards in the district, and 2,000 men are employed in the industry. Klondyke is the name of the newly built district in which many of them live. Eighty tall smoke shafts raise their heads, and if they were set on end they would ascend over two miles into the sky. One of them alone contains 140,000 bricks, and they stand to all travelers in the east as an indication and advertisement of the astonishing growth of an industry which now commands an invested capital of a million sterling.

Estimates of the product of this industry vary, and it is impossible to decide between them. One puts the annual produce of the 30 yards at 500,000,000 bricks, or a million and a half a day; others say that the produce is probably 800,000,000 bricks, and that 500,000,000 of them go to the London market alone. For the new War Office in Whitehall 25,000,000 of these bricks have been required.

The work is very simple and easily described. The clay makes an uninterrupted and rapid process from the knot-holes to the wagons in the railway sidings at the doors of the kilns. In many yards the steam digger tears the clay from the beds 150 pounds at a time; the filled trucks are drawn by power to the mill, where the clay arrives in soft lumps. One steam digger does the work of twelve men; each of the machines for manufacture does the work of hundreds of men. No hand touching it, the clay is tipped into a mill, where it is reduced to powder; then it passes by an endless traveling belt to the floor above the presses, where it falls into the hoppers of the machines. The mould is filled, a pressure of 100 tons is applied, and each revolution of the machine produces one or more bricks, truly and regularly shaped. In this way a machine makes from 30,000 to 50,000 bricks a week. Thence they pass to the kilns, which hold some 350,000 to 400,000 bricks for the firing. Twenty days pass in this delicate process, and each brick loses in that time two pounds in weight.

And thus the work goes on continuously, and Peterboro now claims to have the busiest and biggest brickfield in the world.

Nor is this merely a passing boom. One acre of clay 100 feet deep will yield 80,000,000 bricks; so that at the higher estimate only ten acres of clay are consumed in a year. There is clay enough to serve many generations, and enhance Peterboro's prosperity. Having made great progress in the last two decades, the clay Klondyke of the Fens looks forward confidently to a bright and smiling future.—London Chronicle.

A Lighthouse Keeper's "Distress."

A lighthouse keeper not far from Vancouver, B.C., recently displayed "distress" signals for the purpose of attracting the attention of a steamer on which he desired to load a consignment of fresh eggs for the local market. As a storm was raging at the time and the water was so wild that no landing could be made, the steamer brought to the city a tale of mystery which for some time caused anxiety on the water front. The steamer in question was the Princess May of the C.P.R.-Skaguay line. Immediately upon her arrival in port the Dominion Government fisheries cruiser Kestrel was despatched to the island, appropriately named "Egg," where the lighthouse keeper lived in his lonely tower. Captain Newcombe of the Kestrel, found the surf rolling so heavily that for hours he lay in sight of the little island waiting for an opportunity to make a landing. When at last he did reach the shore, and asked the reason why the distress signals had been displayed, he was afforded the explanation given above. The lighthouse keeper added that, as the principal virtue of eggs lay in their freshness, he had wanted to get a steamer without delay, and thought that the most effective way of securing one would be by displaying the "help wanted" sign so familiar to mariners. Having solved the mystery, Captain Newcombe forthwith bought all the eggs and made the lighthouse keeper happy.

How to Destroy Dandelions.

A gentleman of distinction, who has devoted years of a useful life to the extermination of dandelions, writes: "At this season hundreds of right-minded citizens are bending their whole energies to the extermination of dandelions in their lawns. They can be cut below the crown with a knife and lifted by a boy kneeling on a moveable rush-mat, who should drop a small pinch of salt on the bleeding root from his pocket. It is a long process, and an annual one, only applicable to small lawns. Larger lawns can be treated in another and better way. Between mowings go over them with a sharp daisy-rake and take off every blossom. It takes very little time, and if seed is not supplied to the lawn there will soon be no dandelions. Every fluffy head that sheds its seed is perpetuating the dandelions. True, grass may be grown so thick that only a small percentage will gain a footing in the sod; but they will not be entirely extirpated. There will be some in all lawns, where the yellow heads are not cut off. The floating down from other lawns need not be considered. The enemy is on your own."

Lyveden's Adventures.

Romantic in the extreme has been the career of Baron Lyveden, who has just arrived with a Parliamentary party from England to tour Canada. By going on the stage when a boy he offended his father, an aristocratic clergyman. The youth came to America, and became a waiter in a Bowery restaurant. Next he was a fisherman down in North Carolina, and when he tired of that life he worked his way back to England and there became a sailor. Finally he wound up this part of his career on the American Liner Paris, now the Philadelphia, on which he was a steward. In 1901 he succeeded, on the death of the second Lord Lyveden, to the titles and estates, which include some 15,000 acres of the best land in Northamptonshire.

Motor-Car in India.

The motor-car has broken out in a new place. The Northwestern Railway in India has just purchased a steam motor coach for £2,000 to run over its branch lines, where a full train service does not pay. This motor coach will carry 66 passengers in all, and run 80 miles without replenishing coal and water. It thus suffices to make a connection with the main lines.

DROVE FORTY-FIVE MILES TO HOSPITAL.

Little Ida Tucker Brought to Nicholls Hospital.

Stepped in Front of Mower and Cut Her Foot Badly.

A very painful accident occurred on Tuesday at Apsley, when Ida Tucker, the 12 year old daughter of Mr. Wm. Tucker, had her left foot very badly cut. The little girl was out in the hayfield with her brother, who was driving a mower. She was playing in the field and approaching the mowing machine accidentally stepped in front of the cutter bar of the machine, upon which the knives run, and before her brother could stop the team, the girl's foot had come in contact with the knives, the result being that some very serious wounds were afflicted.

Dr. Bell was hastily summoned, and after applying a means of lessening the pain, brought the suffering girl to Peterborough to the Nicholls' Hospital for treatment. He started with his little charge on Tuesday night, on his 45 mile drive, and reached here yesterday morning.

The physician in charge and Dr. Bell, spent nearly all day yesterday dressing the ugly wounds on the little girl's foot, and hopes are entertained that the member may be saved although it is feared that the joint will always be stiff and she will walk lame.

AN ADDITION TO THE BUSINESS RANKS.

Mr. W. C. Forman Purchases the Business of John Giles.

By a recent business change Mr. John Giles, who has carried on a prosperous grocery trade on George street for quite a number of years, retires, and is succeeded by Mr. W. C. Forman, of Ingersoll. In another column of the Examiner will be found Mr. Forman's first bow to the Peterborough public, and its conciseness and good practical business ring, should carry weight. Mr. Forman has a well established business in Ingersoll and through having a son in the C.G.E. works here, was induced to invest in one of Peterborough's good paying businesses. Mr. Forman is the kind of man likely to succeed.

A GRIEVANCE IN THE EAST WARD.

Residents there State That There is not Sufficient Police Protection.

A Crowd of Youths who Should Know Better Disturb the Peace of that Part of the Town.

The residents of the East Ward have a complaint to make, and observations show that they have just grounds for that complaint. It appears that nightly a crowd of youths congregate on some of the back streets, and until eleven or twelve o'clock disturb those who live in the vicinity, to where they happen to be, by yells which would do credit to a Blackfoot Indian, but which are decidedly out of place, and unnecessary, in a civilized community.

These persons who are old enough to be called young men, did their actions warrant such appelation, are making themselves obnoxious to those residents who retire to bed for the purpose of resting, and who do not relish being awakened by a crowd of howling boys under their windows. This would not be so unbearable were it only an occasional occurrence, but this mob, for it can be called nothing better, considering themselves secure from police interference, make a nightly practice of this conduct.

The residents of that part of the town, are feeling somewhat "sore" at the fact that no police protection is afforded them at night. They say that they never see a policeman on the streets after dark, and contrast this with conditions before union, when conduct such as has been described above would not have to be borne, because there were proper officers to prevent it.

No doubt when this matter has been laid before the Chief, he will see that sufficient police patrol is given that part of the town to put a stop to conduct of this kind.

COBOURG TEAM HERE ON SATURDAY.

Last Year's Champions of the Midland League to Play Here.

The President of the Midland Baseball League has ordered Cobourg to play here on Saturday in a League game, with the Peterborough team, and the local fans will see a great game of ball. The Cobourg team has been playing good ball this season, winning right along from the towns on the front. This will be their first game with the local team, and a great contest is certain to result.

The Peterborough team seems to have gotten their batting eye, and that was all that was needed to enable them to win almost any game. Last year's champions will probably furnish about the strongest argument of any team the locals have been up against this season, and a fast game is assured. A win from Cobourg will place the locals in a good position to win out, and Manager Whitcroft will do his best to register a win from the champions, and if the team plays the game of which past experience has shown they are capable, the contest will be a well fought one.

The game as usual will be played on the T.A.S. grounds.

THE LAWN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

Club Formed to Play for the Senior Championship of Peterborough.

Last night in the Examiner office a meeting was held for the purpose of organizing a Tennis Club, and arranging a series of games for the championship of the town. As announced in these columns, the original intention was to arrange two series, a junior and a senior, but on account of the small number of entries in the former, it was finally decided to have only one series.

A Tennis Club, to be known as the Athletic Tennis Club was formed, with the following officers:—

President—Dr. Wightman.
Vice-President—Fred Hall.
Sec.-Treas.—R. M. Glover.
Committee — W. H. Cavanah, Harold Armstrong, F. A. Clarke, R. H. Elliott and Dr. McFall.

It was decided that a series of games should be played for a trophy to be presented, and the senior championship of the town.

The following schedule of games was arranged:

Monday, July 25 — Dr. McFall vs. Dr. Wightman; Fred Hall vs. R. H. Elliott.
Wednesday, July 27 — Glover vs. Cavanah; Clarke vs. Armstrong.
Friday, July 29 — Clarke vs. McFall; Elliott vs. Armstrong.
Monday, August 1 — Glover vs. Hall; Cavanah vs. Wightman.
Wednesday, August 3 — McFall vs. Hall.
Friday, August 5 — Glover vs. Wightman; Cavanah vs. Hall.
Monday, August 8 — McFall vs. Cavanah; Glover vs. Clarke.
Friday, August 12 — Hall vs. Wightman; Cavanah vs. Clarke.
Monday, August 15 — Glover vs. Armstrong; Elliott vs. Wightman.
Wednesday, August 17 — McFall vs. Armstrong; Clarke vs. Hall.
Friday, August 19 — Wightman vs. Armstrong; Elliott vs. Clarke.
Monday, August 22 — Cavanah vs. Elliott; Armstrong vs. Hall.
Wednesday, August 24 — Cavanah vs. Armstrong; Elliott vs. Glover.
Friday, August 27 — McFall vs. Glover; Wightman vs. Clarke.
Monday, August 30 — McFall vs. Elliott.

All games have to be played before the date of the following game.

This series of games promises to be of more than usual interest. All the players have good reputations as tennis artists of ability, and some interesting contests may be looked forward to.

The games will be played on the Y.M.C.A. cinder courts.

STEAMER AGROUND AT NO. 5 LOCK.

City of Peterborough Met With a Slight Accident.

Excursion Delayed Until Steamer was Released No Damage Done.

The "City of Peterborough" this morning left Peterborough for an excursion to Burleigh Falls, over the Lift Lock and through the canal to Lakefield. This is the first trip of this steamer up the canal, and while on the way to Lakefield, she met with a slight mishap, which delayed her for some little time. All went well until the big steamer reached a point just below No. 5 lock, where in a rock cut about 60 feet wide, the prow of the steamer ran aground, and up on the side of the cut. This occurred just about 100 yards south of the lock, and the steamer was fast aground for about an hour and a quarter, when she released herself and proceeded on her way. It was found that no serious injuries had been sustained by the steamer grounding and no leaks were discovered.

She left No. 5 lock about half past eleven for her destination, Burleigh, and if the whole trip, is taken, as arranged, the boat will not arrive home as early as was expected. The water in the river from Nassau to Lakefield is sufficiently deep to allow the steamer to navigate, and no further trouble is anticipated.

About 100 passengers were on board.

THREE YOUNG MEN UPSET AT CHEMONG LAKE.

Canoe Went Over but Results Were not Serious.

Nothing worse than wet suits of clothes, limp collars, spoiled neckties, and other such incidentals resulted from an upset in Chemong Lake last evening. The occupants of the canoe which did the upset act were Messrs. Oscar Dumble, Milne Hamilton and Gus Sawers. The three young men were enjoying a paddle around the lake, and when about twenty yards from shore, the craft upset and the young men were submerged in the briny deep. All were swimmers, however, and had no difficulty in clinging to the canoe until assistance arrived from shore. They were found to be very wet, but apparently none the worse for their adventure otherwise.

WATER THE LAWN BETWEEN FIVE AND NINE.

Citizens Must Observe the By-law in Reference to This Matter.

All the citizens may not be aware of the fact that there is a bylaw in force to the effect that the town water must not be used in watering the lawns excepting during the hours of 5 to 9 o'clock in the morning, and 5 to 9 in the evening. It has been learned during the past few days that some parties have failed to comply with the law in this matter, perhaps through ignorance of the law. A warning however has been given and police court cases are likely to follow, if the law is not closely observed.

PAID LAST TOKEN OF RESPECT

Obsequies of Thos Stephenson at Omemee Tuesday.

The funeral of the late Thos. Stephenson at Omemee Tuesday was very largely attended, old friends from a distance swelling the ranks of mourners from the village and immediate vicinity. The funeral took place at 10 a. m. from Christ church, where services were held by Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, a former pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Totten, the present rector. The surplice choir was in attendance and rendered appropriate music.

The funeral was conducted under Orange auspices, the deceased having been an esteemed and prominent member of the order for many years. The pall-bearers were County Master J. W. Wallace, Past County Master, John Kelley, Wm. Adams, W. R. Cottingham, Col. Hughes and Thos Roberts. Fenelon Falls, Co. Director of Ceremonies.

Among those from Lindsay in attendance at the funeral were Messrs. Justus Ellis, Robt. Bryans, F. D. Moore and Geo. Lytle.—Post.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS ARE HOME FROM CAMP.

This Year's Outing was a Great Success in Every Particular.

As brown as a berry, as fat as a porpoise, minus a portion of skin on the nasal protrusion, and elsewhere, the Y.M.C.A. boys returned from their two weeks' camp at Sandy Point, Clear Lake, this morning. Everyone was in high spirits, and loud in their praise of the camp, which it was the general opinion, was the best ever. There were no mishaps. The weather was splendid, there being only two rainy days, and the management was all that could be desired. There were thirty regulars in camp, besides visitors, which were quite frequent. Everyone had a splendid time and was greatly benefited by the outing.

Mr. G. H. Williamson, the General Secretary, did not return this morning, but will remain for a couple of weeks with a camping party at Sandy Point.

Obtain Controlling Interest in Niagara Falls Gas and Electric Light Co.

An important development in connection with the plans of the Canadian General Electric and the Toronto-Niagara Power Companies was announced yesterday. Mr. Frederick Nicholls, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, and also of the Toronto-Niagara Power Company, and Mr. E. R. Wood and Mr. D. E. Thomson, K. C., have secured the controlling interest in the Niagara Falls Gas and Electric Light Company, which possesses most valuable franchises for gas and electric lighting in Niagara Falls, N. Y., and other municipalities along the east side of the river to La Salle, near Buffalo. The company has been reorganized with Mr. Nicholls as vice-president and treasurer, and Messrs. Wood and Thomson on the Board of Directors. It is their intention to fully exploit these franchises, and for this purpose they will have at their disposal thousands of horse power as soon as the new power companies on the Canadian side are in operation. This aggressive move on the part of Canadian capitalists in reaching out to secure large business on the American side is an indication of the important developments that will soon result from the present activity in power generation at the Canadian Falls.—Mail and Empire.

FIRST EXCURSION OVER LIFT LOCK.

Branch No. 30. C. M. B. A. Conduct Successful Excursion up the Canal.

A VERY PLEASANT OUTING.

The Stony Lake Carried a Merry Crowd—C. P. R. Bridge not in Commission—Incidents of the Trip.

By a commendable stroke of enterprise on the part of Branch No. 30, C.M.B.A., that organization now claim the unique honour of having the first excursion over the famed hydraulic lift lock to the northern waters. This outing was an important one in several ways as it demonstrated the fact that the trip to Lakefield can be made in a remarkably short space of time, notwithstanding the half dozen lockages on the stretch between Peterborough and that village.

That the trip yesterday was an enjoyable one goes without saying, and the many expressions of delight and satisfaction heard from those who were fortunate enough to take in the outing is proof conclusive that this trip will be an immensely popular one in the future. The C.M.B.A. is certainly to be congratulated on the enterprise and energy displayed in bringing to so successful an issue the initial excursion trip over this section of the Trent Waterway.

At 7 o'clock in the morning a jolly crowd of excursionists gathered at the Wolfe street wharf in order to board the trim steamer, Stony Lake, for the proposed trip, but no steamer hove in sight. Word was received, however, that there was something wrong with the mechanism of the C.P.R. swing bridge and that the Stony Lake would not be able to make Wolfe street wharf. This was the first intimation the C.M.B.A. had of the matter, but they were quick to act, and soon the excursionists were being conveyed in 'busses to the wharf below the lift lock where they boarded the steamer. The committee was then informed that the steamer could make its trip to Wolfe street wharf, but as several hours had been lost by the unfortunate delay, which no doubt resulted from a misunderstanding in some quarters, the trip over the lift lock was made and the trip to Lakefield commenced.

The trip up the canal is an ideal one and the Stony Lake glided over the water with a swan-like grace. Above the second bridge, (Warsaw bridge,) and in the vicinity of the golf links, the canal widens out into quite a respectable lake, which is said to be teeming with fish, in fact members of the finny tribe could actually be seen disporting themselves at intervals on the surface of the water.

At Nassau the swing bridge is at present manipulated by a man and horse, and at this swing as well as the Warsaw swing, there was no tedious wait — everything was in readiness for a rapid passage.

At Nassau the canal enters the river proper and from this point on to Lakefield the excursionists had ample opportunity to inspect the different locks through which the steamer passed.

Although the different locks at present do not work with the clock-like precision which is expected of them, owing to the fact of the gates being a little stiff in operating, still it was surprising, and at the same time gratifying to see the remarkably short space of time it took for each lockage.

A couple of miles below Lakefield the steamer was obliged to reduce her speed owing to low water in the river, which, by the way, was not noticeable to any extent on the down trip.

Little time was lost in looking at Lakefield, and the neat little craft ploughed the waters in quick time to Young's Point. Once through the locks at this point the Stony Lake demonstrated her capabilities as a steamer, and sailed through Clear Lake with the speed of a greyhound. The sail was a delightful one and the weather was all that could be desired. Mount Julian was finally reached where the excursionists enjoyed a noon day meal, and after a short stay the trip to Burleigh was made, the steamer finally turning her nose for home.

An Examiner representative, who accompanied the excursion, and who has to thank the committee for many kindnesses, had an opportunity to make a few observations regarding the time made from different points. The trip in the morning from the Lift Lock, to Lakefield, including lockages took less than two hours, at slow speed, owing to low water at different points. The trip from the Lift Lock to Mount Julian was accomplished in less than four hours, and the trip from Burleigh to Young's Point, by way of the back channel in less than an hour.

The trip down the canal in the evening was a delightful one. Fair Luna shed her effulgent rays over the water and the night air was cool but not uncomfortably so. The Lift Lock was reached about nine o'clock, where all embarked, and all voted the outing a delightful one in every respect. The committee from the C.M.B.A. is to be congratulated on the successful outcome of the outing; no pains were spared looking to the comfort of all on board, and the manifestations of praise heard on all sides from the 200 excursionists is a tribute to the following gentlemen: Messrs. John Lynch, H. Carveth, J. Picard, Jos. Hickey, H. Phelan and H. LeBrun.

Now a word about the "pride of the northern waters," the steamer Stony Lake." So much has been said and written about this trim and speedy boat, and its obliging crew, and those who boarded her yesterday simply voice their approval of the many commendations showered upon her. The craft is the essence of gracefulness and ease in her movements, and the crew are true disciples of Chesterfield in the kindness and attention they pay to the passengers. The following comprise the crew: W. Scollard, captain; W. Sutherland, engineer; J. Costello, mate; J. Pimmitt, fireman.

After the embarkation of the C.M.B.A. picnicers at the Lift Lock they encountered another "lock," that refused to lift. When they neared the gate at the entrance to the Armour's property on Elizabeth street, they found the gate securely locked and a sentinel on guard, who demanded five cents a head from each one before he would "lock" them through. A hurried council of war was held and prompt action was decided upon. Talk about a steeplechase! Men, women and children made a rush for the fence and all cleared it with the agility of hounds in a chase. The sentinel looked on, and after all had "looped the loop" he decided that there was no business doing at that point.

Mr. Alfred McDonald, kindly placed his yacht at the disposal of those who wished to go from the Lift Lock to the Wolfe street wharf—a kindness which was highly appreciated by the committee.

Rev. Father John O'Brien, Rev. Mr. Lapp, of Grand Seminary, Montreal, a resident of Grafton, and Rev. Father Phelan, of Young's Point, took in the outing.

CROWDED CHURCH AGAIN LAST NIGHT.

McMaster Band Meeting With Great Success.

Keen Interest Manifested in Services—Earnest Address and Good Music.

Last night in the Murray street Baptist church, a large crowd assembled at the special services conducted by the McMaster Band. Before eight o'clock the church was crowded, and a keen, intense interest prevailed throughout the whole meeting. Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. A. H. Brace, and Pastor W. J. Grigg of Indian River, a student of McMaster, were present on the platform.

Pastor Bastow announced that the Band will remain over next Sunday until Tuesday night, conducting services every night at eight o'clock in the Murray street Baptist church, except on Saturday night when the young men expect to hold a brief open air service in the park.

After Mr. Williamson sang "Glory to God in the Highest," in his usual acceptable style, Mr. Noble spoke on "Personal Religion." The spirit of worship was natural to every heart, and each man had a religion of his own. The busy world, with its daily struggle for existence, crowded out the thoughts of spiritual matters. Christ toiled when on earth, and He walked the lowly paths helping depraved humanity. His glory was unknown from a worldly standpoint, but His life has been honoured with countless triumphs. By following in the humble ways of truth that God marked out, there would be found peace to the wearied soul and rest in the wearied life. Mr. Nobles is a forcible speaker.

The quartette sang "I lift My Heart to Thee," and Mr. Huddlestone spoke in his pleasing and earnest style of "The Love of Christ, and the Power of the Gospel." Love prompted many to leave comfortable homes and care for the loathsome lepers of the East, so it was love that prompted the Son of God to leave those celestial regions where glory was ever sung to His name, and to come to this earth where the vileness of sin, when followed to its when followed to its logical conclusion, must have been appalling! Christ has been the prevailing influence in the last twenty centuries, and in Him was found comfort in the busy turmoil of life. "Come unto Me," were the Master's gentle words, which should be heeded.

The quartette very fittingly gave the gentle invitation, "Give Thy Heart to Me," after which Mr. Cameron in his forcible and manly way presented the "Reasonableness of Accepting Christ." The Gospel would change the sin-depraved heart of the young man who was once the fond hope of a loving mother. Sin deforms the character and wrecks the life. "The World is a cheat," he said; "Lord Bryon realized this when he drank early and long at the fountain of glory, but to no satisfaction. The courageous sagacity of Napoleon shook all Europe, but the proud victor, whose voice at one time caused the world to tremble, died with his military boots as his only treasure, and with no hope of the future. Thackeray, the richness and beauty of whose works shall always live, died a humble pauper. The Gospel of Christ alone is the sure foundation and the only reasonable action is to accept it."

The meeting closed promptly at 9.15 p.m.

SOUTH WARD NEEDS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—It was a pleasing reading last week to see Rev. Father McColl interesting himself in a park or square for the South Ward. Do the people of Peterborough realize that south of Charlotte street there is neither park nor squares? All are away up north. Even squares would be a boon. Have we no statesmen in town who can see a city of 50,000 by the next generation and what provision is being made for public lungs? Land now is available. Is all this thickly populated South Ward going to become but a wilderness of houses? And then public playgrounds should be pre-empted for the future—Otherwise in 25 or 50 years we shall have slums and a submerged tenth. Would that Peterborough had a Baron Hausmann, then she might become as beautiful as Paris. Again, do the people in the central and northern wards realize what disgraceful terraces in a few years will be hot-beds of fever, as no provision for sewer connection is being made or can be made. To erect such shack terraces, cubby holes, kennels, sardine-boxes as are going up this summer in town (and some in other summers) is nothing but a civic, a social crime. Why does the town council allow such reprehensible structures to be erected? Does no one care? Is not there a building inspector, and if not, why not? There is no demand for such houses—it's a case of Hobson's choice. Greed is at the bottom of it all. Apart from all these considerations if the Canadian General Electric Co'y were interested in getting the best results from their operatives, such unsanitary tenements would never be permitted. We invite the council, the Board of Trade, and the Board of Health to come in a body and plan right things, not for the south ward, but for Peterborough. For example, let them not fail to see those architectural abortions, now going up, the rooms of which are so lilliputian you could scarcely sling a cat round in them. Why don't our leaders lead?

Since writing the foregoing, that episode of the newly-arrived English emigrant with wife and eight children, has been read by all of us, with sympathetic interest. Such additions to our population are most welcome, but what is our council doing to ensure the construction of roomy, warm, sanitary houses for such people, and for all the people? Again, I insist on the town council inspecting at once these make-believe houses and especially to investigate the back premises, and then to ask themselves "Are we doing our whole duty in allowing such shameful structures to be put up?"

Sincerely Yours,
A. W. BEALL.

ROPEWALKER JENKINS

"THE CANADIAN BLONDIN" TELLS OF WONDROUS TIGHT ROPE FEATS.

Andrew Jenkins' Fame as an Aerial Performer Is Wide as America—Crossed the Niagara Gorge on a Velocipede in August, 1869—Difficulties Before the Accomplishment—Now Lives Retired in Prettiest House in Branchton.

In the pretty little village of Branchton, the prettiest home is that of Andrew Jenkins, and there he lives in quiet retirement, a man who in his day occupied a position very conspicuous in the public gaze. In Canada, from Montreal to Windsor, and in the United States from Portland to the Gulf of Mexico and west to the shadow of the mountains he was known, a fact which makes the seclusion of his later life all the more notable. But his retirement is one with all the earmarks of quiet content, and shows no longing for a return to the days so far distant, so far different.

"The Canadian Blondin" is the name by which Andrew Jenkins is best known, for he was a rope walker, an occupation which he followed for many years, and one in which he gained an international reputation. Treading a hempen pathway, he has crossed many a deep and dangerous ravine. An interesting record of the history of daring entertainment is the story of his performances, and the greatest of these was his bicycle ride on a rope suspended over Niagara gorge. This was in 1869, at a time when the bicycle had few adepts, and when men were less familiar with the perils of the gorge than now.

Taste for Adventure.

Born in Lincolnshire, Andrew Jenkins came to Branchton in 1851. He early showed a taste for travel and adventure. In 1862 he went to Caribou, the first of British Columbia's gold fields. His next trip was to the comparatively unknown Isthmus of Panama.

He had returned to the Branchton home in 1865, and an event of that year decided his life work. That summer the great Blondin walked a rope across Niagara gorge. In the vast throng present was one young man, who was seized with the idea that he, too, could walk a rope. That man was Andrew Jenkins. He practiced for a time at his home, and not long after gave his first public performance at a country picnic. He was given the sobriquet "The Canadian Blondin," and the name stuck to him ever since. On Aug. 18 he gave an exhibition in Galt, which won him such high praise from the local papers that he soon arranged a list of over a dozen bookings. The tour started at Berlin and Waterloo, and all the important towns were included up to Walkerton and Owen Sound, and the closing engagement was at Fergus, where he walked over the gorge below the bridge with a rope forty feet above the rocks. The modest sum of $400 was all that the tour realized, but it was enough to make the young man look to rope walking as a permanent occupation.

For the two years following he confined his engagements to Ontario towns and cities, but in 1868 he extended his field and gave a series of exhibitions extending from Detroit to Milwaukee. At the latter place he opened with a private performance in St. Quentin's Park, at which his audience was wholly made up of civic officials and newspaper representatives. The public performances that followed were a tremendous success. On the 4th of July he gave an exhibition at Haas Park, Chicago, and here he got his first really great recognition. The reputation he won was such as to ensure his success. His Milwaukee performances, by the way, were repeated for seven consecutive seasons.

Crossed Gorge on Bike.

It was in August, 1869, that he came most prominently to Canadian notice. He resolved to cross a rope over the gorge by means of a bicycle, a means of travel then almost unknown. The loop-the-loop and flying leap were of course utterly unheard of; in fact, in his use of the bicycle as a means of aerial travel he was most assuredly the pioneer.

He made out plans of his machine and went to the Goldie & McCulloch Co. of Galt to have it made; but that firm, learning the purpose for which it was intended, refused to accept the contract, believing if they made the machine, they would be aiding in an extremely hazardous undertaking the outcome of which was more than likely to result fatally. After peddling the proposition, Prof. Jenkins at length had his bike made by a Hamilton firm. When he got home he proceeded to test it on a rope stretched from the ground to a tall tree top. He was able to mount the incline, and felt sure he could do the Niagara trip.

Great were the preparations. All the central portion of Ontario was billed, together with the border cities of New York. In the newspaper advertising, considerable difficulty was met. The Globe and other newspapers refused to accept the contract for the same reason that the Goldie & McCulloch Co. had refused to make his machine. Some journals commented editorially on the professor's undertaking, and they called upon the authorities to stop the foolhardy young man from riding to the certain death that awaited him. The Galt Reporter of Aug. 27, 1869, said of his performance:

Description of the Feat.

"Prof. Jenkins has for some time been making preparations to cross Niagara Falls in a manner the most astounding that has yet been attempted—that is, on a velocipede driven across a tight rope. This feat he successfully accomplished on Wednesday last in the presence of an immense concourse of spectators. He was announced to start on his journey at 3 o'clock, but a delay of half an hour took place owing to the desire of the 44th Battalion Volunteers to be present. In the meantime the professor mounted and submitted to the ordeal of photography. Several good pictures of him were obtained. It was not until twenty minutes to four o'clock that he set out on his bicycular journey.

"His departure was signalized by three shots from a revolver. The Galt brass band performed a short and lively air as he left the shore, at the conclusion of which all noises were hushed, and all eyes were turned on his movements. He progressed very rapidly and steadily down the Canadian grade, stopping in the middle to wave his hand to the people on the bridge. His signal was answered by the waving of hundreds of pocket handkerchiefs. As he commenced the ascent of the American grade, having a rise of one foot in ten, a gust of wind caught the bicycle and gave it a swinging motion which nearly upset it. But by a sudden and firm movement of the feet Jenkins succeeded in keeping his balance and stopped until the swaying had subsided. The ascent seemed to be a work of no little difficulty, for whether obliged to do so or not, he took three rests in its accomplishment. The whole time occupied was nine minutes."

It might be said that this machine was the first geared bicycle to be made in Canada, and long preceded the "safety," which it much resembled in construction. Prof Jenkins was the third person to cross Niagara Falls on a rope. Blondin and Leslie preceded him. He made a second journey over the Falls in 1870.

Fame in the States.

His performances in the States were given from Buffalo, Toledo and Cleveland in the north to New Orleans and Galveston in the south. At Rocky River he walked 100 feet above the rocks. It was at Taughannock he gave what he considers his most noteworthy performance. His rope was 1,000 feet long, and at the centre 365 feet above the earth. His longest engagement was ten weeks at the National Theatre, Cincinnati.

The carrying of people on his back was one of his favorite tricks, no less than 60 persons having submitted to the ordeal. 20 of whom were women. He once carried a man on one of his aerial tours who weighed 205 pounds, a feat the more astounding in that the professor is not a large man himself.

An unfortunate accident to his eyes ended his career as a rope walker. Though he sees very dimly, his intellectual eyes are bright and he looks back on the old days with a keen zest. His treasures are all mementoes of his past professional life.

Has been in use for nearly sixty years.

Relief is almost instantaneous.

Given Up by Doctor and Mother.

MRS. MAXWELL BARTER, Grand Cascapedia, Que., writes:

"I take great pleasure in telling you what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for me and mine. A year ago my little girl, now nearly three years old, was attacked by Cholera Infantum. It was in the hot season and she was teething at the time. The doctor gave her up; in fact, I did so myself.

"I finally decided to try Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. I procured a bottle and it did her so much good that I got another bottle and by the time it was finished she was completely cured. As for myself, it has saved me from inflammation of the bowels several times. I always keep a bottle in the house and cannot recommend it too highly."

Brief Poets of Japan.

Japan is a land of poets as well as of artists and soldiers, but the Japanese poets have the great merit of brevity. They almost invariably adopt the form of poem known as the "hokka," which always consists of exactly thirty-one syllables, arranged in five or six lines.

These poems are usually devoted to an exposition of some delicate beauty in nature. One called "Kokoro ate ni" —"The Frost's Magic"—is a good example. Freely translated, it runs like this:

If it were my wish
White chrysanthemum to cull,
Puzzled by the frost
Of the early autumn time,
I would try to pluck a flower.

The Japanese poets seldom rhyme, and they do not often write love songs. One of the latter, "Akenureba," is reminiscent of Shelley's "Good Night." It may be translated:

Though I know full well
That the night will come again,
E'en when day has dawned,
Yet, in truth, I hate the sight
Of the morning's coming light.

Russian Brides.

One of the most interesting sights in Russia is the exhibition of would be brides, which takes place annually at Kiul, near Moscow. On the festival of the Epiphany (Russian style) all the young women who wish to get married in the course of the year are mustered in a long row in the principal street. In order to make themselves attractive to the young men who come to see and admire them they don nearly everything in their possession. Not only do they put on their best clothes, but also a lot of curious old family trinkets, including sometimes valuable scarfs, cloaks and furs, and they even bring with them their bed linen and other articles of their wardrobe. A procession is formed, and on their way to the church the young men approach the would be brides, engage them in conversation, and if the young people think they suit one another a formal visit is paid to the parents.

A Worm Controlled by the Moon.

Samoa, Viti, New Zealand and the Gilbert islands are the natural habitat of a vermicular oddity in the shape of a worm whose every action is controlled by the phases of the moon. By the islanders it is called palolo or mbalolo, a Fijian name having reference to the coincidence of its movements with the moon. These "moon eyed" creatures of the lower order only make their appearance at spawning time, usually on the very day of the last change of the moon in October, but only when that change is a last quarter. Should this change not occur during the last days of the tenth month and fall at the beginning of November, then another lunar month will intervene before they come from their hiding places. Palolo was first scientifically described by Dr. J. H. McDonald in 1857.

The Latin tag about the propriety of a shoemaker sticking to his last was made use of by a learned clergyman in a withering allusion to a local Demosthenes. At the next meeting the assailed reformer made the following triumphant rejoinder which was greeted with tremendous applause:

"I'm attacked by a larned scribbler, bekass I plade the cause of the people. The rint office and the backers of the landlords, the gintlemin who are invited to stretch the legs under the mahogany of the evicthors and exterminathors, are aginst me, and Latin has been used to squelch me. But here I am to proclaim to the world the great truth, 'fox poply, fox day!'" (Vox populi, vox Dei), and from this platform, I fling the Frinch in his face."

Mrs. H. A. Mitchell Keays.

Mrs. H. A. Mitchell Keays, the author of "He That Eateth Bread With Me," whose novel on divorce has already reached a third edition, and is one of the successes of the season, is of Canadian stock. She was born in Woodstock, and her home for a considerable time has been in Hamilton,

MRS. H. A. MITCHELL KEAYS.

but she has also lived throughout the west of the United States, chiefly in Iowa and Michigan. She was educated at the home of her family at Portsmouth, England, and also spent some years in Germany. Mrs. Keays adds to her ability with the pen notable accomplishment as a musician. "He That Eateth Bread With Me" is her first novel, though she has already published a small volume of fiction, under the title of "Little Lords of Creation." She has very strong ideas upon the purpose of the novel. "A novel," she says, "should not only interest, but should help people who are struggling with every-day problems. It should be a presentation of a point of view and a matured opinion upon some vital topic." It was in this spirit that she wrote "He That Eateth Bread With Me."

Mrs. Keays did little work for the magazines before she essayed novel writing. The training that other people get by their short stories she got in a different way. "In my family we are all great correspondents," she says. "Throughout my life I have written many long letters. When I was a schoolgirl an uncle of literary taste used to demand of me lengthy epistles of the old school type every week, and they had to be of the kind that would satisfy his requirements."

Florence Nightingale.

Miss Florence Nightingale, who recently celebrated the eighty-fourth anniversary of her birth, received many congratulatory telegrams and messages, and the number of callers at 10 South street, Park lane, London, was larger than usual. Miss Nightingale continues to enjoy fairly good health and to take active interest in works of charity. She is the daughter of the late Mr. W. E. Nightingale, a Hampshire gentleman. She had scarcely landed in the Crimea with her little band of nurses before hundreds of wounded men were brought in from the famous fight at Balaclava, and a little later thousands more from Inkerman. Nothing was ready, everything was to be done, and it was her task and her triumph to bring order out of a chaos of misery. At a dinner party soon after the return of the troops to England Lord Stratford suggested that everyone present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a single vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

It was a local orator in Leinster County who, in lauding Mr. Parnell, delivered himself of the following Biblical eulogy:

"Mr. Parnell is the Moses of the lost children of Erin. He will, like Joshua, take them to the promised land of Home Rule, and then, with the Aaron's rod of peasant proprietary, he will strike the rock of landlordism, when plenty and peace will flow out of it like a shower of manna from the skies of justice."

SEVERE PAINS IN THE BACK

Caused From Deranged Kidneys—New Well and Gives Credit to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mrs. H. Trollope, 850 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I have used two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and found them an excellent medicine. I had severe pains across the back which came from my Kidneys being out of order, and after using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for a time I began to feel a wonderful improvement in my health.

"I have no more pains in my back now and am feeling as well as ever I did. Consequently, I am glad of an opportunity to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

The Unknown Man

By Troy Allison

Copyright, 1904, by E. M. Whitehead

Stanley wondered how it had happened, who she was and all about it.

The letter had dropped out of the library book that he had hastily selected on his way home. The sheets of paper were unfolded, and the letter commenced in a way that made him think he had as much right to read it as any one else. It was a love letter; undoubtedly the whole heart of the woman was in it, but it commenced "Dear Unknown Man." Before he read it he thought some silly schoolgirl had put it in the book with the intention of getting up a flirtation, but he realized that it was a letter a schoolgirl could not have written.

This woman was tired and disappointed. She had evidently expected more than she had found and through some whim had written all her disappointment and heartache to the only person that could fully understand it—her ideal man.

There was a longing for an understanding and for a sympathy that the known men had never been able to satisfy. Stanley could imagine that she had relieved a spell of despondency by putting her thoughts on paper on the same principle that he talked to his dog or smoked an extra cigar. The thing he could not understand was that a woman capable of such depths of intellect and feeling should have had so silly an impulse and put the letter in a library book.

There was no name or address—at least she expected no reply.

He got up from his easy chair and walked to the window. A cold, drizzling sleet beat against the pane, and the electric lights from the street turned the night into a ghastly gray.

His dog had followed him and stood with his fore paws on the window ledge.

A sudden, furious blast striking the pane made the dog rub his head against his master and whine his desire for companionship and affection.

"Are you lonely, too, old fellow? Two old bachelors like us, living in a flat, ought not to expect to be gay. You ought to be glad that you are not out in the storm, you ungrateful wretch." He stroked the dog's head and thought of the loneliness expressed in the letter he had just read.

"By Jove, she knows the real article. It must be the lonely in a crowd feeling. She seemed to be a society woman—the monogram on her paper didn't indicate a poor girl working for her living."

He went back to his chair before the fire and wondered if it would be possible for him to locate her. He fancied he would like to meet her and study the woman, aided by his knowledge of her inner thoughts as expressed in the erratic letter.

Suddenly he threw away his cigar with an expression of satisfaction, "Sherlock Holmes might have solved it in less time, but he couldn't have thought of an easier method of finding her."

The next morning at the library the woman in charge gave Stanley the attention that his looks always won from women.

"The book was last returned by Joan Ransdell, 2008 Massachusetts avenue. I am sure it will be very kind of you to return anything that you found in it. Very few people would trouble themselves to that extent."

Stanley kept the letter in his pocket, and if his acquaintances could have compared notes during the next few days they would have thought that he was suffering from a mania that took the form of an acute desire to learn if his auditor knew a certain Miss Joan Ransdell.

He himself had only been in the city a few months after an absence of several years. He thought she must be a newcomer, and the address given carried out his idea that she was not among the working class.

It was a week before he met a mutual acquaintance. Then Jim Dent repeated his question: "Know Miss Ransdell? Certainly I do. She takes dinner with us tonight. Do you want to come, old man?"

When Stanley was getting into his evening clothes, he carried on his usual conversation with the dog: "Don, old chappie, I'm going to see her tonight. We are going to solve a problem. Be good, old fellow, and don't get lonely, and I'll tell you about her when I get home."

He brought a rug from the bedroom and put it in front of the grate. The dog looked on knowingly and then lay down on it to take the ham bone that his master always left as a special treat when he went out to dinner. The pretty waitress in the cafe had a habit of coaxing the elevator boy to give the nice bones to the nice dog that belonged to the nice man on the fourth floor.

Don beat the floor with his tail in satisfied approval while Stanley put on his overcoat, patted him on the head and went out.

When he came in that night the dog heard his step and met him at the door.

He put on his dressing gown and slippers, sat down before the fire and took the dog's head between his knees and the palms of his hands before he spoke.

"She's all right, old boy. If I hadn't read that letter I should never have believed that she was lonely. I don't see how such a beautiful woman could be lonely, do you?"

The dog whined a reply that the master evidently took to mean that he really did not see how it could be possible.

"She's tall and slender and gray eyed, Donald, and she is about twenty-eight years old. She has slender, white hands with lots of rings, and she had on a flimsy black dress that trained after her on the floor. I generally hate to keep jumping to avoid those trains, Donald, but I swear I would make a jumping jack of myself forever to stay where I could see those eyes. I'm going to call tomorrow. If you were a man you could go with me and see her smile. Well, old brute, maybe you'll be a lucky dog some day."

As the weeks went by they reached a state of friendship that permitted Don to go driving with them in the trap.

"Old fellow," he said that night, "you've seen her, you've seen her smile, to say nothing of her gray eyes. You know we never liked women, but you don't think I'm a fool to ask her what I intend asking her tonight, do you?"

The dog whined a low melancholy tone that perhaps had a touch of jealousy in it.

"There's only one thing that worries me," he continued meditatively, "how could she have put that letter in the book? I don't believe she intended to do it, Donald, do you?"

* * * * * * * *

Joan happened to have on the flimsy black dress when he asked her. Its soft trailing length lay on the white fur rug as she sat by the open fire.

Stanley had forgotten there was ever such an ailment of loneliness in the world. If any one had asked him to name all the elements in nature he would have answered, "One element, happiness, composed of Joan, black dress, white fur rug and light from a lamp with a pink shade."

"When are you going to write me your second love letter, dear?" he asked.

Joan looked surprised.

"Happiness and excitement haven't caused your mind to wander, have they, dear boy?" she asked in astonishment. "I haven't written the first one yet."

He took from his pocket the letter to the "Unknown Man."

"Here's the first," he said, and laughed at her confusion when she looked at it.

"John, I'm so glad you found it. I've been in a constant state of mortification for three months about that letter. I left it in the book while I went for a drive to take away a blue headache. Mother knew I had finished the book and sent it to the library before I returned. Didn't you think it awful when you found it?"

He wrapped the fluffy black train around her feet so that the fear of it would not keep him at an unreasonable distance.

"Darling," he said, sitting on the arm of her chair, "I was seized with a feeling of most abject humility. My greatest desire was to be 'The Unknown Man.'"

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

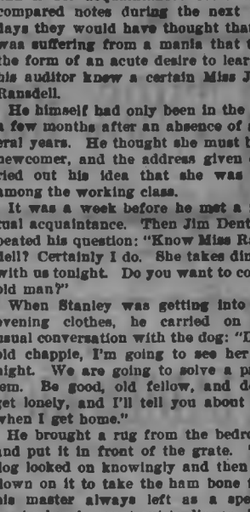
STARVED OUT.

Many a garrison has been forced to give up the fight and hang out the white flag of surrender, when lack of food has weakened the men past all power to continue the struggle.



Many a man is similarly starved out of business. His digestion is impaired. His food does not nourish him, and for lack of strength to carry on the struggle he turns his store over to another.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength to weak, nervous, run-down men and women.

"About ten years ago I began to be afflicted with stomach trouble, also diarrhea," writes Mr. Wm. Walters, of Antrim, Mo. "In warm weather it grew worse, until it would throw me into a cramping chill. Was troubled so often that I sometimes thought my end had come. Tried many remedies, but they gave only temporary relief. In November, 1899, thought I would try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I got six bottles and took five in succession, then thought I would wait for a time and take the one left. Soon found I had symptoms of the trouble coming back, so took the sixth bottle and it cured me. I have enjoyed the best of health this summer, and the credit all belongs to your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can't express my many thanks to Dr. Pierce for his remedy, for it did so much for me. Words cannot express how severely I suffered.

"If any doubt the above statement let them address me, and I will take great pleasure in answering."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

THE MILL ON THE FLOSS

WHERE GEORGE ELIOT LIVED AND WROTE HER FAMOUS NOVEL.

An Interesting Link With the Past—Holly Lodge, Wandsworth, Wimbledon-Park-Road—The Great Novelist Disliked the Place—Visited Here by Herbert Spencer and Charles Dickens—Latter Planted a Tree.

In Wimbledon Park road, Wandsworth, stands a plain, semi-detached house, Holly Lodge, which to nine people out of ten is an ordinary grey stone dwelling, and no more. But to the tenth it has a special interest as the home for a time of George Eliot. On Feb. 5, 1859, she and G. H. Lewes took up their abode at Holly Lodge, but she, at any rate, soon took a dislike to the place, which found expression in her correspondence. To Blackwood she wrote: "I long for a house with some shade and grass close round it—I don't care how rough—and the sight of Swiss houses has heightened my longing." To Mrs. Congreve she wrote: "I want to get out of this house—cut cables—drift about. I dislike Wandsworth;" and in a further letter: "This place becomes drearier to me as the summer advances. The dusty roads are all longer and shade is further off."

WHERE GEORGE ELIOT LIVED.

Nevertheless it was at Wandsworth that George Eliot wrote the story of the "Mill on the Floss," which was finished on March 20, 1860. Amongst the friends who dined at the Holly Lodge table were some of the foremost men of their day, notably Herbert Spencer and Charles Dickens, whose admiration for the genius of the authoress of "Adam Bede" led them often to join her select parties at Wandsworth. There is a tree in the garden which Dickens is said to have planted.

Recently the Wandsworth Traders Association turned its attention to the house where George Eliot lived, and they have asked the County Council to fix a commemorative tablet on the walls for the information of the public.

The Widow's Mite.

Everybody has heard of the "Widow's Mite," but how many are aware that a real specimen of this oft-mentioned coin is in existence? Yet this is the case, and it now reposes in the cabinet of coins in the United States Mint at Philadelphia, enjoying the reputation among numismatists of being the most noted coin in the world.

The specimen was found in some rubbish in the temple grounds in Jerusalem some years ago, and the finder presented it to the Mint. Its original name was "lepton," from "leptos," very small. The word mite is English, formally meaning a weight representing the twentieth part of a grain, but was used in the place of "lepton" when the New Testament was translated. The coin is of bronze, weighs ten grains, and has a diameter of three-tenths of an inch.

The nationality of the coin is not definitely known, but authorities say it is fairly certain that it is not of Jewish origin, there being little Hebrew money in circulation at the beginning of the Christian era. Just what was the value of the mite is also a subject of speculation, but expert numismatists suppose it to have been worth about one-fifty of a cent.

Gallant and Modest Admiral.

In the despatch to the Admiralty announcing the storming of Illig, the Dervish stronghold, by bluejackets and men of the Hampshire Regiment, on April 21, Rear-Admiral Atkinson-Willes naturally made no mention of the conspicuous part that he himself played in the action. Reuter's correspondent furnished the information that when the enemy opened fire the Admiral was in an exposed position, and throughout the action he displayed extraordinary coolness in the operations, while the bullets were hailing round him.

ADMIRAL ATKINSON-WILLES.

Formerly in command of the Home Fleet, Rear-Admiral G. L. Atkinson-Willes is at present Naval Commander-in-Chief on the East Indies station at Aden. He has previously distinguished himself in action, for he served as a sub-lieutenant in the Abyssinian War, and was present at the capture of Magdala, being afterwards promoted in recognition of his services.

Such Is Fame.

When Sir Wemyss Reid, whose father was a Congregational minister in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, was arranging to go up to London to try his luck in journalism, an old friend of his father's came to warn him against the venture. "Thomas," said this adviser, "ah'm sorry to hear that you want to go to London, and to take this writing in the papers. It'll bring you no good, my lad. I mind there was a very decent friend of mind, auld Mr. Forster, the butcher in the Side. He had a laddie just like you; and nothing would serve him but he must go away to London to be eddicated, as he called it; and when he got eddicated he wouldn't come back to his father's shop, although it was a first-class business. He would do nothing but write, and write, and write; and at last he went back again to London, and left his poor old father all alone and I've never heard tell of that laddie since." Thus was the fame of John Forster, the author of "The Life of Goldsmith," and the destined biographer of Charles Dickens cherished in his native town!

He Knew Him.

A British officer who had served in India tells the following story: In a certain campaign against the Afridis a number of the natives themselves took sides with the British, fighting their own people. An Afridi with the officer's detachment stood one morning behind a rock, hopping about with great activity, and firing shot after shot at a figure dim in the distance.

"Can't you hit that man?" said the officer, drawing near.

"No, sar," answered the Afridi, "I see him, but he is hard to hit. He is, sar, hardest man to hit I know."

"Oh," said the officer, "you don't know him, do you?"

"Oh, yes, sar, I know rascal well."

"Who is he?" the other asked.

The Afridi fired another shot at the distant figure. Then he replied: "Old rascal—he my father."

SINGLE MEN ARE ALWAYS THE BEST.

They Defeated the Married Men of the C. G. E. Sorl Room.

You can talk about Eastern League baseball, comment on the style of the Midland League, orate on the standard of proficiency attained in the Kawartha League, pass remarks about the Guild League teams, but until you have seen an exhibition like that which a few privileged beings gazed upon with wonderment and awe last evening at the All Saint's grounds between the "Machine Cleaners" and the Diemakers" of the tool room of the C.G.E.,—until you have seen such an exhibition, do not run away with the idea that you have seen baseball played as it should be played. Not. It is safe to say that the few aforementioned spectators laughed more to the square inch and took a bigger pain in the side by so doing than for many, many moons. For many of the players it was the first time they had played (?) baseball or even seen it played. Will they play again, you say? Well rather. As soon as the stiffness wears away. It is needless to comment upon the game. It had to be seen to be appreciated. But suffice it to say that all the requisites of baseball, both bad and otherwise, but not so much otherwise were strikingly evident. One new feature introduced into baseball was that of having a coacher run to second and third bases with the baserunner to see that he didn't get lost and to help him hang on to the base which he had stolen. Another feature was never to stop a grounder until it hit you square in the stomach, ker-chuck. We forgot to mention above that the "Machine Cleaners," who, by the way were all married, while not a blessed one of their opponents had had had his heart pierced so hard by Cupid's darts, that he had been joined in bonds of matrimony—that is, they were single men; these men who were married were beaten—fooled again. And the score was 11—10. But the score was only a matter of detail. The married men had two catchers. Breininger started in this capacity to do the deed with bare hands, like they used to do in bygone days. But an inshoot on the left thumb produced alarming symptoms, and he was despatched to short stop, and Stewart donned the big mit, but risked having his face changed by discarding the mask. Ruitsch twirled like a veteran. He missed a chance to bat in the third innings, as he was suddenly summoned from the contest on a searching expedition. The men who weren't married scored five runs in the fifth innings and won the game. That's what might be called a garrison finish. Manager Whitcroft was on the ground, and says that several of the players are worthy of a place on the Peterborough team; in fact all were. The line up was thus:

Married Men.—"Dutchy" Ruitsch p, "Butter-in" Breininger c and ss, "Limburger" Holt 1b, "Sprocket Manager" Holt 2b, "Windy" Dormer 3b, "Hot Stuff" Stewart ss and c, "Whip-poor-Will" Mullen lf, "Warbler" Cole cf, "Grindy" Manley rf.

Will be Married Some Day—"Balloon Ascension" Patterson p, "Curly" Delaney c, "Stovepipe Dreamer" Morris 1b, "Parachute" McGrath 2b, "Brooklyn Bridge" Henderson 3b, "Sunny Jim" Hilliard ss, "Side-Tracked" McAuliffe lf, "Kostic" Mulligan cf, 'Slide Trombone" Gibbs rf.

Umpire, Jack Pilling.

Moral—If you want to win at baseball don't get married.

The reason the married men lost was because they didn't steal any bases. Suppose they would actually "steal" a base with their wives watching them from the fence? Well guess not rather! No wonder they lost.

2.40 class, pace and trot, $300.
2.16 class, pace and trot, $300.
1-2 mile running race, $150.

August 2nd.

2.29 class, pace and trot, $300.
2.24 class pace and trot, $300.
3-4 mile running race, $150.

August 3rd.

2.50 class, pace and trot, $300.
Free for all, $300.
1 1-2 mile running, over 6 hurdles, $200.

BASEBALL.

The final game in the Guild League League comes off to-night between All Saint's and Charlotte street at the former's grounds. Four innings will be played and the Methodists have a lead of 12 runs. Gilbert is slated to twirl for the All Saint's and Roddy for the Charlotte street boys.

• • • •

The question is, has the Lindsay Post recovered from the shock of the Scugog Town ball team here on Dominion Day.

• • • •

There'll be a great game when Cobourg and the locals meet. The southerners have won every league game so far this season. It's up to Peterborough.

• • • •

Until going to press, no victories for the B.A.C. team have been reported this week.

• • • •

Baseball depends a whole lot on the pitchers and how they feel. A few weeks ago Toronto beat Baltimore by 25—7 and just the other day Baltimore trimmed the Canucks by 18—4. Both home teams lost. Such is the glorious uncertainty of baseball.

• • • •

The Little Peats, average age, 10 years, say they're out with a challenge to the Review team. That's cruel.

• • • •

Cobourg has won the Midland League championship for two consecutive years. They have won four straights this year. They are due for their first tumble here on Saturday.

• • • •

All Guild players are asked to be at the All Saint's grounds at 6.45 o'clock sharp to-night for the final game.

• • • •

Bowmanville plays in Lindsay to-day. If Bowmanville wins, won't they get roasted though!

• • • •

The fans got the worth of their money at Montreal on Tuesday. The game started at five minutes to four and continued until twenty-five minutes to eight. Sixteen innings were played and the score was a tie 8—8. Newark and Montreal were playing.

• • • •

The Canadian Order of Oddfellows, of Lindsay are billing Peterborough with live printing matter advertising a special grand excursion to Cobourg on July 28th. One of the principal features on the "bill of the play" is given as follows: "Lindsay's fast baseball team will do battle with Cobourg on that day." The time table and fares give the round trip from Peterborough at 85c, with special leaving at 9.30 a.m.

• • • •

"Bill" Massey has been released by the Torontos. His hitting was not up to the mark.

• • • •

Just to vary things Toronto lost yesterday.

• • • •

Toronto leads the Eastern League in fielding, but is next to last in batting.

• • • •

The Peterboroughs have yet to be defeated in a league game at home. Watch them add another victory on Saturday.

• • • •

Galt with Flaherty on the slab continues to win in the Western League.

NOTES ON SATURDAY'S GAME.

A Win
Will Satisfy
Everybody.
Cobourg next.
Peterborough must win.
The Champions will be strong.
Cobourg has yet to lose a game.
Four straight wins—this is Cobourg's record.
The next must be a loss for them or the pennant.
Cobourg has a record for any team to be proud of—three times champions.
Peterborough will try and break Cobourg's winning streak; they did Lindsay's.
Jack Hambly, the best ever, will handle the indicator on Saturday.
Graham's throwing in last Saturday's game was a feature. Keep up the good work, Cris.
Reddy Lamont is in great shape these days and is hitting the ball on the nose for keeps.
Reddy Lamont has got out a very neat score card for Saturday's game.
Bill Grady's face may be seen on the Peterborough line-up Saturday. Bill has been playing second and managing the T.A.S. team this year. He has been hitting the ball hard of late and along with McDonald, ought to patch the weak spots up in the outer garden.
The Peterborough team will be published in to-morrow night's issue of the Examiner.
Bill Cinnamon, Lindsay's modest young catcher asked permission to umpire the game here Saturday, but both Cobourg and Peterborough managers refused as they don't want the game to last a week.
Peterborough will have six left handed batters for Cobourg's pitcher.
Manager Whitcroft says the team Saturday will be the best batting team Peterborough has had this year. We hope so.
Five policemen will be sworn in and will have strict orders to arrest all dead heads caught on the fences.
The champions will make their first appearance in three years in Peterborough, Saturday. There should be a record breaker crowd present to see the boys from the summer resort get trimmed.

CANADIANS MAKE 96 AT BISLEY

Consequently Will Shoot in Second Stage for King's Prize.

SCORES IN THE FIRST STAGE

Pte. A. Baynton, 48th; Staff-Sergt. Crowe, Guelph, and Corp. McGregor, G. G. F. G., are Those Successful as Positives, But Other Canadians May Come in a Shoot-off—Canadian Prize Winners in Other Matches.

Bisley Camp, July 21.—In "His Majesty the King's Prize" match, at the 500 yards range, first stage, the Canadians made the following scores: Pte. A. Baynton, 48th, 33; Capt. H. C. Blair, Truro, 30; Capt. J. Crowe, Guelph, 34; Staff-Sergt. C. R. Crowe, Guelph, 35; Col.-Sergt. W. M. Davidson, 1st P.W.F., 30; Capt. R. Dillon, Whitby, 32; Lce.-Sgt. W. G. Fowler, 12th, Toronto, 30; Color-Sergt. A. G. Gardner, Sherbrooke, 28; Sgt. W. Gould, Guelph, 29; Pte. J. G. Goudie, Quebec, 28; Corp. R. McGregor, G.G.F.G., 31; Maj. W. P. Moore, Georgetown, 31; Sgt. G. Mortimer, 10th, 31; Pte. J. Perry, D.C.O.R., Vancouver, 34; Pte. C. S. Scott, Ottawa, 28; Pte. Neil Smith, Stewart, 32; Pte. H. Tyers, 10th, 31; Pte. T. Westman, Ottawa, 27; Col.-Sgt. Will, 13th, 27; Col.-Sgt. W. H. Youhill, Winnipeg, 27; Staff-Sgt. Bayles, 32.

At 600 Yards.

There was poor scoring all along the line in the "King's Prize" match at 600 yards. The members of the Canadian team scored as follows:

Blair 28, Staff-Sgt. Crowe 30, Davidson 28, Dillon 21, Gardner 29, Mortimer 32, Scott 24, Youhill 24, Bayles 26, Will 18, Fowler 26, Gould 29, McGregor 34, Moore 29, Perry 29, Tyers 26, Westman 28.

Won Bronze Medal.

In the contest for the King's Prize the bronze medal was won by Sergt. Walker of the Northumberland Fusiliers, with a score of 101. Among the Canadians, Corp. McGregor, Sergt. Crowe and Pte. Baynton each scored 96; Pte. J. W. Smith 95, and Major Moore and Pte. Perry 94 each.

The bronze medal is awarded for the highest aggregate score in the first stage of the contest for the King's Prize.

There were three counts of 100, nine of 99, twelve of 98, and twenty of 97.

It will require scores of 96 over the three ranges, 200, 500 and 600 yards, to enable a competitor to get into the second stage of the "King's Match. The possible over the three ranges is 105;

Ninety-six competitors with scores of 92, over the three distances, will shoot for 54 places in the 800 who shoot in the second stage of the King's Prize.

Duke of Cambridge.

In the "Duke of Cambridge," ten shots at 900 yards, the Canadians put on the following scores:

Baynton 45, Blair 39, Capt. J. Crowe 35, Davidson 27, Dillon 39, Fowler 33, Gardner 42, Gould 42, Moore 43, Mortimer 31, Scott 35, Tyers 43, Westman 35, Will 27, Youhill 38, Goudie 31, Smith 43, Perry 41.

Corp. McGregor retired from the match.

Scores of 44 will probably get into the prize list.

The following take prizes: Baynton seventh, £4; Tyers 22nd, Moore 25th, Smith 26th, Bayles 30th, Gould 39th and Gardner 43rd, each get £2.

All Comers' Aggregate.

In the "All-Comers' Aggregate" Corp. McGregor of Ottawa, took 33rd place, winning £2. Staff-Sergt. Crowe was 56th, and also won £2.

The "All-Comers' Aggregate" includes the Alexandra, The Daily Graphic, Daily Telegraph and The Graphic. It covers the 200, 500 and 600 yard ranges.

Secretary of War.

With a score of 48, made by eight bulls and two inners, Private Perry of the Canadian team won fourth prize of £6 in the Secretary of State for War competition, a ten-shot match at 900 yards. Bayles won the eighteenth prize, Tyers the twenty-first and Smith the twenty-third, each of £2, with scores of 46.

Range Prizes.

In this competition at 500 yards, Capt. Crowe is 20th, winning £1, Pte. J. Perry 37th, 4s. In the 600 yards competition, Staff-Sergt. Bayles is 4th and Staff-Sergt. Crowe fifth, each winning £1.

Martin's Cup.

In the "Martin's" Challenge Cup, a rapid fire competition at 200 yards, Sergt. W. Gould is the only Canadian who figures in the prize list. He took 116th place, winning £1.

Canadian Bag.

The winnings of the team to date have been about £62. Those who have entered individual matches have secured a total of about £50.

The Liver to Blame.

So long as the liver is active in filtering the bile from the blood there is no biliousness and no constipation, because the bile is passed from the liver into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic in keeping the bowels active. Because of their direct action on the liver as well and the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cure constipation, the real cause of nine-tenths of the common ills of life.

SAD DROWNING AT MINDEN.

Percy Smith, Lay Reader at Mission There, the Victim.

Toronto, July 22.—Percy Smith, formerly of Toronto, but for the last two years lay reader at the Minden Mission, Haliburton County, was drowned while bathing there on Wednesday. In a letter received by T. P. Wood, 91 Olive avenue, yesterday, it is said that in company with Rev. Mr. Fenning, the rector in charge, Mr. Smith went in bathing about noon in the river close by the clergy house, there being only a lawn and roadway separating. They had been in the water only a few minutes when he was seized with cramps. Mr. Fenning made desperate attempts at rescue, but neither were expert swimmers. Mr. Smith sank in 17 feet of water, but although the body was recovered in 7 minutes, all efforts to restore life were in vain. Mr. Fenning stated in the letter that there was a very strong under current.

Mr. Smith came from England about ten years ago, his parents residing in London. For some time he was lay helper at St. Cyprian's Church here, and some two years ago was appointed lay reader at Minden, where two clergymen and two lay readers administer to the spiritual welfare of a parish of 1,000 square miles.

It was his intention to enter the ministry, and but for his untimely death he would have been a candidate at the next year's examinations for deaconate. He was well-known in Bracondale, and in the northwestern part of the city, and in cricketing circles, having been for several years captain of St. Cyprian's Club.

RUSSIANS WILL YIELD TO BRITAIN

The Malacca, However, Has Not Yet Been Released.

ALARMIST VIEWS UNALLAYED

Japanese Marching on to Mukden Break Through the Russian Left Flank, and Virtually Surround Kuropatkin's Army—A Fierce Two Days' Fight Near Mukden—Superiority of Japanese Artillery.

London, July 22.—The authoritative assurances that the Malacca will be released, cabled by the Associated Press from St. Petersburg, do not appear in the British morning papers. Special despatches to a somewhat similar effect from St. Petersburg do not ally the alarmist views of the leading organs, which construe Premier Balfour's post-midnight announcement that the Government had received no confirmation of the reported release of the Malacca to mean that the incident remains unsettled.

Prepared to Yield Gracefully.

St. Petersburg, July 22.—The scare Wednesday over the Malacca incident has given way to a calmer and more rational view. The feeling in high official circles is that the case will be speedily and satisfactorily adjusted. The main difficulty is the excited state of public feeling in the two countries, but the Russian Government, under the direct inspiration of the Emperor, who is personally anxious to avoid grounds for a quarrel, is apparently ready to meet Great Britain in the most friendly spirit.

While not admitting the Russian captain seized the Malacca without some warrant, Russia will accept without question Great Britain's assurance that the war munitions on board the vessel were Government stores, bound for the naval station at Hong Kong and order the immediate release of the ship. At the same time she will maintain her right to stop vessels believed to have contraband of war on board and detain them if the manifests are not plain, as required by international law.

Whether Russia will agree to discuss the war status of the Red Sea cruisers is not plain, but if Great Britain insists seriously she may offer to refer this and other collateral questions to The Hague Tribunal.

Still Act As Patrols.

Aden, Arabia, July 22.—The Russian fleet vessels continue to patrol this vicinity. They did not attempt to interfere with the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Palawan, which passed here yesterday morning. Steamers of the French (Messageries) Line are allowed to pass unchallenged.

British Cruisers Move.

Valleta, Island of Malta, July 22.—The British cruisers Lander and Lancaster, accompanied by three torpedo boat destroyers, left here during last night to rejoin the Mediterranean squadron.

Against Another War.

London, July 22.—Twenty guineas per cent. was quoted at Lloyd's yesterday for insurance against the outbreak of an Anglo-Russian war within three weeks. This is the rate which prevailed at Lloyd's on the Russo-Japanese war three weeks prior to the outbreak of hostilities.

Has the Habit.

Tientsin, July 22.—A letter was received here yesterday from Newchwang, saying that the commander of a Russian torpedo boat had reported that while in the Gulf of Pechili he had accidentally torpedoed a British steamer. It is surmised here that the vessel referred to is the Hipsiang, now five days overdue from Newchwang. The Hipsiang belongs to the Indo-China Navigation Company. It is reported here that a heavy bombardment off Port Arthur occurred Wednesday, and heavy gun firing was heard at Newchwang the same day.

MARCHING ON TO MUKDEN.

Russian Left Flank Broken By the Japanese and Kuropatkin Virtually Surrounded—Important War Movements.

London, July 22.—A Russian correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Mukden, under date of July 19, says: "A fierce fight has been raging during the past two days and it still continues. The Japanese, who are in superior strength, attacked with great coolness. The Russians are contesting the ground splendidly. The Japanese flanking movements to the east are the real cause of our retirement. Heavy loses have been sustained. The Japanese artillery has again shown its superiority."

The scene of the fighting is not mentioned by the correspondent.

According to a special despatch from Moscow the Russky Listok of that city confirms the Associated Press report from Liaoyang that the Japanese have broken through the Russian left flank and are marching on to Mukden.

Break Russian Left Flank.

Liaoyang, July 22.—News was received from Tatchekiao Wednesday that the Japanese had broken through the Russian left flank between Lieut.-Gen. Count Keller's position and that of Gen. Rennenkampff and that they were marching on Mukden. The rumors to this effect are persistent, but there is no official confirmation of them.

Sensational News.

St. Petersburg, July 22.—The most sensational piece of news from the front is the Associated Press despatch from Liaoyang, dated July 21, reporting a persistent rumor that the Japanese have broken through the Russian left wing between the respective positions of Lieut.-General Keller and Gen. Rennenkampff and are marching upon Mukden. The report received from Gen. Kuropatkin bearing the same date, says that there has been no change of importance in the situation, and a close study of the dates shows that the rumor probably refers to the Japanese advance against Gen. Rennenkampff on the northern Samaitza-Liaoyang road, when they drove the Russians back as far as Houtsiatze, twenty-six miles east of Liaoyang. A later despatch to the Associated Press shows that Gen. Hershelmann commanded this detachment of Gen. Rennenkampff's cavalry, and that he turned and took the offensive, subsequently compelling the Japanese to retire in the direction of Sikyan.

Must Explode Mines.

Tientsin, July 22.—Lloyd's agent at Newchwang telegraphs that nearly every steamer arriving reports seeing mines, and that navigation will practically cease unless steps are taken to explode the mines.

Flying Squadron.

Tokio, July 22.—A fisherman reports that the Vladivostock squadron was off Miyako yesterday, going in a southeasterly direction at a speed of 10 knots. If this course and speed is maintained the squadron will be off Yokohama late today. The eastern coast of Japan is shrouded in fog. Shipping has been suspended, awaiting the location of the Russian fleet.

MASONS ELECT OFFICERS.

Next Meeting of the Grand Lodge, A. F. & A.M., to Be Held at Hamilton.

Brockville, July 22.—Grand Lodge officers of the Masons were elected yesterday. The next session of the Grand Lodge will be held in Hamilton. The following officers were elected by the Grand Lodge of Canada, A., F. & A. M.:

Grand master, Benjamin Allen of Toronto.

Deputy grand master, J. H. Burritt, K.C., Pembroke.

Grand senior warden, William H. Harrison, Brockville.

Grand treasurer, E. T. Malone, K. C., Toronto.

Grand secretary, H. Murray of Hamilton.

Board of general purpose, W. D. McPherson, Lieut.-Col. Hegler, J. S. Dewar, F. Guest, F. J. Skinner.

Grand chaplain, Rev. Baynes-Reed.

The committee on credentials of representatives of the Grand Lodge reports 381 warranted lodges on the rolls; of these 190 are represented by their duly qualified officers, 131 represented by proxy, 14 are not represented by proxy but have past masters present, and 46 are not represented at all. The total vote was 1,431, and about 900 brethren represent the vote cast.

THIBETANS RETIRED FIGHTING.

Sniped Advancing British Soldiers From Neighboring Cliffs.

Gyangtse, Thibet, July 22.—The British mission to Thibet, under command of Col. Younghusband, on July 18, forced a passage of the ice-clad Karola, the highest pass on the road to Lhassa.

A stubborn defence was expected, but the Thibetans retired early in the engagement, sniping the advancing British soldiers from the neighboring cliffs. The British are now ninety-two miles from Lhassa.

Arrested For Perjury.

North Bay, July 22.—John Bidgood is under arrest for perjury in connection with the enquiry now under way into the charges of license irregularities in the district. At the opening of the trial last week, Bidgood swore that all the letters received by him from Dr. Henderson had been burned. Subsequently, it is alleged, that he showed some of these letters. His arrest for perjury then followed, under instructions issued by Crown Attorney Browning.

WHEREABOUTS OF STEAMER MALACCA

Is Now Causing the British Authorities Some Concern.

Cruiser Venus Sent After Her—Alleged Terms of the Settlement of Complications.

Alexandria, July 22. — No word has been received from the steamer Malacca since she cleared from Port Said yesterday. The British cruiser, Venus, has left hurriedly, and the impression prevails here that she has gone in search of the P. and O. liner. Englishmen expect to see the Malacca brought back in the custody of the Venus.

Berlin, July 22. — It is stated here that the complications arising from the seizure of the P. and O. steamer Malacca by the Russian volunteer cruiser, Peterburg, have been settled on the following terms: England has acknowledged Russia's right to search the Malacca and further gives Russia a formal assurance that the steamer's cargo consisted of English Government property.

PACKING HOUSE STRIKE RENEWED

Men in the Packing Houses Again Go Out on Strike.

Violation of the Agreement by the Proprietors is the Cause Assigned.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Chicago, July 22. — The packing house strike was to day ordered to be renewed in Chicago, and all other cities. Violation of agreement by the packing house proprietors is assigned as the reason.

Pensions For Railway Men.

Ottawa, July 22.—(Globe Special.)—After careful consideration and enquiry, Hon. Mr. Emmerson, Minister of Railways, has completed a scheme for establishing a pension system in connection with the Government railways. He intends to introduce a measure, and, if possible, press it through the House at this session for that purpose. The proposal is to make the pension fund available for all the operating staff of the Government railways, who will be required to contribute to the fund, the Government also contributing a certain proportion.

Italians Brought to Canada.

Montreal, July 22.—Judge Winchester began his investigation yesterday into the charges against parties for enticing Italians to Canada. The evidence showed that Italian labor agents had a great deal to do with the influx of their compatriots into Canada. There are 4,000 of them in the city, half of whom came here from the United States and half from Northern Italy.

Macdonald Scholarships.

Toronto, July 22.—The following teachers have been accepted as scholarship candidates by the Minister of Education for the Macdonald Institute course, commencing in September next at Guelph: R. F. Blacklock, Smiths Falls; Charles T. Yeo, Little Britain; Mrs. E. Birchard Palmer, Cobourg; Miss Louise Short, Salem; Miss Ella M. Robertson, Kincardine; Miss R. M. Finley, Lindsay; Miss Sarah Cryaler, Cobourg; Miss Mary Eyres, Peterboro; Charles H. Fenton, Grafton; W. J. Robinson, Dutton; T. W. Kidd, Barrie; C. E. Jamieson, Morrisburg; Miss Harriet M. Hud, Rossmore.

Two Americans Shot Down.

Washington, July 22.—The following telegram has been received by Acting Secretary of State Loomis from Louis Kaiser, the American Consul at Mazatlan, Mexico, dated Wednesday:

"Two Americans were shot down in their office at Aguas Caliente, in this State, by officials."

Baptized Before Execution.

Woodstock, N.B., July 22.—George Gee, who about three months ago shot his cousin, Millie Gee, in a fit of jealous rage, was hanged at Woodstock jail to-day at one o'clock. Gee was baptized into the Adventist Church a few days ago, and was cheerful until the last. Hangman Radcliffe performed the execution.

To Inspect Life-Saving Apparatus.

Ottawa, July 22.—Capt. McCuaig of the Marine Department has been appointed a special steamboat inspector to examine life preservers, life boats tackling, fire fighting apparatus, etc. Unless the requirements are fully met he has power to detain the vessel. The precautions probably arise from the terrible disaster to the General Slocum in New York.

England's Late Harvest.

Harvest operations in both the English and Scottish border districts were only brought to a close a day or two before Christmas. The harvest was by far the latest within memory

UNION LABEL

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1904.

THE NATIONAL TRANSCONTIN ENTAL RAILWAY.

The bill amending the National Transcontinental Railway agreement of last year having been passed by both Houses of Parliament, and having received the Royal assent, is now a law, says the Globe. During the whole of the twelve months occupied by the negotiations and deliberations which led up to this event active work has been going on in the exploration and determination of the route across the continent, so that no long time need elapse until the work of construction begins west of Winnipeg, and also between that city and Lake Superior. These two sections of the new line will soon be needed for the transportation of freight to Port Arthur or Fort William.

Owing to the absurd travesties of the agreement between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company which hostile journals have given to the world, it is worth while to recall its leading provisions. The National Transcontinental Railway is divided into two nearly equal parts at Winnipeg. West of that city to the Pacific Ocean the line is to be constructed and operated by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company; east of it, to near the Atlantic Ocean, it is to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Company. The latter will be aided in the task of financing the western division by a Government guarantee of bonds up to three-fourths of the cost of that part of the line, and by the payment of the interest on these securities for the first seven years. The road is to be in all respects, except double-tracking, equal to the Grand Trunk line between Toronto and Montreal.

The eastern division will be constructed along a route determined by agreement between engineers representing the Dominion Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company respectively, and at every stage of the work of construction differences of opinion between these functionaries will be settled by reference to a third party. When the road is completed it will be leased to the Grand Trunk Pacific Company, which will pay for the privilege of operating it as part of a transcontinental line three per cent. of the cost of construction. This is a complete answer to those who affirm that the eastern division is a gift to the company; in fact, the latter gives a fair rental for a road that runs through a region as yet without settlers. In order to give it a chance to develop a paying traffic, the line will be operated rent-free for the first seven years of the half century which is the duration of the leasehold.

The western terminus of the National Transcontinental Railway will be at Port Simpson, or some other harbour of northern British Columbia. Its eastern terminus will be at Moncton, but the Grand Trunk Pacific Company will have running powers from that point over the Intercolonial Railway to St. John, Halifax and Sydney, thus being secured in the choice of three fine winter ports. The line will run through a part of British Columbia that has been explored but not settled, and will terminate in a sea port which is very favourably situated to become a great emporium of Oriental trade. Across Ontario and Quebec the line will run so far to the north that it will greatly broaden the settled area of the central portion of the Dominion, and cause it to present to the world an aspect quite different from the one it has hitherto borne.

WINNIPEG LETTER TO THE EXAMINER.

Special Correspondence Dealing With Western Conditions.

(Special Correspondence.)

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—Innoculated with a fear that they might be overcome by a disaster similar to those when the business heart of Rochester and the wholesale district of Toronto, were devoured by flames at a fearful cost, both commercially and financially, the citizens of Winnipeg are now improving the efficiency of their fire department by purchasing additional apparatus of the most modern and effective type besides increasing the actual fighting force. Ever since the great Toronto conflagration the equipment of the local brigade has been the subject of continual criticism, and, of course, the board of fire underwriters were the severest critics. As far back as last fall J. E. Buchanon, chief of the fire department, is known to have reported a lack of modern fighting apparatus and recommended that it be purchased. But the appeal was pigeonholed and nothing more was heard of it until shortly after the Toronto fire, when an enterprising newspaper reporter re-published the Chief's recommendations, after having ferrited it out from the hiding dust and cobwebs of the city hall. The gauntlet had been thrown down and was the signal for a general assault on the inefficiency of the brigade to cope with a fire of more than ordinary and every day dimensions. Statistics showed that the Winnipeg brigade compared favourably with those of other Canadian cities, but failed to come up to the standard prevalent throughout the United States as the following table will show:—

Halifax,—Population, 50,000; stations, 7; hydrants, 421; hose, 9,000; officers and men, 101.

London,—Population, 40,000; stations, 3; hydrants, 434; hose, 5,000; officers and men, 36.

Quebec,—Population, 80,000; stations, 9; hydrants, 460; hose, 10,000; officers and men, 75.

Ottawa,—Population, 65,000; stations, 9; hydrants, 1,000; hose, 18,000; officers and men, 54.

Hamilton,—Population, 53,000; stations, 6; hydrants, 900; hose, 10,000; officers and men, 51.

Winnipeg,—Population, 60,000; stations, 2; hydrants, 630; hose, 13,039; officers and men, 47.

The American cities, on the other hand are decidedly better equipped. Springfield, which has a population of 62,000 has 12 stations, 1,000 hydrants, 25,000 feet of hose, and a force of 111 officers and men. Somerville, whose residents number 66,000 persons had eight stations 1,018 hydrants, 11,000 feet of hose and a fighting force of 65 officers and men.

The whole controversy terminated by Ald. Gibson, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, and Chief Buchanon being sent on a tour of investigation through the departments of some American cities to see in what way the brigade could be made more efficient. As a result of the report which these officials put in on their return the council decided to purchase another steam engine, a water tower and an eighty-five foot aerial ladder, besides adding twelve men to the present force.

"Do the railway corporations control the city or does the city control the railway corporations?" in Winnipeg at the present time it is an open question. It is hurled intermittently at the aldermen and the city officials and is to-day the main topic of the street.

The Canadian Northern Railway has asked the city to close up Broadway east and the intersecting lanes, or a stretch of land between Main street and the Red River, some two blocks in length and a quarter of a mile in width. The matter has been hanging over for a long time and at the last meeting of the city council, the by-law closing up the street was given its second reading. Broadway, besides being a fine residential street, is the only connecting link with St. Bonifice, a suberb lying to the east of the Red River. In return for the closing up of this street the railway company promises to construct at their own expense another road to St. Boniface, but this will be a mile and a half longer and far more inconvenient. And yet the council has agreed to this, though why, nobody has yet been informed. It is insinuated that all the aldermen have been bought and the Tribune, speaking editorially, says:—

"When one comes to reflect on the frightful revelations of corruption in St. Louis, Philadelphia, Toronto and other cities, and when it is seen that corporations, with the aid of their legislative tools, have plundered the people out of hundreds of millions, it is not much to be wondered that the people grow suspicious. We believe the temper of the people has become so exasperated over the free gift enterprise to corporations that has been carried on by representatives, that it would not require much provocation to drive them into radical action. The Winnipeg council has always borne a high reputation; it would be most unfortunate if that reputation should be marred by creating the impression upon the public that corporation influence is paramount, even when the cause of the people is in the scale."

The "gift" has aroused the highest of indignation and the council has been threatened by more than one that should the by-law closing up the street for the use of the Canadian Northern be passed, an injunction writ will be issued.

MOTHER'S HYMN.

Composed by Mrs. A. T. Dorland, Peterborough.

Dreaming of home and mother dear
Fragments of her dear old hymns
Are borne, on memory's wings—
When in cadence, sweet and low,
Once again, I hear her sing—
Earth, hath no sorrow, that Heaven
cannot heal.

How well do I remember
The old fashioned rocker, moving to and fro
And mother, singing to time and tunes,
Her saintly face, all aglow,
Once again, I hear her sing—
Earth, has no sorrow, that Heaven
cannot heal.

Afar, and nearer, comes her voice,
Singing with joy, those promised words
Symbols of hope and life —
Sweet and low she sings—
Here speaks the Comforter, tenderly saying:
Earth, has no sorrow, that Heaven
cannot heal.

HOW WELSH MET HIS DEATH WAS NOT GIVEN A CHANCE.

B. A. C. Craig Gives Details of the Murder at Craigmount on July 10.

B. A. C. Craig, general manager of the Canadian Corundum mines at Craigmount, returned home yesterday and was seen by the Toronto World re the murder of Bill Welsh, the superintendent of the mines. Mr. Craig was in Boston at the time of the fatality, but had received letter from Craigmount giving details of the affair. Mr. Craig said that he had known Bill Welsh for five years and considered him one of the best men he had in his employ. Welsh could turn his hand to any job, and do it well.

"I am very sorry that this has happened to Bill Welsh," said Mr. Craig, and there was just the semblance of a tear in his eye.

In reciting the facts of the case as he had them from the mine, Mr. Craig said that the engine in the gasoline launch had got out of order and had been sent to Toronto to be repaired. It was shipped down from Toronto to Barry's Bay, and Local Manager Kerr had on July 8 sent five men, whom he had brought from the Cordova mine, up to Barry's Bay to put the engine into the launch. They were unable to do it, and Bill Welsh was sent up to aid them. He went up on Sunday and had the engine in place in short order.

With the other five, he started for Craigmount. They all stopped off at Combermere, and most of the men got drinks. They arrived at Craigmount at 10 o'clock at night and the five men under Welsh were full. They all went to one camp to sleep. There were no other men at this particular camp. Hence it is very hard to ascertain what really happened after they reached the camp. It is surmised, however, that the five men, infiamed with liquor, made an attack on Welsh, who was never known to be the worse of liquor in his life. He must have been reprimanding them for their excesses.

A tremendous outcry was heard by the other men of the camps about and they hurried to the scene and found Welsh on the ground insensible. There were eight ugly wounds on his head, which was pounded to a jelly, apparently by some heavy stick with a knot in the end of it. Welsh was taken to his home, and everything was done for him, but he died. The five men who were with him during the trip from Barry's Bay, and at the camp at Craigmount, were arrested by Chief George of Barry's Bay, and taken to Pembroke jail.

Welsh was an exceptionally fine man, as men go down in Renfrew, where the Craig mines are located. He had worked for the company ever since it had started, and was considered the best all round workman on the plant. He was a good mechanic and engineer and had done most of the geological work of the company. He was born in the neighbourhood of the mines and had lived there all his life. There was nothing about the mine that he could not do efficiently and he was considered by Mr. Craig one of his most valued aides.

Mr. Craig is satisfied that Welsh came to his death by being taken unawares and being struck down before he could defend himself. None of his assailants had a mark on them. Had Welsh been given half a chance he would have given a good account of himself, as he was a man standing over six feet and built in proportion. He was 37 years of age and leaves a widow and seven small children to mourn his loss. He is not the first man in Craigmount to meet death in this mysterious way. A few years ago another man was killed and his assailant was given one year for man slaughter.

Welsh's assailants are at Pembroke and the whole countryside about Craigmount, which is about 40 miles from Pembroke, is greatly wrought up over the killing of Bill Welsh, who was known all over the district as a true man and peerless miner.

WHAT REDISTRIBUTION MEANS.

Number of Irish Members Will Be Largely Reduced.

The British House of Commons consists of 670 members, of whom nine sit for universities in the three kingdoms. Four hundred and ninety members represent over 5½ millions of English and Welsh votors. Scotland has seventy members for 704,000 electors, while Ireland enjoys the services of 101 members for an electorate of 695,000. That is to say, while one English member represents 11,070 electors, a Scotch member represents 10,400, and an Irish member 6,980. If the balance were to be struck afresh the rough result would be that England would get thirty more members and Ireland would lose about thirty.

It cannot conduce to the good Government of the country or to the direction of national policy in accordance with the desires of the whole people that one section should thus be entrusted with nearly twice as much political power per head as another. Take the Irish boroughs as an example. They have an electorate of 111,819 and return sixteen members to Parliament. On the other hand, Romford, Walthamstow, Wandsworth and Cardiff have among them 128,251 voters, but only four members. Thus if a man lives in an Irish town he has four times the amount of control over Parliament he would exercise if he lived in certain London suburbs. He may even have fifteen times as much. In Romford 41,749 electors return one member, whereas in Newry, which has equal representation in the division lobby, there are only 1,939 voters. In Galway there are 2,264, in Waterford 3,423, and in Kilkenny 1,489, and each sends a member to Parliament. Only three Irish constituencies number 10,000 voters; in England there are eleven over 20,000.

Duke of Cambridge's Sale.

The miniatures and snuff-boxes of the late Duke of Cambridge came up for sale on Friday, June 10, at Messrs. Christie's, London. There was a large crowd, and high prices were realized. The total of the day amounted to £14,726 6s 6d, the sale so far showing £37,100.

The highest price was paid for a Louis XV. oblong gold snuff-box, with panels enamelled in polychrome, with sporting subjects, and this realized £2,000; three Louis XVI. oval gold snuff-boxes sold for £720, £400 and £650 respectively; another of the same period, enamelled, painted in grisaille, with Cupids and figure subjects representing the arts and sciences, fetched £1,600; and another, also of the same period, the sides with four oblong enamels, with subjects after Boucher went for £500.

The miniature included a number of members of the Royal Family by R. Cosway, and the best prices were: King William IV., when Duke of Clarence, 140 guineas; George IV., when Prince of Wales, 150 guineas; and Princess Sophia, 860 guineas.

Lady Campbell Clarke.

A London paper says: "Lady Campbell Clarke, the sister of Lord Burnham, who has generously given £10,000 to the newspaper press fund to found pensions, is the widow of the late Sir Campbell Clarke, who died in 1902. He was for many years the distinguished correspondent in Paris of The Daily Telegraph, and had married the sister of the proprietor. Sir Campbell Clarke was appointed during the Franco-Prussian War. He landed in France shortly after the battle of Sedan, and when peace was signed he took up his residence in Paris, and helped to organize and distribute The Daily Telegraph fund for the relief of French sufferers. Lady Campbell Clarke had already founded a fellowship at University College and a musical scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music in memory of her late husband.

IMMIGRATION DAYS

House Could Find No Serious Fault With Pelley.

MR. SIFTON'S STATEMENT

Government Has Under Consideration Measures to Prevent Immigration of People Likely to Become Public Charges—Minister of Justice Denies That He Will Become G.T.P. Chief Solicitor.

Ottawa, July 22.—Immigration problems formed the text for a lengthy discussion in the House yesterday. The attitude of the Opposition members was kindly critical, no serious fault being found with the Government's policy or administration in this particular. Mr. Puttee, the Labor member for Winnipeg, however, objected to the large immigration as resulting in a reduction of wages in Canada. Mr. Uriah Wilson protested against the invasion of Italians, and Hon. Mr. Sifton announced that the Government had under consideration measures to prevent the immigration of people likely to become public charges. Mr. E. F. Clarke thought the medical inspection system was imperfect, and Mr. Sifton, while saying it was as perfect as he could make it, expressed a desire to receive any suggestion that might be of value.

$822,815 For Immigration.

Eventually the estimates for immigration, amounting to $822,815, including the further supplementaries for last year, were passed. Earlier in the day Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick made a vigorous denial of a Mail and Empire story that he intended taking the chief solicitorship of the G.T.P. Railway. Hon. Mr. Fisher's bill respecting the incorporation of seed-growers' associations was considered in committee, but met with considerable criticism from the Opposition, and progress was reported. Before going into supply an amendment, introduced by Mr. Pope, respecting the weighing of butter and cheese at Montreal was voted down by 75 to 46.

Bank Act Amendment.

Hon. Mr. Fielding introduced a bill to amend the bank act. He explained that it was a technical amendment to meet the case of Canadian banks doing business in other British colonies, notably the West Indies, so as to make it clear that they can issue notes in the currency of any British colony in which they are doing business. In the West Indies there is a decimal currency, but the value of the dollar is slightly more than the value of the dollar in Canada.

Cost of the Census.

Hon. Mr. Fisher, replying to Mr. Blain, said that the census of 1901 had cost so far $1,183,729, but that the expenditure was practically completed, some money being required yet for binding and for the compilation of further statistical information from time to time.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson told Mr. Ingram that subsidies to the amount of $117,481 had been paid to the Tillsonburg, Lake Erie & Pacific Railway between 1894 and the present time.

Read a Third Time.

Ottawa, July 22.—In the Senate, Senator J. K. Kerr moved the third reading of the bill to amend the Insurance Act. After numerous amendments, the bill was then read a third time and the title changed to "An Act respecting the Canadian assessment policy-holders in the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company."

A Striking Assault.

St. Catharines, July 22.—The situation in connection with the strike at the Riordan paper mills, at Merritton, seems to be growing more serious. Seven of the strikers have been summoned to appear in the police court here this morning, charged with assaulting R. A. Nicklas, a Toronto strike-breaker.

A Broad Statement.

This announcement is made without any qualifications. Hem-Roid is the one preparation in the world that guarantees it.

Hem-Roid will cure any case of Piles. It is in the form of a Tablet. It is the only Pile remedy used internally.

It is impossible to cure an established case of Piles with ointments, suppositories, injections or outward appliances.

A guarantee is issued with every package of Hem-Roid, which contains a month's treatment.

Go and talk to Jas. Lynch, druggist, 166 Hunter street, about it.

Succeeds Murdered Man.

Toronto, July 22.—A short council meeting was held yesterday afternoon, and besides routine, some appointments were made.

In place of Constable Irving, who was shot by Chartrand, Arthur E. Storie, now at Copper Cliff, has been chosen for the vacancy at Wellwood.

John Ronan, Hamilton, will be bursar at the Penetang Institution.

Back to the Stockyards.

Chicago, July 22.—Superintendent Connor of Armour & Co., said: "Pract cally all of the skilled men will be put back to work to-day, but not all of the laborers will be taken now."

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck, you cannot afford to trust it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissues, and revitalizes the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

PROVINCES LOST THEIR APPEAL.

Redistribution of Last Year Upheld By the Privy Council.

London, July 22.—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has practically decided that the Provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have no case in their appeal against the reduction of their representation in the House of Commons.

When the case was resumed yesterday morning, Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., on behalf of Prince Edward Island, spoke for two hours and a half, and was followed by Hon. William Pugsley, Attorney-General of New Brunswick, who spoke for an hour and a half.

After luncheon the court decided that it was not necessary to call on the counsel for the Dominion, but reserved judgment.

Mr. Blake said: "No comment is needed. The Dominion has won. That is all."

Trooper Gets Medal.

Windsor, July 22.—Trooper Noble Craig of this city, who was a member of the Second Mounted Rifles in South Africa, has just received a medal from the British War Office. The medal bears three bars, "Cape Colony," "Transvaal" and "South Africa."

Russia-German Treaty Concluded.

Berlin, July 22.—The Foreign Office confirms the report of the satisfactory conclusion of the Russo-German commercial treaty negotiations. The Associated Press, however, is informed that the treaty does not contain concessions regarding German inspection of imported live stock at the border.

Burned at Sea.

Woods Hole, Mass., July 22.—Capt. Kennedy, of the British ship Creedmore, and crew, were landed here yesterday, having escaped from their ship, which was burned off Fire Island Wednesday. The captain and men left at once for New York, whence the Creedmore sailed Wednesday. The Creedmore was oil laden and bound for Liverpool.

Good Digestion.

If you can keep your digestive system in proper condition the body will be well nourished and you need have little fear of disease. By regulating the kidneys, liver and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, ensure a healthy condition of the organs of digestion and for this reason are indispensable as a family medicine.

Struck By Lightning.

Springfield, July 21.—One of the worst storms of the season passed over this district Tuesday just after noon. Rain fell in torrents, and the lightning was fearful. George Demeray, who lives on the 10th concession, was struck and rendered unconscious. He was in the barn at the time, and the barn was not injured, nor has it any appearance of being struck. Hopes are entertained of his recovery. The barns of Mrs. Heavener, near Mount Vernon, were burned to the ground.

Killed By the Heat.

Brampton, July 21.—From the effect of extreme heat James F. Cottam, an Englishman, about 35 years of age, succumbed to sunstroke yesterday morning. He had been previously employed as a mail carrier in England, coming to this country to better his condition. He leaves a wife and three children, two of whom are in England.

Indian Sentenced For Life.

Ottawa, July 21.—An Order-in-Council has been passed commuting the death sentence passed upon Johnnie Peters, an Indian, who killed another red man at Nanaimo, British Columbia. There was no premeditation, and Peters was drunk at the time. Peters gets imprisonment for life.

Trolley Killed Child.

Toronto, July 21.—As a result of injuries sustained by being knocked down by a street car, little Nellie, the three-year-old child of James Brown, 7 Gladstone avenue, died shortly before midnight. An inquest will probably be held.

Was Cured of Itching Piles

By Using Dr. Chase's Ointment and Hopes Others Will Profit by His Experience.

When you ask for an ointment, the druggist naturally hands you Dr. Chase's Ointment, because it is the standard throughout the world. It is the only cure for piles.

Mr. Thomas Covert, of Highland Grove, Peterborough county, Ont., writes: "For years I was a great sufferer from piles, and sometimes the terrible itching and burning was almost beyond endurance. Though I tried all sorts of remedies I never found a cure until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. In my opinion this ointment has no equal and I hope others will benefit by my experience."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author are on every box. 3

MY NATIVE LAND.

My native land, how dear to me
The sunshine of your glory!
How dear to me your deeds of fame,
Emblems'd in verse and story!
From east to west, from north to south,
In accents pure and tender,
Let's sing in lays of joyous praise
Your happy homes of splendor.

Across the centuries of the past,
With hearts of fond devotion,
We trace the white sails of your line
Through crest'd wave of ocean;
And every man of every race
Whose heart has shaped your glory,
Shall win from us a homage true
In gift of song and story.

O let not petty strife e'er mar
The bright dawn of your morning,
Nor bigot word of demagogue
Create untimely warning!
Deep in our hearts let justice reign—
A justice broad and holy —
That knows no creed, nor race, nor tongue,
But our Dominion solely.

Dear native land, we are but one
From ocean unto ocean;
The sun that tints the Maple Leaf
Smiles with a like devotion
On Stadacona's fortress height,
On Grand Pre's storied valley,
And that famed tide whose peaceful shore
We rock'd in battle sally.

Here we will plant each virtue rare,
And watch it bud and flourish—
From sunny France and Scotia's hills
Kind dews will feed and nourish;
And Erin's heart of throbbing love,
So warm, so true and tender,
Will cheer our hearths and cheer our homes
With wealth of lyric splendor.

Dear native land, on this New Year,
We pray you ne'er may falter,
That patriot sons may feed the flames
That burn upon your altar!
May heaven stoop down upon each home,
And bless in love our people,
And ring through hearts—both rich and poor—
Sweet peace from heav'nly steeple.

—Thomas O'Hagan.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY.

Statement of Profits for the Business Done Last Year.

The London Westminster Gazette commenting on the meeting of the Hudson Bay Company, says:

"As was anticipated from the character of the dividend announcement, the past year on the whole has not been such a profitable one for the Hudson's Bay Company as the previous year. There was a reduction in the actual profits from £142,001 to $98,934, and the explanation given for this is that "the high range of price ruling at the company's fur sales in 1903 was not maintained in the present year, a decline of over 20 per cent. in values of the furs offered for sale having taken place." Land sales were smaller than in the previous year, amounting to £280,614, against £569,868 for the year ended March 31, 1903; but the receipts were larger, amounting to £247,583, as against £218,539. The farm lands sold amounted to 180,414 acres for $1,109,960, an average of $6.15 per acre, compared with 368,678 acres for $2,086,603, an average of $5.66 per acre last year, and town lots sold for $255,700, compared with $686,755 for the year ended March 31, 1903. Shareholders have little reason to be dissatisfied, especially bearing in mind the fluctuating nature of the business.

Destructive Ivy.

A striking lesson as to the destructive effects of the unchecked growth of ivy can now be seen a few miles to the north of London. A fine old parish church has been wrecked by this green parasite, which has been too long encouraged from a false idea of picturesque beauty—the old Essex Church of All Saints, Chingford. Last February, in the midst of bleak, windy weather, the crash came; the whole roof of the nave and south aisle collapsed in a complete wreck, shaking and imperilling the walls, which are bound speedily to follow.—Athenaeum.

"Alse," But Not "Likewise."

An old story illustrative of the danger of crossing swords with a witness is now being told at the expense of a barrister who not long ago obtained the privilege of "silk"—a dignity similarly enjoyed by his father before him. He was examining, somewhat crossly an elderly solicitor, who gave his evidence in very professional language. "Why," inquired counsel, testily, "do you sometimes say 'likewise,' and sometimes 'also'; are they not of the same meaning?" "By no means," replied the witness. "For instance, your father was a Queen's Counsel; so are you also, but not likewise!"

A TWO MILLION DOLLAR CONTRACT

Canadian General Electric Company has Entered Into It.

Will Supply Machinery and Equipment for Ontario Power Company at Niagara Falls.

Things continue to come Peterborough's way, and in this connection, it might be of interest to note, that many of the things for which Peterborough has become famed, have been the result directly or indirectly, of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The latest is the fact that this company has secured the contract for $2,000,000 worth of machinery from the Ontario Power Company.

The Toronto Star, last night said:

It is stated that a contract has been entered into by the Canadian General Electric Company to supply $2,000,000 worth of machinery to the Ontario Power Company at Niagara. The contract includes practically all of the plant for the Ontario Company, including machinery for generating turbines and the necessary equipment for the transmission of power.

The office of the company was communicated with this morning for a confirmation of this, and it was learned that substantially this report is correct.

Asked as to the effect this would have on Peterborough, it was stated that if the contract had been entered into, the Examiner could assume that the machinery would be manufactured here, since this is the only place where the Company has works.

This is probably the largest contract ever entered into by a Peterborough firm, and it will mean activity in the local works for some time to come.

—Twelve large oil paintings, 20x30 inches, framed in 3 1-2 inch oak finish and gold frames, will be put on sale at 97 cents each on Saturday at the "Framery," 428 George street.

—There will be Free Methodist meetings on the Sabbath at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., at No. 139 Simpce street, above Brown's Flour and Feed Store. All are cordially invited. 2d Huckleberries and Raspberries, vegetables of all kinds; also complete lines of groceries and provisions. Jas. R. Bell, 161 Hunter street. Everything fresh.

—In Thursday's issue the name of Mr. F. G. Young, the popular purser of the "Stony Lake," was inadvertently omitted from the reference to the C.M.B.A. excursion on that popular steamer.

—Mr. H. Dumslow, the hustling proprietor of the "Framery," has purchased the comfortable residence No. 200 on the south side of Edinburg street. The situation is quite central, being only about five minutes' walk from his George street business.

—Any one who doesn't know anything about the constant leisurely crowds that assemble night after night, inside Long's beautiful Palm Gardens, should take a chair and observe under the electric fans. It is an interesting sight to see the groups of young women and young men who stroll in in pleasant anticipation of being served with ice cream and sodas. It's a treat to most people who don't come down town much after night to watch the soiree.

BIRTH.

BAKER.—In Peterborough, July 20th, 1904, the wife of Mr. Charles Baker, 573 Gilchrist street, of a son.

FIRST PETERBOROUGH BOAT UP THE LAKES.

"City of Peterborough" Took an Excursion to Burleigh Yesterday.

An Enjoyable Trip—Navigation on the Canal is Safe—Incidents of the Trip.

Yesterday the first excursion over the Lift Lock, on a Peterborough boat, was run, the "City of Peterborough" making the trip to Burleigh, with a good crowd of passengers, all of whom thoroughly enjoyed the outing which the trip provided.

The day was a delightful one for a trip of this kind, and those in charge of the excursion did everything possible to make those participating in it enjoy themselves, which they succeeded admirably in doing. The advent of the "City" in the northern waters for the first time, was heralded as an important event in marine circles, and the big steamer received a warm welcome at Lakefield, where her pleasing appearance created much favourable comment.

The boat left the Wolfe street wharf sharp at eight o'clock, the time advertised, and proceeded immediately to the Lift Lock, where quite a crowd had gathered to witness the lockage of the big boat through.

The operation was successfully accomplished, and the steamer proceeded on her way up the canal. As was stated in yesterday's issue, just below Lock No. 5, the boat ran aground, though it should be said in justice to the canal, that it was due to the fact that the Captain was not familiar with the route, and, according to an officer of the canal, took the wrong side of a buoy marking the channel, which at this point, is at least 50 or 60 feet wide. The boat was released however without any damage being done and proceeded on her way in a short time.

At Lakefield the steamer was taken in charge by Mr. Ed. Young, who piloted her through the waters to Burleigh, where a dinner was served by Mr. Darcy.

The return trip was made without incident, and the party arrived at the Lift Lock shortly after nine o'clock, where the passengers were landed.

VISIT OF ERIE CANAL ADVISORY BOARD

Distinguished Party of United States Engineers Here,

Obtaining Information on the Trent Valley Canal—Guests of the Superintending Engineer.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, received word this morning that a distinguished party of American engineers would arrive here to-night for the purpose of inspecting the canal.

These engineers form the Advisory Board on the Erie Canal, representing the New York State Legislature. The party will be in charge of Mr. Edwin A. Bond, who occupies a position on the Erie Canal similar to that of Mr. Rogers on the Trent.

The distinguished party will arrive about five o'clock, and will be the guests of the Superintending Engineer, who will show them over parts of the canal, and facilitate their work of obtaining information in every way possible.

This visit is a tribute to Canadian engineering skill. It is seldom, indeed, that United States engineers come to Canada for the purpose of making investigations. It is usually the other way around, and the reversal of the course usually pursued is one which must be particularly pleasing to Canadians.

To-night the visiting engineers will be taken for a trip down the river.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT.

Two Drunks Dealt With—Another Case Discharged.

At the police court this morning, the two drunks who were arrested yesterday afternoon appeared before the Magistrate. The first was Allan McDonald. He came from Glengarry, but was not the "Man from Glengarry" which people read about. He pleaded guilty to being drunk. It seems that he had presented a cheque at one of the local banks, and received $2. The cheque was of a bogus nature. McDonald got on a big drunk with the two dollars. He claimed that as far as his knowledge went, the cheque was all right. He had ten dollars in his pocket which he had received for work done in a lumber camp, and the Magistrate ordered him to pay back the two dollars which he had got from the bank. When asked what he intended to do, he said that he would go right home as soon as his baggage arrived from Kinmount. The Magistrate concluded that a week in gaol to sober him up would be the best thing for his welfare as he was hardly in a fit condition to be allowed to act for himself.

George Harris pleaded guilty to a charge of being found drunk in a public place. He was fined $2 to be paid forthwith. He was out of coin but knew where he could get the required sum.

Alex. Turner was charged with unlawfully receiving one keg of lager beer, the property of Alex. Elliott. The young man who stole the beer, and whose case was dealt with a few days ago, gave evidence. It seems that he had been working for Turner, and the latter drove to town to take him out to his farm. The witness had hid one of the kegs of beer in a woodpile, and the liquor was put in Turner's rig and taken to his place, where the witness, and some of his friends, afterwards disposed of it in Turner's absence. Turner, according to the witness, was a teetotaler and took none of the beer, and did not know until after he had reched home, that the intoxicant had been stolen. The case was discharged, and the defendant completely exonerated. R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution, and R. M. Dennistoun the defence.

EXAMINER TROPHY FOR CHARLOTTE ST.

The Methodist Team Won the Trophy for Guild League Championship.

Were Defeated Last Night by All Saints', but Won on the Round by 14-6—The Season's Record.

The Team that Won the Examiner Trophy.

Harry Roddy, pitcher.
Wilbert Thornton, catcher.
R. Norman Jolliffe, 1st base.
James Squires, 2nd base.
Nelson McWilliams, short stop.
Ed. Roddy, 3rd base.
John Sanderson, left field.
Ed. Carr, centre field.
Arthur Fuller, right field.
Robert Ryan, spare.

Last night the Charlotte street Guild Baseball Team, lost their first game of the season, but won the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the League championship, from All Saints' team, the winners in District No. 1.

In the finals two games were ordered, one game to be played on each team's grounds; on Monday night, on the Charlotte street grounds, the home team won by a score of 13—0, but last night things were different, and on All Saints' field the Methodists were defeated 6—1, but won on the round, 14—6. The champions had an off night last night, and were outplayed in nearly every department. In only one innings did they score, and after the first, time at bat, the All Saints' team were complete masters of the situation, and in the four innings played scored half a dozen rounds. Gilbert twirled for the All Saints' team, and pitched good ball, the team supporting him well, while on the other hand, Roddy, who was in the box for the Methodists, was not up to his usual form, and was touched up freely; this, with some bad errors behind him, helped to lose the game. The Anglicans had their batting eye last night, sure, and seemed to have a tendency to send Roddy's offerings over the fence, which they did several times. They fielded perfectly, too, and certainly played the better ball.

The Examiner Trophy, Emblematic of Guild League Championship.

About 200 spectators were on the grounds to see the game, the supporters of both teams being about evenly divided, and certainly if rooting can win or lose a game, it was given a good trial last night. It was a continual roar, and it seemed to unnerve the Methodists to some extent, for they certainly lacked their usual ginger and effectiveness.

A wild throw to first by E. Roddy in the first innings brought in a run, and after this the Methodists seemed to lose heart, while the All Saints' men were correspondingly elated, and put up a good game.

THE GAME.

The Methodists went to bat first, and sent the first ball pitched to left for a single. He stole second and scored on Thornton's two bagger. This was the only run credited to his team. Thornton was out trying to reach third. McWilliams hit to Dusty and was out at first. E. Roddy placed a nice hit over second, and reached third on an overthrow to first. Carr, who was next up, fanned, and it was all over for that innings.

All Saints' Team. Winners of League Trophy.

Charles Gilbert, pitcher.
James Pilling, pitcher.
Price Adamson, pitcher and 3rd base.
G. A. Campbell, catcher.
P. C. Bullen, 1st base.
George Nicholson, 2nd base.
E. Dusty, short stop.
L. Campbell, left field and 3rd base.
W. B. Rickey, centre field.
J. McWilliams, right field.
S. Coleman, spare.

All Saints scored two in their half. L. Campbell was first up and fanned. Adamson followed and hit to E. Roddy, who threw high to first, and Adamson scored. G. Campbell hit to third and was out at the initial bag. With two gone, Gilbert missed three good ones, but Thornton muffed the ball and the batter reached first. He stole second and scored on Bullen's hit to short. Bullen was out stealing second, with Dusty at bat. Score, 2—1.

In the second Jolliffe sent a nice one, which Nicholson got after a run, and he was out at first. Squires made a beautiful two bagger to left but did not score, Fuller and Sanderson fanning.

In their half All Saints scored two more. Dusty, who by the way, was doing some pretty batting last night, sent one over the fence for a two-bagger. Nicholson got first on a dead ball. It looked to be a case of shut-out, when Rickey and Williams fanned, and two strikes were called on Campbell, but the third one he also sent over the fence and Dusty and Nicholson came ambling in. Adamson fanned, retiring the side.

In the third only three men faced Gilbert; Roddy, the heavy hitter, fanned, Thornton singled to short, stole second, and should have reached third on McWilliams' out at first, but was caught loitering, and the side was out.

There was nothing doing in the second half either. G. Campbell was hit by ball and got to first. Gilbert fanned, and Campbell, who had stolen second, was out trying to reach third. Bullen flew out to McWilliams, who made a nice running catch.

The Methodists went out in short order again in the fourth. E. Roddy fanned; Carr flew out on a foul to Campbell, and Jolliffe missed three good ones.

Two more were added to All Saints score in the second half. Dusty made a homer on a pretty hit to deep centre. Nicholson was out at first. Rickey singled to right, stole second and third, and scored on Campbell's hit to short, the ball bounding over McWilliams' head. After Williams had flown out to E. Roddy, Campbell tried to steal third, but was caught, and the game ended, with the score, 6—1, in All Saint's favour, and the last game in the Guild League series for 1904 was played.

The teams were:—

All Saint's—L. Campbell, lf; Adamson, 3b; G. Campbell, c; Gilbert, p; Bullen, 1b; Dusty, ss; Nicholson, 2b; Rickey, cf; Williams, rf.

Charlotte Street—H. Roddy, p; Thornton, c; McWilliams, ss; E. Roddy, 3b; E. Carr, cf; Jolliffe, 1b; Squires, 2b; Fuller, rf; Sanderson, lf.

Score by innings:—

All Saint's	...	...	...	...	...	2	2	0	2—6
Charlotte Street	...	...	...	...	...	1	0	0	0—1

Struck out, by Gilbert, 6; by Roddy 5. Hit by pitched ball, Adamson, Nicholson. Base on balls, 0.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner acted as umpire in this game, as he has done in a number of games in the series during the season, in each case giving perfect satisfaction. Mr. Kenner is entitled to the thanks of the League for his work as umpire. Often at a personal sacrifice he has officiated at games, and his work has always been appreciated. The Examiner trophy will go to Charlotte street team this year, and the League cup is the permanent property of the All Saint's team.

It is probable that in a short time a public gathering will be held, at which the cups will be presented to the teams winning them.

THE WINNING TEAM.

The Charlotte street team won their district championship without a defeat, scoring 44 runs to their opponents' 9 in four games. The team played good ball throughout the season. Roddy on the rubber was very effective in these games, his record of eight strike-outs in succession in the second game against St. Luke's being one which will stand for a considerable time. Thornton behind the bat, has also done excellent work. The team's batting has been somewhat light, but sharp fielding and good twirling kept their opponents' score down. The team's record is as follows:—

At Charlotte street field—Charlotte street 27, St. Luke's 1, in four innings.

At St. Andrew's field — Charlotte street 5, St. Andrew's 1.

At St. Luke's field—Charlotte street 4, St. Luke's 0.

At Charlotte street field — Charlotte street 8, St. Andrew's 7.

The Liver to Blame.

So long as the liver is active in filtering the bile from the blood there is no biliousness and no constipation, because the bile is passed from the liver into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic in keeping the bowels active. "BEST MAN" IS SCOTCH

GROOMSMAN'S DUTIES IN THE OLDEN TIMES WERE ONEROUS.

He Gave the Bride Away After Having Lifted the Bride Over the Threshold—Ancient and Widespread Custom Which Has Caused Much Shedding of Ink—He Also Passed the Cake and Cups.

It may be a surprise to some people to know, says The London Globe, that the phrase "best man"—the bridegroom's nearest attendant—is of Scottish origin. In the North, also, the principal bridesmaid used to be called the "best maid." Neither expression has much to recommend it. It is a great pity, indeed, that "best man," as inelegant and in itself meaningless phrase, should have so completely ousted from our common everyday speech the good old English name of "brideman" or "bridesman." Another old name is "groomsman," and in days gone by the bridegroom was attended, not by one friend, but by several, who were known as the bridesmen or groomsmen.

The term "best man" came into use, presumably, to indicate the one of these who took the lead in performing their various duties and was in closest attendance on the bridegroom. In recent years the custom of having groomsmen has been occasionally revived, but it has not become general. At a fashionable wedding, four or five years ago, the bride was content with five bridesmaids and two pages, whereas the bridegrooms was supported by no fewer than nine groomsmen.

But at the present time such an array has by no means the same meaning, nor are those attendant friends of so much use, as in days of old. The forerunner of the brideman was the brideleader, whose duty it was to bring the bride to the bridegroom. In most countries where the real or pretended capture of the bride was an essential part of the ceremony, and wherever traces of the very ancient custom of bride capture existed, the friend or friends of the bridegroom had the important office of capturing the lady and bringing her to her lord.

In one of Dryden's plays there is the line: "Betwixt her guards she seemed by bridemen led," and Brand tells us that at many old English weddings the bridegroom was led to the church between two maids, and the bride by two young men, holding her by the arms as if unwilling. This was evidently a survival of the idea of capture.

The same idea, somewhat more disguised, can be traced in the custom which was not unknown at old-fashioned weddings less than a century ago, in the North of England, and in the West of Scotland, of the bridegroom's "best man" escorting the bride to the church. It has been disputed, naturally, whether the groom's nearest friend was chosen as escort with the idea of protecting the lady from seizure by others, or whether he might be regarded as the leader in the act of capture.

But whichever idea lay at the back of the practice, it was clearly a survival connected with the custom of marriage by capture. Later, the bridemen had various functions to perform which have now become obsolete. There was still a trace of the capture idea in the old duty at one time assigned to the brideman of giving the bride away. He led her to the church and then acted the part now filled by the lady's father or other near male relative.

In the old seventeenth century ballad of the "Golden Glove," which used to be a great favorite at rural gatherings in all parts of the country in the old, unsophisticated days, before the melancholy monstrosities of the modern music hall had driven the genuine old English ballads and songs out of use and memory—in this ballad there are the lines which allude to the custom named:

"I thought you had been at the wedding,"
she cried,
"To wait on the squire and give him his bride."

And it has been pointed out that the same custom may be hinted at in the marriage service rubric—"The minister receiving the woman at her father's or friend's hands."

Among the Shropshire peasantry in quite recent years something of the old custom seems to have prevailed. Miss Burne, in her delightful book on "Shropshire Folklore," says that at weddings in humble life the bride's father is seldom and her mother never present. As a rule the only companions to church of the bride and groom are the best man and the bridesmaid. In such circumstances it is obvious that the lady must be given away by her lover's friend, on whose arm she has walked to church.

A still more curious thing is that it is considered lucky. Miss Burke tells us, for either the best man or the bridesmaid to be already married. "I have really seen," she writes, "a married woman acting as 'bridesmaid!'" Less than twenty years ago a Newport newspaper, describing a village wedding, said that Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so, of ——, "accompanied the happy couple and performed the offices of best man and bridesmaid, respectively."

Another old function of the bridemen, or bridesquires, as they were sometimes called, was to carry round the cake and the bridebowl. The bridebowl, or cup, was handed round at a wedding, so that the friends might drink the health of the newly married pair—a kind of loving-cup ceremony.

But before the proceedings had reached this pleasant point, it had been the duty of the bridemen to lift the bride over the threshold. This is an ancient and widespread custom, the meaning of which has caused much shedding of ink. In the west of Scotland, of old, says Mr. Napier, in his book on the folklore of that region, "the threhold of the house was disenchanted by charms, and by anointing it with certain unctuous perfumes, but as it was considered unlucky for the wife to tread upon the threshold on first entering her house, she was lifted over it and seated upon a piece of wood, a symbol of domestic industry."

The custom is not confined to European peoples, for a somewhat analogous practice exists in China, where the bride is carried into the house by a matron, and at the door is lifted over a pan of charcoal. Apart from marriage, even in this country, there are folk who are careful on entering a house to step over and not on the threshold. There is a world of lore, indeed, surrounding the subject of the threshold into which we cannot here enter.

The modern best man may feel thankful that his duties are not so onerous as those of his predecessors of long ago; nor need he trouble to be on his guard against unlucky omens, or on the watch to propitiate the uncertain goddess, Fate.

Intoxicated Wasps.

Wasps have a great fondness for overripe fruit, especially pears, plums and sweet apples. The sugar of these fruits has a tendency to pass into a kind of alcohol in the ordinary process of rotting, and after imbibing large quantities of this liquid the wasps become outrageously intoxicated. They crawl away in the grass in a semisomnolent condition and remain till the effects have passed off, when they will go at it again. It is while in this condition that they do their worst stinging. A person receiving a sting from one of these intoxicated wasps will suffer severely from nerve poisoning for days.

A Famous Anatomist.

Sir William Turner, K.C.B., the famous anatomist, who is now in London, presiding over the annual meeting of the General Medical Council, is one of the most active of septuagenarians. With these duties he combines those of the principalship of Edinburgh University and the editorship of a scientific journal. Sir William taught anatomy in Edinburgh for just under half a century, and his pupils fill anatomical chairs all over the Empire, one of them being his present successor. Sir William was for many years Darwin's expert adviser on anatomical points.

Sunlight Soap is recommended, by those who have investigated the different kind of soaps, as being the best and purest on the market. Those who have gone still farther and tried the different methods state that the Sunlight way of washing is greatly superior to ordinary methods because it requires much less work and makes the clothes whiter and cleaner. Because Sunlight Soap is quite pure and free from adulteration it will not injure delicate fabrics or the user's hands.

THE DEAR CHILDREN.

Some of the Funny Things They Do and Say in British Schools.

Of an equally unexpected nature was an answer which a teacher received from a lad during a lesson on "Moses and the burning bush."

The master asked:

"What was it that Moses had to do when standing before the burning bush?"

"Take off his shoes," replied one scholar.

"And after that?"

"Oh," replied the next lad, "take off his stockings and warm his feet!"

In a lesson on the prodigal son, a schoolmistress got a very amusing answer in connection with the surly conduct of the righteous brother who had never gone astray.

"How did the envious brother behave whilst the prodigal was being feasted inside their father's house?" the lady asked.

"He wouldn't go into the party," replied one mite of a girl, "but stopped outside and peeped through the letterbox to see what was going on."

The following anecdotes seem to show that teachers nowadays have special difficulties with Bible subjects. A diocesan inspector in the course of his examination asked the question:

"How is the date of Good Friday determined?"

Presently one boy answered:

"It is the date when Christmas day happens to fall on a Friday."

"No; next boy," said the inspector.

"It is the day when Jesus was born and children are good," was the reply.

In connection with this same day, too, another inspector had occasion to ask the question:

"Why do bakers place a cross on the buns that are to be eaten on Good Friday?"

And one business-like lad replied:

"So that he'll know his own buns again if any boy steals them!"

During a lesson on the origin of Palm Sunday, a lady teacher asked her class of boys and girls:

"What was the people's idea in scattering palm branches in the road?"

And one lad, who evidently considered the question quite easy, replied:

"So as to trip the donkey up, ma'am!"

Another inspector got a still more extraordinary piece of information from a Board school lad during an examination in French grammar.

"How is it that the French have not a possessive case?" he asked.

"The French would have possession if they could, sir," answered the lad, jumbling up his grammar and history together, "but the Germans won't let them!"

Mad Greatness Thrust Upon Him.

A recent issue of The London Star had the following: Capt. E. T. Troubridge, R.N., late Naval Attache at Tokio, a relative of Sir T. H. C. Troubridge, and a descendant of the gallant admiral who distinguished himself so highly at the battle of St. Vincent, is in the category of those who have greatness thrust upon them. In the morning paper of the 4th June, a report from the New York correspondent of a London paper was telegraphed from St. Petersburg, in which it was stated that: "Capt. Troubridge is responsible for Admiral Togo's successes, having planned the night attack on Port Arthur, and being present at it in person."

In view of the possibility that misunderstanding may be caused were this statement to remain uncontradicted, Capt. Troubridge writes to The Times from an address no further east that Chelsea, to say: "I was not responsible for Admiral Togo's successes; I did not plan the night attack on Port Arthur, and I was not present at it in person." This is fairly categorical and conclusive.

Necessary.

A young Scotch minister, with an exalted opinion of his forensic powers, said one morning to his man in the kirk: "I don't think, John, I need put the gown on. It's only an incumbrance, though some folk seem to think it makes a preacher more impressive."

Verger John—Aye, aye, sir. That's just it. It makes ye mair impressive, an' ye need it, sir; ye need it.—London Sporting Times.

RECORD PEAK-CLIMBING.

Mr. and Mrs. Workman Back in London From Himalayas.

Back from peak-climbing in the Northwest Himalayas, Dr. and Mrs. Bullock Workman are resting in a West End hotel in London.

For two years they have been exploring India, adding to the world's knowledge of the snow-covered mountains of the north, and riding awheel across the burning plains. The world's champion lady climber expresses in her face the determination, the physical fitness, and the courage needed for mountaineering.

"In 1899 we went to India, and in that summer mounted the Kosengunge, in the Himalayas," said Mrs. Workman recently. "That was 21,000 feet—higher, in fact, than any woman had ever climbed."

In the summer of 1902 Mrs. Workman and her husband made the exploration and ascent of the Chogo Lungma, a glacier in Baltistan, which is 30 miles long, two or three miles wide, and which rises at its source to a height of 19,000 feet.

Camped in Mummery tents in the snow for many nights together, they spent weeks far away from the nearest spot which human feet had trodden hitherto. The glacier was full of dangerous ice-falls and bottomless chasms. At some places immense avalanches threatened instant destruction.

Three record ascents were made in five days under the severest of condition. On Aug 12 two unnamed peaks were ascended, one being 21,500 feet high and the other 22,568 feet. Thus, twice in one day Mrs. Workman broke her own world's record.

Her husband went on still higher, climbing 23,394 feet up a mountain 24,470 feet high, and breaking the world's record for man by 311 feet.

On one occasion 15,000 feet high, the transport coolies bolted, and the couple were left with two guides and one or two servants in a snowstorm, which lasted for 60 hours. They were reduced to their last sticks of firing when more coolies, sent by the authorities to look for them, came to their assistance.

Dr. and Mrs. Workman are now busy writing their experiences. Two books are to be published, one dealing with their climbing and one describing their cycling trip of 14,000 miles across seldom-visited plains.

Honor to Dr. Morgan.

Dr. Henry J. Morgan, of Ottawa, who has just been elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, vice Bourinot, deceased, is, according to Who's Who, the son of one of Wellington's veterans who came to Canada in the Brigade of Guards, commanded by the hero of Hougomont. Born in the city of Quebec, he entered the public service under the eighth Earl of Elgin, and was successively keeper of State records and chief clerk of the Department of Secretary of State. Commencing with the tour of the Prince of Wales (now King Edward VII.), published in 1860, he has written a large number of important works relating to the history of his native country. He was the pioneer in two departments of local literature in the English language, biography and bibliography. He also originated the idea of a long service medal for the Canadian volunteer militia; and was one of the founders and leaders of the Canada First Party, 1869-70, being associated in that work with Lieut.-Col. G. T. Denison, the late R. G. Haliburton, the late W. A. Foster and Charles Mair, the poet. In 1903 he received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Ottawa.

Little Mrs. Blank

By CARL JOHNSON

Copyright, 1903, by Carl Johnson

If the ordinary household is upset by a theft you can realize how much worse things may be in an English house where from twelve to twenty guests are being entertained and where it would be rank insult to suspect any of them. The only way out in most cases is to lay it on to the servants and to send one or two of them packing, with twenty pound notes in their pocket alongside of a rather ambiguous certificate of character. But that doesn't bring entire satisfaction. There is the loss of the money or jewels, the humiliation of the host and the public scandal.

When the hunting season was about to open on a certain year Sir James wrote to Abraham Croft to pay him a business visit. It was not Croft's first. As a private inquiry agent he had been made use of on various occasions, and he was known to be up in his profession.

"I shall have ten gentlemen and twelve ladies in my house for two weeks, beginning on the 3d," said Sir James as he sat in the library with Croft. "Here is the list."

"Good people," commented Croft as he glanced at the names.

"None better, but I don't want anything to happen."

"I see."

"Lady Sparrow, for instance, will be sure to bring her £15,000 worth of diamonds and wear them every evening at dinner. She's proverbially careless of her jewels."

"Not a doubt of it."

"I think the rest may look out for themselves, but you must act as a guardian in a way for Lady Sparrow. You will be assistant butler for the time being."

"At your service, Sir James."

"I'll bank on my own servants, but you watch the gentlemen's valets and the ladies' maids, particularly Lady Sparrow's maid. That's all."

Among the guests was Mrs. Major Blank, whose husband was in the

SIR JAMES HELD UP HIS HANDS IN AMAZEMENT.

Fourteenth. She was handsome, petite and versatile, and she was generally spoken of as little Mrs. Blank. In a way she was not in the aristocratic set—in a money way. In another way she was popular, and it was the thing to invite her. Every hostess found her a valuable coadjutor in entertaining, and if the major never showed up and she flirted a bit with other men there was no one to speak ill of her. She was so mildly wicked, if wicked at all, that it didn't count. Of the twenty-two guests on the list she was the least known to Croft, and he was, therefore, prepared to watch her the closest. He had no sooner got sight of her, however, than he whispered to himself:

"I am way off there. She's got the innocence of a baby, and it would be time thrown away to watch her."

Lady Sparrow brought her diamonds, and she brought a new maid, and she sustained her reputation for carelessness. Sometimes Sir James coaxed her into letting him lock up the jewels for the night, but they were oftener left to the care of the maid or to no care at all.

"Bound to be picked up sooner or later," mused Croft, "and I shall keep an eye on the maid. She seems demure, but I believe she knows a thing or two."

On the twelfth day of her stay Lady Sparrow got out her diamonds at midafternoon and saw her maid brush them up a bit. They were then left lying in their box on the table while the owner lay down for a nap before dinner. When she awoke the box was gone.

"Queer case," said Croft to Sir James three hours later. "I laid it to the maid at first, but have found that she can prove a perfect alibi. She wasn't even in the house at the time the box was taken, nor can I find that any servant was within fifty feet of Lady Sparrow's room. No one could have entered by her windows, and of course the thief is inside the house. We are going to have trouble to locate him or her, however. I've questioned every servant, and I can't say that I suspect any of them."

"But you can't suspect any of the guests!" exclaimed Sir James in consternation.

"Not in the slightest. It's a rum go, and I've got my work cut out for me."

Two days later he had still nothing to report. The servants had been questioned and cross questioned, and valets and maids had been given the "third degree," and at length Croft was satisfied of the innocence of all the underlings.

"Then it was some slick thief who got in despite your vigilance," reproachfully observed Sir James.

"I should rather say it was one of your twenty-two guests," doggedly replied the agent.

"But think of it, man!"

"Aye, I'm thinking, Sir James."

"Who among them can you possibly suspect? Why, sir, it's simply monstrous. I'd sooner pay for the jewels twice over than to hint that one of my guests is under suspicion. No, no, Croft. It's a queer case, and the thief was too much for you, and I'll pay the loss and hush up the talk."

"But I want to remain here for a week or ten days," said the agent. "I confess to being puzzled now, but my reputation is at stake, and I must try and solve the mystery."

He was told to remain and do his best, and that night as he lay in his bed he whispered in his own ears:

"It's dollars to cents that the jewels were taken by a guest. Now, who would be the soonest suspected and who the last? Let's say that Lady Sparrow stole her own diamonds, she being a seeker after notoriety. That charge won't hold, however, as she turned her whole baggage out for inspection and her fainting away when she discovered her loss was the genuine thing. Now, who is last? Why, little Mrs. Blank, of course. I'll stake all on her innocence, but I'm going to watch her. Her room is five doors away, and she says she was out on the lawn from 4 to 5 on the afternoon of the robbery, but let us see what can be turned up."

Detective Croft did something in doing nothing. He wouldn't tell Sir James or any of the guests his thoughts, and to have tried to watch the little woman as she flitted about would have been ridiculous. He therefore passed most of his time in the conservatory wondering where he could take hold of the case. On his first day he saw little Mrs. Blank enter the place twice and wander about and sing to herself. On the second day she was in and out three times. On the third day she slyly took from her pocket a letter which she read with considerable agitation and, womanlike, dropped it on the floor as she went out. She returned for it in five minutes, but Croft had possessed himself of the contents.

"Well?" briskly demanded Sir James as the agent asked for an interview that evening.

"I think I have found the jewels," was the reply.

"You think, but don't you know?"

"Not exactly. I have saved the pleasure for you. Let us go into the conservatory and lock the door."

"Well?" again queried Sir James in impatient tones.

"You have several artificial plants in tubs, your honor, and this one in particular is so light that even a woman could lift it. Will you please have it out?"

Sir James looked at the agent in a puzzled way, but seized the plant and lifted it from the tub and then held up his hands in amazement. At the bottom of the tub was the missing jewel box with contents intact.

"You see," said Croft, "in three or four days more the box would have gone home with one of your guests."

"Croft," said Sir James as he laid his hand on the man's shoulder, "you must know the thief?"

"I do, Sir James."

"But don't tell me his name. I'll send him off with £50 in his pocket and not even read him a moral lecture."

"Right you are, Sir James," replied Croft as the ghost of a smile stole over his face, and he winked at himself.

County Names.

County names in the New England and middle Atlantic states are almost exclusively of English or Indian origin. In the border states of the south they are chiefly English, in the gulf states English and Indian, with French in Louisiana and traces of Spanish origin in Florida and Texas. In the Mississippi valley they are again of English and Indian origin, with some French names coming down from the Jesuit explorers. In the Rocky mountain states they are again English and Indian, with a larger proportion of the latter than elsewhere, and on the Pacific coast Spanish county names again crop out. Texas has a Deaf Smith county, about the only instance of a nickname having been fixed upon an important political division. A pretty fair history of the political and social influences at work in the early development of a state could be written from a study of county names.

The Youngest Bandmaster.

The honor of being the youngest bandmaster in the United Kingdom holding the King's commission belongs to Lieut. H. G. Amers of the Northumberland Hussars and the 1st Northumberland Garrison Artillery Volunteers. Lieut. Amers is a conductor of marked ability, and the performance of his band always bears testimony to his skill, his care, and his popularity among those who are under his direction. Although still in the "twenties," Lieut. Amers' musical experience is considerable. He took over the management of several bands at the age of nineteen, and has since wielded the baton in many places and before critical audiences. He is, of course, most widely known in Newcastle, but Glasgow and other towns in the north have had many opportunities of passing judgment on his performances. Some time ago he brought his band to London, where its performances won much praise. At Brussels his band caused such enthusiasm that the young conductor was seized by the crowd and carried shoulder high through the building; he was presented with the Palm of Honor, and the Administrative Council of the Brussels Exhibition bestowed upon him a jewelled decoration.—Daily Graphic.

No Joke to Entertain Royalty.

What a relief it must be to the hosts when a royal visit is satisfactorily ended! The preparations for it are wonderfully troublesome. Imagine having to furnish the royal apartments throughout, bedrooms and sitting-rooms—every royalty must have a private sitting-room—with everything new. One wonders how the "old furniture" mania fits in with this rule of etiquette. And the royal family in general are great Chippendale, Sheraton, etc., collectors themselves.—London Truth.

Japs Lost Ten Guns.

Tatchekiao, July 19.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Sharp fighting was reported yesterday to the northwest, and it is stated that the Japanese lost 10 guns. Their forces were pushed back and their positions occupied as far as Saimatsze. If this report be true, it indicates a heavy engagement.

Carlyle and Disraeli.

Carlyle was once offered a baronetcy by Lord Beaconsfield. To his brother he wrote: "The enclosed letter and copy of my answer ought to go to you as a family curiosity and secret—nobody whatever yet knows of it beyond our two selves, except Lady Derby, whom I believe to be the contriver of the whole affair. You would have been surprised, all of you, to have found unexpectedly your poor old brother Tom converted into Sir Tom, Bart., but, alas, there was no danger at any moment of such a catastrophe. I do, however, truly admire the magnanimity of Dizzy in regard to me. He is the only man I almost never spoke of except with contempt, and if there is anything of scurrility anywhere chargeable against me I am sorry to own he is the subject of it; and yet see, here he comes with a pan of hot coals for my guilty head! I am, on the whole, gratified a little within my own dark heart at this mark of the good will of high people."

What Mrs. Stanley Wrote.

The death of Stanley recalls many anecdotes not only of the great explorer, but of his beautiful widow, who was Miss Dorothy Tennant. She and her sister were brought into some unenviable notoriety by E. F. Benson's "Dodo," which one of them is said to have inspired. While the novel was the rage the author wrote to Miss Tennant:

Dear Miss Tennant—The whole world is talking about you and about my book. When may I call?

For reply he was told:

Dear Mr. Benson—Have you really written a book? How sweet of you! Call any time.

But she was never at home.

Bula Matari.

It is very fitting that the native name for Stanley, "Bula Matari," should form part of the inscription on his coffin. It means, we believe, "The Rock Breaker," and expresses the African conception of the highest kind of physical power. To the great majority of the natives with whom he came in contact Stanley was an entirely superhuman being, and yet he was not, physically speaking, a particularly strong man. It was his extraordinary will power which made him appear of gigantic strength to men who could easily have picked him up and carried him in their arms.—London Globe.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"If women would study the laws of health and use a little more common sense there would not be such a large number to-day suffering with the ills peculiar to our sex," writes Mrs. Sallie Martins (President Mutual Social Science Club), of 180 South Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill. "Then when medicine is needed if they would take the 'Favorite Prescription,' they would have a chance to get well. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription three years ago and it cured me of female weakness of several years' standing, so I know what I am talking about when I praise it and always know what the result will be where it is used."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

BEAUTIFUL KEENE'S PROGRAMME OF PROGRESS

The Spirit of Beauty and Neatness Animates its Citizens.

The work of the Village Improvement Association.

An apt variant of the engraving upon the mural tablet set up in St. Paul's Cathedral in memory of its great architect, Sir Christopher Wren, is suggested by a visit to the little village of Keene, nestling in the valley of the Indian River and the embosoming hills. This tablet bears the legend—Si monumentum quaeris, circumspice. In like manner, being in Keene, if you wish to see a model rural village, look about you.

Visitors who have seen many lands and many places in Canada say that there is not in the whole country a more beautifully situated, neater and more cleanly-kept village than Keene. While few of the houses have much architectural pretentions, all are neat, clean and comfortable, nearly all of wood, nearly all bright with clean paint, and nearly all with trim, tidy well-shaven lawns, this rainy season as green in July as the lawns in town, and bright with blooming flowers. East of the main street of the village, yclept High, lies dreaming in idyllic beauty the gorge-like valley of the Indian River, a mass of green trees, except where the straying stream winds its silent way, slipping between mossy boulders and breaking into a delta of fine branches, locally known as "The Forks," which unite in a single stream, which like a liquid corkscrew, bores its way between sedgy bottom or tree-land shore to Rice Lake. The eastern scarp of the valley or rather ravine opposite the village is clothed with a dense growth of trees, now, in mid July, green and fresh as June. By the way the forks are a charming spot, which cannot so much be seen as felt, for it is only by exploring them with a canoe that their enchanting beauty, their elusive charm can be known—elusive charm—for the several streams either creep hidden under the boughs of overhanging trees which quiver at the touch of the slow sliding current, or ripple lazily through bordering sedges, mixed with the glassy leaves of the sweet smelling, snow-petaled water lily. The "whole boundless continent" doesn't contain a sweeter beauty spot than "the forks" of the Indian River at Keene—a beauty like that of some modest natures, which we do not know till it is revealed by intimate touch with them.

Keene is a beautiful and restful spot, a mingling of quiet bits of urban charm and rustic simplicity. One can hear the rattle of a lawn mower on a cottage green and at the same time, the whirr of a farm mower or reaper, not a hundred feet away—in the meadows or grain fields that encroach upon and mingle imperceptibly with the village bounds. In the evening—in the gloaming—after the days toil the gossiping groups that gather around the village green, or what answers for it, are composed as largely of farmers' sons as village lads. Here the current of life flows serenely. There are no keen-cut social distinctions, no extremes of wealth and poverty. There is, however, it is said, more, money per head in Keene, than in many large towns and cities. But the fortunate possessors make no ostentatious display of it, in person, premises or equipage, being apparently content to forego the glory of appearances for the comforting consciousness of a fat bank account or a first mortgage "on approved security." Abject poverty is unknown in the village; there being only one family that is an object of occasional charitable assistance.

The people live together in almost patriarchal conditions. They work together with the greatest harmony in the common interest. Though like a carefully watched kettle, which bubbling busily within, does not boil over, the little jealousies, envyings and heart-burnings, that always pervade all human associations, are felt in Keene society as elsewhere, they do not break out. The people live together in harmony, on almost communistic principles. The strongest tie is the aesthetic taste so largely developed and so generally distributed. In a little village with a population of about 350 one would hardly expect to see long stretches of granolithic pavement and trim and well-shaven lawns that would do credit, so far as character goes, to a city. Yet this is the fact and the result of the co-operation of the citizens.

HOW IT IS DONE.

There exists in Keene a "Village Improvement Association," whose object is to keep neat and clean and beautify the village, now in its third year of existence. This Association is so largely unique and in every way so commendable in both principle and practice, that it deserves a little attention on furnishing an example which might well be followed on a proportionate scale, in Peterborough.

Three or four years ago some of the more public-spirited residents of the village began talking the matter over amongst themselves, and the result was that a meeting was held at the residence of Mr. Wm. Drummond, one of the prime movers of the matter. The official record of this meeting is as follows:—

Keene, Feb. 26th, 1902.

A meeting was held on the above date at the residence of Mr. Wm. Drummond, for the purpose of suggesting methods for improving and beautifying the village. There were present:—Dr. Harrison, Wm. Read, M. Kennedy, James Henderson, Robert English, Wm. Drummond and A. Shearer.

On motion Wm. Drummond was appointed chairman and A. Shearer, secretary.

At the meeting the following suggestions were made, namely:—

1.—That a Village Improvement Association be formed.

2.—That a public meeting be held to organize said association.

3.—That a day be set apart for improving and beautifying the village, such day to be called "Village Improvement day" and that the day be a public holiday.

4.—That to carry out the above suggestions a committee of five members be appointed, one of which should be chairman of said committee.

On motion the chairman and secretary were instructed to call a public meeting in the latter part of March to consider the above suggestions or any others that may be made. The meeting discussed methods of grading the streets, planting and preserving shade trees, building sidewalks, etc., but no definite decision with regard to these methods was reached.

An enthusiastic meeting was held in the town hall on April 4th, 1902. The committee of management appointed consisted of Dr. Harrison, Messrs. Jas. Henderson, William Drummond, T. J. Wallace.

Thus the Association was launched, and its first work was done on Arbour Day, the first Friday in May, 1902. The previous evening the plan of campaign had been arranged, "house cleaning," so to speak, to begin at the eastern and western extremities of the village, respectively. Mr. Jas. Henderson was appointed to oversee operations on the western end, and Mr. Wm. Drummon on the east, and a large lot of volunteer labour, armed with rakes, spades and physical energy, set to work to thoroughly clean the streets. The loose stones were removed from the highway, sidewalks repaired, all unsightly objects and rubbish raked up and carted to the marsh.

At a meeting held on June 4th, it was decided to build concrete sidewalks. The beginning of sidewalk work was on Front street, where the council laid down about 500 feet of walk. In the same year 500 feet was laid by the Association on High street, and in 1903 an additional 500 feet was put down on Front street, and this year the concrete work will be continued on High street for a farther distance of 500 feet. On this street, where built on so far (and the same work will be continued), the deep ditch bordering the old walk is filled in, after a tile pipe has been laid to carry off the storm water, and the trench filled in, and neatly levelled. This admits of keeping the boulevard easily clean and mown, when necessary.

THE SINEWS OF WAR.

The "sinews of war,"—the funds needed to carry on the work of the Association—come from two or three sources. In response to a petition, the township council decided to allow the people of Keene to pay into the funds the amount represented by the commutation of statute labour. Then of the road grant given to every road division, that for the Keene division goes into the fund. The chief source of income, or, at least, a large one, is derived from entertainments and conducted under the auspices of the Entertainment Committee of the Association. The Association is affiliated with the Township Council by the fact that all the Association funds are paid into the township treasurer, receipts given and taken, and charged to a special account, which is regularly audited with the township accounts. The ambition and energy of the Association lead to the expenditure anticipating the receipts. In 1902 the receipts were $349.45, and the expenditures, $445.42, leaving a deficit of $44.15. The deficit for 1903 was $95.97. But the work has to be done and the funds come someway. At the last annual meeting a call was made for private subscriptions, and $42 was secured on the spot. Seeing that so much money comes from entertainments held in the town hall, the Association brought about the improvement of the hall by removing the pillars that obstructed the view, substituting truss rods, rearranging the platform, etc. A new porch to serve as a ticket office was erected. To secure these improvements the Association contributed a share of the expense.

The Association is doing good work and interest in its objects is growing. Some who were lukewarm, or indifferent, at first, are becoming active members and cooperating, and by paying greater attention to the tidiness of their own premises, are helping forward the objects of the Association. A few years ago there were only three or four lawn mowers in use in the village, now there are over a score.

The Association has done much to improve the beauty of the village, and win for it the well-deserved reputation of being the prettiest, tidiest and cleanest village in the district. There are more weeds and untidiness on a certain single lot in Peterborough than in the whole village of Keene. The activities of the Association are not confined to the streets and private premises. The plot of about six acres, used as an exhibition ground, has been purpurchased by the joint action of the village, the township and the Otonabee Agricultural Society, and by joint voluntary labour freely, if not enthusiastically offered, the plot has been stumped, the large stones removed, and trees planted. The next step will be to level it and seed it down to grass. Thus is provided an excellent place for a variety of purposes. It will serve as a park for the villagers, a recreation ground where football, baseball and other games can be played, as well as an exhibition ground. The central green is surrounded by a good race track. This park will in future make a beautiful resort and meeting place for the villagers, when the trees now planted, and others which should, and doubtless will be, planted, are grown so as to provide a shade. The park is on high ground at the edge of the ravine at the east. It overlooks to the south-east, Indian River—in glimpses—and Rice Lake, with the blue Northumbrian hills for background.

But the Association has its work cut out in the way of improvement. The one blot upon the beauty and fair fame of Keene is the presence of cows and other cattle, upon the streets. The Association will never be able to reach its highest ideal of beauty while cows are allowed to run at large. At present the streets of Keene are not like the Promised Land—flowing with milk and honey—they are flowing with milk, but there the parallel ends.

Keene has other needs beside the exile of the vagrant cow. And the one need is that of electric light, which is engaging the attention of the citizens and the Village Improvement Association. Two means of securing this are talked over: About a mile north of the bridge and Government wharf, is a dam which can be made to develop fifty horse power. This power, at present partially developed, runs Wedlock's chopping and sawing mills. If an electric generator were installed, the power could be run at night, and furnish electricity for lighting. Another proposition is to stretch a line of wire from one of the power plants at Peterborough and transmit electricity to Keene, and, incidentally, furnish light to many farm houses en route.

Such is a brief sketch of the work, actual, prospective and potential, of the Keene Village Improvement Association — long life and good luck to it.

LATEST SPORT

BASEBALL.

Toronto dropped another game to Newark yesterday.

• • • •

Don't miss the game with Cobourg to-morrow. It will be a corker.

Bowmanville went to Lindsay yesterday and won by 3-1. The batteries were:—For Lindsay,—McLaughlin and Cinnamon; for Bowmanville, Hooper and Weeks.

• • • •

The married men of Auburn Woollen Mills do thereby challenge the Peter Hamilton team or any other manufacturing team in town for a game of baseball; to be played any evening next week. James R. Rutherford, manager.

• • • •

Poor old Lindsay. What a shock it must have been to the nerves of Cinnamon and the sporting editor of the Post, when Bowmanville trimmed the clippers by 3-1 yesterday. Good for Bowmanville. The question is, how will the Post explain it. Bet they'll blame it all on the umpire.

• • • •

Cressman's Counter Hoppers played baseball last evening against a picked team of the grocers and won by a score of 8-6 and an innings to spare. Three innings were played. The teams were:—Cressman's,—B. Gillespie, p.; A. Gillespie, c.; F. Cressman, 1 b.; F. Boyd, 2 b.; B. Bell, 3 b.; F. Cressman, s. s.; W. Harper, outfield. Grocers,—Cunningham, p; Belleghem, c.; S. Oake, 1 b.; Toyne, 2 b.; Thompson, 3 b.; Bullard, s. s.; Harrison, outfield. Mr. Hulf umpired the game.

LACROSSE.

The game to-night between the T.A.S. and Millbrook will be called at 6.30 o'clock, sharp. Both teams are playing fast lacrosse at present and though the local team is confident of winning, they expect a hard game. There should be a large turn out of the supporters of the red and black.

RICHARD HALL EMPLOYEES' OUTING DOWN THE RIVER

Dressmaking Departments Enjoyed Themselves This Week.

On Wednesday, the young ladies of Miss Reid's dress making department in connection with Richard Hall & Sons' store, with a few of their lady and gentleman friends enjoyed a trip down the river to Gore's Landing. The steamer North Star was chartered for the occasion. The day was a most pleasant one and the outing was in every particular a most successful one.

Yesterday morning the young ladies of Miss Mercier's dress making department took an outing to Idyl Wyld per steamer Water Lily. They were also accompanied by a number of their friends, both ladies and gentlemen, and spent a most enjoyable time. About 60 were in the party.

McMASTER BANDS' LARGE AUDIENCES

Church Last Night Was Again Crowded to the Doors.

Interesting Addresses by the Young Men—The Music Especially Enjoyed.

The McMaster Band continues to draw large crowds and the meetings are growing in interest and spiritual power.

The quartette opened the meeting last night with "The Beautiful Land," by request. It was well rendered and told immediately on the great audience. The youngest member of the Band gave the first address. The attention of all was instantly rivetted by the statement "I am not a lawyer, but I shall deal now with legal questions." There is the law of nations, the law of nature, and the law of God, and we must obey—or pay the penalty. Among the multitude which no man could number are eyes that weeped, but now their tears are wiped away; hearts that ached, but every sigh is hushed. But away across the gulf there is one solitary soul in deepest anguish, who says, "I might have!" "I might!" Yes you may be saved. Let him put your heart in tune. A solo, "Come Back to Jesus," with guitar accompaniment, followed.

Mr. Hilts then rose and announced his text, "Christ is not slack concerning his promises as some men count slackness, but is long suffering." Not slack through ignorance or impatience, but waits patiently — holds back the vengeance which ought to fall on our sin and guilt.

The sacrifice God made in the gift of Jesus shows His willingness to forgive and save.

The quartette sang in splendid voice, "Just as I Am," and as they sat down, Mr. Cameron rose to close the meeting, giving as the invitation God's word to Noah, "Come Thou and all thy house into the ark.

The most successful after meeting of the series followed and a very large number went into the inquiry room.

Arrangements are being made for an overflow meeting in the school room, the singers and speakers to pass from one place to the other.

Took Paris Green.

Barrie, July 22.—James Keenan, superintendent of the Barrie Waterworks Department, committed suicide Wednesday afternoon by taking Paris Green. Some months ago he lost his left hand through blood poisoning, and the commissioners had recently advertised for a new superintendent.

Wolf Kills Shepherdess.

Madrid, July 22.—A young shepherdess was killed by a wolf at Cabrera, in the Province of Leon, yesterday. The animal then attacked another shepherdess, when a youth, who was armed with a razor, came to her rescue. He attacked the wolf and killed it, but was dangerously injured. A public subscription has been opened in recognition of his heroism.

Victim of Elevator.

Ottawa, July 22.—Dr. William McPhee, dentist, is dead, as the result of an elevator accident yesterday afternoon. He was in the elevator at the Bank street chambers and attempted to get out at the wrong door with disastrous results.

His Life For Others.

Winnipeg, July 21.—Tuesday evening seven men were bathing in the Morris River, when two drifted over the dam. A young fellow, J. Casswell, an expert swimmer, dived in to help them. The former two got safely to shore, but Casswell got caught in the whirlpool and was too exhausted to get out again. He sank after five minutes.

RUSSIAN LOSSES WERE VERY HEAVY.

They Again Suffer Defeat at the Hands of the Japanese.

KUROKI OCCUPIES KIAOTUNG.

One Thousand Russians Were Killed or Wounded—Japanese Loss Was 424—Jap Troops Drove the Russians From Their Strongly Fortified Position on the Chi River—Retreat a Route.

Tokio, July 23.—General Kuroki, after a severe fight, occupied Kiaotung on July 19. The place had been fortified by the Russians, who defended it stoutly. In the fighting General Kuroki's troops drove the Russians from their strongly fortified position on the Chi River, which is northwest of Motien Pass, and east of Anping, inflicting upon the enemy more serious losses than they sustained themselves. The fight began on the 18th, and ended on the 19th. The Japanese lost 424 men in killed and wounded. The Russian losses are estimated at 1,000.

Attacked Japanese Vigorously.

General Kuroki began his advance early on the morning of the 18th. He covered and followed the enemy along the Chi River. The Russians seemed to be retiring to the northward, when suddenly two battalions, with eight guns, turned and attacked the Japanese advance vigorously. At this point the Japanese suffered before the relief came, one company losing all its officers. At a late hour in the afternoon the Russians' position was developed. They occupied an eminence on the bank of the Chi. This river guarded their left flank and high precipices protected the Russians on the right. The only approach to their position was through a narrow defile. The fighting continued until dark, when the Japanese forces bivouacked. The Russians made two counter attacks, but were repulsed in each case.

Fighting Resumed at Dawn.

The Japanese renewed the attack at midnight, posting their artillery in the valley below and on the high ground to the south of the Russian position. The main Japanese body was assigned to attack the Russian centre, a small detachment was sent toward the right flank and another to watch the enemy's left flank. After these positions had been taken, the fighting ceased for a time, but it was resumed at dawn. The Russians had thirty-two guns in action, and they vigorously shelled the Japanese. To this fire the Japanese replied, and the bombardment lasted for four hours. During this time the Japanese infantry moved forward, the flankers had succeeded in scaling the heights on the Russian right by 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at which hour the main force was ordered to storm the Russian centre. The Japanese artillery protected this move splendidly, but the infantry met with a severe fire, and lost heavily in gaining the heights. The final successful charge was delivered at half-past five in the afternoon.

Retreat a Rout.

The Japanese succeeded in partially cutting off the Russian retreat and it soon became a rout. The enemy went in two directions, to the northward and to the eastward. The Russian forces engaged and included, in addition to the artillery, seven battalions of infantry and a regiment of Cossacks. The enemy left 131 dead and 500 rifles on the field. Prisoners taken estimated the Russian losses at 1,000. The Japanese lost one officer and 54 men killed, and one officer and 350 wounded.

On July 19 Japanese forces attacked a battalion of infantry, who occupied Chochiato, to the northward of Shaotientszua. After four hours of fighting, the Russians retired across the Taitsu River. In this engagement the Japanese had 17 men wounded.

Cremating the Dead.

General Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, July 20, via Fusan, Corea, July 23.—The Japanese attack on the Russians at Kiaotung Thursday resulted in another Russian disaster. Kiaotung is 25 miles from these headquarters. Few details of the engagement have been received, but they indicate that the fighting was fierce. The Russians had more than one division engaged and the artillery was used freely. The Russians are fortifying new positions before Motien Pass. There were more men killed in the fighting of Sunday, July 17, than can be buried, and the Japanese are now engaged in cremating the bodies.

Joined Northern Fleet.

London, July 23.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburg says it is reported there that cruisers said to have been bought by Russia in Germany have joined the Vladivostock squadron, which went to sea especially to meet them.

SHOOTING AT BISLEY.

Two Canadians in Third Stage of King's Prize—One Member in Last Stage of St. George's Match.

Bisley Camp, July 23.—The Canadian team yesterday did fairly well. The garden party given by the Canadian team was largely attended by a large number of visitors. Lord Strathcona presented the gold watch to Corp. McGregor as first Canadian in the Grand Aggregate, and also made the presentation of a silver tea service to Sergt. Crowe as winner of the Canada Company Prize. In the Grand Aggregate, Corp. R. McGregor scored 319 out of a possible 350. Other Candians in the prize list are: Staff-Sergt. Crowe 317, Pte. A. Baynton 310, Pte. Neil Smith 310, Capt. Crowe 310.

The King's Prize.

Major W. P. Moore, Pte. J. W. Smith and 21 others shot for two places in the third stage of the King's Prize at 800 yards.

The Canadians scored in the second stage of the King's Prize at 600 yards as follows:

Baynton 32, Sergt. Crowe 33, McGregor 35, Moore 33, Perry 92, N. Smith 32, Bayles 35, J. W. Smith 34.

The Rev. Mr. Ferguson, chaplain of the Punjab Light Infantry, won the silver medal in the King's Prize competition with a score of 192 points. The following are the Canadian aggregates: Pte. Perry 186, Corp. McGregor 181. Sergt. Crowe, Major Moore and Pte. J. W. Smith 179. Perry and McGregor are entitled to compete in the final stage.

Sergt. Crowe, Sergt. Bayles, Baynton and Smith each win £80 in the King's Prize. Moore wins £60.

In the range prizes in the King's Prize match at 200 yards, Canadians came in as follows. 5, Staff-Sergt. Bayles, £1; 18, Pte. Neil Smith, £1.

Corp. R. McGregor of Ottawa won the tie for second place in the King's Prize range prizes competition, at 600 yards. He wins a rifle and £3.

The Wingrove Match.

In the Wingrove match, 10 shots at 800 yards, the first prize for which is a £25 silver cup, Staff-Sergt. Bayles of the 10th Royal Grenadiers scored nine bulls and a magpie, making 48 out of a possible 50.

St. George's Vase.

In the St. George's Vase, at 500 yards, Capt. Crowe was 139th, winning £2; Sgt. W. Gould was 140th; Lance-Corp. Fowler of Toronto, 147th; Color-Sergt. Will, 174th, and Corp. R. McGregor, 202nd, each of them winning £2.

Pte. Perry is the only Canadian who has qualified for the second stage of the St. George's Challenge Vase at 900 yards.

In the Doubles.

In the Doubles match, Capt. Blair and Pte. Perry made a score of 61 out of a possible 70 at 600 yards. These matches are shot off every day. The first prize is £5.

In the Gregory match, at 200 yards, Canadians scored as follows: 7, Staff-Sgt. Bayles, £2; 16, Capt. R. Dillon, £1 7s; 17, Lance-Sergt. Fowler, £1 7s; 86, Major W. P. Moore, £1; 38, Pte. Neil Smith, £1.

The Canadian team won the Tilton competition, open to one team of eight. The prize is £25 and silver medals.

Re Telegraphers.

Ottawa, July 23.—Mr. McGuigan, of the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Biggar, solicitor of the company, had an interview with the Minister of Labor in regard to the trouble between the company and the telegraphers into which there is to be compulsory arbitration.

Released on Bail.

St. Catharines, July 23.—In the police court yesterday afternoon, Charles Brooker, John Byron, Robert Darling, Frank Coughlin, Charles Doyle, John Epler and Robert McCann, all Riordan Paper Mills strikers, were committed for trial upon a charge of notoriously assembling and assaulting R. A. Nicholas of the Noble Detective Agency, Toronto, on the night of July 11. The men all elected to go to a jury. They were released on $200 bail each.

Suicide By Carbolic Acid.

Ottawa, July 23.—The body of Alfred Powell, a man well known in the city, aged 27 years, was found dead at Rockliffe Park yesterday afternoon. A bottle of carbolic acid by his side told the tale of suicide. He was a victim of drink and had been out of work for some time. He had apparently been dead two days when found.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE MORE BRITISH SHIPS

Two Steamers Taken in the Red Sea by Russians.

Heavy Firing Reported Off Tokio Bay—The Vladivostock Fleet Thought to be Busy.

Special C. N. W. Despatches to the Examiner.

London, July 23rd. — Count Benkendoff, the Russian ambassador, has received official verification from St. Petersburg, reporting the capture of two more British ships in the Red Sea, and instructions from his Government to notify Great Britain that the same procedure will be followed as in the case of the Malacca, namely, the vessels will be taken to a neutral port for examination by the consuls of the two nations concerned.

Tokio, July 23rd. — A telegram this afternoon reports heavy firing at 10.30 a.m., off Losen Peninsula, which is at the east entrance to Tokio Bay. It is presumed the shots were fired by the Russians' Vladivostock squadron, which, according to fishermen, is in that vicinity.

A FREAK AT SEA.

If Russia has no intention of creating fresh trouble for herself, and yields to the demand of the British Government for the release of the Malacca, the question in every one's mind will be, why such an incident was ever allowed to occur. It is difficult to believe that anyone, still less a sailor, could have so little knowledge of the comity of nations as to suppose that recent proceedings in the Red Sea would be tolerated. The Admiral who persuaded himself that he could prowl around that virually British channel, vexing the shipping of the world, and get away with it, should really be examined as to his mental condition. International law has been described as a set of rules which hold good so long as you are able to enforce them. At no time in her history has Russia been able to lay down fancy canons of international law at sea, and never was she in a worse condition to do so than now, when her fleet has been irretrievably discredited.

The superficial facts seem to warrant the conclusion that the purpose of such wanton acts must be to force a quarrel on Britain, for it was difficult to believe that any seaman in his right mind could persuade himself that they would be tamely endured by a powerful and high-spirited nation. Hard upon that conclusion came the query, what earthly object could be served by increasing Russia's foes at this juncture? The convenient reply offered itself, that the object was to involve France through the stipulation that she was bound to come to Russia's aid when attacked by more than one power. The reply is not satisfactory, however, for every such obligation must be interpreted in a rational sense. Surely France would not be bound by any deliberate purpose of her ally to bring about the state of things contingent upon her action. If the obligation to aid were capable of being brought into operation by any act of folly of which the captain of a semi-privateer might be guilty, it would have to be deemed that an alliance with Russia was rather a perilous affair.

When we remember, however, that Germany was the first nation to suffer from the unaccountable antics of the volunteer fleet, the probability that a quarrel with Britain was sought is very much weakened, and we are thrown back on the primary supposition that the offending vessels are in charge of some freakish personage who should no be abroad without a guardian. There can be little doubt that his giddy career will be immediately cut short, the Malacca will be released, apologies made and compensation promised.—Globe.

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck, you cannot afford to trust it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissues, and revitalizes the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

SUBSTANTIAL GROWTH.

The growth of immigration to Ontario, during the last few years is shown by the following figures given out by the Commissioner of Crown Lands. They cover the arrivals at the Ontario Government immigration office, conducted by the Department of Crown Lands at the Union Station, Toronto, and are for the first six months of each of the years mentioned:—

1898	780
1900	912
1901	1,289
1902	2,729
1903	6,678
1904	4,403

These figures do not include the thousands who have reached the province and gone direct to places of employment or to friends in different parts, but only those who have reported to the officer at the depot.

PASSED MANY A SLEEPLESS NIGHT

Till He Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets —They Set H. S. Barnes Right on his Feet.

Hot Weather and Indigestion travel hand in hand, each helping to make the other more disagreeable. For when the stomach lags in its work the body grows weak and weakened bodies cannot stand inconveniences of any kind.

The remedy is to help the stomach and the help the stomach needs is contained in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Those who have used them will tell you that. H. S. Barnes of Rat Portage has used them and he says:

"I was a victim of Dyspepsia and reading of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets led me to try them. The effect was marvellous. They set me right on my feet after having spent many a sleepless night suffering from disordered condition of the stomach."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all stomach ailments. One or two Tablets taken after a hearty meal is an insurance policy against discomfort of any kind.

How to Keep Dominant.

London, July 22.—In the Commons yesterday, Joseph Chamberlain, defending, as member of Parliament for West Birmingham, the introduction of Chinese labor into the Transvaal, which policy was inaugurated while he was colonial secretary, contended that white laborers would not work side by side with black laborers on equal terms, and he thought the white men were right. He added: "As the dominant race, if we admitted equality with inferior races, we would lose the power which gave us our dominance."

DECISION OF COMMISSION.

Three Railways Will Share Equally in the Expropriation of Toronto's Burnt District—Ownership in G.T.R.

Ottawa, July 23.—The burnt district in Toronto, bounded by York and Yonge and Front streets and the Esplanade, will within the next few days be formally handed over to the railways. Ownership of the property will be vested in the Grand Trunk Railway, subject to arrangements which the company will be required to make with the C.P.R. and the Canadian Northern as to a Union Station and terminal facilities.

This solution of the applications of rival railway companies for power to expropriate the burnt district was reached at a meeting of the Railway Commission held yesterday. It was facilitated by the withdrawal of the application of the Canadian Northern at a moment when the union seemed hopelessly complicated. The result is that the G.T.R. is satisfied, the C. P. R. is satisfied, the Canadian Northern is satisfied and the city of Toronto will have to be satisfied.

Guilty of Wife Murder.

Halifax, N. S., July 23.—Thomas Robinson was yesterday found guilty of the murder of his wife, Theresa Atland, on North Mountain, Nova Scotia. The crime was committed on the night of May 25. The evidence showed that the woman had been strangled to death and her body hacked to pieces and the house then fired, in order to hide the crime. Robinson is 50 years old.

Strike Declared Off.

Sydney, N.S., July 23.—The strike was declared off at a meeting of the sub-council of the P.W.A. yesterday morning, men returning to work at wages received previous to June 1.

A DISASTER AVERTED

Steam Yacht Castanet Afire on the River St. Lawrence.

AWNINGS ABLAZE TO STERN

Half a Mile From Shore a Sheet of Flame Shot Up Through the Hatchways and 150 Passengers Huddled Fore and Aft in Fear—All Were, However, Transferred Safely to the Nokomis.

Clayton, N.Y., July 23.—The steam yacht Castanet of the Visger line, returning from Kingston yesterday afternoon with a load of 150 excursionists, caught fire in midstream and only by the most fortunate circumstances was an awful accident averted. The yacht was four miles from Kingston and half a mile from shore; a stiff breeze was blowing and the passengers were enjoying the ride when suddenly, without a sound of warning, a sheet of flame shot up through the hatchways.

The passengers at once ran to the ends of the boat. The flames swept up to the canvas awnings, and in a moment these were ablaze to the stern. While the passengers were huddled forward and aft in fear, the engineer and firemen crawled from the flames of the engine room. The crew had meanwhile caught up armfuls of life preservers, which they handed to the passengers. Then they began to fight the blaze. The captain, Barney Nunn, turned his boat from its course, heading it for the shore, followed by the steam yacht Nokomis, which was a mile away when the blaze burst out.

The burning boat was beached on Cedar Island, and in a moment the Nokomis was run behind her. The transfer of passengers was quickly made without the loss of life and the united efforts of both crews extinguished the blaze. Engineer Charles Wood and his son, Raymond Wood, the fireman, were both badly burned, but will recover. The cause of the accident was an explosion of gas in the fire box, which threw the fires out into the engine room and down the galleys. The boat was a handsome excursion yacht, built in 1898. The damage to her can be repaired.

Drowned Near Berlin.

Berlin, July 23.—A drowning accident took place in the Grand River, about three miles above Bridgeport, on Thursday evening. Two young men left town Thursday afternoon to go up the river with the victim, who is Fred Elliott of the eastern section of Toronto. He was in the employ of James Reid of Stratford, a photographer and picture enlarger. About 4 o'clock on Thursday evening, Elliott and two fellow-employes, named Rutledge and Clymer, left Berlin to go up beyond Bridgeport for a swim. They did not return yesterday and Mr. Reid received a telephone message, that while in bathing, Elliott had been drowned, three miles above Bridgeport.

Drowned at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, July 23.—As the steamer Collingwood was nearing the dock Thursday night with a load of Owen Sound excursionists returning from Collingwood a man was seen to drop or fall from the dock between the dock and the steamer. Search was made, but no trace could be found until yesterday morning, when the body was recovered. It proved to be that of William Deay, a resident of Owen Sound. Deay leaves a widow and three small children.

Boy With a Gun.

Napanee, July 23.—Frank Wilson, 26 years of age, while playing with a gun, accidentally discharged it, the contents lodging in the neck and shoulders of a Miss Walker, who was picking berries on Mr. Field's farm, about two miles from town. It is thought the young lady will recover.

Fort Hope Man's Death.

Hamilton, July 23.—James McCormick, Port Hope, fell backwards off a G.T.R. bridge between Hamilton and Dundas yesterday morning and was brought to the City Hospital, where he died last evening. His spine was injured. He was about 35 years old and unmarried. He had joined the G.T.R. forces only a few days ago.

"Trouble Man" Hurt.

Hamilton, July 23.—Sam Williams, known to almost everybody as the "trouble man" of the Cataract Power Company, fell from a pole at the corner of King and John streets last evening, about 8 o'clock. He fell thrirty feet on the cement sidewalk and was very seriously injured. He had climbed the pole to turn on the Gore Park lights.

Mrs. Malone Badly Burned.

Toronto, July 23.—Last night a lamp carried by Mrs. Malone, a widow, who lived with her son at 72 Kensington avenue, exploded, and the room was immediately filled with flames, which soon seized on Mrs. Malone's clothing. Her son escaped through a window, and Mrs. Malone was found in her yard moaning, she having succeeded in extinguishing the flames. She was so badly burned that the nurses at St. Michael's Hospital, to which she was conveyed, could not say this morning that she would recover.

It Will Cost Eight Millions.

Montreal, July 23.—"The proposed Canadian Pacific Railway line from Toronto to Sudbury will cost $8,000,000, and of this amount $2,000,000 will be required for the construction of fifty-eight miles from Romford to Byng Inlet," said F. S. Darling, the Canadian Pacific railway engineer in charge of all construction work east of Winnipeg, yesterday. "Before the end of the month 2,500 men will be at work in the portion of the line between Romford and Byng Inlet."

Kruger's Funeral July 26.

The Hague, July 23.—The family of the late Paul Kruger has arranged for a public funeral here on July 26 of the former President.

Boon to Transvaal.

London, July 22.—During the discussion of South African affairs in the House of Commons yesterday, Colonial Secretary Lyttelton announced that the Government intended next year to give the Transvaal representative institutions, by substituting elected for nominated members of the Legislative Council.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Iroquois, July 22.—878 colored and 30 white cheese were boarded here to-day, mostly sold on the board at 7 7-16c. Buyers: Jonston, Logan, Smythe, Weir and Ault.

Listowel, July 22.—At the cheese fair held here to-day twelve factories boarded 2815 boxes, 2755 white and 140 colored. On the board 7⅛c was the best bid after the fair; on the street 7 9-16c was bid in some cases, but we were not able to learn of any business being done. It is probable that some sales may be made later to-night, as some salesmen were willing to take 7⅛c for their offering.

Ottawa, July 22.—There were 1957 boxes boarded at the cheese board to-day, 994 white and 964 colored. There were 522 white sold at 7¼c and 722 colored at 7⅜c.

Napanee, July 22.—Cheese board met to-day; 90 colored and 485 white boarded; all sold at 7 5-16c.

Perth, July 22.—On the cheese market here to-day there were 2090 boxes of white cheese and 600 boxes of colored. About 2000 boxes were sold at from 7¼c to 7 7-16c, the balance being shipped to cold storage in Montreal. The buyers present were Bissell, Webster, Ferguson, Patten and Everetts.

Back to Their Labors To-Day.

Chicago, July 22.—Fifty thousand butchers' workmen, who quit work July 12, paralyzing the meat industry of the country, will go back to their posts this morning.

MALACCA'S RELEASE

Russia Complies With Britain's Demand and Ordered It.

THE INCIDENT IS NOT CLOSED

Status of Volunteer Cruisers Yet to Be Determined—Status of St. Petersburg Contested in Accordance With Plain Text of the Treaties and Conventions Which Govern the Passage of the Dardanelles.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The steamer Malacca is at Suda Bay, Island of Crete, where under the agreement reached between Great Britain and Russia, she will be perfunctorily inspected jointly by the Consuls of the two countries and released, together with her cargo, unless palpable contraband of war intended for the Japanese shall be found, in which case only the contraband will be held. British Government stores on board the vessel will not be examined.

British at Alexandria.

Alexandria, July 23.—The British Mediterranean fleet has arrived here.

It Won't Occur Again.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The Russian reply to the British protest was handed to Ambassador Hardinge yesterday afternoon. Therein Russia agrees that the Malacca shall not be brought before a prize court and undertakes that no similar incident shall occur in the future. As a matter of formality the Malacca's cargo will be examined at some port in the Mediterranean, probably Suda Bay, Island of Crete, in the presence of the British Consul.

The Broader Question.

London, July 23.—The morning papers generally express satisfaction that the Malacca incident has been settled in accordance with the demands of Great Britain, though there is an inclination to await the settlement of the broader question of the passage through the Dardanelles of the volunteer fleet steamers before believing that all danger has been averted. This feeling is heightened by Premier Balfour's announcement on the adjournment of the House of Commons that he still had no official news to communicate either in connection with the Malacca incident or with volunteer fleet steamers in general.

Balfour and the Telegrams.

Some papers are even inclined to doubt the authenticity of the news that the Malacca incident has been settled, but The Daily Telegraph semi-officially explains the apparent contradiction existing between Mr. Balfour's statements and the telegrams from St. Petersburg.

"Two despatches left the Foreign Office, July 21," says The Daily Telegraph. "One has elicited a favorable reply, but the other has not yet been answered. The promise that "No similar incident shall occur again' is very vague and elastic. It may mean that no British vessel shall in the future be seized, the papers of which are regular and the cargo carried by which belongs to his British Majesty's Government. That is not much of a concession, seeing that our fleet has instructions to prevent another such outrage."

Russia's Status Contested.

The Daily News says it believes that the Government is resolved that no more Russian warships, however carefully disguised, shall pass the Bosphorus, the outlet of which a portion of the Mediterranean fleet will carefully guard.

The Times says: "Although there is good reason to hope that we have advanced a stage towards a satisfactory solution of the grave situation brought about by the seizure of the Malacca, we cannot consent to any arrangement which would cut the ground from under our feet. It is the status of the St. Petersburg that we contest, and we take our stand, not on some impalpable point of international law, but on the plain text of the treaties and conventions which govern the passage of the Dardanelles."

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why now buy it now? It may save life. For sale by all druggists.

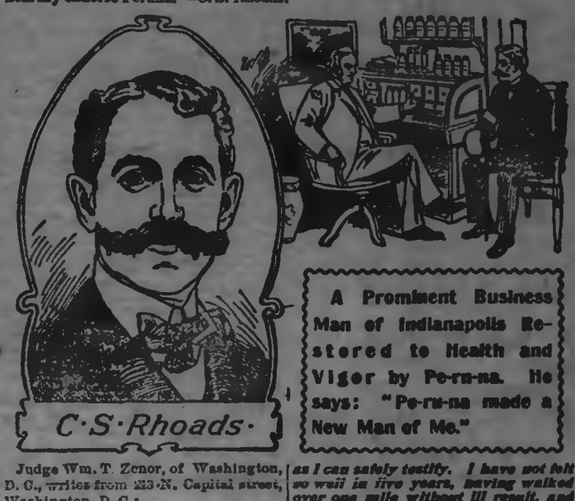
FOR SYSTEMIC CATARRH

Peculiar to Summer Pe-ru-na Gives Prompt and Permanent Relief.

C. S. Rhoads, Indianapolis, Ind., writes:

"For the past two years I have hardly known what it was to have a sweet, restful night's sleep. Cares and overwork seemed to weigh me down more than it should or would had I been able to get my proper rest. My doctor was unable to help me and ordered me South for a complete rest and change. As this was simply out of the question, and as I had heard several of the men under me speak of how much Peruna had helped them, I decided to try it and am glad indeed that I did. Six bottles made a new man of me. I eat well, sleep well and get up feeling refreshed and rested.

"My official duties are not half so hard and I certainly have good reasons to heartily endorse Peruna."—C. S. Rhoads.



A Prominent Business Man of Indianapolis Restored to Health and Vigor by Pe-ru-na. He says: "Pe-ru-na made a New Man of Me."

Judge Wm. T. Zenor, of Washington, D. C., writes from 213 N. Capital street, Washington, D. C.:

"I take pleasure in saying that I can cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna as a remedy for catarrhal trouble and a most excellent tonic for general conditions."—Wm. T. Zenor.

Mrs. Amanda Morrill, 130 Reid street, Elisabeth, N. J., writes:

"I have been sick over two years with nervous prostration and general debility, and heart trouble. Have had four doctors; all said that I could not get well. I had not walked a step in nine months, suffering with partial paralysis and palpitation of the heart every other day, and had become so reduced in flesh as to be a mere skeleton, weighing only 85 pounds.

"Up to this date I have taken Peruna for seven months. It has saved my life as I can safely testify. I have not felt so well in five years, having walked over one mile without ill result, and have also gained thirty pounds since commencing to take Peruna. In fact, I cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. Amanda Morrill.

Peruna never fails to prevent systemic catarrh or nervous prostration if taken in time. Peruna is the most prompt and permanent cure for all cases of nervous prostration caused by systemic catarrh known to the medical profession.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer, of encouragement and inspiration to every suffering woman. I have endured the torture due to female troubles and the consequent despondency and mental agony almost to the point of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, exhilarating frame of mind which accompanies physical well-being. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition, I have had the privilege and pleasure of inducing multitudes of other suffering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and have received thousands of enthusiastic acknowledgements of the blessings it has brought to them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 5, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was received yesterday. In reply to your question about my health, I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered untold agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks every few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The first Sunday in November, I felt the pain increasing and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family did go and soon after the forcing down pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night, and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself. (My doctor could do nothing for me.) I have used 8 boxes of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have not had the old pains since. I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. R. H. F.

Receiving as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I felt impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from the other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been irritating the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free trial Treatment you will be very materially benefitted.

FREE TRIAL OFFER.

I want every reader of this who suffers in any way from painful monthly periods, irregularities leucorrhoea, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their addresses, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill.

MRS. F. C. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

ORANGE LILY is recommended and sold in Peterborough by Mr W. H. Warne, Druggist, 345 George Street.

CURVE ON SMITH AND GEORGE STREETS

Railway Will be a Source of Danger There if Left as it is at Present.

Town Authorities Should Safeguard the Public—A Longer Curve Should be Made.

Some weeks ago a correspondent, through the columns of the Examiner called attention to the fact that the Street Railway Company was putting in a curve at the corner of Smith and George streets, which, if left in that condition, would result in accidents at that point. The Examiner has waited since the publication of that information to see if the town authorities would take any action, and since up to the present time nothing has been done apparently, and the rails at that point have been laid, it feels that it is a duty to once again call attention to the fact which must be patent to all who have noticed it, that the curve on the track from George to Smith street is altogether too close to the southeast corner of the street, in fact it is so close that a buggy would find considerable difficulty in passing between the rail and the curbstone, and it takes no prophet to foresee that accidents are bound to occur at this point when the cars commence running, as a person driving up George and turning on to Smith street would in nine cases out of ten attempt to cross the track instead of risking trying to make the turn inside the rails.

There is no reason why such a sharp curve should be made here, as there is ample room to have the rails in the middle of the street until the corner is reached, and a curve made which would leave sufficient space to drive on either side of the track. Unless this change is made this will be an exceedingly dangerous point, especially to ladies driving alone.

The town authorities have a duty to perform in this matter, and they should see that the public interests are safeguarded.

MRS. WM. EVANS DIED AT TOLEDO.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pedlar of Town Died This Morning.

Very sad intelligence was that received this morning by Mr. John Pedlar, that his daughter, Mrs. Ida Grace Evans, wife of Mr. William Evans, had died last evening, at Toledo, Ohio.

The deceased lady had been ailing for some time, and but recently her mother went ever to Toledo, as her condition was considered serious. She was somewhat better during the past few days, but took a turn for the worst yesterday and died early this morning. She was 28 years of age and leaves a sorrowing husband and two children. She was formerly of Peterborough, but since her marriage, four years ago, had resided in Toledo. Much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing relatives.

The remains will be brought to Peterborough, and interred on Monday at three o'clock. The funeral will take place from the family residence, 17 St. Joseph street.

A SAD DEATH.

Michael J. Burke Died This Morning After a Lingering Illness.

A very sad death occurred this morning, when Michael John Burke, the youngest son of Mr. Michael Burke, died at the family residence, 841 Water street. The deceased young man contracted a cold about seven months ago, from the effects of which he never recovered. He was but 23 years of age, and was a popular young man with his many friends, who will be grieved to learn of his early demise.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning from the family residence and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Ho, for the Back Lakes!

PRESENTATION TO MR. H. LeBRUN.

His Friends Remember Him for Hospitality Shown Them.

Mr. H. LeBrun, who has been the host many times at his pleasant summer home, "Bellechasse," Stony Lake, of enjoyable parties, was on Thursday made the recipient of a pleasing remembrance by a number of gentlemen, who have enjoyed his hospitality so lavishly bestowed.

A number of his gentlemen friends gathered, and Mr. G. W. Hatton on their behalf presented Mr. LeBrun with a fishing net and gaff hook, accompanying which was a well worded address, in which those subscribing to it, expressed their appreciation of the many kindnesses extended to them by Mr. LeBrun, and the esteem in which he is held by them.

Mr. LeBrun, who was completely surprised by the presentation, acknowledged the gift in a neat speech, in which he spoke of the pleasure that it gave him to have his friends spend a few days with him at his summer home, and heartily thanked them for their kind remembrance.

The gift was a particularly appropriate one, since Mr. LeBrun finds the greatest pleasure is pursuit of the finny tribe.

REV. DR. PRINGLE RETURNS HERE.

His Work Received Warm Endorsement at General Assembly.

Rev. Dr. Pringle, of the Yukon, who will preach in St. Andrew's and St. Paul's to-morrow morning and evening respectively, has added very largely to his host of friends by his intense enthusiasm and self sacrificing interest in the mission work of the Far North. The General Assembly, which was recently convened in St. John, N.B., gave no uncertain sound as to the value of Dr. Pringle's work, and he is now under authority to interest the churches in the work being so ably carried forward in Dawson City.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS' ANNUAL PICNIC.

Sunday School Scholars Enjoyed Afternoon at Jackson Park.

The Sunday school picnic of the First Church of Christ Scientists, was held in the beautiful grounds of Jackson Park on Friday afternoon. The children and a goodly number of their parents, enjoyed a delightful time and all were gratified and refreshed by the pleasant outing. Quite a number of games were contested for in a spirited manner by the girls and boys of the school and their companions from other denominations. Prizes were awarded to the successful competitors, and much amusement and interest was centred around these events.

ENGINEERS VISIT THE TRENT CANAL.

Advisory Board of Erie Canal Here on Tour of Inspection.

Deeply Interested in the Lift Lock—Those Who Form the Distinguished Party.

As was stated in yesterday's Examiner, Peterborough is being visited to-day by a company of United States' scientific men, attracted here by the Trent Canal. Those forming the party are: Messrs. Edwin A. Bond, superintending engineer of the Erie Canal, of Albany, N.Y.; Dr. E. S. Corthell, New York, and Col. T. W. Symons, Washington. These gentlemen are all connected with the Erie Canal in an advisory capacity, have been sent here by the United States Government for the purpose of obtaining information on the Trent Canal, such information to be used in planning for the enlargement of the Erie Canal, as decided upon by the Government, of that country.

Accompanying the gentlemen are: Mrs. Corthell, Mrs. Doane and Miss Ella.

Upon their arrival last evening they were met by Mr. R. B. Rogers, and after dinner were driven around the town in cabs. Needless to say the Lift Lock was one of the places visited, and was of great interest to the engineers, to whom it was something entirely new.

This morning a trip over the canal was taken under the direction of Mr. Rogers.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE T. A. S.

Millbrook Beaten at Lacrosse Last Night by 8-1.

A Gentlemanly Exhibition — Winners Superior at all Points of the Game.

In a game that was rather too one-sided to be exciting, the T.A.S. added another victory to their string and took another stride towards the R. R. Hall Trophy last evening by beating Millbrook in a T.V.L. game by a score of 8—1. From the face-off it was the Total Abstiners' game and they were never in trouble. Millbrook put up a good argument at times, but were up against an aggregation superior in all departments of the game and one which will take a lot of beating before they are put out of the running. A fair sized crowd witnessed the game and all were pleased with the form displayed by the local team. The game was of a gentlemanly nature, only one man being sent to the fence for an infraction of the rules, the best of good feeling seemed to prevail.

The T.A.S. boys to a man played good lacrosse and well deserved their victory. The home worked smoothly and effectively and the goals were the result of pretty bits of combination play. The defence was like a stonewall and was altogether too much for the combination of the visiting home. O'Brien had very little to do in goal and in the second half exchanged places with Boyle who played several warm ones. Both Boyle and Park did good work in each position, remember who played half the game Rain defence and then on the home family very effective in both positions may especially on the home where telegra scoring was deadly. W. Donovan played a splendid game at first Meagher's checking was a prominent feature and his was constantly intercepting a the visitors' home. Crowed fine lacrosse and was Lacrosse last night. His catch- passing were always notic- and Donovan played a dashing game at centre and was always in the game. Parnell was a most useful man at third home, while the McCoy brothers each did excellent work and greatly assisted in the scoring. Judd was fast and sure and took all kinds of chances at outside home. McCabe played a good game both at inside home and the defence.

The Millbrook team though outplayed, put up some fairly good lacrosse and at times made things interesting about the T.A.S. flags. Their home passed and caught in good shape, but did not go in on the flags and their long shots were easily stopped. They play a nice gentlemanly game and with more experience would put up a better argument.

The teams were:—

Millbrook.	T. A. S.
Goal.
Richards	O'Brien
Point.
Strain	Boyle
Cover Point.
Irwin	Derocher
First Defence.
Reynolds	W. Donovan
Second Defence.
Armstrong	Meagher
Third Defence.
Forsythe	Crowley
Centre.
Donnelly	H. Donovan
Third Home.
Fisher	Parnell
Second Home.
Grandy	F. McCoy
First Home.
Coome	L. McCoy
Outside Home.
Russell	Judd
Inside Home.
O'Brien	McCoy
Field Captain.
Burnham	Lynch
Goal Umpire
Pickup	Sharpe

Referee—R. M. Glover.

The T.A.S. started rushing matters from the toot of the whistle and in the first five minutes fairly played their opponents off their shoes. H. Donovan scored in two minutes by a pretty shot. A minute later Meagher dug the sphere out of a scrimmage, passed to F. McCoy who did likewise to Judd and the score was 2—0. In less than a minute some combination by Derocher, Judd and F. McCoy resulted in a score by the latter. Thirty seconds later, the ball from the face-off went to Meagher, to H. Donovan, to Crowley, to Judd, to F. McCoy, who scored. It was nice work. The T.A.S. then eased up a few and just before quarter time, Coome notched Millbrook's only point after some good work by the home.

The play was almost all at the visitors' end in the next quarter, but only one score resulted, H. Donovan doing the trick in 14 minutes. In the third quarter, Derocher and McCabe exchanged places. Wild shooting lost many chances for T. A.S. scores. Finally the home got working and in seven minutes, F. McCoy passed to Derocher who scored. Derocher scored two more in 5 and 3 minutes by fine dodging and shooting. The game ended with the score 8—1.

JUST NOTES.

The return game is scheduled for next Saturday.

The boys are making goo-goo eyes at the pennant.

Keep up the good work.

The winners were much the speedier team.

Derocher's shooting was very effective.

The T.A.S. home worked nicely together.

Strain, the big point of the visitors, played the old style game, working in those long throws of years ago.

George Lynch made a splendid field captain. As usual, he kept the crowd in good humour.

The Total Abstiners will have to continue to practice steadily to keep in shape for the game with Port Hope. It will be a hard struggle.

The T.A.S. have yet to be defeated this season. They have won four and tied two games. Pretty good work, boys.

The winners set a regular whirlwind pace at the outset.

COBOURG DEFAULTS TO LOCAL TEAM.

Refused at Last Minute to Come Today.

For the second time this season, the Cobourg baseball team has played mean with the Peterboroughs. Earlier in the season Manager Whitcroft arranged for an exhibition game with the Cobourg team, who promised to come up, and play the game, and it was not until the morning of the game that the local management learned that the team did not intend to fulfil their engagement. Considerable expense had been gone to in the way of getting out bills, etc., and Cobourg came in for some rather severe criticism from the other teams in the League for their action.

And again to-day, another similar case is recorded. The Peterborough team was scheduled to play in Cobourg last Saturday, and was prepared to go, but at the request of the Cobourg team, the game was called off, on account of the circus being at Port Hope. Cobourg was scheduled to play here to-day and although they raised some objection to coming here before the Peterborough team went to that town, President Crawford ordered the game played according to schedule, in view of the fact that last Saturday's game was postponed at Cobourg's request.

On the strength of this the game was advertised and all arrangements made, and it was not until late last night that Manager Whitcroft, learned in conversation with Cobourg that that team would not come here today. Every effort was made to induce them to fill their engagement, but all to no avail, and failing this, in order not to disappoint the public, the Bowmanville team was communicated with, and an effort made to arrange a game with the team that is just now playing about the best ball in the League, and the only League team that has defeated Lindsay on their own grounds this year.

But on account of the short notice this could not be arranged, and as a consequence the game announced for this afternoon has been called off.

LINDSAY'S LOSS TO BOWMANVILLE.

What the Post Says of the Game There on Thursday.

The Lindsay Post has turned over a new leaf, and has ceased, for the time being, roasting a baseball team that wins from the Lindsay nine. Of the game played there on Friday, which Bowmanville won, that paper says:

"It looks as if it was anybody's win in the Midland League district so far this season. Nor long ago Lindsay defeated Oshawa here and in Oshawa; Oshawa goes to Bowmanville and defeats that team on their own grounds; Bowmanville comes to Lindsay and defeats the red skins on their own grounds; also in an exhibition game at Yelverton, with Cinnamon in the box for the locals they defeated Bowmanville, with Weeks in the box.

"Yesterday's game was one of the best and most interesting games ever played on the local diamond—a game in which the players were well pleased with the work of both teams. The playing was fast and clean from start to finish, and all who witnessed the game certainly went away satisfied that it was good ball. The four runs were all scored on errors, there being no earned runs. The Bowmanville boys are a gentlemanly bunch, and their manager is to be congratulated, as they all played good ball, there being no weak spots. Hooper, their slab artist, although he pitched good ball, was not very effective, but our boys generally popped up flies which were easily captured. Martin in left field getting no less than five flies which meant five men out. Their infield work is good. Osborne at 3rd, being a sure man, picking up many hot ones. Wilcox at 2nd, figured in many of the assists to 1st base. Weeks is a very clever catcher and held the balls in good style.

For the losers, Capt. Cinnamon played hard to win, and was seen once or twice on the coaching lines; Menzies had lots to do at 3rd and is a sure man. McGill at 1st base had to work hard, but managed to get the majority of the bad throws and figured in the pop fly catching. Workman at 2nd, is not playing his usual good game of late, and although he made a few good stops he has two errors down to his playing. The outfield worked in perfect order, except for one player who held the ball too long before throwing. Despite all the hard playing which the Lindsay boys put up luck seemed to be against them, chiefly because they did not—as Father Chadwick says all players should do—use brains behind their work.

BASEBALL.

The Port Hope Guide says: "It is impossible for the locals to get a team for Oshawa to-morrow and as a result they will have to default the game. This puts the team out of the league for the balance of the season. There was no possible chance of them winning out, but still we would have liked to see them finish their schedule. Their finances are none too plenty, but had the players shown any desire to go they could easily have raised the funds. The locals will have to forfeit their guarantee money of $25."

The common-sense view taken by the Port Hope Guide will commend itself to all: "Peterborough were scheduled to play in Cobourg last Saturday, but at the request of Cobourg the game was called off. The Cobourgs are scheduled for Peterborough to-morrow but do not want to go, claiming that Peterborough should play in Cobourg first. This seems a little cheeky, as Peterborough postponed their game to accommodate Cobourg, and now Cobourg wants to dictate to them. President Crawford took the right way about it and ordered Cobourg to go to Peterborough to-morrow, or forfeit their deposit money."

• • • •

Well, well, what came over the world-beating Lindsay nine when the Bowmanville team went out there and trimmed them 3—1. Lindsay felt confident of landing the pennant but this defeat no doubt will put a crimp in their championship intentions. Bowmanville has a fast team and have only lost one game this year. They have done less bragging than some of the other teams, but when it came down to good steady playing, they are right in the job."—Guide.

• • • •

Lindsay expected to just about knock the everlasting tar out of Bowmanville, Thursday. It's too bad to give them the elastic laugh.

• • • •

Bowmanville must be counted on in the running for the pennant. They're playing baseball with a big "B" about now.

• • • •

Port Hope has dropped out of the Midland League.

• • • •

Toronto dropped its fifth straight game yesterday and are back in seventh place.

• • • •

Cobourg's action in failing to show up to-day was very shabby. Early in the season an exhibition game was arranged with the Cobourgers, who again backed down at the eleventh hour. This is poor sport.

LACROSSE.

President Crowley, of the Trent Valley League, has ordered the Tweed lacrosse team to play off with Havelock for the championship of the district at Norwood on July 28th. The Tweed team refuses to play at Norwood but will play at Madoc or Marmora. They certainly should not be asked to go out of the district.—Tweed News.

• • • •

No lacrosse game in this district has occasioned as much discussion in the papers and out of them as that played between Tweed and Havelock. The Marmora Herald adds its quota of evidence as follows:

The Tweed News contains columns of space trying to explain the row over the lacrosse game with Havelock and regretting the treatment given Havelock. The Standard man writes it up as wood the Russians write of Japanese cruelty. Havelock gets the ear of Saturday Night and a few other papers to publish abroad the woes of their martyrs. When the whole thing is boiled right down it just amounts to this: Havelock have a mighty poor conception of sport. They have been determined from the start to be champions or "bust." They got Madoc ruled completely out. They battered up Tweed on Havelock grounds until their own mothers would scarcely know them. Then they went down to Tweed with a player who went in to break bones instead of "play the ball." It is no wonder one or two of the spectators endeavoured to give such sportsmen a proper chastisement. The crowd rushed in to see and perhaps to prevent a fight and are thus made out to be a "mob." If Havelock claim to be sportsmen why did they start blocking the goals as soon as Tweed made it a tie? If Tweed feels badly it must be in the same way as a parent who finds it necessary to punish an urchin.

• • • •

Hastings defaulted to Port Hope to-day in a T.V.L. game.

• • • •

Mr. W. F. Crowley, President of the League has ordered the late game at Tweed to be played over at Norwood on Thursday of next week, July 28th, at 5 o'clock p. m. The game will take place on the fair grounds and it is expected that an enormous crowd from town will attend the match to cheer the locals on to victory and to see that the rowdy Tweed element are kept in their proper place. The boys are confident that they can defeat Tweed by a comfortable margin.—Havelock Standard.

• • • •

It is possible that the tie game between the T.A.S. and Port Hope will be played off next week.

• • • •

The Capitals and Tecumsehs are playing in Toronto to-day.

STRATHCONA'S PRIZE

Grand Aggregate Won by Corp. McGregor, G.G.F.G., Ottawa.

SGT. CROWE WINS 2ND PRIZE

Silver Tea Service Contributed By the Canada Company—Crowe Is Only Canadian Who Has a Chance For Second Stage of the St. George's Vase Match—Other Canadian Winners at Bisley.

Bisley Camp, July 22.—Corpora. R. McGregor, G.G.F. G., Ottawa, having the highest Canadian score in the grand aggregate, wins Lord Strathcona's prize of a gold watch. Staff-Sergt. Crowe, C. R., 30th Guelph, being second highest of the Canadians, wins the silver tea service, given by the Canada Company. The grand aggregate prizes are awarded to competitors whose respective scores in the King's Prize, first stage; St. George's Vase, first stage; Alexandra, Daily Graphic, Daily Telegraph and Graphic, make up the highest aggregates.

St. George's Vase.

This competition opened yesterday with the first stage at 500 and 600 yards, 7 shots at each distance, the first hundred shooting in the second stage, 15 shots at 900 yards, to-day. Winner receives the challenge vase, dragon cup, gold cross and £30; the second the silver cross and £25, and the third the bronze cross and £20. The next seven each receive the N. R. A. badge and £10, and there are 275 other prizes. Following are the scores of the Canadians:

500 Yards.

Sergt. Bayles, 10th, Toronto, 32; Pte. A. Baynton, 48th, Toronto, 30; Capt. H. C. Blair, Truro, 32; Capt. J. Crowe, Guelph, 31; Staff-Sergt. C. R. Crowe, Guelph, 33; Col.-Sergt. W. H. Davidson, Montreal, 30; Capt. R. Dillon, Whitby, 32; Lance-Sergt. W. G. Fowler, Toronto, 31; Col.-Sergt. A. G. Gardner, Sherbrooke, 29; Sergt. W. Gould, Guelph, 31; Pte. J. G. Goudie, Quebec, 30; Corp. R. McGregor, Ottawa, 29; Major W. P. Moore, Georgetown, 30; Sergt. G. Mortimer, 10th, Toronto, 29; Pte. J. Perry, Vancouver, 32; Pte. C. S. Scott, Ottawa, 32; Pte. Neil Smith, Stewart, 29; Pte. H. Tyers, 10th, Toronto, 29; Pte. T. Westman, Ottawa, 30; Col.-Sergt. W. Will, Hamilton, 32; Col.-Sergt. W. H. Youhill, Winnipeg, 33.

John Howard, Agent-General in London for Nova Scotia, put seven shots right in the centre of the bulls-eye in this match at this range. He was twelfth in the Duke of Cambridge, winning £8.

600 Yards.

Fowler 32, Gould 32, Westman 31, McGregor 33, Moore 21, Tyers 30, Capt. J. Crowe 32, Perry 34, Smith 31, Baynton 27, Staff-Sergt. Crowe 31, Goudie 30, Mortimer 31, Scott 29, Davidson 29, Dillon 27, Youhill 29, Will 31, Gardner 28, Bayles 30, Blair 28.

Two in Second Stage.

All scores of sixty-four in the St. George's Vase at 500 and 600 yards will shoot for thirty places in the second stage at 900 yards. Staff-Sergt. Crowe is the only Canadian eligible.

Pte. Neil Smith, of the Essex Fusiliers, is in the second stage for the "King's Prize."

Canadian Winners.

In range prizes, in the "King's" at 600 yards, Pte. Baynton took fourth place, with a score of 34, winning £1.

In the first stage of the "King's Prize," Sergt. Gardner was 371st, winning £2. Sergt. Davidson took 469th place and £1. Capt. Blair was 472nd and carried off £1.

Canadian Scores.

In the Kynoch competition at 1,000 yards, Sergt. Mortimer of the 10th Royal Gxenadiers, scored 40 out of a possible 50. Staff-Sergt. C. R. Crowe scored a similar number of points.

Sergt. Crowe also scored 40 in the "Handsworth" competition, 10 shots at 900 yards.

In the "Imperial Tobacco" match, 10 shots at 1,000 yards, Corp. McGregor scored 38, Pte. J. Perry 35, Capt. Blair 40, Capt. Crowe, Pte. J. W. Smith and Pte. H. Tyers each 42.

A WOMAN'S SYMPATHY.

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too, but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need to do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c—the cost of a postage stamp. Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. Mrs. F. D. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. Orange Lily is recommended and sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne 248 George street. s-w

She Failed to Take the Compliment.

Lord Lytton was seated one day at dinner next to a lady whose name was Birch and who, tradition says, was beautiful if not overintelligent. She said to his excellency, "Are you acquainted with any of the Birches?" Replied his excellency, "Oh, yes; I knew some of them most intimately while at Eton—indeed, more intimately than I cared to." "Sir," replied the lady, "you forget that the Birches are relatives of mine." "And yet they cut me," said the viceroy. "But," and he smiled his wonted smile, "I have never felt more inclined to kiss the rod than I do now." Mrs. Birch, sad to say, did not see the point and, so the gossips have it, told her husband that his excellency had insulted her.

Styles of Architecture.

In their architecture the Moresque strove for the negation of the weight altogether; the Egyptian placed the weight firmly on the ground; the Greek lifted it up in the air with an assertion of graceful power; the Roman confused weight and support; the Byzantine represented weight without support; the Moor suggested that there was no weight at all.

KING CHARLES' BOUNTY.

Claimed by Canadian Descendant of Brothers Who Saved Merry Monarch's Life.

Romantic and historic interest attaches to a case which will shortly come before the Court of Chancery. The facts are that one of the descendants of the loyal Penderill brothers, who saved Charles II. from the Roundheads after Worcester fight, will endeavor to establish his right to a share of the pension which the "Merrie Monarch" granted to his ancestor.

The Penderills, it will be remembered, concealed Charles partly in Boscobel House, and partly in the immortal Royal Oak. After the Restoration an annual pension of £100 was granted to each one of the five brothers to be held forever.

The present case has to do with the yearly allowance granted to Richard Penderill, eldest of the five. The descendants of "honest Yeoman Dick" narrowed down about the beginning of the last century to two daughters, who married respectively citizens of Wolverhampton, McLaren and Withington by name, and left as heirs to the divided royal pension two only sons, James Withington and Robert McLaren.

These men were in due receipt of £50 per annum apiece up to 1859; but having fallen into somewhat needy circumstances, they united in selling their rights for a lump sum to a Mr. Walter Robinson.

Meanwhile Robert McLaren came to London and set up as a cab proprietor; while his cousin, James Withington, left Wolverhampton, and has not been heard of until a few days ago.

On Royal Oak Day, last year, notices were published in the public press, signed by Samuel A. M. Satow, Master in Chancery, summoning—

"Withington, if living, or, if dead, his issue," to appear at the chambers of Justices Eady and Farwell on or before June 30, 1903; or, in default of such appearance to be declared "peremptorily excluded" from all right to the pension rights.

Neither Withington nor his heirs appeared, and the former was declared legally dead without heirs of his body.

A month ago, however, James Withington, jun., claiming to be the only child of the pensioner, returned from Canada, where he has been since his birth. He is a man of about forty years of age.

At present Mr. Withington resides at Romford, in Essex, but he is about to settle in London. Seen yesterday by a Mirror representative he said: "The proceedings of last year were, I think, rushed through rather unfairly. I was resident at Sault Ste. Marie, in Canada, and only heard of the notices last winter.

"I at once sold out my ice business, and returned to reopen the matter, if possible."

Mr. Withington has copious evidences of his identity, including his father's will, marriage certificate, etc.—London Daily Mirror.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

For Weak Sickly Children During the Hot Summer Months.

Thousands of infants and children die during the hot weather months, because summer complaints and stomach troubles come suddenly, and mothers do not have the means on hand to promptly check and cure them. In homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used these little lives can be saved and no home in the land where there are children should be without the Tablets. They promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles and give relief to teething children and the mother has a guarantee that they contain no opiate or harmful drug. You can crush the Tablets to a power and give them with perfect safety to a new born babe. Mrs. S. M. Black, St. Peter's, N.S., says, "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for most of the troubles from which little ones suffer, and I find them the best medicine I have ever tried." All medicine dealers sell these Tablets or you can get them by mail, at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WOULD BE A CRIME

Sir Wilfrid Laurier on War Between U.S. and Britain and Canada.

Sir Frederick Borden gave a dinner to some military men at Ottawa at the beginning of July. In reply to the toast of the Dominion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said:

"I thank my old friend, Sir Adolphe Caron, for the very kind words that he has spoken of me. My health is good now, thank heaven. (Cheers.) I never knew that hard fighting was injurious to health. At all events, it is a pleasure to me to thank my friend, Sir Adolphe Caron, for the way in which he has spoken of the relations which ought to exist, and which, I am happy to say, do exist to-day between the different parties as they are represented in Parliament. I am no longer a boy like Sir Adolphe; I am somewhat of a veteran, having been associated in many hard struggles as the leader of the party to which I belong. I faced for years the old veteran of Canadian politics, Sir John Macdonald, a man whose name is dear not only to his friends but to those who opposed him in his day. I have also been associated with another veteran of many fights, a man courageous and manly, Sir Charles Tupper. With him my relations were always pleasant. So they were with Sir John Thompson in his too brief career as leader of his party, and I am happy to say, very happy to say, indeed, that my personal relations with Mr. Borden, the worthy successor of these men in the leadership of the Conservative party, have always been equally pleasant. (Hear, hear.)

Of course we disagree. We cannot always agree; there would be no fun in Parliament or anywhere else if we did. (Laughter.) If mankind at large were always to agree there would be no necessity for the militia. It is because nations will disagree that there is necessity for such a force. And let me say to you, gentlemen, you citizen soldiers of Canada, if you will take it from me, that those who do not belong to the force appreciate the efforts which you make for the defence of our common country, should the occasion ever arise. God grant it never may. You are sacrificing a good deal. You sacrifice a good deal of your time, of your leisure, of your money, and you do it not for any immediate reward, not because there is anything to be gained by it, on the contrary there is loss; you do it simply for the grand patriotic reason that if the country is ever in need she will find you standing between her and the foe. (Loud cheers.) Therefore it is a work of preparation which you are always doing. It is that your country may not be found wanting, may not be found defenceless, that you are preparing, and preparing all the time, for an emergency. A good deal might be said on that subject. At all events, for my part, I believe there is a good deal yet to be done for the militia of Canada. If I had my own way, and in this matter I express my own wish, there would be a corps of volunteers in every town, in every village, in every hamlet. The boy should learn early how to shoot. (Applause.)

"The art of war, like every other art, is always changing. The battles of to-day are not fought as they were fought sixty years ago; they were not fought sixty years ago as they were three score years before that; but there is one thing which we shall always need, and that is men ready and courageous to face any emergency. How is that emergency to be faced is a problem that always changes. The modern rifle is one of the most complicated and most delicate of instruments. Unfortunately there is not enough of our population who know how to use the rifle and understand its delicate mechanism. We should develop this knowledge as much as we can, and it is one of the ideas to which my friend, Sir Frederick Borden, is giving constant attention.

"Gentlemen, although we have a militia force, we may never have a war. The only people with which we can have a war is a race of the same kith and kin as the mother country, and I would look upon war between Great Britain and the United States as almost as great a crime as the Civil war which convulsed the United States forty years ago. The two nations are too far advanced in civilization, they are too much advanced in all that goes to make manhood what it should be, to ever foresee the day that such a contingency can arise. But whilst we hope that it shall never take place, we must always be prepared, not only against trouble with our neighbors, but against war with anybody, and we must be ready to defend our homes and country whenever King and country require our services. (Great applause.)"

LAND OF THE "PRETTY SOON."

I know of a land where the streets are paved
With the things we meant to achieve;
It is walled with the money we meant to have saved,
And the pleasures for which we grieve.

The kind words unspoken, the promises broken,
And many a coveted boon
Are stowed away there in that land somewhere—
The land of "Pretty Soon."

There are uncut jewels of possible fame,
Lying quiet in the dust,
And many a noble and lofty aim
Covered with mould and rust.

And, oh, this place, while it seems so near,
Is further away than the moon!
Our purpose is fair, yet we never get there—
The land of "Pretty Soon."

It is further at noon than it is at dawn,
Further at night than at noon;
Oh! let us beware of that land down there—
The land of "Pretty Soon."
—The King's Own.

An Unostentatious Peer.

Lord Grimthorpe, who has reached the patriarchal age of 88, is, says The London Star, the least ostentatious Peer in England—and the most pugnacious. Time was when Printing House square kept a standing headline to top the epistolary denunciations of Lord Grimthorpe, because he would insist on using his faculty to restore the grand old Abbey of St. Albans in the way he chose best. Sometimes the grim old Peer turned a deaf ear to the onslaughters of his foes. Sometimes he put pen to paper in self-defence, and when he did it was to some purpose. But the sum total of his Lordship's attitude was, "I'm paying the piper, and I'm going to call the tune." It didn't matter to Lord Grimthorpe that the price of having it all his own way was a hundred and fifty thousand pounds! He was chief of the Leeds banking family of Beckett, and money was no object, so long as he achieved the perpetuation of one of the finest Norman fabrics in England, the turrets of which were declared to be too rotten to bear restoration over a hundred years ago.

Was Cured of Itching Piles

By Using Dr. Chase's Ointment and Hopes Others Will Profit by His Experience.

When you ask for an ointment, the druggist naturally hands you Dr. Chase's Ointment, because it is the standard throughout the world. It is the only cure for piles.

Mr. Thomas Covert, of Highland Grove, Peterborough county, Ont., writes: "For years I was a great sufferer from piles, and sometimes the terrible itching and burning was almost beyond endurance. Though I tried all sorts of remedies I never found a cure until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. In my opinion this ointment has no equal and I hope others will benefit by my experience."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author are on every box. 3

THE CITADEL OF SIGIRI

FAMOUS "LION ROCK" FORTRESS IS NOW A MAZE OF RUINS.

Structure Was Erected Sixteen Centuries Ago by King Kasyapa in Vain Effort to Hide His Homicide—Palace With Secret Passages and Recesses Built in the Air—Bronze Bells and Pottery, But No Treasure Found.

Writing from Kandy, Ceylon, Miss Eliza R. Skidmore says:

"The famous fortress of Sigiri is known in Ceylon's history as "the Lion rock," taking its name from the colossal figure of a lion, whose forepaws, resting on the guardhouse terrace, remain intact, holding between them the first long stone staircase we had been regarding. After passing up between the paws the King and his train used to step into an enormous lion's mouth and were not seen again until they reached the top.

"All the series of concealed staircases in the body of the brick and chunam lion are gone, and only the deep grooves and sockets in the curved overhang of the rock tell how they were held fast. One steps into and holds fast with his hands to those grooves as he climbs, after he has gone up the first long, straight ladder and one dizzily sloping ladder set parallel with the face of the rock, through whose rungs he looks down through 100 feet of air to the level of the far stretching jungle.

"There are long, perpendicular grooves where a tall portcullis worked up and down and was locked fast in deep sockets at this point, and where, on foot and knee, one goes up over the mushroom's lower edge, holding to upright iron bars as he lifts himself in air. Then parallel grooves in the curving surface give good footing, while he holds on to a handrail and follows around and up on the mushroom's curve to a solid stone staircase between thick chunam walls.

"The feat was done, and one walked erect again, according to nature's laws, no longer emulating the fly with his many suckered feet, and then the wonder came that the British Government let any one do it, freely, without molestation and without price.

"When arrived at the top of the last staircase one finds himself at the summit, in the citadel, and the whole top surface of the rock, less than an acre in extent, is covered with stone foundation walls and short flights of steps that run in labyrinthine mazes here and there. The few trees that show from below, scant as the hairs on Bismarck's head, are venerable banyans when one stands beside them and one picturesque tree with a tangle of roots and a massive trunk stands by the deep tank thirty feet square and casts a grateful shade.

"The banyan tree wrought the most havoc in this great ruin, the loose brick construction, without mortar or cement, inviting its snake-like roots to writhe through and wreck at will. The archaeologists made quick work of all vegetation, and have cleared away and thrown over the steep east side uncounted tons of brick, debris and dirt, and scraped the whole ground plan of the King's palace down to the bed rock hard and clean.

"There is a great granite throne or long divan on the east side, with the sockets showing where a pavilion stood covering it or temporary staffs held a silk canopy, and one can picture the parricide usurper, in all his jeweled splendor, reclining there to enjoy the winter breeze and the landscape view. Whatever of wooden walls and roof and partitions there were in the labyrinthine buildings of this cool palace in the air, nothing remained to tell, and the most fascinating part of archaeology—the guessing—had a free field in reconstructing Kasyapa's stronghold in their minds.

"It is all too picturesque, too impossibly romantic, too good to be true, this Lion rock citadel, this great palace in the air, this Sigiri, the fortress of sixteen centuries ago. It all exactly satisfies one's most Oriental imaginings, and the sequel of Sigiri, its last chapters, fits to the sensational rock best of all.

"King Kasyapa, having murdered his father by burying him alive, building him into a wall, and having frightened his half murdered brother into flight to India, sat on the rock with his great treasure of ingots and jewels, and tried to ease his conscience by pious works. He built temples and dagobas all around the Lion rock. He enticed holy men to come there and live. The sound of prayer and chant continually rose to his eyrie. He took to religious occupations, to penance, self-mortification and vows of heroic expiation, but his conscience still pricked, and with the religious work the impious work of fortification and defences still went on. He talked peace, but he fortified his Manchuria all the while.

"The brother gathered followers, came back to Ceylon and raised the standard of rebellion, and fate had it in for Kasyapa, that, after securing himself on this high and dry rock summit, safe from attack or siege, he should foolishly go down to the plain to give battle in person in the primitive way. His elephant stepped aside to escape a marshy spot, his troops took it as a movement of retreat, threw down their weapons and ran, and the wicked King was slain by the avenging brother, as he stood alone, helpless in a swamp, after all those years on the dry, wind swept, well drained rock summit.

"After that the Lion rock was given over entirely to the priests. The 'Mahawanso' was begun on the summit of Sigiri by the great uncle of King Kasyapa, and succeeding chapters and books were written there while the yellow-robed priests occupied this monastery in the air.

"Tradition is not clear as to when and why they left the lofty retreat, so ideal a place for the religious or the literary life, but it is assumed that, with time and monsoon storms, some part of the staircase gave way, ruin followed fast when the broken chunam surface once let the brickwork begin to crumble, and the priests may have even been glad to cease the penitential ascent from the temples in the plain to the monastery on high.

"Fragments of bronze bells and of pottery have been found, but no treasure has yet been chanced upon, although the archaeologists closely examined every basketful of rubbish hurled from the summit and carried from the great store of debris covering the guardhouse plateau and the barrack terraces."

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your house. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

7 Sutherland Sisters Hair Grower

GREW THIS HAIR

Twenty-Four Feet Long.

MISS NORA GASTAGER
2108 Centre Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

When the scalp throws off either dandruff or a greasy substance, it is an evidence of scalp disease, and no time should be lost in correcting it. You certainly would not hesitate to take treatment were you to look at this matter through a magnifying glass. When highly magnified it resembles a working mass of insects. These creatures absorb the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp causing the scalp to become dry and feverish, resulting in the loss of hair and finally baldness. Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner works wonders in all such cases. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scalp bacteria and makes the hair grow unusually long, strong and beautiful. One 50 cent bottle is enough to show you that it will do all this and even more. NOW at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

To Make a Bride

Many a woman would make a beautiful bride but she is deterred from entering the married state because of ill-health.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN
WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"If women would study the laws of health and use a little more common sense there would not be such a large number to-day suffering with the ills peculiar to our sex," writes Mrs. Kattie Martins (President Mutual Social Science Club), of the South Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill. "Then when medicine is needed if they would take the 'Favorite Prescription,' they would have a chance to get well. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription three years ago and it cured me of female weakness of several years' standing, so I know what I am talking about when I praise it and always know what the result will be where it is used."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

SPENCER AND GEORGE ELIOT.

The Philosopher Was an Admirer of the Famous Novelist.

In Herbert Spencer's auto-biography he tells of his friendship with Miss Evans, better known to fame as George Eliot. He describes her as the most admirable woman, mentally, he ever met. "The greatness of her intellect, joined with her womanly qualities, generally keep me by her side most of the evening." He tried to persuade her to write novels, but "she would not listen to advice; she did not believe she had the required powers."

"Of course, as we were frequently seen together, people drew their inferences. Very slight evidence usually suffices the world for positive conclusions; and here the evidence seemed strong. Naturally, therefore, quite definite statements became current. There were reports that I was in love with her, and that we were about to be married. But neither of these reports was true. Yet there were long walks together, visits to the theatre, and every sign of a growing affection. Perhaps an entry in the 'Reflections' at the end may explain the failure of that affection to develop into something more. Physical beauty is a sine qua non with me, as was once unhappily proved, where the intellectual traits were of the highest."

King Edward's African Visitor.

The cable the other day told of the reception by King Edward at Buckingham Palace of the Alake of Abeokuta, who is the most powerful and intelligent chief of West Africa. He is the principal ruling chief of the Province of Abeokuta, the capital of which—Abeokuta—has a population of from 50,000 to 80,000. The province, which includes some 8,000 square miles, is the richest in Lagos, and is occupied by Egbas, one of the divisions of the great Yoruba race which inhabits the whole of the colony and Protectorate of Lagos. The Alake is a man of 40 years of age, and possesses remarkable intelligence with great mental and physical strength. He has shown sufficient force of character to set aside bad native customs, such, for example, as the wearing of a veil, as is usual among crowned chiefs in order to render themselves invisible. Originally a Pagan, he has now embraced Christianity, is a regular churchgoer, and does everything in his power to promote educational progress. He has always been very loyal to the British Administration. Two years ago the railway was opened to Abeokuta. The Alake is accompanied to England by his cousin, Prince Ademola of Abeokuta, who resides at Lagos as the Alake's representative. He speaks and writes English perfectly. The Alake's object in visiting England is to be presented to the King, and to study questions of farming and agriculture, which will be useful to his people, more especially the important subject of cotton growing.

Herbert Spencer's Letter of Warning.

In the New York Independent of May 5 appeared the first of three installments of unpublished letters of the late Herbert Spencer, with an introduction by George Llewellyn Rees. The letters were written to the late James A. Skilton and Dr. Lewis G. Janes, formerly President of the Brooklyn Ethical Association, who were among Spencer's closest American friends.

Among the letters is the following: "February 2, 1895.—Dear Mr. Skilton,—In one respect you have misread my books, or misunderstood an essential thing contained in them. You believe that the course of things in society is to be changed by teaching. I do not believe any such thing. Everywhere I have contended, and I contend still, that feelings, not ideas, determine social results—that everything depends, not upon intellect, but upon character, and character is not to be changed in a day or in a generation.

"You think that I have got some message and that utterance of it might stave off impending evils. I have but one message—be honest; regard the equitable claims of others, while maintaining your own. The disregard of all save personal interests is the underlying cause of your present state and of impending disasters. As I said years ago apropos of American affairs, a fatal trait in your society is the admiration for smart men, and I believe I said, or implied, that a people among whom there is an admiration for smart men will come to grief."

Fashion's Echoes.

Linens, summer serges and tweeds, together with muslins, linens, duck and washing fabrics of all kinds, make very pretty boating gowns. For the practical rower linen and serge are best.

Shoes have the high Castilian and Louis Quinze heels and are sharply pointed at the toe.

This season's wraps are of white, black or champagne colored lace, chiffon or net, accordion plaited and overlaid with motifs of heavy lace.

Medallions of lace are much used this season.

Profuse trimming of braid appears on silks as well as on cloth costumes.

Narrow cotton braid trimming, with a colored floral design, is used on linen, pique and duck gowns.

Valenciennes is an important lace number, yards and yards of it being employed in producing the foamy lightness of summer frocks.

THE SINGING BULLET.

If You Hear It Whiz, You May Be Sure It Won't Hit You.

"Don't be afraid of a bullet that you've heard whistle," said an old soldier. "If it sings in your ear rest assured that it will never harm you. It is a fact, as any old soldier will tell you, that you never hear the bullet which hits you. It is a problem of 'windage,' as the boys in the army called it. In other words, the bullet which you hear sing has already sped past you and the bullet which hits you has hissed in the ear of some other fellow in passing before it got to you. It is a simple proposition, after all. The singing of the bullet is the atmospheric vibration which is created and the resistance which the air offers to the progress of the bullet. This cannot be detected by the ear until the bullet has crossed a parallel line with the ear. It may sail over your head or whiz close to the ground, but if it passes you at all the ear will catch the sound of its flight. To the soldier of many battles the voice of the bullet is music. He knows that he need have no dread of the bullet that sings in his ears. It is the bullet that he does not hear that must be feared, and it is this bullet which always brings harm to him. No soldier ever heard the bullet which inflicted a wound on him."

Pickled Statues.

The marbles in Westminster palace are treated to a bath once a year. They are first sponged off with water and then "pickled." This pickle consists of a solution of soft soap and sulphur, which removes the incrustations due to the smoke laden atmosphere and is said to do the marble no harm.

Novelty in Advertising.

A novel way of introducing a new article has been discovered in London. A number of men who suggest by their apparel that they are grooms, valets or servants of some kind are sent about the shops to buy the article which is being boomed. They insist upon having this particular article and no other, rejecting any substitute which may be offered them.

In many cases the tradesman has not the article in question, but is sure to lay in a stock when a few days later a drummer waits upon him with the article in question. As the men are selected with a view to give the impression that their employers are wealthy the shopkeeper naturally thinks that the article will bring him the patronage of a class he is anxious to please.

LOCAL MEMBERS IN WOODMEN OF WORLD.

The Canadian Woodman Gives Personal Sketches of Two of Them.

The Canadian Woodman, the official organ of the Woodman of the World, takes a deep interest in Peterborough evidently. The July number, just to hand, contains three articles of local interest. One is a clipping from the Examiner dealing with the Lift Lock, and the others are personal sketches of prominent members of the Order, which are reproduced below:

SOV. A. H. STRATTON.

Sov. Stratton, who has just recently been made a member of Sherwood Forest Camp, No. 50, Peterborough, on account of his various business activities, entitls him to special notice in these columns. He is the sole proprietor of the Peterborough Cash Bookstore, which has grown so rapidly as to give him special prominence among the business men of the new city.

A good indication of Mr. Stratton's business ability and worth is the fact that he was elected at the beginning of the year, to the position of vice president of the Peterborough Board of Trade, serving to show the general attention he gives to important local and business matters.

He also takes a lively interest in legitimate sport and has made himself so popular with the boys that he has been elected to honorary positions in a number of different clubs. He is enrolled as a member of several fraternal societies, and is more or less actively identified with the Order of Freemasons, Oddfellows, etc.

Mr. Stratton is a brother of the Provincial Secretary, Hon. J. R. Stratton, and notwithstanding that he is quite a young man he has already won his spurs as a shrewd and sagacious business man.

SOV. F. A. CLARK.

The subject of this sketch, Sov. F. B. Clark, was born in Barrie, where he entered the employ of Simmons & Co., and learned the hat and fur business, after which he removed to Toronto and entered the employ of A. A. Allan & Co., wholesale hatters and furriers, and was there for a number of years.

He came to Peterborough in 1890, bought out the business of A. H. Mellville & Co., and has made a good success of it.

Sov. Clark is very enthusiastic in athletic sports. He was president and secretary of the Peterborough Athletic Lacrosse Club, president of Champion Excelsior Baseball Club, first vice-president of Peterborough Rugby Football Club of 1903, president of Peterborough Hockey Club, 1904, and manager of Peterborough Lacrosse Club, elected to the council of Canadian Lacrosse Association, and also lieutenant in No. 8 Company, City Regiment. Also identified with a number of other societies, a member of Corinthian Lodge, A.F. and A. M., 101, and a member of I.O.O.F.

NARROW ESCAPE AT HASTINGS

Messrs. Ed. and John Crowe Thrown out of a Buggy.

(Hastings Star.)

On Monday afternoon last while driving into town with a single rig, Messrs. Ed. and John Crowe, of Campbellford, met with an accident, from which, considering the circumstances, they came off very luckily. While passing the railroad crossing at the south end of the bridge the horse took freight at a train and started running. On getting onto the bridge the buggy got crossed on the centre piece, three wheels being on one side and one on the other. The scrapping of the one wheel, doubtless, also assisted in frightning the horse and it became unmanageable. At full speed it ran across the bridge and at the post office the rig came in contact with a telephone pole. The two men were thrown out, John receiving a nasty cut in the head requiring five stistches, and both being badly shaken up. The buggy was badly smashed while the horse, none the worse of its run, after breaking loose from the rig ran into the Clarendon House sheds where it was captured.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering

'I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from Chronic Diarrhoea for ten years, and during that times I tried various remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well, and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favour of that wonderful remedy." This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

ENTERPRISE OF HAVELOCK MEN.

Will Rebuild Places Destroyed by Fire on Larger Scale.

According to the Standard, the business men of Havelock, who were burned out, are making active preparations to rebuild.

Mr. H. T. Andrews has men engaged in clearing up the rubbish on his lot opposite the station, and will erect a two story frame block, to consist of two stores and a barber shop. He also intends to build a livery stable, 30 x 65.

Mr. Chas. Armstrong also has men engaged in carting away the debris from his lot and the adjoining lot to the east, which he has purchased from Mr. Coulter. He intends to put up an up-to-date hotel on the two lots as soon as he can obtain the material.

Mr. Jas. McKoown is figuring on erecting a store and dwelling on the old site, but is not yet fully decided.

Williams Bros., are clearing off the site of their burned store and will erect a dwelling and a bigger general store thereon.

A VERY PRETTY NORWOOD WEDDING.

Miss Margaret Howson Married to Mr. John Wellington Burgess.

At Norwood on Wednesday evening, just a little before sunset, Miss Margaret Howson, eldest daughter of Mr. W. R. Howson, of Norwood, was united in marriage to Mr. John Wellington Burgess, of Belmont. The marriage took place on the lawn, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns, and Chinese lanterns. Rev. W. G. Howson, of London, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Caleb Parker, of Norwood. The wedding march was played by Mrs. M. Swain, of Havelock. The bride, who was given away by her father, was beautifully attired in a biscuit coloured silk eoliene, trimmed with all over lace and applique, with berthe of spangled ecru. The bride carried a shower bouquet o' white carnations, while her hair was adorned with a wreath o' similar blossoms, from which hung a silk embroidered tull veil. The brideamaid, Miss Minnie Howson, sister of the bride, was robed in a pink silk eoliene with drop yoke, and cream lace berthe, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Williamson Burgess, of Belmont. After the ceremony, the guests were invited to the dining room which was most tastefully decorated, with wreaths of evergreen, flowers, ferns and flags. A sumptuous repast was served, after which, with laughter, song and story, the hours passed all too soon. The soft rays of the moon, nearly at the full, mingling with the variegated lights of the Chinese lanterns, made a scene at once beautiful and picturesque. The wedded pair received many handsome and costly gifts. The groom's present to the bride, was a gold watch and chain. To the bridesmaid, a gold ring, set with rubies and pearls. To the groomsman, a fine gold Masonic charm. With best wishes for the happiness of bride and groom, who left for their new home, the friends soon after midnight, went each their way.

WITH FALSE TOP.

How a Montreal Street Railway Conductor Is Said to Have Stolen Fares.

Montreal, July 23.—Charles Harrington, a conductor in the employ of the Montreal Street Railway, was brought before Mr. Lafontaine, police magistrate, yesterday afternoon on the charge of defrauding the company. Harrington, when arrested, it is alleged, had in his possession a regular collecting box, which looked genuine, but a close examination revealed the fact that it was equipped with a false top, so that the money and tickets, instead of falling into the box, remained in the false top until removed.

THIS MESSAGE IS FOR WOMEN.

Dame Bradette Cured of all her Pains by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Suffered for Years Before She Found Quick Relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

St. Rose du Degele, Temiscouta, Co., Que., July 22.—(Special).— Suffering women all over Canada will read with feelings of interest and relief the experience of Dame Amedee Bradette of this place.

"It gives me pleasure to be able to tell," says Dame Bradette, "that I am cured of all the ills I suffered for a number of years. I found in Dodd's Kidney Pills quick relief from all my pains. I only had to take one box to bring back my health, and in five months I have had no return of my trouble."

Those troubles known only to women always spring from disordered Kidneys. The female organs are entirely dependent on the Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure the kidneys. That is why they always bring health, strength and cheerfulness to weak, run-down, suffering women.

Eight Families Homeless.

Hamilton, July 23.—Eight families, consisting of about eighty persons, were rendered homeless last evening by a fire that broke out about 5.30 in a row of frame houses on North Caroline street. The row occupies practically the whole block between Mill and Harriet streets. The inmates lugged their furniture out on the streets, where it was drenched by the water that was being poured on the conflagration. Mrs. Morris owned all the houses. Her loss will not amount to more than $2,000, and the tenants will suffer to the extent of about half that amount.

Rev. Dr. Philp Dead.

Grimsby Park, July 23.—Rev. Dr. John Philp of Kingston, died suddenly at Grimsby Park of apoplexy yesterday at 5 p.m. The Dr. was feeling remarkably well all day, took his dinner as usual about 2 o'clock, went to the Lakeview House to bid goodby, but soon after going upstairs he became unconscious, and expired three hours later. The funeral will take place from Dr. William Philp's residence, 94 Mess street North, Hamilton, on Monday at 2.30 p.m. to Dundas. Rev. Dr. Philp was the son of the Rev. William Philp, a Methodist clergyman who came to this country from England in the early forties. The deceased married Miss Grafton of Dundas, who died about a year ago. During his ministry Dr. Philp had occupied a number of important pulpits, having been stationed at Toronto, London, St. Thomas, Hamilton, Montreal, and at the time of his death, the Sydenham Street Church, Kingston.

BABY QUIRK'S QUICK CURE

Of Torturing Eczema by Cuticura

When All Else Had Utterly Failed.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST RETURN SINCE CURE.

"My baby, Owen Herbert Quirk, was afflicted from the age of six weeks with a loathsome running eczema, almost covering his face. I took him to Drs. —— and —— of Victoria Road, Aldershot, and he was treated by them for three months, but got much worse, and was a sickening sight to look at. I saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies, and got the Soap, Ointment and Resolvent.

"We noticed an improvement at once, and within a fortnight the running had ceased and the scales were nearly all dried off, and in a month his face was perfectly clear, not a spot left. I have enclosed photograph of him when he was thirteen months old. He is now two years and four months, and has never had the slightest return of it. I am very grateful for the benefits derived from your remedies, and shall feel it a pleasure to make their value known. For corroboration of this statement you may refer any one to Mrs. Williams, 45 Michaels Road, Aldershot, or Mr. Gunstane, 40 Victoria Road, Aldershot, to whom we recommended the remedies for a skin humour, which they also cured. You are at liberty to do what you like with this statement, as I should like all to know of the value of Cuticura."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS.

July 22nd, Friday evening.—To-day's market rallied about a point and then lost nearly all the gain during the afternoon. There was, however, conspicuous strength in some specialties, as predicted last night. Va Chem advanced 3 points. It should cross 30 and May go to 35. C.F.I. ought to cross 40 next week. T.C.I. ought to go to about 45. B.R.T. ought to be a purchase below 93 for about 4 points. The general list ought to have another rally of 2 or 3 points and this rally ought to start to-morrow it seems that yesterday's low prices mark the limit of the present reaction. After next week's rally another and more extensive reaction will take place. Barring unforeseen accidents this rally ought to last till Thursday.

Oct. Cotton is a sale above 10. Would leave wheat alone for th epresent.

WALL ST. INF. BUREAU.

We look for stock market to act today very similarly to that of yesterday, the irregularity should continue and the tendency ought to be reactionary. Those who sell short on strong spots should put a quick stop and take moderate profits. We would not buy except on a reasonable recession at present. We believe that investment purchases and the outside buying will be resumed at once if the market has a fair set back. If the operations for betterment are forced it will frighten away much of this buying. There are a few stocks that may be made conspicuously strong while realizing continues elsewhere, and they are A.C.P., B.R.T. and Rdg. As we have before said there are signs of bearish operation against U. S. Q., St. P., Pa., and S.P. We look for a traders' market for a short time.

BAND CLOSES THE FIRST WEEK.

McMaster Evangelists Have a Successful Week.

Meeting Last Night one of the Best of the Series.

The McMaster Band closed the first week's services last night in the Murray Street Baptist Church. The week was a success in every sense. The attendance, the increasing interest and the great blessing resulting. The addresses have been short, full of Gospel Truth, crisp, and interesting, bristling with apt illustrations. The saving and keeping power of Christ has been shown and the false refuges in which men are hiding, the great danger of procastination and the madness of rejecting the Gospel of Christ. Last night's service was one of great solemnity. Mr. Williamson, opened with solo "The Golden Threshold". Mr. McDonald followed with a clear cut address on "I am not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ". The wise are ashamed because the condition of salvation is simply accepting Christ by faith. The great are ashamed because all are brought on a level to His feet. The rich are ashamed because they cannot buy it. The youth because it is a straight jacket and a long face. The scriptures say, "But Whosoever believeth in Him Shall not be Ashamed." The quartette then sang with splendid effect "Blue Galilee" Mr. Nobles gave a straightforward powerful sermonette, taking two expressive words, Lost and Saved and for fifteen minutes brought the large audience face to face with eternal relations. The quartette rendered very softly with heads together "Though your Sins be as Scarlet." Mr. Cameron made the last appeal, introducing the atonement with argument and illustration and the response was most encouraging which made a busy aftermeeting. The quartette has played no small part in the week's work. The whole audience have been visibly swayed again and again. These young men are a credit to the University which sent them out. If this is the "student" the "full fledged" pastor must be a man of power with a bright and enviable future. The services will be continued until Tuesday next. To-night, should weather permit an open air service is promised in the Central Park at eight. The full band will be out and will render glees and duets between the short addresses.—Com.

To Prove what Anti-Pill, the Great System Treatment will do for you, Every Reader of this paper may have A Sample Bottle sent Free by Mail.

Derangement of the stomach is responsible for much sickness and suffering. Every organ of the body depends upon the stomach for its nutriment and strength—If the stomach is not working right the blood carries to the liver, heart, nerves and kidney tissue imperfect nutrition—They become weak and unable to perform their work—become clogged, diseased, and throw out their distress symptoms. Now you may get stimulative, temporary relief by the taking of a kidney, liver, nerve or heart specific, but the cause remains—The stomach is at fault, and so long as it keeps loading the blood with impurity—waste, so long will the blood transport and deposit disease breeding elements in the weak places—When you feel sick, help the stomach first. A well stomach means a well body. Anti-Pill, the Great System Treatment, is a new discovery that has a marvelous influence in correcting system ailments. Address, Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for free sample. Regular size, a month's treatment, 50 cents at Druggists.

TO MAKE A BEGINNING.

Georgian Bay Canal May Be Included in the Estimates.

Ottawa, July 25.—The Cabinet worked overtime on Saturday fixing up the supplementary estimates. These were practically ready for submission to the House last week, but at the last moment, almost, it was decided to ask an appropriation for the commencement of work on the Georgian Bay Canal. The Prime Minister, however, judged it to be well that the Government should have an intimation from the transportation commission as to the advisability of this undertaking, and it was to secure this that the estimates were delayed beyond Friday last. It is understood that this desideratum was furnished on Saturday, and Council sat until late Saturday night re-arranging the estimates so as to include the new canal grant. The policy will probably be announced of making a commencement at the Georgian Bay outlet and deepening the French River and eastern end of Lake Nipissing so as to give a deep water terminus at North Bay. The work could be finished in about three years, and would cost a couple of millions. Preliminary surveys for this work are on file in the Public Works Department.

To Take His Seat.

Ottawa, July 25.—John Charlton arrived in the city on Saturday and will take his seat in the House Monday afternoon for the first time this session. Mr. Charlton shows traces of his severe illness, but is in a fair way to recovery.

RUSSIA AT LAST SEES THE LIGHT

British View of Volunteer Cruisers in the Red Sea Accepted.

IRREGULARITY IS ADMITTED.

One of Them Fired Loaded Shots at British Steamer Ardora—Russian Fleet in Far East Sinks Another Merchantman—War Operations are Active—Heavy Fighting on Saturday and Sunday.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—Grand Duke Alexis presided at Saturday's Council, which Count Lamsdorff, the Foreign Secretary, and Vice-Admiral Avellan, chief of the Admiralty Department, and other high naval officers attended. The result of the conference removes all doubts concerning the present attitude of Russia with regard to the volunteer fleet. The validity of the view expressed in the British note regarding the irregularity of the position of the vessels was so far admitted that the Council agreed to waive the right of search.

After a long discussion, in which Count Lamsdorff took a leading part, it was decided that the present status of the volunteer fleet was not sufficiently well defined, according to international law, to render further searches and seizures advisable, and that therefore Russia, in the interests of friendly relations with the powers, should withdraw the authority given the volunteer fleet in this respect.

Orders have been sent to the volunteer fleet steamers St. Petersburg and Smolensk to refrain from interference with foreign shipping. It is expected these steamers will eventually join the Baltic fleet, and be replaced by ordinary warships.

The Malacca will be received by the Russian and British Consuls at Algiers, and will be formally liberated on a declaration by the latter that the ammunition on board the vessel belongs to the British Government, and is destined for Hong Kong.

Boarded Another.

Port Said, July 25.—Advices received here say that the Russian volunteer fleet steamer Smolensk fired three blank shots across the bows of the British steamer Ardova, the cargo of which vessel consists of coal and explosives, and the vessel not stopping, the Smolensk sent two loaded shots at her, one of them passing over amidships and the other over her stern. The Ardova was then seized and her crew transferred to the Smolensk. The vessel will be brought to Suez.

A MERCHANTMAN SUNK.

The Vladivostock Fleet Active on the Japanese Coast.

Tokio, July 25.—The Russian Vladivostock squadron has sunk the merchantman which it captured off the coast of Izeu Province yesterday. The name of this ship and her nationality is not known, and nothing had been learned of the fate of her crew. Witnesses ashore saw the merchantman following the fleet. Then they saw her fired upon, after which she disappeared. The Russian warships were last reported at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to the southwest of Caperio, Izeu Province, steering to the west.

Ships to Canada in Peril.

London, July 25.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times, in a despatch dated July 24, says he believes that the object of the Vladivostock squadron is to interrupt trade between the United States and Japan, and that steamers on the way from Canada and San Francisco are in serious danger. He says that another aim of the squadron is apparently to seal Tokio Bay.

AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

Kuropatkin Is Reported Anxious to Abandon Liaoyang Without Fighting.

London, July 25.—Specials to the London morning papers confirm the news of active operations at the seat of war.

The Daily Telegraph's Che Foo correspondent, under date of July 23, says:

"A junk from Dalny reports that last night a Japanese fleet of 20 warships and 20 torpedo boats bombarded Hwangshin for three hours and the forts replied."

The same correspondent learns that the Japanese first army is being largely reinforced by veterans from the reserves.

The correspondent of The Standard with the Japanese army, under date of July 25, says:

"It is difficult to understand the intentions of the Russians. Kuropatkin is evidently bent on retreat northward, yet he lingers in the south, attracted apparently by Port Arthur."

The correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, in a despatch dated at Motien Pass, July 25, regards Gen. Kuropatkin as outmanoeuvred and anxious to abandon Liaoyang without fighting, but also reluctant to retire while Port Arthur remains uncaptured.

Russians Unable to Oppose Jap Advance.

London, July 25.—The Daily Chronicle's Yinkow correspondent reports that there was heavy fighting Saturday and Sunday in the neighborhood of Tatcheskia with Gen. Stakelberg's force, consisting of twenty battalions of infantry, a brigade of artillery and a division of Cossacks, and that the Russians appeared to be drawing the cordon tighter around the Japanese positions.

The correspondent of The Times with Gen. Kuroki's army says: "Chinese report that Gen. Kuropatkin, with 40,000 troops, is at Liaoyang, while his second in command with many men is still at Haicheng. I still adhere to the opinion that the Russians are not able to seriously oppose the Japanese advance."

Battle Fought Saturday.

Newchwang, July 25.—A battle was fought Saturday near Tatcheskiao, attended, it is believed with heavy losses. The progress of the battle was watched by many people in Newchwang from the roofs of the houses. The day was clear and the smoke of the guns could be plainly seen.

News at Tientsin.

Tientsin, July 25.—News has reached here that a battle is raging outside of Newchwang. The fighting can be seen from the housetops. In the engagement of Saturday, the Russian loss is reported to have been 800. The Japanese are slowly nearing Newchwang. Great excitement prevailed in that city during Friday's and Saturday's fight.

Another report from Newchwang states that Saturday's battle was at Tathsuithang, six miles distant, and that the Japanese were successful. Many Chinese refugees arriving at Newchwang have reported that nine Japanese gunboats from Port Arthur have arrived at Tahtingshan.

Japs Lost 280.

Chicago, July 25.—A special cablegram to The Daily News from Nagasaki, Japan, says: Despatches from Omura state that the strong Russian position at Shimou, ten miles east of Liaoyang, was captured by the Japanese troops July 19. The Mikado's men lost 280 in the attack.

OTTAWA'S GOOD-BYE.

Demonstration to Dundonald Has Assumed Largely a Party Phase.

Ottawa, July 25.—The committee organizing a demonstration of farewell for Lord Dundonald on Tuesday night have arranged for a number of excursions from outside points. Several bands will be present also, and a farewell message will be given by the Mayor at the station. From the circumstances of the case the demonstration has assumed largely a party phase, and a diligent canvass is being made by a few enthusiasts to secure as large an attendance as they possibly can. An incident yesterday records the division of opinion on the subject. The band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards had been engaged to play at the farewell demonstration on Tuesday evening. After the regular Sunday afternoon concert at Rockliffe the members of the band held an informal meeting and decided not to take part in the affair, as it appeared to be a party event. Several of them are civil servants, and, though they had been granted leave, they took the ground that it was inadvisable to take part in a political demonstration.

Dundonald at Alexandria.

Alexandria, July 25.—Lord Dundonald arrived here yesterday on the morning express from Ottawa, and was given a right royal Glengarry welcome by his fellow-countrymen from all parts of the county. The Earl was escorted to J. A. MacDonald's, where he was entertained until 11 a.m., when he attended divine service in the Presbyterian Church. During the afternoon he visited many typical Scotch families. At 6 o'clock he was entertained at dinner by His Lordship Bishop MacDonell. Lord Dundonald attended service in the evening, after which he left on the 8.20 train for Ottawa. Hundreds escorted him to the station, and as the train moved out Piper Dewart struck up the Highland lament.

THE TURKS RENEW ARMENIAN MASSACRE.

Roads in Armenia Strewn With Dead Bodies.

Six Villages Burned and the Male Inhabitants Murdered—Women and Children Tortured.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Berlin, July 25. — The Frankfurter Zeitung reports that Armenian massacres are in full swing again. The Turks, the paper asserts, have burned six Armenian villages, all of which are situated in Lakevine. All the males were massacred and the women and children tortured and outraged. A similar slaughter is reported in the neighbourhood of Mushh. The roads in Armenia are strewn with corpses. The horrors of 1896 and 1894 have been equalled.

BRITISH PATROL OFF CAPE HELAS.

To Intercept British Ships Captured by the Russians.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Constantinople, July 25. — A British warship is patrolling off Cape Helas, 150 miles south of the Dardanelles. She is using her searchlights with the supposed object of intercepting any British ship which may have been captured by the Russian volunteer fleet steamers, if they attempt to pass the Dardanelles.

RUSSIANS SINK A BRITISH STEAMER.

The "Knight Commander" Scuttled by the Vladivistock Squadron.

ANOTHER BLOW AT BRITAIN

European Passengers Detained by Russians—Squadron Also Sank Two Japanese Schooners.

Special C. N. W. Despatches to the Examiner.

Yokohama, July 25.—The Vladivostock squadron yesterday sunk the British steamer Knight Commander, from New York, off the Province of Lzu, after transferring the crew of the Knight Commander to the steamer Chinan, which arrived here this morning. The Vladivostock also captured a German vessel believed to be the Arabs, with three thousand tons of flour, and an unknown British steamer. The two vessels were sent to Vladivostock in charge of prise crews. The American Trading Company are the agents here for the Knight Commander. The Knight Commander's cargo was a general one. Her European passengers were detained by the Russians and her crew of 21 was transferred to the Chinan, which also reports that the Russians sank two Japanese schooners.

A MAN'S HOLIDAYS.

The Toronto Star philosophysing on the subject of holidays says: —

A Toronto clergyman preached a sermon on Sunday last on the value of health and the importance of holidays. He urged people not to neglect taking a vacation, and in doing so to seek as great a change as possible from their ordinary surroundings. A prominent doctor, in a published article, takes quite another view. He says that people should not be too strenuous while on a holiday, but should seek the real rest which can be found only in repose of body and contentment of mind. He deplores the practice of city men who go into the woods and tramp long distances, burn their faces in the sun, and blister their hands at the oars. This, he says, is hard work, not a rest.

But we hold with the Toronto clergyman. Take his own case. On the Monday he was leaving for a holiday in the North, where, with a party of friends, he would push into unfrequented regions, catch fish, cook and eat them, portage rapids, pitch tents, work like a beaver, eat like a hired man, and sleep ten hours a night. As his heavy eyelids close in sleep to-night he will be soothed by the odour of the pines, the murmur of the water on the beach, the song of the wind in the trees, while he will hear the cry of the whip-poor-will nearby, and from a greater distance the call of the loon. He will feel himself a pioneer. He will dream of Champlain and those early adventurers who explored the country long years ago. He will imagine himself in the same boat with Lallemant or Marquette. His stout and respectable companions will, in the mind's eye, be transformed into painted Indians—and on they will go, towards the unknown country and whatever tragic fate lies beyond.

The clergyman was so full of happy anticipations that he had to preach about it. That is the best part of a holiday—it requires to be so attractive that one enjoys it ten times before he tastes it. How can we grow enthusiastic about an anticipated two-weeks' repose loafing on a lawn? What is there to look back upon when it is past—what in there in it to talk about afterwards? It is a vacant period like the scattered hours you spent last year in sleep. But if a fortnight spent in the wilderness imposes hard work, tans the face, and blisters the hands, it also gives one something to look forward to and much to recall with pleasure. It gives one sound sleep and a good appetite. One immediately plans some bolder design for next year, and is all the better for having some such purpose in mind while working through the year at his desk. Such a holiday gives a man a change of scene and habits, and also makes him appreciate the comforts of home when he returns. He learns to endure the civilization which he thought he detested, but which he could not long live away from without missing its ministrations.

Do not believe the eminent doctors who say that people should spend their holidays dosing on their lawns. Observe rather the practice of the doctors of Toronto, who are themselves much given to bush ranging, fishing, and deer hunting.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE BREED OF LIVE STOCK

An Outline of the System as Adopted in Ireland.

In the year 1900 the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland, devised a scheme for encouraging improvement in the breed of live stock particularly of horses and cattle, in that country. An outline of the Irish system may be of interest to Canadian horsemen, who have for some time been discussing the problem of obtaining for service throughout the country a sufficient number of sound well-bred stallions of the most profitable types.

GENERAL OBJECTS.

In formulating their live stock schemes, the Department's main object was to promote improvement in the breeds of the country by encouraging private enterprise in the breeding of pure-bred animals, and in the introduction of new sires, and to do this in such a way that the accompanying advantages should be principally secured for the smaller farmers. Since interests of national importance were at stake—such, for example, as the maintenance of the high reputation of Irish horses, the improvement of the feeding qualities of the store cattle, and the milking properties of dairy cows—and as these interests required that the stock of the country should be considered as a whole, and should not, in public schemes for its improvement be attacked by the introduction of strains likely to have injurious general effects on the national breeds, it was necessary that these schemes should contain certain principles of uniform application to the whole country. It was, therefore, necessary that the live stock schemes should emanate from the central authority, while, in particulars other than their national features, they might be modified in accordance with local opinions and circumstances. In order to have the assistance of the most representative expert opinion in Ireland in the formulation of these schemes, the government appointed two special advisory committees—one for horses, and the other for cattle, sheep and swine.

HORSE BREEDING SCHEME.

The horse breeding scheme as outlined by the advisory committee and approved by the agriculture board, provided for the registration of suitable and sound thoroughbred and agricultural sires, and the selection of a number of the best brood mares in each county to be served by these sires. The owner of a registered stallion is entitled under the scheme, to a fee of £3 for each selected mare put to his stallion. The mares selected were the property of persons deriving their means of living from farming, whose valuation did not exceed in the poorer counties £150, and in the more wealthy counties £200.

The first year 410 stallions were offered for registration, of which 295 were thoroughbred and 115 of the agricultural type. From the first it was deemed advisable to spare no pains in making a searching examination of the stallions offered for registration, and, accordingly before any of the stallions offered under the scheme were accepted, the Department's inspectors had to certify, (1) as to suitability, and (2) as to the soundness of the animal. A registar was published in March, 1901, which contained the names and pedigrees of 97 thoroughbred and 31 agricultural stallions that had been accepted. Upwards of 1900 free nomination tickets of £3 each were offered at 150 shows of mares held during March and April, and nearly 1700 of these tickets were issued.

In addition to subsidising stallions by means of £3 nominations to mares, the Department offered in a few counties, where there was an insufficient number of stallions for the purpose of the scheme, premiums varing from £50 to £100.

LOANS FOR THE PURCHASE OF STALLIONS.

In order to encourage farmers of small means to provide themselves with a registered stallion, a sum of money was alloted by the Department for the purpose of granting loans for the purchase of approved sires. The money was lent at 2 1-2 per cent. interest, payable in five annual instalments. It was a condition precedent to these loans that the animal should be insured for its full market value.

PREMIUMS FOR FEMALE STOCK.

As a further means of encouraging improvement in stock breeding, the Department adopted the principle of awarding premiums and prizes to female stock. The advisory committee on horse breeding pointed out that the industry in Ireland, is to a great extent, injured by young mares being sold out of the country, thus leaving only second-class animals for breeding purposes, and the Department adopted their recommendation that the prizes and premiums should be mainly confined to young mares from two to six years old, served by a registered sire, in the hope that the farmers would thereby be induced to retain these mares.

FISHING.

An' you hadn't got a bite,
Supposin' the shadders wuz gettin' long
An' it was a-comin' night;
Supposin' 'at then you tho't your friends
Who would laff and jeer at you;
What would you do in a case like that,
What do you 'spose you'd do?

Well we'll say 'at you'd give it up
An' doggedly row ashore,
Declarin' 'at fate wuz ag'in you so
It was useless tto try no more;
But supposin' you see a man on de bank
With some bass, and a dozen or two,
An' supposin' he'd sell 'em to you fur a song,
What do you s'pose you'd do?

Wouldn't you kind o' smile at him,
An'a-thou sly look aboutt,
Before you reached deep down in your clothes,
To haul your wallet out?
An' wouldn't you lower your voice to say
"This, you know's 'twixt me an you?"
Isn't that just the way you'd act?
Isn't that what you'd do?

An' then when down thro' the streets of the town
Your admirin' friends as they'd pass,
Would stop to congratulate you an ask
Fur the secret of catchin' bass,
Wouldn't you tell 'em fishin' wuz kind of a knack
'At was only acquired by a few?
Isn't that what you'd say, now?
Isn't that what you'd do?

SUGAR BEETS AS A FIELD CROP.

Growers Say They are Decidedly Profitable.

A STRUGGLING INDUSTRY.

General Harvest Prospects in Western Ontario Improving.

Apples, Hay and All Spring Grains Will Make a Heavy Return to the Farmer —Model Farming Methods.

(The Globe.)

Berlin, July 21. — The beet sugar industry in Canada is still in the infant stage. Ontario farmers have not entered into sugar beet growing to the extent that the capacity of the factories would justify. The problem of getting a supply of beets that will permit the factories to run at full capacity has not yet been solved, and the making of dividends depends upon the solution of that problem. The events of the past year have not tended in every way to the strengthening of the new industry in Ontario. The Wiarton factory is in financial difficulties, and the big plant at Dresden has been torn down and removed to Wisconsin. It is not surprising therefore that the acreage of beets this year will be very much less than last year in the neighbourhood of the two factories named.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR BEETS.

But there remain two other factories, one in this city and the other in Wallaceburg, and both are well equipped for the manufacture of sugar, are in good financial condition, and report an acreage of beets about 50 per cent. greater than in any previous year. The plants at Wallaceburg and Berlin are each worth about $700,000. The promoter's work in organizing one such a concern is not slight, but the erection of the factory is not more important than to win the confidence of the farmers in the community, so that they will begin the growing of beets. The Dresden factory was operated but nineteen days last fall, and was able to work up all the beets offered in that brief time.

BEETS LIKELY TO BE POPULAR.

The Canadian farmer does not take readily to the cultivation of root crops on a large scale, and it will take time, and careful, considerate treatment on the part of the refiners before they can place the business on a safe and permanent basis. Conditions are especially favourable this year to the sugar manufacturer, and if the sugar beet crop turns out as good as it now promises, the ready cash returns from beets will, in view of the shortage in wheat, make the crop a popular one. The Berlin Company has contracted for 3600 acres, and the Wallaceburg Company about 4500 acres. I saw a large number of the fields yesterday and to-day, and the farmers estimate that the yield will average 15 tons to the acre, which, at $5 a ton, would give a return of $75 an acre.

$20 TO $50 AN ACRE.

The average price paid at Wallaceburg last year was $5.08 a ton, which means that the beets gave out about 15 per cent. of sugar, for the regular price is $4 a ton, when there is 12 per cent. of sugar. There are cases where the gross receipts for an acre of beets would reach $90, but the net return, after paying for seed and labour, is from $20 to $50 an acre.

Mr. O'Neil, near Wallaceburg, has 23 acres in beets. But he has a family of seven and only required to spend $36 in cash for putting in the seed and thinning out the crop. He expects that the extra expense in the fall will be less than $36. Frank Shaw of Tupperville, had 12 acres of beets last year, and has 17 this year. He says the labour problem has solved itself. He could have worked more beets this year if the land were available. More men can be had at $1 per day than are needed. With a beet crop he can afford to pay better wages and good wages insure a plentiful supply of labour. Mr. Shaw has perfected a topper with which he is able to top off his beets at about one-third the former cost per acre.

SUGAR BEETS IMPROVE LAND.

The farmers all testify to the good effect that sugar beets have on the land. There must be careful preparation in advance, but one year's crop of beets leaves the land in excellent shape, and the cereal crop of the following year is exceptionally clean.

All the seed used in Canada and the United States is imported from Germany at an annual cost of about five million dollars. Richard Von Heyne, a seed specialist, who was recently in Canada on his way to California to make experiments on the production of seed in the United States, spoke favourably of the possibility of producing seed in Canada. Our climate is more like the climate of Germany than is that of the States. Doubtless the Government will make experiments when the sugar beet industry is more surely established.

Sugar beets are susceptible of high cultivation. With the increasing knowledge which will come from continuance in their production and the introduction of improved machinery they will become, as in Michigan, an established order in the rotation of crops. At present there are a number of Belgians and Frenchmen near Wallaceburg, who, being accustomed to the petite culture of Europe take to raising sugar beets quite naturally. So also do the Germans of Waterloo. But with the bogey of hand labour removed, the Canadian farmer also will take to raising sugar beets when he finds it will pay, for, after all, that is the important power.

SPRING GRAINS UNIFORMLY GOOD.

The spring grains are looking well all over western Ontario. In the Wallaceburg and Sarnia districts they especially so. Lambton always raises lots of hay, and this season is no exception. The yield is about two tons an acre, and in quality the very best. The uniformly good spring crops of Essex, Kent and Huron are found also in the hill country of Waterloo county. There is a marked contrast in the prospect driving through this country as compared with the monotonous flat lands of Kent and if the crops of Kent are somewhat heavier the beauty of Waterloo is a compensation. There is a good deal of wheat here, and while it is by no means a full crop it is the best I have seen this year.

BIG CROP OF APPLES.

Apples promise a large crop in all the counties from the St. Clair River east to Waterloo and Oxford. The finer fruits are not much grown in this section, and of the cherries it can only be said that they did not turn out well. Not much more can be said of the corn crop here than of Essex and Kent. A favourable season would yet bring it safely through. The flax industry is being developed around Dresden. Some 300 acres were cultivated this year, and the sample is of extra quality, both for tow and for flax seed. Waterloo county continues to raise much flax for the Dom. Mills. Whether the war has affected the flax and hemp industry in Russia is not certain, but the price of flax has advanced this year.

IMPROVED METHODS IN FARMING.

The farm of George R. Barrie, in Dumfries, within two miles of Galt, is an example not only of good land well tilled, but also of a farm where the most improved methods are in use for lessening labour. Mr. Barrie has in all 200 acres of rolling land, of which about 30 acres is in bush. The barn is 60x180 feet. All grain is thrashed as it is brough into the barn, and the place cleared for the next lot. The separator is always ready and power is furnished by an 18 h.p. gasoline engine. All the straw is chopped at thes ame time, and blown back into the mow. The plan of loose feeding of stock is followed. A stable room 40x80, large enough for 30 head of cattle, is fitted up so that practically no hand work is required in feeding. The feed is brought in on an overhead track, and can be dumped along the feed box as it is needed. The animals drink when they desire, and as all dehorned there is no danger from their being loose. Bothe the stable floor and the barnyard pen are of cement. Although a busy man, and using hired help, Mr. Barrie has three acres in sugar beets, and regards them as a good thing.

KEEPING PACE WITH THE COUNTRY.

In its "Twenty-year-old-Items," the Winnipeg Free Press the other day stated that "the Canadian Pacific Railway have decided to run daily trains on the Western Division as far as Brandon only; west of Brandon trains will be run twice a week only." Two decades have made a vast difference in railroading out in the west. Instead of only one train daily to Brandon from Winnipeg, there are now two daily trans-continental trains, and daily locals to Moose Jaw, and on several branch lines — the Souris, Arcola, Lariviere, Winnipeg Beach, Teulon, Brookdale, Miniota, Emerson, Pembina and other sections, and less frequently on a number of other branches. The man who travelled on the Canadian Pacific in the early days will readily acknowledge that that company has more than kept pace with the wonderful development of the country during the past twenty years.

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck, you cannot afford to trust it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissues, and revitalises the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

WON IT FOR CANADA

Pte. J. Perry of Vancouver, B. C., Victor in King's Prize Match.

MADE 321 OUT OF POSSIBLE 355

Scenes of Great Enthusiasm at Bisley Where the Win Was a Surprise But Popular—The Prizes Presented By the Princess of Wales—Canadian Also Wins the St. George's Vase Match.

Bisley Camp, July 25.—(C. A. P.) Pte. J. Perry of the 6th Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles, Vancouver, won the King's Prize on Saturday. His winning was a great surprise, but most popular. He scored seven bulls and three inners at 1,000 yards, giving him a total of 47 over that range. His total score over the 200, 500, 600, 800, 900 and 1,000 yards ranges was 321, out of a possible 355, which was 10 more than the score of last year.

An enthusiastic crowd followed the hero of the hour [illegible] was carried around the camp. At the Canadian hut the procession halted while Perry was photographed. All the Canadians in camp have decorated their hats with maple leaves taken from the trees lining the avenue leading to the Canadian hut. Commander Anderson is jubilant, and Adjutant McDougall is equally so.

The Prince and Princess of Wales both congratulated Pte. Perry, and the Prince asked him if he had been in South Africa. On Perry replying that he had Lord Roberts overheard him. The veteran soldier came up and spoke to Perry, congratulating him.

Chaired By Canadian Team.

Pte. Perry was chaired by the members of the Canadian team and carried around the camp, his bearers singing "The Maple Leaf." At the pavilion they were met by a band, which, playing "See the Conquering Hero Comes," proceeded to the Canadian hut.

Perry's win is the most popular one the C.A.P. representative has seen in sixteen years at Bisley.

Corp. McGregor, Canada, was 21st in the King's Prize and won $60 and the National Rifle Association badge with a score of 306 points.

Canadian Wins St. George.

Major John Howard, Agent-General in London for Nova Scotia, is the winner of the St. George's Challenge Vase competition. He gets the vase, a dragon cup, a gold cross and £30.

Pte. J. Perry of Vancouver was 42nd, winning the N.R.A. badge and £6. The match is shot over 500, 600 and 900 yards ranges.

Staff-Sergt. Crowe was 115th in the first stage of the St. George's Vase competition, at 500 and 600 yards, winning £2.

In the Doubles Saturday Sergt. W. Mortimer and Sergt. T. S. Bayles, two men of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, scored 61 out of a possible 70.

In the King's Prize, at 900 yards, Pte. J. Perry scored 45 and Corp. R. McGregor 42.

Prince of Wales and "Bobs."

The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Lord Roberts, visited the Canadian camp and inspected the colonials drawn up in an open square in front of the Canadian hut. Lieut.-Col. Anderson, the commandant of the team, showed them through.

Scotland won the National Challenge Trophy. This is open competition by teams of twenty from the volunteers of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The ranges are 200, 500 and 600 yards.

The Prince of Wales asked the audience at the pavilion to join in a welcome to the representatives of the King's dominions over-seas. The audience gave a rousing cheer.

The Prince also asked them to join himself in congratulating Pte. Perry on his success in winning the King's Prize. The Princess then distributed the prizes.

Princess Presents Prize.

Perry was given a grand reception when the Princess presented the King's Prize.

The Prince, before leaving, congratulated Lieut.-Col. Anderson, and said: "I am more than pleased that a Canadian has won the King's Prize."

In the Corporation of the City of London competition of the value of £105, open to Indian and colonial volunteers, McGregor was second, winning a prize of £15; Sergt. Crowe third, winning £10; Baynton tenth, £5; Capt. Crows eleventh, £5; Smith twelfth, £5.

London Press Comment.

The Daily Chronicle says that Private Perry's victory in the chief volunteer event of the year will help to obliterate the bad feeling caused by Lord Dundonald, and at the same time recall the high services rendered the Empire by the Canadians during the Boer war.

The Daily News says that Great Britain will heartily write Private Perry's name on the roll of honor. Markmanship will do much more than any expedient that could ever be devised to bring the Empire together and to neutralise such small mischief as half a dozen Dundonalds could do.

The other London papers in their reports of the Bisley matches feature the fact that the King's Prize was won by a Canadian, and give due credit to Private Perry for his unerring markmanship. The Canadian colony is rejoiced at the success of their kinsman.

Samuel J. Perry, born in Toronto, 26 years ago, an old member of the Royal Grenadiers, was one of the first contingent on service in South Africa.

The King's Prize.

The prize consists of $1,250, given by His Majesty, the N.R.A. gold medal and the N.R.A. gold badge. And greater than these is the everlasting glory of being the best shot in the Empire for his year. The prize is the blue ribbon of the rifle world, and is unrivaled among the great contests of skill and endurance.

Pte. Perry's Target in 'King's Prize' —1000 Yards.

The prize is competed for in three stages, the first at 200, 500 and 600 yards, with seven shots at each distance. The first three hundred in this stage compete at the second stage distance of 600 yards, with 20 shots each. The first hundred in this stage may enter the last stage at the distances of 800, 900 and 1,000 yards, with ten shots at each distance. The possible is therefore 355, and the score of 321 made by Perry is a remarkably fine one. His target at the 1,000 yards range is one of the best ever made.

Ottawa, July 25.—Sir Frederick Borden has forwarded to Col. W. P. Anderson, commandant of the Canadian team at Bisley, a cablegram of congratulation to Private Perry of Vancouver upon winning the King's Prize.

TRIAL TIME HAS COME.

Capital of $25,000,000 to Clash With 35,000 Workers.

Fall River, Mass., July 25.—With hope of peaceful settlement abandoned, both sides in the pending industrial trouble here await with dogged determination the coming of this morning, and the first test of strength between manufacturers representing a combined capital of $25,000,000 and more than 25,000 cotton mill operatives.

The mill gates will be opened at the usual time this morning, when the operatives will be given an opportunity to go to work under a wage reduction of 12½ per cent. If an insufficient number responds, the mills will be closed for an indefinite period.

Fight to A Finish.

Chicago, July 25.—Determined on a fight to a finish to enforce the demands of the striking butchers, a sympathetic strike of all the union workmen employed in the meat packing industry throughout the country, with the exception of the teamsters, will be declared this morning at 7 o'clock. Last night the indications were that the teamsters will join the other unions on Tuesday in order to bring the packers to terms.

Jockey Swalwell Killed.

New York, July 25.—Ernest Swalwell, a Canadian steeplechase jockey, who came from Toronto a week ago to ride Robert Davies' steeplechaser Opuntia, was thrown in the Brighton steeplechase Saturday, and died from his injuries while being carried in an ambulance to the Emergency Hospital, Coney Island. Swalwell is the second steeplechase rider who has met death in a race in the course of the present meeting at the seaside track.

CORDOSCA'S BONANZA.

Why So Many of the Sons of Sunny Italy Went There.

Montreal, July 25.—Judge Winchester appears to have got at the bottom of the work of the men who induced so many Italians to pour into this city when there was no work for them to do. Labor Agent Antonio Cordasco admitted Saturday evening that 3,910 laborers had applied to him for work, and that he had collected $5,350 from the lot, some paying $1 and others $3. It also came out that Cordasco owned a paper called Courrier del Canada, and that it was circulated in Italy and Italian centres in the United States. Then Mr. Cordasco admitted having received a further sum of $1,200 between the 8th and the 12th of July, but he told the judge he was ready to pay it back.

FOUR CITIZENS SHOT.

Vigilance Committee Aroused and Threats of Lynching Made.

Bonesteel, S.D., July 25.—Riot and disorder were again in evidence yesterday, at least four citizens having been shot and seriously wounded. A number of grafters also were wounded. The vigilance committee is thoroughly aroused and there are threats of lynching as the most effective punishment to be meted out to offenders.

There are reports of a pitched battle at a sodhouse east of the town, in which a dozen or fifteen shots were exchanged.

About 40 men arrested Saturday and Saturday night were convicted yesterday and will be deported.

Cost Drew Him Down.

Deseronto, July 25.—A sad drowning accident occurred about a mile below Adolphustown Saturday evening about 8 o'clock in which R. H. Gifford, druggist, aged 33 years, of Watertown, N.Y., was the victim. The Crescent Yacht Club of Watertown, N.Y., of which deceased was a member, were enjoying a week's cruise on the Bay of Quinte. The anchor of the yacht Heola dragged. Gifford and another man left in a small boat to get a stone off shore. They placed the stone in the bottom of the boat, and their canoe capsized. Both had oil skin coats on, which dragged them down. Gifford's companion clung to the capsized boat, but Gifford started to swim to shore. He sank almost immediately before help could reach him. They were about 15 yards from the shore and in about eight feet of water.

Sun Scorches Englishmen.

London, July 25.—Only a slight break has been experienced in the prolonged drought. The cry of the agriculturist now is for rain. Many moors have been seriously damaged by fires. At the Tunbridge Wells cattle show valuable cows had to be treated for sunstroke, one prize animal expiring from the cause. Between Aldershot and North Camp, the railway rails expanded to such an extent that the line buckled, a thing said to be unprecedented in this country.

Good Digestion.

If you can keep your digestive system in proper condition the body will be well nourished and you need have little fear of disease. A Brave Canadian.

Mr. David Ross McCord writes to The Montreal Gazette: "An interesting point in connection with Major William Wood's work on the Wolfe campaign is that it is dedicated to his friend, the late Captain T. H. C. Ogilvy, Distinguished Service Order, who was killed while leading a charge at Klipgart, in the Transvaal, December 18, 1901. It is very pleasing that we are producing men to whom the story of noble deeds can be dedicated. Captain Ogilvy was a credit to Canada. That such was acknowledged in a marked manner by his being advanced to a company in that splendid corps, the Gordon Highlanders, from a colonial body, with the consent, and over the heads of a large number of regular subalterns has not been sufficiently appreciated. Lord Lansdowne, Secretary for War, refused it point blank. He would not establish a precedent, but Ogilvy's merits prevailed. I am not presently discussing heredity, but Ogilvy had some very interesting colonial and other strains in his veins. He was a direct descendant of our old friend Dummer, the colonial agent, whose letter to a noble lord, written in 1711, contains so much of interest, and the Gordon Highlanders are as likely as any corps of which we know to discriminate who is to wear its plaid and risk its reputation. To-day Ogilvy has after his name two distinguished orders; the first heraldic, the second the three noblest words in the language which instinctively bring the heart if not the hand to the salute. Killed in action."

Nerves and the Breakfast Table.

The longer I live the more convinced I am that breakfast is the real cause of more domestic friction than can be accounted for by mere incompatibility of temper. It is not in human nature to be amiable in the early morning. The patriarchal system by which four or five different branches of a family live under one roof could not possibly continue abroad were the various families obliged to submit to the breakfast test. Your father-in-law, your mother-in-law, your brother-in-law and his wife, your sister-in-law and her husband contemplated over a dish of poached eggs in the early morning would be impossible, but by midday we have buried our savage instincts, assumed once more the Christian virtues and are prepared to face the world of relations-in-law with resignation and perhaps even the semblance of appreciation.

RIPE FRUITS AS AN ABSOLUTE CURE FOR DISEASE.

An Ancient Theory, now Demonstrated to be a Fact.

OTTAWA:—For years it has been known that some fruits possess unusual medicinal qualities. Fresh apple juice has a marked effect on the kidneys and excites a greater excretion of urine. Oranges are perhaps the most appetizing of all fruits, as well as the most grateful to the stomach. Figs and prunes have been termed "nature's laxatives," because of their power to strengthen and invigorate the intestines and make the bowels move easily and naturally. However there have always been three great objections to the constant use of fruit for medicinal purposes. One is the stringy, woody fibre which forms the structure of all fruits. This is difficult to digest. Some stomachs are violently disturbed by its presence, while it often forms insoluble masses in the bowels. Second is the presence of fruit acids and sugar, which while a benefit in health, will seriously affect those suffering from kidney and bladder troubles. Third, is the minute quantity of active principle (or medicinal properties) contained in fruit.

Working on the principle that fruit has the power to cure disease and taking into consideration all the disadvantages of employing fresh fruits, an Ottawa physician began a series of experiments to find what gave fruits their medicinal value, and how these principles could be isolated and tested. After much tedious detail the physician found that the juices contained the medicinal virtues, and that apples, oranges, prunes and figs possessed the therapeutic properties of all other fruits, and in a more marked degree. Yet the successful outcome of the work rested on an accident. A hitherto unthought-of compound was unintentionally added to the fruit juices. A vital change immediately occurred. The whole mass was changed — chemically and therapeutically. When the new compound was tested the physician found that by the replacement of one atom of saccharine matter by one atom of bitter matter secured from the fruits, the action on the human system was intensified many times. For instance, while the daily eating of fresh fruit may prevent constipation, yet if the trouble becomes chronic eating fruit cannot cure it But by the physician's secret process, the laxative, tonic and curative powers of the fruit juices are so increased that they can, and do, cure constipation.

The experiments were crowned with such success that the physician determined to reap some of the benefits of his years of labour. A number of Canadian business men became interested in the preparation and formed a company to manufacture and sell it. The name "FRUIT-A-TIVES" was decided upon as being the best description of it. "Fruit-a-tives," then is the concentrated extract of fresh, ripe fruits, compressed into tablets for convenience. As a safe and speedy cure for Disorders of the Stomach, Constipation, Biliousness, Liver and Kidney Troubles, "Fruit-a-tives" are unequalled. All the drug stores now have them on sale at 50 cents a box. 1d1w

Sir Godfrey Lagden.

Sir Godfrey Lagden, who has been doing useful and conciliatory work as head of the South African Native Affairs Commission since the settlement, is lying ill with an attack of malaria and influenza at Maritzburg. Sir Godfrey was our Resident Commissioner in Basutoland when the war broke out, and it was only his personal popularity and powerful influence with the Basutos that kept them quiet while the campaign was raging all round their frontier. At one critical period in the early stages of the war he contrived to send Lady Lagden out through the Orange country to the Cape, to put her in safety in case any serious disaster occurred. Sir Godfrey has not long passed his half century, but he spent some years in the General Postoffice before he went out to the Transvaal over a quarter of a century ago to act as private secretary to Sir Owen Lanyon, whose name was so familiar in connection with our first great trouble with the Boers.—London Star.

Special Meeting of T. A. S.

Special meeting of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society to-night at 8.30, to make arrangements for the funeral of our late Bro. Burke. By order, F. Cook, president.

Here They are Again!

"Well, what do you think of it?" was asked of a returned excursionist last Civic Holiday, when he came back from the Oddfellow's excursion to Rochester. "The trouble is" said the tourist, "that when I tell them of it at home, I can't make them believe it. It will be like the big fish that was not caught. I couldn't tell half the pleasures and attractions of the trip." The beautiful City of Rochester is again the objective point for the Oddfellows' Civic Holiday excursion this year. The large posters will be out in a few days, and if you want to enjoy a fast ride to Port Hope on a G.T.R. special, the clear, strong air of Lake Ontario on the steamer "North King," and a panoramic beauty view of the "Flower City," arrange to go with the Oddfellows on Thursday, August 18th. Return tickets from Peterborough are only $1.80 and are good for three days—five, if you want to stay over Sunday, by paying single fare from Port Hope up. Read the poster and state yourself and family for a good outing with the boys on the three links. Jimmy Tully and Billy Higgins went to Rochester to-day on behalf of the committee of Otonabee Lodge to perfect arrangements there for the benefit of the excursionists.

SUNDAY SERVICES OF McMASTER BAND.

Large Congregation Gathered in Murray Street Church Yesterday.

Meetings Increasing in Interest—Good Work Accomplished by the Young Men.

As was to be anticipated from the growing interest in the meetings held by the McMaster students, yesterday's services were the largest attended and the best in every way. At the urgent request of the pastor and officers of the church the young men have consented to remain for two days longer, and those who have not yet heard them will have the opportunity of doing so this evening and also to-morrow at 8 p. m. It had been intended to hold an open air meeting in Central Park on Saturday evening, but owing to the weather the Band very reluctantly abandoned the idea.

It is only possible to summarize briefly the services held yesterday. Again the Band took charge of the Sunday School in the morning, and addresses were given by Messrs. McGregor and Cameron to the scholars. Mr. Macdonald sang an effective solo with guitar accompaniment, entitled "Over the Line." The service was one that will linger in many memories as long as life lasts and was marked by the profession of conversion by many of the scholars.

Following this the Band adjourned to the regular morning service in the church, which was again crowded. A very fine address was given by Mr. Huddleston on the subject of "Hope," followed by the leader of the Band, Mr. McDonald, on the "Need of Evangelism." The latter was a splendid if startling statement in defence of such services as were being held at present in Peterborough. Leaving the church the reporter heard one prominent business man remark that he considered it one of the bravest as well as most brilliant addresses ever delivered in town. Mr. Cameron concluded with his usual appeal to those who were in doubt or difficulty to give the Band the chance of being of help to them, and this was again met by a happy response.

The music as usual was quite a feature, Mr. Williamson singing "The Dream of Paradise" with great power and effect. The quartette also sang "Strong in Thy Strength" and as usual were listened to with the most rapt attention. It is pleasant in this connection to bear witness to the pleasing and most effective way in which the musical work of the Band is done. The selections used are all full of the gospel message, and are rendered in a manner that is beyond all praise, both in method and in tone.

In the afternoon the church was again crowded for the young people's service at four o'clock, when powerful addresses were given by Messrs. Buanan and Hilts and concluded as usual by Mr. Cameron, with an earnest appeal to the unconverted. The quartette sang two selections, "The Riches of Love" and "Jesus is Passing this way," and by special request Mr. Macdonald sang 'What will you do with Jesus," very effectively, accompanying his solo on the guitar.

At the evening service the church was speedily filled to the last available seat by a most representative audience and it was necessary to duplicate the service by using the school room downstairs for an overflow meeting. While not exactly an ideal arrangement it was the only thing that could be done to accommodate the crowds desiring to hear the speakers. The gathering in the church was a most inspiring one, and the whole service, songs and addresses, was based on a series of questions. The opening solo and quartette was entitled "Which way shall I take?" and was followed by a powerful address by Mr. Huddleston from the text, "Why shall we not cast him out?" This led easily to the presentation of all involved in the answer, "Because of your unbelief," and the enforcement of the present day need of faith in all the avenues of personal and national life. Mr. Williamson sang a solo entitled "The Man of Sorrows" with great power and pathos, after which Mr. Noble asked the question, "What will a man give in exchange for his soul," briefly showing how large a place in all our lives is taken up with bargaining. He enforced the lesson that eternal issues hang on present earthly decisions in regard to the soul.

The quartette aptly followed by singing "Where will you spend eternity?"

In conclusion Mr. Cameron took as his text the question "How can we escape if we neglect so great salvation?" The prominent idea the speaker sought to enforce was the "greatness" of Christ's work of salvation and the need of the human acceptance of the same. It was a powerful, manly address, followed by the usual appeal to the unsaved. While the quartette sang a couple of selections many availed themselves of the invitation to pass into the enquiry room where they were pointed anew to the Saviour by those interested in the work.

Downstairs in the school room the meeting was led by Mr. Hilts in a very quiet and helpful manner. The addresses were delivered by Messrs. McGregor and Huddleston, the former taking as his subject, "The Power of Faith," and giving a very telling address. This gentleman's style is peculiarly attractive to young people from his fresh and natural method and was greatly appreciated. Mr. Huddleston repeated the address previously given in the church above, and Mr. Hilts concluded the meeting with some pregnant lessons on the evils of disobedience and unwise curiosity. Here also response was made to the very earnest appeals for decision made by the speaker.

At the overflow service teh quartette sang "The Shepherd True," and Mr. Macdonald sang the solo, "Let Him have His way with You."

At both services a special offering was taken up for the members of the Band who, it is very pleasing to note, conduct their work strictly on the voluntary principle, taking whatever is given, regardless of their own expenses. It is very gratifying to state that the response to the pastor's appeal on their behalf was quite substantial.

SUNDAY MORNING AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Pringle Preached to a Large Congregation.

Referred to the Work in the Yukon—Men Anxious to Hear Gospel Preached.

Despite the disagreeable weather, there was a large congregation at St. Andrew's church yesterday morning to hear Rev. Dr. Pringle, of the Yukon, preach. The speaker had been heard before in Peterborough, to the great delight of those privileged to hear him, and his address yesterday was again one of much interest and profit.

Dr. Pringle said it was a privilege to work for Christ anywhere, and good results would be forthcoming no matter in what part of the country one laboured. As far as the moral character and intelligence of the people was concerned, Manitoba had a sounder basis for its provincial life than any other province. This basis was laid by men like your minister, who preached the Gospel to the discouragement that so many young men were drifting away to the Northwest; thus the foundation was laid in the cities, towns and villages of the older provinces. We can sow and others reap, but we must leave the results with God. We are not only labouring for Christ, but with Him.

Mr. Pringle spoke in a most interesting manner of certain phases of his work in the Yukon. It was there that he learned to depend for wisdom and strength on Jesus Christ. Men never know what the Saviour really is to them until they got into straits away from home. The speaker referred to the willingness of the men in the Yukon to attend Divine service; he had spoken to Protestants, Catholics and Jews at one time. They wanted the old truths preached, and these old truths were what should be preached in our modern churches. Often after a service had been held in an evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, the men would remain discussing Biblical matters until midnight, and sometimes until two o'clock in the morning, so interested would they become. The preacher said he found it wise to keep Jesus of Nazareth prominently to the front in preaching, as there was in Him an appeal to them to live a better and a nobler life.

Dr. Pringle said he had been asked whether or not the work in the Yukon would be permanent. He could not say in reference to this, but as long as there were people there to be saved, the work would continue. The only thing like home was the minister, the hymns, and the Gospel, and the effects of the religious meetings were very great.

New Railway is Now Rapidly Nearing Completion.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

Strenuous work has been put in on the railway during th eweek, and the walking boss Mr. John Flannigan has been constant in his urging on the foremen and bosses to to push the work to the utmost. On Monday a much larger steam shovel was brought to the pit, one that loads a car holding eleven yards, in a minute and a half. Two ballast trains of 22 cars are working night and day, each train having a day and night crew of train men. During the day a hundred and fifty track men are engaged in levelling the ballast and getting the trace finally fixed. The absence of rain has saved delay, but the heat caused a thirst among the shovellers that kept six water boys humping with the drinking cans. Last week each train delivered about 132 cars a day, but they had a considerable distance to travel, for the ballasting to Emily creek has been furnished from the Humphrey pit, on Oakdale farm or what in the old days was known as Jones clearing. The ballasting averages about a mile a day, sometimes more, sometimes only a half a mile whre the filling is heavy. On Wednesday the two trains partly filled the southern approach to the Little Bob Bridge, and the rails were brought into the village limits. Mr. Munro, mechanical superintendent, reached the village on Wednesday for the first time. He has been a busy man since April, but hopes to get the work completed now in a few days, and is satisfied that a thoroughly first class job has been done, and much of the work in record breaking time. Many persons went to the bridge on Wednesday to see the train filling the southern approach through the river. Owing to its being a temporary trestle with a curve, the plough could not be used, and it was a sight to see over a hundred and fifty men swarm onto the train of gravel when it reached the shore. Eleven cars just covered the tresule work over the drowned land portion of the river, flushing the open bridge and swing, and the train was shovelled clear in a few minutes. Thursday the ballasting train pushed two cars of rails over the bridge, and this morning, Friday, Toronto can be congratulated on having rail connection with the Bobcaygeon station. Yesterday, Thursday, at 4.30 the Engine crossed the bridge and reached the Tank in the station yard.

Oakdale on Wednesday evening was quite an interesting sight when the train came in with the shovellers. Besides the camp train with its sleeping cars, there were seventeen tents scattered around; and a fully equipped hospital tent, presided over by Dr. Nasmith, of Janetville. A considerable number of Italians are employed, and these as a rule board themselves and chum together in pairs. They eat less meat than the Canadian, but are a healthy lot of men, and stand the labourious work well. They are steady workers and rarely jump the job.

The tank and steam pump were ready for business on Wednesday the tank having been keptfilled with water for several days previous and swelled tight. It is 22 ft. in diameter, and 16 ft. deep.

The turn-table is quite in keeping with the rest of the work. It is the C.P.R. standard 75 ft. in diameter. The centre pivotal pier is of concrete, and the circle on which the ends of the steel bridge travel is also of concrete. It will probably be ready for the revolving bridge by to-morrow, Saturday.

A few days more, and "All aboard" of the conductor will be heard.

Turner's Decorations.

Last week's issue of the Campbellford Herald, said:—"In our hurridly prepared resume of the 12th of July celebration, we omitted to mention the decoratuions which were a credit to those who furnished them and which added much to the appearance of the celebration. Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, of Peterborough, had the decorating in hand. Their tents, awninge and canvass goods are well known throughout Ontario. Mr. Chas. Cassan is their local agent. We feel that it is only just to Turner & Sons to mention their part in making the day a success.

ORIGIN OF THE GAME OF BOWLING

Was First Played in England in the 13th Century.

In view of the great interest prevailing in Peterborough in the game of bowling, it might be that something of the history of the game would be acceptable. The game of "bowling on the green," or "lawn bowls," appears to have originated in England in the 13th century. The first implements of play were stones, and cones were used as the objects to be played at. Towards the close of the 14th century these gave place to wooden bowls and porcelain "jack" of the present day. The game seems in the early days to have been looked upon with favour by the masses, but the authorities had no use for it. They claimed that it was dishonourable, useless and unprofitable, and that it provoked fighting and disputes. At another period it was prohibited as a noisy game. A green is known to have existed at Southampton as early as 1299, but the fact that it was situated outside of the city walls would seem to prove that it was prohibited. In the reign of Henry VIII. an act was passed prohibiting anyone from playing bowls but the wealthy and well-to-do. Artificers and servants might play at Christmas time, and a license might be granted to anyone with £100 per annum to keep a green for private play only, and no one could "play at any bowl or bowles in an open place out of his own garden or orchard." It was not until the middle of the last century that this law was repealed, and it was then declared quite unlawful. The sport, however, continued to hold its own, notwithstanding the many edits issued against it, and in the beginning of the 18th century no gentleman's estate was considered complete without a green. King Charles I. is said to have been playing bowls when arrested, and it is also related that when he was captive at Laversham, he rode under escort to a nearby inn where there was a bowling green, and "indulged in his favourite game." The sign over the inn door bore the following inscription:

"Stop, traveller, stop! In yonder peaceful glade,
His favourite game the Royal Martyr played;
Here, stripped of honours, children, freedom, rank,
Drank from the bowl, and bowled for what he drank;
Sought in the bowls in vain his cares to drown,
And changed a sovercign ere he lost his crown."

King Charles I. was one of London's keenest bowlers, almost up to the time that the headsman's axe ended so troubled a career. Admiral Sir Francis Drake, who was likewise a great admirer of the game, was engaged on the green overlooking the Sound at Plymouth when the Spanish Armada appeared on the horizon, and his remark on receiving the tidings was, "there is time to finish the game and beat the Spaniards afterwards."

During the 16th century the game found its way over the border into Scotland, and the first green there is supposed to have been at Glasgow. Since then it has flourished wonderfully, there being now over 400 organized clubs, with tens of thousands of members. Some of the principal cities have public greens where any one can play for a whole hour for a penny. The corporation of Edinburgh is reported to have collected nearly 60,000 pennies in this way in a single year.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

There were no games on the green on Saturday night, the grounds being too wet to play on. The followers of the game have been very fortunate this season however, as this was the first night for the month of July that scheduled games could not be played. The weather has been all that could be desired. The enthusiasm among the members is intense. Many of the new members are becoming so adept that the older ones will have all they can do to retain their supremacy. Peterborough expects to send three or four strong rinks to the Dominion Tournament at Toronto, on August 15th.

Schedule for Monday, July 25:
Bell vs. Giroux.
Smith vs. Sailsbury.
Brooks vs. Dixon.
Lech vs. Oles.

For Tuesday, July 26:
Armstrong vs. Moore.
Stratton vs. Runnells.
Cox vs. Frost.
Ferguson vs. Greer.

FOOTBALL.

The Stratton Cup, emblematic of the Midland League championship, will be presented to the Locust Hill team on Thursday night. Dr. Morgan, the president of the League, will probably go up to make the presentation.

TURF.

The track is in good shape for the Turf Club's races at the Driving Park next week and lovers of horse racing will witness some great sport. Some of the fastest horses in the province will be here and the finishes should be the best seen in this locality for years. Three days of fine racing should attract a record crowd.

LACROSSE.

Port Hope Trent Valley team has signed three of last year's Oshawa O. L.A. men and will make a big attempt to win from the T.A.S. team in the next game.

• • • •

The Port Hope team is hard up for funds according to reports from that town.

• • • •

The T.A.S. will be in fine shape to meet Port Hope with this week's practices. The Ontarios will be represented by a husky dozen.

• • • •

The T.A.S. team will practice tonight, and a full turn-out of all members of the team is requested. The boys should remember that it takes practice to win games, and the coming contest with Port Hope will be a hard one.

• • • •

The standing of the teams in this district of the T.V.L. is now as follows:—

	Won.	Lost.
T. A. S.	4	0
Port Hope	4	1
Hastings	2	4
Millbrook	0	5

The games to be played are, T.A.S. at Millbrook and Port Hope at T.A.S.

The Capa. gave the Tecumsehs their first beating on Saturday, the score being 7—3 in favour of the Senators.

BASEBALL.

The Examiner champion baseball team has accepted a challenge from the Auburns of the Kawartha League, and the teams will meet at the Nicholls oval on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. As the public well know, both teams are playing fast ball at present and a startling contest is assured. The Examiner line up will be:

Jolliffe p, Hutchinson c, Glover 1b, Riches 2b, Gilman ss, Shurah 3b, Long lf, Scriver cf, Graham rf.

The Auburns will line up as follows: Belleghem c, Weatherstone p, Kelly 1b, Oille 2b, McCorry ss, Clegg 3b, Long cf, Shaw rf, Rutherford lf.

Manager Oille of the Auburns will be on the team himself to superintend the work of the players, as he recognizes that this will be one of the hardest games his team will have to play this season.

• • • •

It rained on Saturday and consequently the Torontos did not lose.

• • • •

Oshawa won from Port Hope by 11—2 on Saturday at Oshawa.

• • • •

The Torontos have released Pitcher Mills, and signed a twirler named Leary, and a shortstop called Francia. They need them.

• • • •

"Bill" Read will be given a trial on the slab for Toronto.

• • • •

It will not be a heavy contract to win from Cobourg this season than last.—Lindsay Post.

But last year Lindsay borrowed Flaherty, then Peterborough's pitcher, to trim the Cobourgers.

• • • •

The secretary of the Lindsay team wants to bet half the price of a furlined overcoat that Lindsay wins the pennant. Hold your tin for a while yet, old man. Lindsay has to trim Bowmanville, Peterborough and Cobourg twice yet before the season is over.

• • • •

The Post says McLaughlin is not pitching as well as he was earlier in the season. The Lindsay atmosphere is beginning to tell on him.

• • • •

Port Hope is now out of the running for the pennant. All the other four clubs have a chance to win out.

• • • •

Peterborough's next scheduled game is at Port Hope on August 10.

• • • •

After to-morrow evening's practice game with the Auburns, the Examiner nine will be in a position to again wallop the Review at the Printers' picnic.

57TH BAND EXCURSION

About Two Hundred Went on a Trip to Lakefield on Saturday.

Though the weather conditions were far from being favourable for an excursion on Saturday, about 200 people attended the excursion of the 57th Band to Lakefield, per steamer City of Peterborough. The boat left the C.P.R. wharf about 1.30 o'clock arriving at Lakefield at 5 o'clock and returning reached the Lift Lock about nine o'clock. The band was very generous with their selections during the trip and as usual their playing was of the highest order. The excursion was a very enjoyable one for all on board.

DWYRE'S CORNERS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The hay harvest is now about completed. The yield has been abundant.

Roads are now in excellent condition.

The fall wheat is somewhat of a failure, being rusted to a considerable extent.

Quite a number of our villagers are now in their cottages at Stony Lake. We expect them back in the course of a month or so.

Wages are very steep this summer. Some are known to be getting as high as $90 for two months.

Mr. Thos. Quinlan of Peterborough is engaged to work for Mr. E. Hess for the summer.

Mrs. John Lynch and daughter, Lena of Peterborough, are visiting old acquaintances here.

Mr. William Herr is very ill.

We are sorry to chronicle the death of little Annie Dwyre, the only daughter of Mr. Patrick Dwyre, the blacksmith of this place. The little girl was six years old and had not been well all summer, and at an early hour on Sunday morning she was called away to her heavenly rest. The funeral took place on Monday at 2.30 o'clock to the Roman Catholic cemetery, and was largely attend d. Mr. and Mrs. Dwyre have the sincere sympathy of the entire community, as it is only about a year since they lost their eldest son, who died from scarlet fever. The little girl also contracted the disease and never rightly regained health.

FARM ESTIMATES PASSED.

Premier Points Out Wide Difference Between the Positions of Sir Elmour Taschereau and Lord Dundonald.

Ottawa, July 23.—Having done a good day's work, and all the estimates of the Department of Agriculture having been passed, the House adjourned at 9.30 last evening. The rapidity with which the estimates of Mr. Fisher's department have been passed leads to the belief that the remainder of supply will go through with reasonable celerity, and the opinion prevailed last night that the business of the session ought to be practically wound up by the end of next week, so that prorogation may take place in the first week of August.

The Taschereau Cable.

In reply to Mr. E. F. Clarke, the Premier stated that the Government had no information whatever respecting the rumor that Chief Justice Taschereau had suddenly left England for home. Later, Mr. Barker asked whether any enquiries has been made by the Government respecting the utterances of the Chief Justice in England in reference to the Dundonald subject, as had been made in the case of Lord Dundonald. To this question Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that there was a wide difference between the respective positions of the Chief Justice and Lord Dundonald. The Government asked Lord Dundonald for an explanation because he was an official of the Government. The Chief Justice, however, was not an official of the Government.

No Further Legislation.

Hon. John Haggart inquired what further legislation the Government proposed bringing down.

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied that the supplementary estimates might not be brought down until Monday, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that all the Government legislation was now before the House. There might be a few departmental measures yet to come down, but there would be nothing of a contentious character.

Bill Is Passed.

Ottawa, July 23.—In the Senate yesterday the bill to amend the railway act of 1902, to prevent railway companies contracting themselves out of liability for accidents, was read a second and third time, and passed.

Dundonald's Position.

London, May 23.—Lord Dundonald's position as a half-pay officer has been examined. On July 18, the Secretary of State decided, in view of all the facts, it was expedient that Lord Dundonald be recalled, and asked for an explanation, his attention being called to the paragraph in the King's regulations forbidding officers speaking publicly or attending public meetings. The telegram was despatched on July 19. Under section 175 (1) of the Army Act, officers of the regular force on the active list, without any royal warrant for regulating the pay or promotion of regular forces, are subject to military law, and under royal warrant for pay. The 1900 Active List includes officers who are on temporary half pay. Lord Dundonald, therefore, is subject to military law, and must obey any lawful order.

HER WILD BARBARIAN.

An Additional Instance Wherein the Unexpected Happily Came to Pass—Canadian Story by Grant Allen.

"You see the child has spent most of her life at one of those trading posts somewhere in the Northwest—her father is agent or factor or whatever you call 'em—and he is sending her to me for her first real taste of civilization. She is in all probability a perfect little barbarian, but I must do what I can for her, of course, and I thought, with your usual good nature, you'd help me all you could, Fritz."

Young Mrs. Landers look appealingly at the big, goodlooking fellow on the other side of the fireplace.

"When Jack read the letter," she went on, "the first thing he said was, 'Well, here's where Fritz Mendell fits in, all right,' and while it wasn't exactly a nice way of putting it, it expressed my own ideas in the matter thoroughly. You'll help me, Fritz?"

Fritz Mendell grinned good-naturedly.

"My dear Agatha," he said, "as always, I'm yours to command. Now, a few points about your—er—barbarian. First and foremost, in what stage of evolution is she? Is it candy age or the matinee age with her?"

"She is nineteen," said Mrs. Landers.

"Good-looking or otherwise?"

"I know nothing about her, Fritz, save that she is nineteen and has spent most of her life at one of those absurd posts. I believe she was educated in a convent."

"Ah, probably speaks patois French."

"Possibly."

"And carries a skinning knife in her belt."

"Don't be absurd."

"And has wild black eyes and wears moccasins and enjoys a diet of caribou venison and bear steak."

"Fritz!"

"It's good strategy not to be taken by surprise," he commented. "I'll do my best, Agatha. When does the aboriginal maid arrive?"

"Tuesday, sometimes."

"All right, I'll be around about five to view the exhibit. If she isn't too impossible, I'll do the honors, but I reserve the right to fly the field, should circumstances, in my poor opinion, seem to warrant such a course."

"Fritz, you're a dear.

"Agatha, don't attempt to repay me by repeating these delicate, but well-known truths. Of course I am.

* * * * *

The clocks were just chiming five the following Tuesday afternoon, when Mendell rang the Landers' bell.

"Is she in the library?" he inquired of Jenkins who opened the door. It is needless to state that he referred to Mrs. Landers.

"Yes, sir. In the library, sir," said the obsequious Jenkins as he took Mendell's hat and coat.

Fritz strode briskly through the drawing-room, and flinging aside the leather portiers, entered the library.

The winter twilight was fading, and the fire on the hearth having burned to a bed of glowing coals, the room was quite dark. Mendell could but dimly make the woman seated on a broad divan. He sank into a big carved chair by the table.

"Hello, Agatha," he said cheerfully, "has she arrived?"

"Yes," came the response from the divan. It was much lower than Agatha's normal voice.

"Got a cold?" he inquired solicitously.

"Nothing serious."

"Where's our young barbarian?"

"She's in the house."

"Hm-m," Fritz mused. "I judge from you somewhat brief replies that the worst is realized."

"The worst?"

"Yes. Dur worst fears of the other day, you know—that she might speak the horrible patois—"

"Oh!"

"And have wild, black eyes and moccasined feet and carry a sharp skinning knife in her belt habitually,"

"Oh!"

"And insist on venison and bear steak."

The "Oh" that greeted this was decidedly reproachful, but Fritz heeded it not.

"Pretty?" he questioned.

"Frightfully plain"

"I feel an incipient stampede brewing with me," he assured her. "Is she utterly impossible, Agatha?"

"Utterly."

"Well trot her out, and let me sanction your decision anyway," he said.

She rose from the divan and touched a button on the wall. The room was suddenly flooded with light. Fritz Mendell came out of the chair with a mighty bound. He was face to face with a pretty, graceful girl in a stunning gown. And as he beheld her, the truth flashed upon him.

"Lord massy!" he groaned with more contriteness than he imagined sould be squeezed into words.

The girl's face was flushed scarlet, but her eyes were laughing at his discomfiture.

"It was mean of me," she said "frightfully mean! Cousin Agatha said when she went out that Mr. Mendell might come at any moment—and you came, and the temptation was too great. Can you forgive me?"

And then Fritz laughed—a wholesome, ringing laugh, and held out his hand.

"But for Heaven's sake," he cautioned, "don't let Agatha get hold of this."

* * * * *

One dripping night in the early spring Fritz and the barbarian sat before the same library fireplace.

"When may I tell Cousin Agatha about that first meeting of ours?" she asked.

"When you're Mrs. Fritz Mendell," he said gravely.

"I—I don't know but what it's worth it," she said mockingly.

Fritz was by her side in a trice.

"And you know you will want to tell her soon—by June at the latest," he pleaded.—Grant Allen.

A Poser.

Little Dorothy Perkins was usually a very truthful child. When she was not truthful, she was plausible.

Coming in from her walk one morning, she informed her mother that she had seen a lion in the park.

No amount of persuasion or reasoning wavered her statement one hair's breadth, so at night, when she slipped down beside her knee, her mother said, "Ask God to forgive you for that fib, Dorothy."

Dorothy hid her face for a minute; then she looked straight into her mother's eyes, with her own shining like stars, and said, "I did ask him, mamma, dearest, and he said: 'Don't mention it, Miss Perkins. That big dog has often fooled me.'"

GARDEN CITIES.

A New and Novel Model English Project for People's Homes—Benefits of Town and Country in One.

When the subject of garden cities was first mooted, considerable scepticism was aroused as to the possibility of converting the idea into a practical fact. Few people were agreed as to what a garden city should be like. Experts propounded several schemes and invited public discussion, but all the whole lay members of the population were wandering about asking of each other—what is a garden city, anyhow?

A garden city is a city that combines all the facilities of town life with the joys, the freshness, the beauty, and the bracing, God-given air of the country. At first glance that condition of affairs seems an impossibility, but all discussion on the subject may be laid aside as useless, for, so far as London is concerned, the garden city is quickly to become an accomplished fact.

The First Garden City lies on the further side of Hitchin. It embraces some 13,000 acres of lovely country, and includes the old-world villages of Norton and Letchworth, and the greater part of the hamlet of William. Here and there, on the undulating stretch of green, pretty red houses rear their heads and borne on the hawthern-scented breeze comes the echo of the builder's hammer. Residential houses in Garden City will have rents from £25 per annum upwards, according to the amount of land attached, while the cottages now in course of erection are built for two families, each family having five rooms, a bath, and a very large garden. Each cottage stands by itself, hidden mostly among the trees, and has two porches, one at either side of the building.

The First Garden City has already got its railway station, and railway sidings are being cut to that part of the land which, from its contour and position, is admirably suited for the erection of factories. This is screened by thick belts of umbrageous trees. It is out of sight of the residences, and the prevailing winds will carry the noise and dust and any little smoke there may be. Electricity and gas will be used as motive power.

In order that the railway sidings and the goods station beside the factories may be in keeping with the town, the banks and sidings are to be planted with trees and shrubs. Part of the first cutting has been so decorated. By the way, a certain railway—the line to Cambridge—already bisects the town.

The important questions of water, gas, sewage, etc., have been satisfactorily settled, and in making the roads first the foremost in relation to the dwellings and principal parts of the town, the directors of the First Garden City, Limited—the projectors of the town—are in a position to lay out an ideal city.

Further, care has been taken to make the roads with easy gradients, a task that is rendered easy and economical by the natural resources of the estate. Except where the nature of the ground has suggested curves, straight roads have been adopted, in many cases for the special purpose of affording views of the parks, commons, country, and main buildings.

For the central square of the town a level plateau has been chosen near the existing station. From this plateau the ground slopes gently down on all sides, except towards Letchworth. The roads radiating from this central square, which will give ready access to all parts of the town, have been so planned that glimpses of the open country will be obtainable along them from the heart of the town, while they will afford to those approaching from the outskirts good views of the central buildings.

The building of the city is not to be rushed, for the Garden City is to be developed stage by stage until the whole has been completed, a population of 30,000 being provided for.

The total area likely to be developed is, approximately, 1,200 acres, inclusive of Norton Common and roads, and to this has to be added the land which will be used for residential purposes round Letchworth Park—viz., about one hundred acres. Of the above total area about one hundred and ten acres is reserved for factories, railway sidings, gasworks, and similar development. By adding one hundred acres of Letchworth Park to the above area of 1,200 acres, it will be seen that considerably over one-third of the estate will be occupied by the town and the public parks, leaving the remainder for agricultural purposes.

Reducing the Highest Pay.

The bill introduced by Mr. Wyndham for the reduction of the salary of all future holders of the position of Lord Chancellor of Ireland from £8,000 to £6,000 per annum will render it of interest to know, says The Westminster Gazette, that the Irish Chancellor is the most highly paid judicial personage in the United Kingdom. The salary of the English Chancellor is no doubt £10,000 a year, but of that sum £5,000 is paid to him for the discharge of his judicial duties as Lord Chancellor, and the remaining £5,000 as his salary as Speaker of the House of Lords. The Irish Lord Chancellor's salary is paid for judicial functions alone. By a curious custom an Irish Chancellor on coming into office gets £1,000 for "outfit." This allowance owes its origin to the custom of appointing members of the English Bar to the Lord Chancellorship in Ireland and recouping them for the expense incident to a change of residence from London to Dublin. For the last 90 years members of the Irish Bar have filled the post of Irish Chancellor, and the allowance to them of £1,000, which has been paid twice in one year to the same Lord Chancellor on his appointment and reappointment to the Chancellorship, is an unjustifiable waste of public money.

THE LATE G. F. WATTS.

Presented Most of His Life Work as an Artist to the Nation.

Mr. G. F. Watts, who was one of the most famous of English artists and sculptors, was born in 1817, and died on the afternoon of July 1, 1904, first exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1837. He presented to the nation the greater part of his lifework, now called "the Watts collection," in the National Gallery of British Art. He inaugurated a record of heroic deeds done in everyday life, and built the first memorial wall at St. Botolph's, Aldersgate, recording the names of some who lost their lives in the endeavor to save life. On its institution by the King he received the distinction of the Order of Merit.

Recently The London Chronicle had the following regarding his last big work:

"Mr. G. F. Watts' great equestrain statue, 'Physical Energy,' which is erected in the courtyard of the Royal Academy, has engrossed his attention, on and off, for many years. 'I sometimes wonder if I shall live to finish it,' he said to the writer seven or eight years ago. It was such a big piece of work that the roof of the studio had to be made specially high to accommodate it, and Mr. Watts has felt at his advanced age the strain of completing the statuary far more than painting pictures. His plan has always been to turn from one work to another, as a mental relief, and he has often had half a dozen pictures going at the same time, passing from one to another with refreshed interest. Some years ago, when 'Physical Energy' was started by the sculptor, the Office of Works was approached with a view to its erection in London. A site near the Serpentine was, we believe, suggested as a suitable place. The present idea is that the great piece of statuary is destined for South Africa, but would it not be possible to take a cast of it for the benefit of London? It would be a noble memorial of the physical energy of G. F. Watts, who has completed it in his 88th year."

Seasonable Salads.

The crisp blanched centers of spinach make a nice green salad sprinkled with chives and a French dressing.

When they can be obtained nothing adds such a delicious acid flavor to lettuce salad as a few tender leaves of sorrel or the wild oxalis.

Along toward the end of June, when lettuces grow rank, cut the long juicy stems into short lengths like asparagus and tie into bunches. Boil in salted water a chill and serve with a French dressing. They make a most appetising salad.

The tops of tender young beets or radishes when boiled in salted water, chopped and chilled are delicious as a salad. Young milkweed tops are very nice served in the same way.

The proper accompaniment for a green salad is very thin sandwiches of bread and butter or sandwiches made from a filling of mild cheese flavored with mustard and herb vinegar.—Good Housekeeping.

Household Brevities.

If you find grease spots on matting, cover them with a thin paste of fuller's earth. In a day or two sweep off, and usually the spot will have disappeared.

Whipped cream is considered more easily digested than plain cream, the process of rendering it porous having this beneficial effect.

All housekeepers may not know that onion juice for seasoning is much to be preferred to the chopped onion.

If carving knives were kept as sharp as butchers' knives, carving would be a simpler matter.

To remove mildew or stains of any kind from leather nothing can equal a little pure vaseline well rubbed in, the leather being afterward polished off with a clean chamois leather.

Lemon juice brings out the flavor of fish, especially boiled fish, with which thin slices are nice as a garnish.

From Over Study at School.

This Girl Became Pale, Languid and Nervous — Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Made Her Well.

Mrs. R. Warsham, 267 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "One of my children suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, and in fact was all run down, pale and languid. These troubles were attributed to over study, and confinement at school. She began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can say that we have found this treatment exceedingly helpful. It has relieved her of headache, steadied her nerves and built up her system wonderfully. We can see a great change in her as the colour is returning to her face and she is gaining in flesh and weight."

A HUNDRED BEST BOOKS

SELECTING THEM A PENCIL GAME ON A LEVEL WITH PING PONG.

Go Says the Erudite Andrew Lang in the London Morning Post—Mr. James Payn's Opinion—Lord Avebury Has Revised His Century of Best Books—There Are No Hundred Best Books.

To select "The Best Hundred Books" is, in fact, to play at an "intellectual pencil game." The sport is on a level with ping pong, and at best may help elderly bookish people to pass a wet day in a country house. There are no Hundred Best Books. The question is relative, books good for whom, and for what purpose? Lord Avebury has revised his century (his purpose shall later be declared), and we look at the new list rather for amusement than for instruction.

Mr. James Payn, with unwonted tartness, remarked that the old list contained "admirable and varied materials for the formation of a prig." The saying was unjust; prigs are born, not made, and may be the best bookish of mankind. If, Mr. Payn meant that prigs would turn to the books in the list, not from natural interest, but because they were recommended by Lord Avebury, or Mr. Gladstone, or Lord Acton, then his saying can hardly be controverted. Mr. Payn was all for freedom in taste, and his own taste led him to spurn many of the classics, especially the works of the Greek tragedians. At these, and at anything Greek in translations, Mr. Herbert Spencer also snorted. I do not wonder at it. If you try the "Electra" of Sophocles, in Plumptre's translation, you wonder how Sophocles ever won a prize for dramatic excellence, and why Lord Avebury imitates "The Oedipus Trilogy" in the Hundred Best Books. It is not even a Trilogy as it stands, if that were any recommendation. It seems, as regards Aeschylus, to be open to choice whether we put "The Persae" or "The House of Atreus Trilogy" in our century. Yet there is a deal of difference between the literary merits of the two choices. One is much inclined to say boldly that no translation, except the English version of the Bible, can be one of the best books—for an English reader. There are a hundred better books in English, by Britons, than any translation of the classics by an Englishman. Our guides have not even reached the first step of deciding what "a book" is. If Shakespeare be "a book," why is not Aristophanes, why is not Aeschylus, why is not Sophocles "a book?" In the list Shakespeare is a book, but Aristophanes is only represented by one play, "The Knights"—and why "The Knights" more than any other comedy?—while Moliere speaks in as an essayist. Obviously the list as given in The Pall Mall Gazette is misprinted or misarranged. Certainly the enquirer will as easily procure the "Essays of Moliere" as the "Essays of Homer," unless a few introductions to plays are intended. The inclusion of Moliere among the essayists must be a cross division of the press.

Indeed, cross divisions abound. The Koran, in Lord Avebury's opinion, is not one of the best books, it seems to him "dry, uninteresting, and in many places repulsive." Yet it is in the list, not because it is good, but because many persons, including millions of our fellow subjects, think it "inspired." Perhaps it is, the term is not easily defined, but the inspiration lacks literary merit. The "Shoking" and "The Analects" of Confucius do not win Lord Avebury's personal affection, but they appear because the Chinese think well of them. The Yellow Peril threatens literature! If popularity be the test, why not insert the works of Hall Caine, or America's darling, "The Virginian?" To be sure, the authors are yet in our midst. The "Ramayana" and the "Mahabharata" Lord Avebury does admire, and they are also "of great importance as regards our great Oriental Empire." They may be, but they are of much less importance than the Rig Veda, which also includes better poetry. The same may be said for the "Kalewala" and "The Song of Roland," of which there is an excellent new American translation. Neither of these deserving epics is in the list, though one is much admired by the Finns, the other by the French, and both by every person of taste who has read them. While Moliere is "a book," Voltaire is not; he is merely represented by one tale, "Zadig," not even by "Candide." Why this exclusiveness? Plato's Dialogues are "a book," but "at any rate the Phaedo and Republic."

Plato is in danger of being scamped, like Voltaire, but Hesiod takes in all his opera, and in what sense these dismal poems are "the very best vine," while Theocritus has no look in at all, I cannot conjecture. Theocritus is a delightful poet; Hesiod is hardly a poet; he merely wrote verse because there was as yet no prose to write. He is useful to the mythologist, almost useless to the general reader, while Pindar, a great poet, is omitted. Tacitus is restricted to the little "Germania," Tacitus the master of history and of statesmen. The Annals are infinitely better than the "Shoking," but Tacitus does not count as "a book" any more than Aeschylus or Voltaire. Tennyson does count as a book, yet if ever there were case for selection that case is the late laureate's. The whole of Ruskin is recommended as if, taken en masse, he was better than the whole of Tacitus except the "Germania," a clever but misleading tract. Sir Walter carries in his whole "fardel of books," at least all his novels and all his poems, while Dickens and Thackeray are restricted to a brace of novels apiece, and the Rev. Charles Kingsley stays in with "Westward Ho!" while Miss Austen is actually turned out, and what really seems incredible, Fielding, Smollett and Charlotte Bronte are not included. Conceive an English list of the Best Hundred Books without the authors of "Tom Jones" and "Pride and Prejudice," but with "Westward Ho!" and "The Last Days of Pompeii." We have not Keats or Shelley or Coleridge, but we have the egregious "Self Help" of Mr. Smiles. Chaucer, "if expurgated," may be read in Mrs. Hawein' edition. Why is "Self Help" "better" than "Kubla Khan," and in what sense is Southey "better" than Keats? Carlyle's masterpiece allowed to him with "The French Revolution" is "Past and Present," which keeps company with Green's "Short History of the English People." Smiles is the friend, not Mr. Pepys. "Mr. Bryce suggests that Lewes' 'History of Philosophy' should be struck out"—the marvel is that it ever got in. If "some history of philosophy" is really wanted, why not take Schwegler's, which loses no graces in the process of translation, and is short enough for any hurried pursuer of culture. Lucretius has been turned out as "too difficult," while Hesiod keeps his pride of place, though too dull. For whom is a good book supposed to be "too difficult?" Lucretius is certainly one of the hundred foremost names in human literature; Kalidasa is not, nor is Mr. Smiles, nor Canon Kingsley. Livy appears en masse, and Tacitus has every reason to feel bitterly annoyed. The whole of Emerson is in, but nothing of Rabelais or of Hawthorne, a greater than Emerson.

Nobody can say that, regarding the best as the best, Smiles should be elected, and Jane Austen, Coleridge, Keats, Fielding, Marlowe, Horace Walpole, Pepys, Herrick, Lovelace, left behind Talboys Wheeler, his epitome of the Mahabharata. This century of books does not really pretend to represent the absolutely best century. Neither the Prophet of Islam, nor the Apostolic Fathers, nor the late Mr. Green, nor Southey, nor Captain Cook, nor Schiller in his "William Tell" were, or are believed by any sound critic to be among the hundred best of the world's authors. Some of the enigmas are solved when we observe that Lord Avebury does not call his list the best books, but the best for the students of the Working Men's College. Why, even so, Hesiod should be the best for them I am unable to conjecture, nor can I guess why Firdusi is better for them than Omar Khayyam, or the "Germania" better than the "Annals," or the Koran than Jane Austen, or Gray than Collins. Many works among the best and most admirable in themselves . . . are unsuited to the general reader. If Montaigne is suited to the general reader, why is Rabelais not suited? If the Mahabharata, that chaotic mass, is suited to the general reader, why is the terse and heroic Song of Roland unsuitable? If Medea is suitable, why is the rest of Euripides the reverse? Why is Fielding not suitable? Finally, "in the name of the Bodleian," what has the general reader to do with Hesiod and Confucius, "Chinese Odes" and Firdusi?

Her Plan.

"I intend," she said, "to give in charity as much as I spend on dress. It's such a grand idea, so ennobling!"

"It's a good plan," he admitted. "I think you spend too much on dress anyway."

"What's that got to do with it?" she demanded.

"Why, you'll divide your wardrobe money, won't you?"

"Certainly not. I expect you to double it."

OUR SEAL INDUSTRY.

Uncle Sam Covets It and Is Making Many Strenuous Efforts to Secure It—Some of the Proposals.

That commercial corporation whose plotting for a monopoly of the Behring Sea sealing industry brought Britain and the United States dangerously close to war a dozen years ago is still scheming to attain its end. Of course, its early methods had to be abandoned when the two powers accepted the finding of the Behring Sea Tribunal in 1893 as a settlement of the dispute. By its concurrence in that agreement the United States renounced the untenable theory that Behring Sea was a closed sea, and gave up the contention that the seals, being bred on its islands, were therefore its exclusive property. That excellent arrangement provides for the perpetuation of seal life by limiting the hunting season to a short period, by restricting the hunters to certain methods of killing, and by authorizing the two powers to police Behring Sea for the enforcement of the regulations jointly adopted. It also confines the operations of Canadians to pelagic sealing, that is, to hunting in the open sea, for its surrounds the breeding islands with a protected zone sixty miles wide, within which the herd is not to be followed even during the open season.

This convention has not worked to the advantage of the big American trading company which sought control of Alaskan commerce. Our sealing fleet, their headquarters being at Vancouver and Victoria, are well situated to intercept the herd on its yearly migration between the Pribyloff Islands and the waters of the open Pacific to the south. At all events the United States' sealing fleets coming from the ports of Washington, Oregon, and California, capture by no means the richest spoil of Behring Sea. Naturally, they do not like to see the Canadians get the best of the harvest. However, it is not the American competitors in pelagic sealing who keep agitating for the elimination of Canadians from the industry. That is the work of the interests in control of the trade of the Pribyloff Islands. These interests desire to put both the Canadian and the American open sea hunters out of business, to abolish pelagic sealing altogether, and have the catch reserved for spearmen employed on the shores of the islands.

Many resolutions aimed at the accomplishment of this subject have been introduced into Congress during the last seven or eight years. Before two seasons had passed there was a demand for the suspension of the new plan. It was represented that the pelagic sealers were devastating the herd so rapidly that there would be no seals left if the parties were to defer the revision of the arrangement to the time provided for by the treaty, namely, August, 1898. This view was strongly pressed by the United States Government, who appointed Mr. Foster as diplomatic agent to negotiate with Britain and other powers concerned. In 1897 he made ineffectual efforts to induce the British Government to re-open the question. This Lord Salisbury declined to do, taking the ground that the article of the treaty providing for a revision at the end of five years should be adhered to. Efforts were then made to draw Russia and Japan into a separate agreement with the United States, and certain conditions were agreed to, but they scarcely touched the question, since the Japanese and Russian hunters pursued herds from rookeries on the other side of the Pacific, and took little interest in the Pribyloff seals.

Britain firmly refused to reconsider the question in 1897. In this refusal her Foreign Office was supported by the reports of the biologists sent out to make a study of seal life in the North Pacific. Prof. D'Arcy Thompson, who investigated the matter for the British Government, and with whom co-operated Mr. Macoun for the Dominion Government, found that pelagic sealing was by no means so destructive as it was represented to be by interested Americans. Mr. Macoun's report went even farther to discredit these representations. It is true the scientist who examined into the conditions of the herd for the United States did report that pelagic sealing was doing great damage. But as has been said, Britain abode by the reports of its own expert. In 1898 Britain had no desire for a different arrangement, and as the United States would have much to lose under no arrangement at all, the plan adopted in 1893 continued in force and is in force to-day. But at the last session of Congress a resolution requesting the President to take steps to re-open the question with Great Britain was adopted. This is not likely to be more effectual than former resolutions. Great Britain has been very true to the Behring Sea settlement, and was stiffer in its adhesion to it than the Canadian Government seemed to be in 1897. Britain spends a considerable sum every year to maintain a patrol service on Behring Sea, and is certain not to exchange the present status for one less to Canada's advantage.

Trout in Canada's Waters.

The head of a great shoe manufacturing concern from New York, who was last week investigating the fishing in the Laurentides, was greatly astonished when he was shown the great difference between the trout taken from the several lakes. Each lake appeared to have a special variety indigenous to it. Indeed, some of the old guides asserted that they could tell where the trout came from by their taste after they had been cooked.

This spring a young angler sought to make a record by buying up two or three fine strings of trout from habitant lads and exhibiting them as his own. But his attempt was not a success. Experienced friends laughed his pretensions to scorn as they examined the contents of his creel.

To satisfy his incredulity they were obliged to lay alongside of his purchased spoil the specimens they had really taken from the preserved waters they were all supposed to be fishing in. How in the numbers of their coloring spots, the brilliancy of their markings, the tintings of their under sides, the depth and thickness of the bodies, the trout separated themselves into distinct classes, was very evident then.

No one attempts very seriously to reason why it is so, for the clear, soft water has every appearance of being alike in all the lakes, the vegetable growths are the same and food conditions vary but little.

The trout themselves appreciate these differences. An American gentleman who greatly admired the violet spots upon the flanks of the trout in a friend's lake was much pleased when his friend's little son brought him a dozen fine specimens of the coveted fish in a pail of water. As they were quite vigorous, they were quietly turned out into his own lake.

There was a commotion in the water soon afterward. Presumably the regular inhabitants objected to the visitors, for the next morning they were found dead at the shallow edge of the water, their bodies bearing signs of warfare.—Lachine Letter in New York Sun.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. CLOSING DAYS OF Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Results of the Annual Field Day of Sports.

A Most Successful Camp—Every Member Thoroughly Enjoyed the Outing.

The following letter from the Examiner's correspondent with the Y.M.C.A. boys camp has been delayed in transmission:

Sandy Point presented a deserted appearance this morning shortly after seven o'clock, and the merry voices and sunburned faces are gone. The piping of the birds and the chirping of the chipmonks are again heard which for the past two weeks have given place to the jolly crowd of Y.M.C.A. boys who have tented here. The seventh annual Y.M.C.A. camp is over and in the record it will appear as the best of them all.

The boys left this morning via the Majestic which made a special trip for our party.

The merriment that marked the days under canvas was continued until the crowd separated on the station platform in Peterborough.

"Sandy" stole a march on the "Scribe" and worked very assiduously on the copy for the paper of which he is war correspondent. Sandy is one of the best of fellows and it followed that he was very popular with all the boys. He was presented with an address and gift as a mark of this by the boys.

I think my last letter was written on Monday so I will have now to give you in a few words a sketch of the last three days of the camp.

On Monday our visitors took their departure, but not before they had enjoyed a few rides on the chute, which I think I fully described in my last letter. It seemed like old times to the leader to see the Harrier bunch in camp once more.

A trip to Eagle Mount was one of the features of the day enjoyed especially by the visitors of the camp. Here a view of the lakes was obtained of unsurpassed beauty. Early Monday evening was spent in a general pillow fight, common to all camps. Following this was the ghost dance which was introduced by the telling of a Sandy Point ghost story.

Tuesday was field day and the events were competed for in a very interesting way. The matched race between Sandy and Jamie was the central feature of the day and the judges reported it a tie though the crowd had their doubts.

The following are the winners in the different races. The prizes were so numerous and costly that they cannot be mentioned here.

60 yards dash, juniors—M. Dobbin, W. Engles.

Standing broad jump, seniors—S. Fife, R. Webster.

Hop, step and jump, juniors—M. Dobbin, S. M[illegible].

100 yards dash, seniors—J. Brightman, A. Emmerson.

Shot put, senior — Emmerson, S. Fife.

Stand broad jump, juniors—M. Dobbin, S. Maddill.

Hop, step and jump, senior—Harper, Brightman.

Three legged race, junior—Armstrong and Johnston, Dobbin and Madill.

Boot race, senior—Webster, Martin.

Matched race, "Duffy" vs. "Kranklein".

Running broad jump, junior—Johnston, Dobbin.

Pole jump, broad, senior—Harper, Fife.

Wheelbarrow race, junior—Armstrong and Johnston, Dobbin and Madill.

Running broad jump, senior—Fife, Harper.

Skin snake (teams)—Fife vs. Thornton.

Wheelbarrow race, senior—F. Wallace and J. Brightman, Emmerson and Fife.

Pick-a-back (open)—Emmerson and Dobbin, G. Hutchinson, Madill.

Tug of war, "Pull Hards" vs. "Let Flys".

The "Taffy Pull" lasted well into Tuesday morning as the taffy was a trifle slow—yet it was all the better when dished up. The boys made the night terrible with the music of the tin pan brigade.

The last lesson in the Bible study course was taken up on Wednesday morning by the leader, the theme being a climax of the course "The Denial of Self." Many at the close of the lesson gave expression of the help they had received by this series of Bible studies.

Wednesday morning's boat took four of our party G. Hutchinson, G. Thornton, E. Eyres and C. Mulligan.

It was breaking-up day and as usual the "red cedar fever" broke out among the boys. Symptoms of the disease were shown in their loading up with all the Red Cedar they could accommodate for future use. Others picked berries or gathered ferns or birch bark to carry home as momentoes.

The best thing in the afternoon was the taking down of the chute and taking the lumber to Ayott's landing for use next year.

All retired early in order to get a good rest for the journey homeward in the morrow.

Before closing this, my final letter, we wish to thank the following who have made contributions of good things to the camp:—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harding, Mrs. G. K. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Neill, Mrs. F. R. Dobbin, Mrs. P. G. Mighi and W. D. Campbell.

So we say good-bye until our next camp in July, 1905.

THE SCRIBE.

WILLIAM WELSH IS STILL ALIVE

Victim of the Craigmount Stabbing Affray Did Not Die.

Bancroft Times: The report which reached here on Thursday last to the effect that Wm. Welsh, the victim of the brutal assault at Craigmount mines on the previous Sunday, had succumbed to his injuries, was happily untrue, and Mr. Welsh is at present in the Pembroke hospital, where he is receiving every attention, and is likely walking about by this time. His assailants were given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate James of Combermere, and three of them — Jas. Morrison, Frank Pitt and "Teddy" Hogett—were committed to the county jail at Pembroke, to await their trial, which will take place at the assizes. The others were allowed to go on suspended sentence.

OTONABEE COUNCIL.

Meeting of Otonabee council was held —all the members present.

Messrs. Redmond Carey, John Dixon, Thos. Powers, F. J. A. Drummond were present opposing the closing of the road through lot 18, concession 9. On motion the council decided that no action would be taken to close the road. A pathmaster reported 3 persons' road work unperformed; these parties having reported to the council that their work was done, but in another part of their beat than the pathmaster directed that the work should be performed. The council instructed the clerk to notify the parties that all statute labour must be done under the supervision of the pathmasters and cannot recognize any returns except by them, and unless the work said to be done is certified to by the pathmaster, the amount will be charged against them as taxes. A statement was received from the county clerk that the amount for county rates from Otonabee for 1904 is $5,632.70, (same as last year). A petition was received from road division No. 43 (Gladys) to have their statute labour commuted at 75 cents per day,—granted. The following accounts were passed:— For gravel John Hefferman, $4.10; R. Nelson, $9.28; W. Drury, $5.00; R. J. H. Short, $7.86; J. Quinn, $7.91; Thos. Howson, $9.86; J. Harrison, $1.12; Thos. Esson, $1.00; J. R. Borland, $4.63; A. Gillespis, $2.48; J. J. Esson, $5.67; D. McCarthy, $8.83; W. O'Leary, $8.47; J. Anderson, $8.43; P. Fitzgerald, $9.50; W. H. Borland, $4.38; J. Webster, $27.40; W. Hatherly, $8.03, Cedar, Alex. Bulmer, $4.80; Dixon Co., $13.60; A. McDonald, $5.15; Anderson F. Skinner, goods for J. Douglas, $11.45; J. Loop, cedar and repair culvert, $1.00. Council then adjourned to 19 September.

COST OF SMELTING BY ELECTRICITY.

Preliminary Report of Commission of Which Mr. R. E. Brown was a Member.

The following extracts are taken from the preliminary report made to the Minister of the Interior by Dr. Haanel, who it will be remembered, was commissioned some few months ago with Mr. C. E. Brown, of Peterborough, to proceed to Europe to investigate the methods there in vogue for the manufacture of steel by the use of electricitty.

"At Gysang, Sweden, steel of superior quality is made by the smelting together of charcoal, pig and scrap in an electric furnace of the induction type, that is to say, a furnace without electrodes. This process corresponds to the crucible steel process, but it has certain advantages over the latter in that the melted materials at no time during the operation are exposed to gases, some of which when absorbed deleteriously affect the quality of the product. The furnace worked quietly and regularly, producing on the average four tons of steel in 24 hours. 'Tapping' occurring every six hours, .116 electric horse power years were required per ton of product. The cost at the rate of $10 per electric horse power a year would be $1.16 per ton of product.

THE FRENCH PROCESS.

At Laprah, France, steel is also made from melted scrap. The process differs from that at Gysang in that it permits of the purification of the materials employed, two slags being made for that purpose, and carbonization is effected in the furnace by carbon briquettes. The furnace is of the tilting pattern, consisting of an iron casing lined with dolomite brick. The bottom of the furnace is filled on top of the lining with crushed dolomite, upon which the charge reposes. Two electrodes pass through water-cooled joints in the roof of the furnace. The electrodes are vertical and parallel and are adjusted vertically either by hand or a specially constructed regulator. An alternating current of 4,000 amperes of 110 volts is distributed to the electrodes. Different classes of steel are made by the company at a cost electric energy absorbed of $1.64 per ton of ingot. The selling price of steel varies from 363 francs 60 centimes to 123 frames 60 centimes per ton, depending upon quality. Interesting experiments were made for the commission at this plant in the production of pig from the ore in a very simple surface consisting of an iron box of rectangular cross section, open on top and lined with refractory material. The bottom of the furnace in communication with the iron casing constituted one terminal of the electric circuit. A carbon electrode of square cross section and about three feet in length, placed vertically in the open top of the furnace, constituted the other terminal. By hand regulation this electrode could be lowered or raised within the furnace. Thirty charge sof ore were made during the working, and thirteen taps of metal and slag taken.

By far the most important experiments witnessed by the commission were those made by Mr. Keller, of Keller, Leleux & Company, of Livet. Some 90 tons of iron ore were used to demonstrate the economic production of pig iron by the electric process. The furnaces employed for these experiments were the furnaces used in the regular work of the company of making by the electric process the various ferros, such as ferro-silicon, ferro-chrome, and so forth. The company at the time of the visit of the commission were under contract to furnish ferro-silicon to the Russian Government, but generously interrupted their pressing regular work to undertake the making of experiments for the commission. The furnace employed is of the resistance type, and consists of two iron casings of square cross section, forming two shafts communicating with each other at their lower end by means of a lateral canal. The cases are lined with refractory material. The base of each shaft is formed by a carbon block. These blocks are in electric communication on the exterior of the furnace by means of copper bars. The carbon electrodes to which electric current is distributed pass two-thirds of their length into the shaft. The electrodes are prisms 73 centimetres in diameter and 135 centimetres long. Three sets of experiments were made as follows:—(1). Electric reduction of iron ore and obtaining different classes of pig grey, white and mottled. (2). Electric reduction of iron ore containing a definite amount of carbon in the charge, with a view of ascertaining the amount of electric energy absorbed in the production of one ton of pig iron. (3). The manufacture of ordinary steel of good quality from the pig manufactured in the preceding experiments.

The different classes of pig iron were obtained without difficulty, and the furnaces throughout the experiments worked quietly and without the slightest accident, the gas discharging on top in flickering flames, showing that the gas resulting from the reduction of the ore escaped at low pressure. The workmen employed were ordinary Italian labourers without any special training. A number of castings, such as columns, pulleys, gear wheels, plates and so forth were made, the metal drawn directly from the furnace. The castings showed sharp edges, a comparatively smooth surface, and were sound throughout. For the determination of the electric energy absorbed, the volt metre and ammeter employed to measure the volts and amperes were calibrated in the laboratory of the director of the electric department of the University of Grenoble, who also ascertained the power factor of the alternator furnishing the electric energy. The electric energy absorbed per ton of pig was found to be .336 horse power years.

COST OF THE PRODUCT.

The following are the figures which go to make up the approximate cost of producing a ton of pig iron: (1) Ore (hematite) metallic iron 55 per cent., 1.843 tons at $1.50 per ton, $2.76. (2) Coke for reduction, .83 tons at $7 per ton, $2.31. (3) Consumption of electrodes at $3 per 220 pounds, 77 cents. (4) Lime, 30 cents. (5) Electric energy. .336 horse-power years at $10 per e.h.p., $ 2.26. (6) Labour at $1.50 per day, 90 cents. (7) Different materials, 30 cents (8) General expenses, 40 cents. (9) Repairs, maintenance, etc., 20 cents. (10) Amortization (machinery and building), 50 cents. Exclusive of royalty, $10.40.

"It must be pointed out," says Dr. Haanel "that the results obtained at Livet were the results of experiments in furnaces not especially adapted to the work required to be done. With the improved furnaces of which the commission has secured detailed drawings, permitting an account of higher column of charge a more effective use of the reducing power of the carbon monoxide evolved and the employment of machinery for charging the furnace to reduce the cost of labour, a much better figure than the one given will result."

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Inc'd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

New York, July 25th.—After Thursday a good reaction should take place, when the whole list will get down to figures of which purchases may be made of St. Paul, Pa. and others. Wheat is going higher.

WALL ST. INFORMATION BUREAU.

New York, July 25th.—A feeling of conservatism has developed over Sunday, and while the strong technical position of the market is fully appreciated there is greater disposition to pay more attention to the character of the manipulation on the bull side following so large an advance as that recorded since beginning of June and indications point to the development of a trading market and disposition to take profits on moderate advances rather than to stand on long side for a movement of importance. We believe the market this week will offer better opportunities for in and out trading and for quick turns, but we look for further improvement in early part of week. The Jones and Laughlins steel mill will resume operations on full time, and improvement in the iron and steel trade is taking practical for. We look for activity and higher prices for U.S.Q. and also for Pa. which has been bought in anticipation of a good statement of earnings. Banking interests continue bullish on U.S. and S.P., both of which will sell higher. There is some promise of an active movement in the tractions especially B.R.T. and we would buy this for a turn. Atch., Mop. and St. Paul will sell higher and we look for advances in T.C.I., U.S.Q. and C.F.I.

July 25th.—Crop prospects continue almost perfect for corn and oats. We see nothing to bull the new crop futures.

The strike remans unchanged. It is impossible to say how soon it will be settled, in the meantime trading in provisions has almost ceased.

PATTEN.

Liverpool opening wheat 1-8 lower, corn unchanged.

1.30 p. m.—Wheat 1-4 to 3-8 higher, corn unchanged.

The market will be spotty but many a nimble shilling may be picked up in C.F.I., T.C.I. and in the steels. The buying of Atch, Pa. and the Pacifics is as good as at any time and these stocks promise to sell higher. Tractions are getting ready for another spurt. Conservative purchases of M.R. are advisable. S.F.S. is the cheapest 4 p.c. dividend payer on the list.

JOSEPH.

New York.—Further conference between Chicago strikers and packers today continued favourable.

Wheat, Dec., 544,000; corn, Dec., 306,000; oats, Dec., 779,000.

In the introduction to his weekly market letter Henry Clews says:—

Stocks have shown exceptional strength during the past week, owing largely to the strong support of big insiders, whose operations were undoubtedly influenced by good crop reports, easy money and the consequent better feeling in business circles. It is worth while, however, stopping for a moment to consider the extent of the advance. The active stocks have all risen to 10 to 15 points above the low prices of this year, and some have scored considerably larger advances. Not a few stocks are at the highest point of the year; and if the comparisons be made with the low prices of 1903, the advances are still more striking. This brings us to the question, Has the rise yet reached the danger mark? So far as legitimate influences are concerned it seems as if the advance had been almost sufficient. Good crops and better business have been for the present fairly discounted, especially as both are still in the realm of expectation, and realisation reminds a matter of two or three months. It seems the part of prudence, therefore, to begin to exercise some caution in Marl Train Goes Down Grade in More Than Record Time.

PILED ITSELF UP ON THE DOCK

Owen Sound's Train Runaway Sensation on Saturday—Firemen and Engineer Jumped and Were Saved—Five Marl Cars Twisted Into Indiscriminate Mass and Almost Touching the Schooner Ida Illsen.

Owen Sound, July 25.—The worst railway wreck ever experienced on the Owen Sound division of the Grand Trunk Railway, occurred at 12.35 Saturday afternoon, when locomotive No. 490 was forced over the end of the rails, plowed up three hundred feet of macadam roadbed and finally buried herself in the west side docks, almost touching the schooner Ida Illsen. Five marl cars of a train of twelve followed up the engine and piled themselves up in an indiscriminate mass of twisted trucks, broken timber and marl.

The wreck was prefaced by one of the most hair-raising runs ever experienced by a railroad crew. The train, consisting of engine 490, twelve marl cars heavily loaded and a caboose, in charge of Conductor Kee, developed a high rate of speed on the grade near Ben Allen, a station five miles out of Owen Sound.

The engineer, H. Brown of Palmerston, whistled for down brakes. The brakes would not work, and from then on the train rushed wildly and helplessly down the grade towards Owen Sound. The engineer reversed the throttle, but the weight of the train and the momentum made this utterly useless. The engine was being pushed by the train.

The train swept into the yard and dashed past the depot. Fireman Wm. Johnson jumped at the last switch. At the end of the rails the engineer jumped also and the locomotive plunged across the roadway and buried herself in the dock at the side of the big schooner Illsen.

That no one was killed is a remarkable fact.

SHOTS FIRED—POLICE STONED.

Orangemen and Catholics Clash at Armagh Cathedral Opening.

Armagh, Ireland, July 26.—An enormous concourse from all parts of Irelaud was present Sunday at the ceremony of the re-opening of Armagh Cathedral after four year's work of re-decoration, which included the covering of the entire walls with mosaic pictures. Cardinal Vannutalli as the legatee of Pope Pius and many Irish and foreign prelates; the Duke and Duchess of Norfolk, John Redmond, John Dillon, Timothy Healy, and other prominent persons were present. Some rioting of Orangemen and Catholics followed the ceremonies. Shots were fired and the police were stoned.

H. Kribs Scalded.

Hespeler, July 26.—Henry Kribs, brother to William A. Kribs, M.P.P., was badly scalded yesterday morning through the bursting of the six-inch pipe which conveys steam from the boilers to the engine at the R. Forbes Co.'s mills. Portions of his clothing were torn off so great was the force of the steam as the pipe carried a pressure of 115 pounds. As yet the extent of Mr. Kribs' injuries could not be ascertained.

FOURTEEN HOURS HARD FIGHTING.

Russian Postion at Tachekiao Declared to be Now Untenable.

BOTH SIDES LOSE HEAVYILY

Japs Swept Last Hill and Plats Clear of Russians in Final Two Hours' Incessant Storm of Shot and Shell—Vladivestock Squadron Playing Havoc With Merchant Shipping—Newchwang Evacuated.

Mukden, July 26.—The latest reports received here are to the effect that the Russians with about one hundred guns in action in the Tatchekiao engagement inflicted serious losses on the Japanese, and destroyed many of their guns. The Japanese attack on the centre of the Russian position was repulsed, but the Russians were ordered to retire yesterday and occupy the heights five miles north of Tatchekiao. This movement was carried out in good order.

London, July 26.—Cabling under date of July 26, The Daily Mail's Newchwang correspondent describes a fourteen-hours' desperate battle with heavy losses on both sides, and which resulted in the Russian position at Tatchekiao being rendered untenable, by reason of which the Russians will be compelled to retreat towards Haicheng.

"The battle began at 6 o'clock in the morning," the correspondent says, "the Russians resuming the attack on the Japanese position on the heights east of Tatchekiao. After a few hours the Japanese left flank, from Taping Mountain, captured the Village of Tanghudituen, compelling the Russians to retreat to Tienghualtuen, six miles from their base.

"The Russians, now reinforced, maintained the position until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when the Japanese right flank made a sudden appearance on the hills south of Tatchekiao, and by a tremendous fire forced the Russians to retreat.

"The Japanese firing line extended fifteen miles.

"After two more hours of an incessant storm of shot and shell they swept the last hill and the plain clear of Russians."

The Russians Routed.

Paris, July 26.—A despatch to The Matin from Newchwang says that heavy firing continued all day long on July 24. The battle lasted for sixteen hours. The Russians were driven back on the east side, and were reported to be utterly routed on the north. The despatch says that the Russians evacuated Newchwang, of which the Japanese will probably take possession on July 26.

Battle on Sunday.

Newchwang, July 26.—A battle took place Sunday east of Tatchekiao, which resulted in the Russians being driven back, and it is believed they will have to retire to Liaoyang. The battle lasted all day.

Russians Get Out.

Washington, July 26.—Minister Conger, at Pekin, has cabled the State Department under yesterday's date that he has been informed that the Russians yesterday evacuated Newchwang.

Japs Not in Yet.

Tientsin, July 26.—Information has been received here to the effect that the Japanese have not entered Newchwang. The Russian civil administration departed Sunday night, and the destruction of Russian Government property began yesterday morning at the instance of the administration. The fighting reported Sunday took place between Newchwang and Tatchekiao, and Japanese troops from Kaichou were engaged. No engagement has taken place at Tachekiao.

Russians Lost 400.

London, July 26.—A despatch to a news agency from Liaoyang reports heavy artillery fighting there all Sunday. The Russian casualties, it is alleged, were thought not to exceed 400, while the Japanese are said to have lost more men. The Japanese, who were attacking the "southern detachment," according to the despatch, were forced to retire precipitately, leaving their dead and wounded on the field. The despatch lacks convincing details and names of places.

Japs Protest.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—It is reported that Japan officially protested to the Russian Government against violations of the rules of war on eleven counts, viz.:

Several Russian battalions hoisting the white flag at the battle of Vafangowand, inducing the Japanese to cease firing.

Abuse of the Red Cross flag, stabbing, shooting and mutilating the wounded, etc., as contained in Gen. Oku's report, already published.

The protest was presented by the United States, which, however, made it clear that the United States did not share in the protest, but acted only as the medium for its transmission, and, as such, would agree to forward any reply Russia cared to make.

SANK A BRITISH STEAMER.

Vladivestock Squadron First Transferred the European Passengers and the Crew—Crew Is at Yokohama.

Tokio, July 26.—The British steamer Chinan has arrived at Yokohama with the crew of the British steamer Knight Commander, which was sunk by the Russian Vladivostock squadron off Izu. The Knight Commander's cargo was a general one. Her European passengers were detained by the Russians and her crew of 21 were transferred to the Chinan, which also reports that the Russians sank two Japanese schooners.

The Vladivostock squadron also captured a German vessel believed to be the Arabia, with 30,000 tons of flour, and an unknown British steamer. The two vessels were sent to Vladivostock in charge of prize crews. The American Trading Company are the agents here for the Knight Commander.

Railway Material Contraband.

London, July 26.—It is pointed out in shipping circles at Liverpool that in Russia's contention that railroad material is contraband of war, the presence of bridge work for Japan among her cargo accounts for the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander. Her crew numbered 68, including natives. She was insured against war risks.

Ardova Released.

Suez, July 26.—The British steamer Ardova, which, after being fired at by the Russian volunteer fleet steamer Smolensk, was seized by that vessel, has arrived here. She is flying the Russian naval flag and has a prize crew on board. It is declared her destination is a Russian port. The British cruiser Venus is anchored close to the captured steamer.

The British steamer Ardova, which was seized by the Russian volunteer fleet steamer Smolensk, has been released and her prize crew has been landed.

Squadron Sighted.

Tokio, July 26.—The Russian Vladivestock squadron was seen to the eastward of Kazuza Province at two p.m. yesterday. It was steaming to the east. Kazuza Province is on the east side of Tokio Bay. Katsura lies almost due east of Tokio.

Stopped a German.

Berlin, July 26.—The German steamer Lisbon of the Oldenburg-Portugal Line, has been stopped and searched by a Russian warship in the Gulf of Finland. She was then released.

Vigilant British Ship.

Constantinople, July 26.—Vessels arriving here report that a British warship is patrolling off Cape Helas, 15 miles south of the Dardanelles. She is using her searchlights, with the supposed view of intercepting any British ships which may have been captured by the Russian volunteer fleet steamers, if they attempt to pass the Dardanelles.

Called Home.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The Associated Press is informed that the Russian volunteer fleet steamers Smolensk and St. Petersburg have already been ordered home, and that instructions for them to return have been cabled. The assurances given Great Britain on this point are declared to be satisfactory.

GOVERNMENT ANXIOUS.

Premier Balfour on the Recent Russian Seizures of British Ships.

London, July 26.—Answering half a dozen questions based on the seizure of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Malacca and other ships by Russian volunteer fleet steamers, Premier Balfour in the House of Commons yesterday, after referring to the diverse character of the questions, went on to say:

"The difficulties, I may say great difficulties, I do not wish to minimize them, arising from these captures deal with a problem which has given and is still giving the Government great anxiety, but of which I may say the signs portend a favorable issue. More than that, I think it would be inexpedient to say."

The British Cabinet will meet again to-day to consider the case of the steamer Knight Commander and the general situation arising from the action of the Russian warships.

Situation Still Grave.

The report of the captain of the Malacca was presented at the foreign office yesterday, and the demand of the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Co. for compensation will probably be considered.

The London newspapers this morning consider that Premier Balfour's statement in the House of Commons proves that the situation is still exceedingly grave, and they insist that the Government shall act promptly in demanding an explanation of the Knight Commander incident, which is characterized by The Daily Graphic as an outrage of the most gratuitous and barbarous kind.

The Morning Post, in an ironic editorial, asks to what purpose Great Britain maintains a large navy, if such things are to be permitted?

SPARE THE WILD BIRDS.

What a pity it is that so many of our wild birds have been exterminated or driven from the older settlements! The loss we sustain by the destruction of the birds is not merely a sentimental one, although that in itself is not to be lightly regarded. The birds did us a service that we can ill perform for ourselves even at great cost. They repressed many insect and other pests which now cost the gardener and orchardist many thousands of dollars annually to combat. What if they did eat a few grains of wheat or oats or barley, and carry off a few berries or cherries. They gave full value in expert service.

And the worst of it is that the destruction of the birds has been mostly done out of sheer savage love of taking life. There is a time in most boys' lives when they long to kill something. It is a recrudescence of the primitive man. It doesn't matter much to the boy at this stage what the animal is, so long as it has life to be extinguished. He does not often think of consequences, and he does not realize that he causes suffering needlessly. Most boys pass through this stage; some girls experience similar feelings. Indeed, some men never get out of that stage, and their greatest delight is to kill wild creatures for sport. Occasionally a woman develops such traits. Such a one was Lady Florence Dixie, who in her day was noted as a huntswoman. She has given up the chase, however, and, looking back on her life of slaughter, she feels deep remorse. Recently she said:

"I have seen the terror-striken orb of the red deer, dark, full of tears, glaring at me with mute reproach, as it sobbed its life away, and that same look have I seen in glorious-orbed guanaco of Patagonia, the timid gazelle, the graceful and beautiful Koodoo, springbok, etc., of South Africa, seemingly, as it were, reproaching me for thus lightly taking the life I could never give back. So, too, I have witnessed the angry, defiant glare of the wild beast's fading sight, as death, fast coming, deprived him of the power to wreak his vengeance on the human aggressor before him. And I say this,—The memory of those scenes brings no pleasure to my mind. On the contrary, it haunts me with a huge reproach, and I wish I had never done these deeds of skill and cruelty. I will never again raise gun or rifle to destroy the glorious animal life of creation. Savagedom still dominates us in a great degree. A higher education and civilization will teach us to despise amusements which are purchased at the expense of suffering to animals."

Most of us as we grow older take a more thoughtful view of things, and as we view life and its mysteries more seriously regret our youthful recklessness in wantonly killing harmless birds and beasts. We have more desire to avoid causing pain; more pleasure in seeing joyousness in the wild creatures who share the earth with us.

Teach the boys to spare the birds. Encourage them to take an interest in wild creatures and study their habits. A camera will give infinitely more pleasure to the boy naturalist than he could possibly get from the use of a gun, and in later years he will look back on his exploits with pleasure instead of regret.—Hamilton Times.

DEATHS FROM LOCKJAW.

Reports of death from lockjaw as a result of injuries sustained on the Fourth are coming in, remarks the Buffalo Express. Of the 75 deaths reported to the Chicago Tribune at the hour of going to press on Tuesday morning, ten were caused by the tetanus germ. In the succeeding 24 hours nine more deaths from lockjaw were reported, four in Chicago and one each in Canajoharie and Stillwater, N.Y.; Joliet, Ill.; Laporte, Ind., and McKeesport, Pa. The number of persons injured on the Fourth, according to the latest accounts, was 3,049. The number of injured, of course, will not increase. The number of dead from these injuries, however, may be expected to grow for the next week or ten days.

Appalling as this record is—and because of the horrors of death by lockjaw the record is more terrible than the figures indicate — there seems to be an improvement over last year's showing. More than 400 cases of lockjaw were reported to the American Medical Association as a result of Fourth of July celebrations in 1903, and 98 per cent. of the persons thus attacked died. It is safe to assert, also that as a result of the publicity given to these statistics and the agitation against dangerous observances of the national holiday, next year's figures will show a decided improvement over those for this year.

The poison which the tetenus germ secrets is said to be 400 times as deadly as strychnine, and a Washington surgeon is authority for the statement that there is no hope, even under the most skillful treatment, for any persons in whom the evidence of lockjaw is seen. When evidence of lockjaw is first noted, he says, the patient is really dying. Prevention is the one sensible method of fighting the tetanus germ, and as knowledge of its terrors spreads, just so fast will the cause of the safe and sane Fourth be advanced.

A BETTER METHOD NEEDED.

Some very interesting information is being gathered by Mr. H. B. Cowan Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, who is making an investigation of the work being done by various agricultural societies of the province. It has been found that as a general rule the societies that are paying out the largest sums for special attractions are giving the least for agricultural purposes. Many of the township societies in the province receiving small grants, are holding much better exhibitions and doing much more for the cause of agriculture, than a large number of district societies are doing, while there are many township societies holding such poor exhibitions, that they should be closed up, or utilize their funds for other purposes. In quite a few counties in the province, there are so many exhibitions that they conflict with each other seriously. Fewer, but better, exhibitions, would be a great improvement in these counties.

It has been found out that a township society near Toronto, paid out in 1902 over $2300 in Agricultural prizes, being the largest sum paid out by any society either district or township in the province for that year. Of the four societies which paid out the most for agricultural purposes, two are township organizations. One township society, receiving a grant of $80, paid out over $1000 in agricultural prizes, while a district society receiving a grant of $800, paid out only $1128. One district society receiving a Government grant of $520, whose total receipts were $1420, paid out less than $900 for agricultural purposes. Another district society receiving a grant of $30, with total receipts of $5100, paid out about $800 in agricultural societies. Another society receiving a grant of $350, with total receipts of over $1200, paid less than $250 for agricultural work.

Among the township societies, one which received a grant of $121, paid out only $72 for agricultural purposes; another one receiving $90 for a government grant with total receipts of $1200, paid out but $15 for agriculture. A third society, receiving a grant of $140, paid out $35 for agricultural work. A large number of cases of this kind have been discovered. The suggestion that has been made that the Government grant shall be distributed to societies in proportion to what they actually expend for agricultural purposes, is being advocated strongly in many sections. A detailed report concerning the work being done by different societies will be presented by Supt. Cowan, at the next annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Fairs and Exhibitions.

POISONED.

Real Poison is Created when Food does not digest, and that is when Sickness Commences.

If the man or woman who does not feel right, will at once look to putting the stomach right they will strike the right key—Every ache and every pain is a cry of poison, too much of which has been made in the process of converting food into nutriment. It may be the backache or sideache of the kidneys telling they are overtaxed and cannot filter the poison—It may be weight, pain or distress in the stomach that tells of fermentation and decomposition instead of digestion—It may be headache, dull, depressed, which tells poison has reached the fluid which surrounds the brain cells. The first cause is the same—lack of gastric juice to propel, digest. ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment, is a new discovery which so acts on the mucous membrane of the stomach, a natural supply of gastric juice is assured. To prove the wonderful action of ANTI-PILL, you may have a free trial bottle by addressing Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont.

Peace at Lhasa.

Nagartse, Thibet, July 25.—The Thibetan peace delegates met the British mission and professed willingness to arrange peace if the mission would return to Gyangtse. Col. Younghusband replied that he could only make peace at Lhasa but that he was willing to discuss terms while proceeding there.

Miss Alice M. Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering may be permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain, and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain, and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."—MISS ALICE M. SMITH, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee, Minneapolis Study Club.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safe-guard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women being published in this paper constantly.

MOUNT PLEASANT

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual excursion of the Durham Old Boys Association was held on Monday, July 18, the Falls of Niagara being the place chosen to visit. The steamer Corona conveyed the party to Lewiston the electric cars on the gorge route being the means of conveyance to the Falls. The president and secretary of the association had run over in advance and made arrangements for the party to visit the power house and the prepared food company's buildings. The steamer left the wharf at Toronto at about 9 o'clock a. m., and arrived at Lewiston at about 11.30 a. m., the trip was a very pleasant one having Piper Beaten and an orchestra band on board, also a live president and secretary, who were interested in the welfare of the party led by them. As we came near the mouth of the Niagara River, the president, J. L. Hughes, school inspector, pointed out and explained the many places of interest where the American and British Armies met in deadly conflict in the ages past, the president was in his element while he was showing the party the many places where battles had been fought and victories won by our gallant soldiers. As soon as dinner was over the party was conveyed in electric cars to the power house which is one of the wonders of the world, on arriving there the elevator was used to bring all who wished to go down to the lowest flat of that great building, 150 feet from the surface it required some time to bring the party to what might be called the "lower regions, after explanations given by the kind officials, the elevator brought the party back again to the place from where they started, well satisfied with the time spent examining that great building which is said to furnish 110,000 horse power. The buildings and plant cost nearly one hundred million dollars. At 4 p.m., the party paid a visit to the prepared food company's buildings, where they were taken to the highest flat of the building. They decended by the stairs viewing the process of manufacturing the Shreded Wheat Biscuit, with which they were instructed and delighted. The company prepared a free lunch for the party which was suitable for the Governor-General of this great dominion. I assure you they enjoyed this part of the programme. We can say that our American brethren spared neither time nor money to make Canadians at home and happy,—the visit and instructions at the power house were all given free of expense. The party left the Falls about 6 o'clock p.m., for Toronto, On their way home the president called a meeting and as we had two ministers on board, speeches were made by them and other prominent persons. Resolutions were passed expressing thanks to the Power Co. and the Prepared Food Co., for their kindness, and for the grand reception given them. One or two songs and Auld Lang Syne were sung, and the meeting wound up with God Save the King. The G.T.R. train in waiting for those going east, where Piper Beaten standing on the platform alongside of the train played in splendid style, as only he could play it, that grand old tune which is so dear to each of us, "Sweet Home."

"Choose ye this day whom you will serve," was the subject chosen by the pastor of the Methodist church for his text Sunday.

The Presbyterian pulpit on Sunday was occupied by a Persian.

Hit Head on Bolt.

Grimsby, July 25.—Friday afternoon Albert Marsh's little boy, Earl, was playing in an upright swing. The little fellow fell out backwards, striking the back of his head upon a quarter-inch bolt point, penetrating through the skull and fracturing it. It was found necessary to perform an operation to save the little fellow's life.

Killed in Boyish Scrap.

Brockville, July 25.—The 11-year-old son of William Webb of Winchester Springs, was accidentally shot at his father's farm. Mr. Webb had left a loaded gun in the barn. Deceased and another boy named Liberty endeavored to get possession of it, and in pulling it out of the cutter the weapon discharged. The whole charge went into his breast, killing him instantly.

EVERY MAN MAY HAVE WINGS.

So Says John P. Holland, the Inventor.

He Has Been Working a Long Time on the Contrivance in Secret, and Announces Perfect Faith in its Success.

New York, July 23.—If a prediction made by John P. Holland, inventor of the Holland submarine boat, possesses merit, within five years the air will be filled with men flying about in Holland flying machines, the more skillful making the remarkable speed of fifty miles an hour. Mr. Holland has his machine practically complete, and in a few weeks it will have its first test. What makes the outlook especially encouraging to those who desire to fly is that the inventor says the flying machines will be put on the market at $10 a piece and will be within the reach of every one who desires to be rid of the jolting and jarring of railroad trains and trolleys.

"All a man will have to do when he wants to go to or from his daily work will be to strap on a set of my wings, jump from an elevation sufficiently high to give to him the proper velocity and soar through the air in any direction and at whatever altitude he may desire at a speed of forty to fifty miles an hour," said Mr. Holland yesterday. "The exertion will not be nearly as violent or the risk as great as in riding a bicycle. Collisions will be practically out of the question and even if the flying machine breaks or anything sticks the wings will be arranged so the passenger will descend slowly and safely."

RECALLS OLD RIDICULE.

"Do you really think that result will be achieved within the life time of the present generation?" was asked.

"When I said I had invented a boat that would sail beneath water everybody laughed in ridicule, and those who laughed included many men who professed to be expert scientists and mechanical engineers. But they don't laugh now because my boat is an established fact. Now I say I believe I have solved the problem of flying through the air. I do not say positively I have solved it, but I say I believe I have done so. A short time will tell whether I am right. I wish to predict further that flying machines will be in general use within five years and that practically everybody will have them."

"But what about the women?"

"Oh, I supose we shall have to make flying machines for women, too, if they want them. But I don't imagine a pretty young woman who thinks she is an angel will want to wear as many wings as the principles of aerial navigation demand. I suppose some of these pretty creatures will want their wings shirred and others will want them cut bias. It is my intention to try to make the flying machine suit the taste and the convenience of everybody."

The flying machine designed by Mr. Holland is not a contrivance of the airship sort. It consists of four wings, about ten feet long each. They are strapped to the body, two at the shoulders and two at or near the hips. From the wings mechanism leads to pedals and handles with the feet and hands sets the wings in motion and the soaring begins. The exercise will be violent only at the outset and when the landing is made at the end of the flight.

"The person flying will be prone, with his face toward the earth," said Mr. Holland, "but it will be possible for him to fly at whatever angle he may desire. In fact, at certain angles he practically will be sitting in the machine. The wings will beat alternately, one on each side beating downward and one on each side beating upward at the same time."

"ONE HOUR OF LIFE"

Lou Scholes Feels It in the Welcome Accorded by Toronto.

QUEEN CITY APPRECIATIVE

Magnificent Demonstration By Water and By Land to Winner of the Diamond Sculls—Triumphal Procession From Buffalo to Queen's Park, Toronto —A Beautiful Picture— "Home Sweet Home."

Toronto, July 26.—If "one crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name," Toronto is rolling up the debt of ages rapidly, and there are some more still in prospect. Probably no young man never before received such a magnificent ovation, and if for no other reason yesterday's reception to Lou Scholes, winner of the Diamond Sculls, amateur rowing champion of the world, may be historic. The city spoke for the nation, and there is not a township in the Dominion, not a spot where the wire runs or the lagging post bears its message, but sympathetic hearts will thrill to know that the city of the people gave her warmest welcome from her own heart, and from the heart of the Dominion, to the latest home-coming hero of Canada. Not mere village conceit inspired the enthusiastic pageantry of the occasion, but the consciousness that Lou Scholes had added another lustre to the Maple Leaf of the two oceans.

The Welcome at Buffalo.

At Buffalo, when the Toronto-bound party arrived, they were taken in hand by Sheriff Harry Kaiser, Duncan Mcleod and John D. Kammon, entertained at breakfast and then driven around the city.

When the train reached Lewiston Lou got a great welcome from the railway and customs officials there, as well as from the number of tourists awaiting the boat.

Corona Was Crowded.

The Corona presented a pretty spectacle as she approached the dock. The decks were alive with a gaily dressed crowd, flags and bunting waved and the Highlanders' band struck up the strain that everybody wanted to hear—"See, the Conquering Hero Comes." Lou, looking rather embarrassed at the friendly ordeal that he was to face, strode down the wharf stairway bearing the oars with which he had pulled to victory, and modestly bowed acknowledgment of the cheers.

Several hundred people had taken advantage of the special trip to welcome the home-comer, and E. F. Clarke, M.P., and J. J. Foy, K.C., also delighted to do honor. Lou also received the congratulations of his sisters, the Misses Scholes, and Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Jack Scholes and of Miss Tozer, his charming betrothed. At Niagara-on-the-Lake a big crowd at the wharf cheered itself hoarse.

In Toronto Bay.

The aquatic feature of the civic reception was a success. Viewed from the Corona, the flotilla of steam craft, yachts and small boats of various kinds, decked with flags, had a fine appearance. The small gun on the Cruiser boomed out a salute, which was taken up on the steam whistles of the Chippewa, Lakeside and several other boats, while the occupants of all raised their voices in cheers and song. The band played patriotic airs, and then drifted softly into the strains of "Home Sweet Home," in which many joined in the singing.

When the Parade Started.

Nearly an hour was spent at the wharf while salutations were exchanged and congratulations given. The crowd meanwhile grew denser, and it was with difficulty that a narrow lane was preserved by the police.

By 6 o'clock the procession got under way, the official program being honored in the breach. Mr. Scholes and his father came first, and the champion was generally recognized, a storm of cheers greeting him all the way up to Queen street. Beyond this the cheering was gusty and fitful, bursting out from time to time, where men were more thickly gathered. The ladies were everywhere, and waved their good wishes in dainty lace and lawn.

In the Park.

Arrived at Queen's Park there was a demonstration round the pavilion. Fifteen or twenty thousand people surrounded the enclosure, and representative people of all classes mingled with the throng. Acting Mayor Ramsden made the presentation of a cabinet of silver on behalf of the city and read the address. Lou made a very modest reply. Ald. Jones, Coatsworth, Hay, Ned Hanlan, John F. Scholes, the champion's father, Muligeen, his trainer, Ed. Durnan, and E. F. Clarke, M.P. This closed the speaking and the public functions, and then the champion and his family went home.

Long, Bitter Fight.

Chicago, July 26.—With all peace negotiations broken off and with all the allied trades unions employed at the different plants, with the exception of the teamsters and the stationary engineers, out on strike in sympathy with the butcher workers, who quit work two weeks ago, the stock yards strike last night has settled down to what promises to be a long, bitter fight.

Good Digestion.

If you can keep your digestive system in proper condition the body will be well nourished and you need have little fear of disease. By regulating the kidneys, liver and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, ensure a healthy condition of the organs of digestion and for this reason are indispensible as a family medicine

Three Killed in a Wreck.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 26.—A special to The Evening News from Delavan, N.Y., says three men were killed and two others were injured in a head-on collision between two freight trains near that village yesterday.

Safeguard the Children

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Frank Rigga, of Franklinville, N.Y., in speaking of this remedy, said: "I have found it expedient to have a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. It has been a family safeguard, and while especially beneficial to children it is equally good in adult cases. I recommend it cheerfully and without reservation." For sale by all druggists.

Railway Taxation Commission.

Toronto, July 26.—Secretary Wilkinson of the Railway Taxation Committee is in his office again. H. J. Pettypiece, M.P.P., is expected to-day. Prof. Adam Shortt went home direct to Kingston, and Judge Bell also returned home. The Commission will start out again next Monday for Augusta, Maine, Boston and New York.

Merry Del Val Resigns.

Rome, July 25.—The Tribuna says it is reported that Cardinal Merry dell Val, the Papal Secretary of State, has tendered his resignation, owing to the hostility of the cardinals, which indicates that they accuse him of rendering impossible an accord with France, and that the Pope has refused to accept the resignation.

Welsh Not Dead.

Belleville, July 25.—William Walsh, who was reported killed by miners at Craigmount, is not dead, but is getting better in a Renfrew hospital. Three of his assailants have been committed for trial at the next assizes.

Falconio to Manila.

Rome July 25.—The Giornal ed'Italia says that it is likely that Mgr. Falconio, the apostolic delegates in the United States, will be transferred to Manila to replace the late Mgr. Guidi.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are most to be pitied because their ailment usually terminates in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first signs of trouble and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorative.

PRESENT NEEDS IN DAIRY INDUSTRY.

Dairy Inspectors Give Their Views of how the Business may be Improved.

The future of the dairy industry depends to a large extent upon the efforts put forth by the individual farmer. The Department of Agriculture asked the two Chief Dairy Instructors for a statement of the needs in the dairy business from the farmers standpoint at the present time. The replies received are given below:—

GEO. H. BARR, LONDON.

"The principle defects in the milk behind delivered at the cheese factories at the present time are, over-ripeness, cowy flavours, gassy, and what is known as bitter milk. All these defects are caused by the same thing,— improper care on the farm, such as unclean milking, not straining the milk, allowing the milk to stand over night in places where the air is made impure by adjacent hog pens, barnyards, etc., and not cooling the milk to under 70 degrees immediately after milking.

"Our makers are having hard work at the present time in many of the factories to make even a passable cheese from the quality of the milk being delivered, and the quantity of milk required to make a pound of cheese is much greater than if the milk was in proper condition. Where the makers are careful in selecting the milk at the receiving window there is not so much trouble in the factory, which leads one to the conclusion that the makers have the solution of the problem largely in their own hands. Where we find clean, tidy factories, we invariably find clean milk delivered; and where the factory and maker are dirty and untidy, the milk is generally of the same nature. Cleanliness is the one great feature necessary to put our cheese on a higher plane."

G. G. PUBLOW, KINGSTON.

"I would say that the great need of the present time is for people to be more careful in the manner in which the milking is done and the place wherein the milk is kept, and to pay more attention to the cooling of the milk. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the latter, namely, cooling, and especially in the districts where yeast fermentation is prevalent. To handle this fermentation with any degree of satisfaction, it is absolutely essential that the milk be well cooled at the farm immediately after milking, so as to retard its growth before it reaches the hands of the cheese maker. All cans should be covered with mosquito netting or some other such covering, to prevent flies and other insects from dropping into the milk while on the stand over night, as I believe flies are a great source of infection to milk."

It will be seen from the above that the men who have covered the whole field are of one mind as to the importance of the farmer giving more attention to the care of his milk. As an evidence of what may be accomplished by proper care, an instance may be given of a patron in the vicinity of Peterborough, who delivered three cans of milk, representing three milkings, to a factory on Monday morning, July 11th. Saturday night's and Sunday morning's milk was first-class, but the Sunday night's was rejected because sour. The two lots had received proper attention, but the Sunday night's had been neglected, the farmer thinking, no doubt, that the milk would be delivered next morning and would not therefore, require the attention given that which had to be kept a longer time. Even the milk which is to be delivered the same morning as produced should be thoroughly aerlated and cooled.

Unless the farmers are prepared to co-operate with the makers and the instructors in their efforts to better the quality of the cheese produced they will be the sufferers sooner or later. An insufficient and impure water supply is often the cause of an inferior product, especially in creameries, where so much depends on its purity.

Prof F. C. Harrison, of the Ontario Agricultural College, is securing samples of water from a number of the creameries throughout the province, and will make an examination of the same with a view to furnishing exact information as to the detrimental effect of impure water.

Department of Agriculture, July 13, 1904.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

To-morrow's Excursion.

Don't forget the excursion of E. H. Mann's employees to-morrow to Stony Lake, per steamer Sovereign, via the canal and over the Lift Lock. Special pilot engaged. Boat leaves the wharf at 7 a.m., Lift Lock at 8. Tickets 75 cents for adults; children, 40 cents. The best and cheapest excursion yet over this route.

Charlotte Street Church Notes

At Charlotte street church Sunday, the pastor preached to large congregations at both services. The music during the day was of an especially enjoyable nature. In the morning, the male quartette sang "The Old Pocket Bible," with baritone solo, and Mrs. (Dr.) Prust, of Pontiac, Mich., sang in splendid voice and with pleasing expression, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." In the evening the anthem was "The Land of Rest," with solo by Miss Belleghem and Mr. Brainerd. The male quartette was heard in a well rendered selection "Night of Rest" and during the offertory Miss Belleghem gave a very effective rendition of Greely's "Come to the Lord of Rest," which was sung in excellent voice.

DISTRESSING DROWNING ACCIDENT ON THE RIVER

Olive Kidd, Daughter of Mr. R. J. Kidd, the Victim.

Fell Overboard From the North Star—Sad Ending to the Moonlight Excursion Last Evening.

One of the most distressing drowning accidents which has ever occurred in this vicinity took place last evening when, without a moment's warning the life of Olive Kidd, the 13-year-o'd daughter of Mr. R. J. Kidd, 304 Brock street, was ended. The Young Men's Guild, of the Charlotte street church, were running a moonlight excursion down the river per steamer North Star; about 125 people were on board and a delightful evening was being experienced by all. The boat sailed about six miles down the river and was returning at a fast rate of speed in order to reach the wharf in good time. All was joyousness and pleasure on board when a cry was heard from the bow of the boat that a girl had fallen overboard. It seems that a number of young people were sitting in the bow of the boat where singing was going on and among them was Olive Kidd. She went to the left hand side of the boat and while in the act of throwing a paper bag into the water, she leaned against the iron railing which in some manner gave way, and with a cry the poor girl fell into the water. She was seen to rise but once. The captain, who heard the splash from the fall, immediately gave the signal to reverse the engine which was done and the boat was soon stopped. The life boat was lowered and a young man plunged into the water, but no trace could be found of the unfortunate girl. Grappling irons were used with the hope of finding the body, but after the search had been continued for about twenty minutes, a party of three was left in the small boat while the steamer proceeded towards Peterborough, which was reached about 11.45 o'clock. The accident occurred about a quarter to ten.

The steamer with a willing searching party returned at once to the scene of the terrible accident, and the search was continued through the night, but without success.

The deceased girl was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Kidd, who were on board at the time, and were prostrated with grief. Olive was a bright and happy girl, a great favourite with all with whom she was acquainted and the joy of her parents. The greatest sympathy is felt for the sorrowing relatives who are so sorely bereaved under such painful circumstances.

On going to press the body had not been found. The river is full of weeds at the point where the drowning occurred and consequently it will be a difficult matter to locate the body. According to a farmer living in the vicinity the current at that point is not sufficiently strong to carry the body down the stream.

POPULAR BUSINESS MAN LEAVING TOWN.

Mr. Andrew Laidlaw Goes to Ottawa To-morrow to Take Responsible Position.

To-morrow a man who for some time was actively identified with the business interests of Peterborough, will leave town to engage in business elsewhere. Mr. Andrew Laidlaw, who for a number of years conducted a successful merchant tailoring business on Hunter street, is the gentleman referred to, and his large circle of friends here will regret that he is now leaving Peterborough permanently. Some time ago he sold out his business interests here to Mr. McClung, to accept the management of the Ottawa store of the Semi-Ready Company, preparations for the opening of which were then in progress.

A new store has been erected, and fitted up, and Mr. Laidlaw will tomorrow leave for Ottawa, where he will enter upon the discharge of his duties.

During his residence here, he was very popular, and his departure will be deeply regretted. He will be followed with the best wishes of his many friends for his success.

A MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

A Young Man Left Home Last Night and has not Been Seen Since.

Young Milne's Strange Action—The Police Have Been Notified.

A report is in circulation in town this afternoon to the effect that a young man, about 18 years of age, named Millan or Milne, is missing.

According to the story, a verification of which as to details, has not yet been obtained, the young man left his home last evening, and has not been heard of since. It is also said that the young fellow's mother has been sick for some time, and this fact has been preying on his mind, and worrying him considerably.

When he did not come home last night or this morning, the police were notified, but up to the time of going to press no trace of the missing youth has been discovered.

He is said to be a young man of good habits and of quiet disposition, and his strange disappearance is a deep mystery.

INSPECTION OF C. P. R. BRANCH

Road From Burketon to be Opened Next Week.

The newly constructed branch of the C. P. R. from Burketon to Bobcaygeon was subjected to government supervision yesterday, a party of inspectors going over the 37 miles of road. They were accompanied by General Superintendent Timmerman and Divisional Engineer A. L. Hertzberg, of the C.P.R., and J. L. Clarke, K.C., who is acting solicitor for the company in the matter.

A C.P.R. official stated yesterday that the line would probably be in operation a week hence. It taps a good agricultural district, the general trend of the country being fairly level.—World.

AN AMALGAMATION PROJECT DISCUSSED.

A $750,000 Company may be Formed in Peterborough.

An Important Meeting of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Co.

This afternoon an important meeting of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company, is being held in the office of Mr. D. O'Connell, the solicitor for the company.

A large number of shareholders are in town for the purpose of attending the meeting, and practically the whole stock is represented, either by proxy or in person. This will be the most important meeting the company has ever held, and a great deal depends upon the result of the meeting.

Mr. Geo. Carton, the president, is presiding at the meeting, which has been called for the purpose of considering a proposition to form an amalgamation with the Sugar Company, formed to take over the business of the old company. This plan is one formulated by Mr. Fowler, who is responsible for the resuscitation of the Sugar Company, and who has proven his ability in this line in the past by his work in connection with the Berlin factory. He conceived the idea that a Cold Storage and sugar business would work in well together, and his proposition, worked out in detail, is being submitted to this afternoon's meeting.

A number of influential and prominent business men from Toronto, who are interesting themselves in the project, are in town for the meeting, and it is likely that their opinions will have considerable weight with the shareholders.

The capital stock of the new concern, if the amalgamation scheme is carried through, will probably be in the neighbourhood of $750,000, that of the Cold Storage Company at present being $300,000, and this capital will make the new concern one of the largest industrial establishments of its kind in the province, and one which will be a welcome addition to the industrial ranks in Peterborough.

At the time of going to press the meeting is still in progress, and the result of the deliberations is not known.

ESTIMATES FOR THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

$337,000 to be Voted by Parliament for Work on the Canal.

That the Trent Canal is to receive some substantial recognition at the hands of the Government, is evidenced by the despatch from Ottawa, in which the supplementary estimates are quoted. From them it is learned that for construction on the Trent Canal $300,000 has been voted; for improvements to dam and lock at Peterborough $16,000. The important item, however, is that designated, "Survey of routes, $11,000," which would seem to indicate that the completion of the canal had been decided upon, and only the question of the most feasible route remained to be settled.

ANOTHER CROWDED HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

McMaster Band at Murray Street Still Continues to Draw Crowds.

To-night the Series of Meetings End—Addresses by the Young Men Productive of Good.

The McMaster Evangelistic Band close their campaign in Peterborough to-night. They have taken hold of the town as very few evangelists have had the privilege of doing. The church was again crowded last night, and the draw seats were in requisition. The platform was a picture. The veteran of many battles and victories in the centre, Rev. J. Bastow, M.A., who closes his most successful pastorate on Sunday next, surrounded by a band of young life, panting and eager for the fray. As one after another steps up and delivers his message in choice language and earnest, solemn tones, full of pathos and power, the meeting increases in interest, the quartette at intervals, putting in effective work. A gracious influence rests on the meeting and the Christians are ready to stand. The unsaved become deeply concerned about spiritual things.

Last night there was one design running through all the addresses, and a perfect understanding existed between the speakers. The topics for the four addresses were "The Man Behind the Tree," "The Man under the Tree," "The Man in the Tree," and "The Man on the Tree."

Mr. Noble dealt with "The Man behind the Tree,"—our Father Adam—created perfect, not only a living man, but immortal. "God breathed into," "Man became a living soul." Temptation came. She looked! took!! gave!!! They fell, and we fell with them; men have been falling ever since, and are falling to-day. They hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden.

The quartette rendered, "Nearer My God to Thee."

"The Man under the Tree" was discovered by Mr. McGregor—"Nathanael" "Jesus said, 'When thou wert under the fig tree I saw thee.'" He did two things under the tree. He thought; second, at the feet of Jesus—he acted. He confessed Christ, —"Thou art the Son of God." The world to-day needs men of action.

"The Wandering Boy," by request was given by the quartette.

"The Man in the Tree," was pointed out by Mr. Huddlestone. "Zaccheus ran before and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see Him"—Jesus. Here we have a man who seized the opportunity. The success in life largely depends on how we improve the opportunity when it comes. A supreme moment comes to every man. The historical words of Napoleon were "Too late! the critical moment is past."

Mr. Williamson sang "Face to face."

"The Man on the Tree" was graphically portrayed by Mr. Cameron. The crucifixion is one of the saddest scenes in the world's history. The mental and physical sufferings of Jesus were intense. The grand and sublime doctrine of Substitution was clinched with the wonderful declaration of the apostle, "He hath made Him to be sin for us, who knew no sin, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

Large numbers went into the enquiry room, and the workers were busy. Com.

BIG EXCURSION TO PETERBOROUGH.

Employees of the Williams Piano Co. of Oshawa, to be Here Saturday.

Citizens Should Welcome Visitors and Make Them Enjoy the Day.

Next Saturday the employees of the Williams Piano Company, of Oshawa, will run an excursion to Peterborough. This will be the first annual excursion of the employees of this company, and Peterborough is to be congratulated that this town has been chosen as the objective point for this outing. This town has received a lot of advertising lately, and this is one of the results of that advertising, and Peterborough should make the most of the opportunities resultant upon the publicity which the town has been given.

Last year the McLaughlin Carriage Works employees, of Oshawa, came to Peterborough, and this year they went to Barrie. The reason that Barrie was chosen this year instead of Peterborough, may be accounted for by the fact recorded in the following paragraph in last week's Oshawa Reformer, in an article on the excursion: "On arriving in Barrie the party was met by a reception committee, headed by Mayor Boys, who, with Mr. and Mrs. R. McLaughlin in carriages, led the way to the Queen's Park, joined in the procession on the way there, by the Tudhope Carriage Company's employees of Orillia, making altogether a large and respectable turn out."

When the excursion came here last year, no particular effort was made to entertain the visitors by the town authorities, and the consequence was that since few of them were familiar with the town, and its attractions, the great majority of them, not knowing how best to see the points of interest, spent a dull day.

Early in June of this year a large excursion from West York came to town, and the same thing occurred, the only attempt made to welcome the visitors being on the part of a representative of an industrial concern. Since Peterborough has obtained such a prominent place in the public eye, it is probable that a large number of excursions will be coming here, attracted by the Lift Lock, and other attractions, and it all means business for Peterborough. In view of this fact it might not be an unwise thing to appoint a reception committee, similar to those in other cities, the duties of the members of which would be to welcome bodies of visitors, and plan their visits so that they would enjoy themselves, and be anxious to repeat the trip, instead of going somewhere else. They should be made to feel at home, and feel that they were welcome here, and that their visit was appreciated.

No town in Ontario offers greater attractions to visitors, with the Lift Lock, parks, industrial works, etc., to visit, and it is to be hoped that those who come here this summer will be made to enjoy themselves.

THE LAKEFIELD CANOE COMPANY INCORPORATED.

The Concern Made a Joint Stock Company—The Provisional Directors.

The current issue of the Ontario Gazette contains notice of the incorporation of a company composed of Edmund Rolleston Tate, lumberman; John E. Richardson, Canoe builder; George Alexander Baptie and William John Baptie, carpenters, and Harry Graham Fitzgerald, hardware merchant, all of the Village of Lakefield, in the County of Peterborough, and Province of Ontario, and any others who have become subscribers to the Memorandum of Agreement of the Company, and their successors, respectively, a Corporation for the purpose and objects following, that is to say: "To manufacture, sell, rent and generally deal in canoes and boats of every description; To carry on the business of contractors for the erection of houses and other buildings; To manufacture, sell and generally deal in wood and lumber and in all articles made of wood or partially of wood;" the Corporate Name of the Company, to be The Lakefield Canoe Building and Manufacturing Company, Limited; the share and capital of the Company to be forty thousand dollars divided into four hundred shares of one hundred dollars each, the Head Office of the Company to be at the said Village of Lakefield, and the Provisional Directors of the Company to be Edmund Rolleston Tate, John E. Richardson, George Alexander Baptie and Harry Graham Fitzgerald, hereinbefore mentioned.

A MEDAL CONTEST IN AUBURN CHURCH.

Royal Templars of Temperance Conducted a Successful Silver Medal Contest.

The silver medal contest held in the Auburn church, under the auspices of the R. T. of T., attracted a fairly large audience. The medal was awarded to Master Norman Laing, who recited the "Market Basket" in a very creditable manner. If these young people will continue their study of elocution, they will surely bring credit upon themselves. Little Maud and Jennie Titterson delighted the audience with music and recitation and will receive a hearty welcome if they ever visit this church again. Mr. Simpson acted as chairman. Messrs. S. Cowan, P. Might and Simpson, jr., acted as judges and were unanimous in their decision. Mr. Might gave the decision, also a short temperance address. Mr. Cowan presented the medal. Mr. Simpson gave a short address also. Mrs. Gurney and Mr. Carey were called upon for a few remark. The Templars hope to carry on the contest work in the autumn, with a view to promote temperance work

Miss M. Clark of Millbrook, is the guest of Mrs. Bateson, town.

Mrs. William Ingster of Maromora, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Chas. Roberts.

Miss Edith Presley, Marmora, is visiting friends in town.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed last Friday evening by a number of ladies and gentlemen driving down to Trent Bridge and enjoying a moonlight sail on the waters.

Miss E. Johnston, who has been the guest of Miss Barrett of town, left for her home in Toronto on Monday morning.

The fourth game of the Trent Valley League was played here last Friday, and was the greatest surprise that ever struck the town. The local boys were never so handicapped before, as Mr. Dan Ford, the pitcher, was under the doctor's care. Mr. W. Kelsey, the star right fielder, was off on account of having his ankle sprained, and Roy Campney, the brilliant centre fielder, and E. Dorricott, second base man, were down the road and could not get up for the game. It was impossible to get 9 signed players in the town and after telephoning to Marmora and telling them the circumstances, they allowed us to make up by playing unsigned men who were residents of the town, as they could not call the game off on account of their men having made arrangements to get off work and come up. The Havelock boys never felt so sure of losing a game before, and until ten minutes before the game they were looking for anybody who ever had a ball in their hands before. But at last the teams lined up as follows:—

Havelock — W Rose c, W H Thompson p, Jas Black 1b, J Campbell 2b, R E White 3b, J Mahoney ss, Allie Rose rf, J Bateson cf, John Black lf.

Marmora — W Inkster c, E Curry p, C McWilliams 1b, J Phillips 2b, J Shannon 3b, P Kemp ss, F Stephens rf, R Naylor cf, R Pearse lf.

Marmora went to the bat first, and in the innings no one saw first base. Havelock in the first time to bat, made two runs, giving the boys heart, which they never lost. Thompson up to the end of the third innings held the visitors down to three hits, but by Mahoney's speedy work at short, not a run was scored by Marmora, and up to the fourth, when Curry managed to reach first, steal second, and third, and then by a nice hit of Phillips got in home, the latter also getting in the score up to the end of the fourth stood 2—5 in Havelock's favour. In the seventh innings Havelock brought in 4, Marmora in the sixth and seventh 3 each time, then in the eighth, with two men on bases, Allie Rose made a beautiful place hit to right field, which let in the two men and himself on a wild throw by Marmora. This finished the game as far as the scoring went, 13—8 in favour of the locals.

The umpire, J. Toman, gave satisfaction to both sides.

NOTES.

Thompson was wondering why the first ball he put over the plate was not batted over the fence.

Mahoney's work at short was fine.

Curry got a very bad smash from a liner off Black. He could not get his hands down in time, causing a delay of about five minutes to the game.

The game was not well patronized by the town people; they did not want to see the boys lose.

A great many young men and ladies from Marmora came up to see the game.

A big load from Campbellford also drove up to see the match.

Thompson's work as pitcher was fine, striking out 11 men to Curry's 7.

This makes every team in the League a tie. The schedule is just half played, and everyone has won the home games. Who is going to break the ice and win away from home?

A letter was received to-day from Mr. W. Crowley of Peterborough, the president of the Trent Valley Lacrosse League, to the effect that Havelock is the winner of the Eastern district by Tweed defaulting the game, owing to the game not being finished in Tweed, it was arranged to be played in Norwood. But Tweed refused to play in that town.

Two great games ought to be the event when the winners of the districts meet.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering

'I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from Chronic Diarrhoea for ten years, and during that times I tried various remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well, and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favour of this wonderful remedy." This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

SOUTH AFRICAN CENSUS.

Some Numerous Incidents That the Enumerators Met With in Their Work —Some Speaking Figures.

The mail brings details of the South African census returns, most of which have already been received in summary form by cable.

In 1891 the colony was divided for census purposes into three areas; the first section, the colony proper, did not include Griqualand West, which had been annexed after the date of the previous census in 1875. Griqualand West was, therefore, the second section, and the native territories were the third section. The first section of the present census includes Griqualand West, the second section being the native territories, excluding Pondoland, and the third section comprises the territories annexed since 1891—Pondoland and Bechuanaland. It will take about a year or so for a final report to be got out. The census supervisors and enumerators worked remarkably well; and especially was this the case in the native territories. The enumerators were received cordially; the natives responded promptly to the wishes of the Government, and there were instances in which natives had gone back home from long distances to see that their families were properly enumerated. The figures for the Cape proper, which are unaudited, but may generally be taken to be correct, are: Total population, 1,485,634; European or white, 548,926; other than European or white, 936,708. Percentage of total population, European or white, 36.95; others, 63.05. In 1891 the figures were 1,039,860, 366,608, 673,252, 35.26, and 64.74 respectively. The figures for the native territories (excluding Pondoland) are: Total population, 682,239; European or white, 15,770; other than European or white, 616,460. Percentage of total population—European or white, 2.49; others, 97.51. In 1891 the figures were 487,364, 10,379, 476,985, 2.18 and 97.87 respectively. The figures for the territories annexed (Pondoland and Bechuanaland) since the previous census, 1891, are: Total population, 287,005; European or white, 10,406; other than European or white, 276,599. Percentage of total population: European or white, 28.91; others, 96.37. The grand total for 1904 is: Total population, 2,404,878; European or white, 575,102; other than European or white, 1,829,776. Percentage of total population: European or white, 13.91; others, 76.09. In 1891 the figures were: Total population, 1,527,224; European or white, 376,957; other than European or white, 1,150,237. Percentage of total population was: European or white, 24.68; others, 75.32. The population of the Cape district on April 17, 1904, was 212,319, of which 119,965 were Europeans or whites, and 92,354 other than Europeans or whites; 56.5 of the total population was white, and 43.5 other than white.

The population of the whole division is 49,853, of which 19,793 are Europeans, and the remainder natives and colored. At the last census the population of the division was 21,538, of which 7,197 were Europeans. The present population of the town alone is 24,054, of which 14,089 are Europeans and 10,015 natives and colored. Cambridge, a young and rising suburb of East London, has at present a population of 3,486, of which 2,083 are Europeans.

Port Elizabeth (urban), all races: Males, 18,286; females, 13,980; total, 32,248, made up as follows: European, males, 12,041; females, 9,463; total, 21,504; colored, males, 4,640; females, 3,865; total, 8,505; natives, males, 1,587; females, 652; total, 2,239.

Walmer (all races): Males 1,090, females 830; total 1,920, made up of: Europeans, males 467, females 417, colored, males 188, females 194; natives, male 435, females 219.

Including the town and district and the port, the total population of Port Elizabeth is 46,626.

Total of all races in the Kimberley district is 60,045. At the last census it was 48,306, an increase of 11,739. The town population is 34,260; at the last census it was 28,718, an increase of 5,542. Beaconsfield town population is 9,874; at the last census it was 10,478, a decrease of 1,104.

The returns for the City of Grahamstown are just completed, showing a total population of 8,710, made up of 3,449 males and 3,647 females. There are 1,614 natives living in the city. There are 1,340 males under 15 years of age, and 1,284 females ditto, while there are 3,000 males and 3,088 females over that age. There are 1,608 buildings occupied and 54 unoccupied, and 13 in course of erection. The total for the city proper at the last census in 1891 was 7,278, showing an increase this year of 1,423. The city was divided into eight areas, and every area shows an increase. The returns do not include the native locations.

In most of the centres of population increases are also noticeable as under: Kingwilliamstown, 1901, 26,988; 1904, 103,552. Oudtshoorn, 1901, 23,879; 1904, 30,325. Paarl, 1901, 21,363; 1904, 30,349. Uitenhage, 1901, 20,947; 1904, 31,900. In some districts what are apparently decreases are not really so, the explanation being that new fiscal divisions have been created.

To some colored persons, natives particularly, London would appear to stand for the whole of the British Empire, or at least of England, in the matter of religion, for the entry constantly appearing by way of reply to the enumerator's query as to religion of the inmates was: "Church of London." Moreover, this appellation was found to include, in addition to members of the Church of England, Presbyterians, Lutherans, etc.

By certain of the natives the visit of the enumerator was apparently regarded as portending some dire evil, many places being found with all doors and windows nailed up.

PRACTICAL IMPERIALISM.

Canadian Children's Correspondence With London and Australia—Interesting Letters From Distant Fellow Britons.

A valuable and interesting medium for diffusing Imperial sentiment is being conducted by Mr. R. W. Hicks, Principal of the Queen Victoria School, Close avenue, Toronto, through correspondence between his pupils and other children in England and Australia. Two years ago the plan was originated by Mr. Robert Cook, a teacher in the Fields School, London, England, who inquired at the office of the Canadian High Commissioner in London for some Canadian school with which his pupils might correspond, with a view to inculcating Imperialism. The name of Mr. Hicks, for reasons which Mr. Hicks in his modesty cannot see, was suggested, and a correspondence was entered upon between the pupils of both schools, which proved of value as well as interest. The London School Board, however, heard of it some time ago, and asked that it be stopped until they could think of a plan by which all board schools in London might correspond with one or more schools in the colonies.

Mr. Hicks meantime found the scheme working so well that he desired to extend it to Australia. He wrote to the Superintendent of Education, for South Australia and, the letter being published in The Children's Hour, an official publication, as a result an extensive correspondence has developed. Later on Mr. Hicks made an attempt to start a similar correspondence with pupils in Pennsylvania, but the frank manner in which Toronto pupils discussed American affairs from a Canadian standpoint soon demonstrated that this was unworkable, and it had to be abandoned. That more education will have to be inculcated is shown by the fact that some letters reach Toronto children from Australia, after passing under the review of the school teacher, addressed to "Toronto, Canada, U.S.A."

From the Canadian side the correspondence has proved beneficial in spreading a knowledge of this country, the Canadian boys' descriptions of their holidays inspiring a keen desire among London boys to come and share their enjoyment. The letters are written as homework by the pupils, who are in this way instructed in letter-writing.

The correspondence has a broadening influence, as it presents the children's views of events from the standpoint of other worlds. For instance, Alfred Parry, writing from the London Field School, Hackney, London, says: "I live in the northeast of London in a quiet street. At present I am not very well off, but I must not grumble, as there are many who are poorer than I. I will tell you about our football teams. Of our first eleven the captain is a small chap named Abraham Goodman, who is a forward and plays inside left, while the vice-captain, Henry Barry, plays centre half-back. He is a hard kicker." Then follows a lengthy description of other members of the team and their conduct on the field, ending with: "Henry Fuller is vice-captain and often scores a goal for his team because he dashes at the ball and carries everything before him. Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, I remain your friendly fellow-subject, Alfred Parry."

A letter from Holman Arndt of Mylor, South Australia, said in part: "In answer to your teacher's letter which I saw in The Children's Hour, a special book printed for the use of schools, I am going to write you a few lines about South Australia. South Australia is a very pretty country, at least the part where I live is very pretty, but the north is dry, for it does not have enough rain. The people succeed pretty well in their attempts at farming, gardening, fruit-growing and fishing. Mylor is one of the suburbs of Adelaide, which is in the south of South Australia. The district is very often flooded because of terrible rainfalls which we have. The City of Adelaide is a very busy city. It has large streets, which are always crowded with people, and some very large and beautiful buildings, all of stone. Brushes and all different kinds of things are manufactured in this city. Fruit is also sent away in abundance from here also fishes. . . Our school room overlooks beautiful scenery, of large green trees, several bubbling little creeks and lovely bush flowers of all colors. We have a lot of beautiful flowers here, one particularly, called "wattle," and is of a yellow color with pretty green leaves. . . My mother's cottage is situated in a low valley with hills all around it, for the country about here is very hilly, and lower down still lies a very pretty gorge, much admired by every person who sees it."

An Imperial touch is given by William J. Wade of Yunta, South Australia, who says: "I started going to school the day the Queen died." He says the average annual rainfall there is about five inches, and that the drought has had awful effects on the country. The production around there are wool, sheep, cattle, fat and skins. In a postscript he says: "When writing I wish you would give me a description of the Niagara Falls."

"The South Australia people are very much like the English," writes Miss Dolly Byrne of Warooka, South Australia. "Their favorite amusements are swimming, hunting, bicycle riding, cricket, football, tennis and horse racing. We are also fond of music and dancing. There is quite a craze for walking matches here lately."

One of the English correspondents asks an early reply, "as we are thinking of emigrating."

Herbert Spencer's Wager.

Herbert Spencer once won a curious wager. He was staying for a fishing holiday in the house of Sir Francis Powell, the President of the Scottish Academy, and, while angling for trout, he happened to drop his eyeglasses into a deep pool of the river. In the evening he related his misadventure to his host and the guests, and said that he was prepared to bet that he would recover his pince-nes from the bottom of the pool. His friends declared that this was an impossible feat, but Herbert Spencer still offered to make the bet. His challenge was accepted by one of the visitors. Upon the following evening Spencer returned to the house with the missing eyeglasses. He had fastened a strong magnet on the end of his fishing line, and fished for the glasses until it came into contact with their steel rims.

Stories by Lord Burnham.

Lord Burnham presided at the recent annual dinner in London of the Newspaper Fund. He told a number of stories. One thing he said was that, on a fishing trip in Scotland, he set out on a certain morning with a large luncheon basket, intending to be gone for the day. He fished till noon. Then hunger seized him. At the same time, too, he recalled the fact that he had left his luncheon at the foot of a cliff on the road, where he had stopped to rest. The cliff was two miles back, but the hungry Lord set out for it on a fast walk. On the way he met a shabbily-dressed Scot.

"Did you," he asked, "find anything on the road as you came along?"

"Na," said the Scot. "Na, not I. Could na a stray dog ha' found and eaten it."

The Word "Starvation."

The word "starvation" was introduced into the English language by its coiner, Henry Dundas, afterward Viscount Melville. It was originally used by him in a speech in parliament on the American debate in 1775 and was immediately caught up and applied to himself in a political nickname, so that he was known thenceforward as "Starvation" Dundas."

"I shall not," such was his declaration, "wait for the advent of starvation from Edinburgh to settle my judgment."

Before the time of Dundas "starve," "starving," "starved" and "starveling" were in use, but hunger or famine represented the state of starvation.

Although this word has now an established place in our vocabulary, it was at first vigorously opposed by many, and on just grounds, as of hybrid formation. The root "starve" is old English, while the ending, "ation," is Latin. It does not appear in any English dictionaries until the year 1809.

Deep Sea Fish.

Great forests of seaweeds cover the bottom of the ocean and reach from the greatest depths to the surface. In these forests there is life more diversified than in the primeval forests of the tropics. Spiders and wormlike animals of enormous size, infusoriæ, crabs, sea urchins, shells, crustaceans, starfish, turtles and millions of other living things of all kinds find their food in the equally varied plant life of the deep sea.

A curious circumstance connected with deep sea fish is that none of these has ever been brought up alive. Recent deep sea explorations reveal the fact that the ocean still contains immeasurable treasures which await development and utilization by human inventiveness. The most fertile acre of cultivated land is a sterile desert compared with one acre of the surface of the deep sea bottom.

Jockey Swalwell Killed.

New York, July 25.—Ernest Swalwell, a Canadian steeplechase jockey, who came from Toronto a week ago to ride Robert Davies' steeplechaser Opuntia, was thrown in the Brighton steeplechase Saturday, and died from his injuries while being carried in an ambulance to the Emergency Hospital, Coney Island. Swalwell is the second steeplechase rider who has met death in a race in the course of the present meeting at the seaside track.

AWAY WITH THE TAILOR.

Grow Our Own Clothes—Fashions as They Were With the Cave Dweller—Permanence and Simplicity.

There was a time when our arboreal ancestors dressed in permanent furs, says a writer in The Morning Leader, and even to-day domestic animals cannot reconcile themselves to seeing us change, as they think, our fur.

Try the experiment of undressing and putting on a new suit of clothes in the presence of your cat or dog. He will watch you with wonder, not unalloyed with fear. And the chances are that your dog, being inferior in intellect to your cat, will fail to know you when you have reduced yourself to your lowest terms, and will fly at your trouserless legs.

The cat, on the contrary, will watch you with pitying disdain, and merely decline to have anything to do with you until you resume your fur.

We have, after ages of effort, succeeded in discarding our original fur, and, as a consequence have had to put on clothing. Why should we not go back to the fashions of our ancestors?

Doubtless we could once more grow plenty of fur, if we tried to do so. Some distinguished editor would at once invent a fur restorer warranted to produce a thick growth of fur on the smoothest skin. If we were once more as furry as the "missing link" undoubtedly was, we should find it very comfortable.

Of course we should moult a little in summer, and wear a somewhat thinner coat of fur, but we should even then find ourselves cooler than we are with artificial clothing.

In winter our fur would keep us warm on the coldest day, and, as it would be to a great extent waterproof, we should no longer need umbrellas and mackintoshes.

Think of the comfort we should find in doing away with the labor and monotony of dressing! Think of the money that we would save by no longer contributing to the opulence of tailors! Never again would we suffer from the lost stud or the missing button. Never again would skirts be trodden on and torn in the dance. Our fur would never wear out, and never be soiled by mud, or coal dust, or misapplied soap.

We should save years of time that are now spent in dressing and undressing, and we should never suffer from envy of our neighbor's fur, since it would be exactly the same quality as our own.

Permanent fur would not, however, of necessity put an end to competition among women in the matter of out-dressing one another. Fur could be dyed on one's person, as well as in a shop. Ladies could wear fur of all possible colors and combinations of color.

The stout woman would probably wear black fur, with white perpendicular stripes, and thus prevent the fact of her undue stoutness from being too prominent. The slim girl, prettily dressed in blue fur, with white spots, would far surpass the leopard in appearance.

If a woman can make herself attractive at the present time by dyeing the hair of her head yellow, how much more beautiful would she be were her fur to be dyed yellow from head to foot!

The dyes need not be permanent, for if they were every person would have to stick to the same color and pattern of fur; but there could be a general agreement that every person of fashion should dye afresh his or her fur at Easter and on other "new bonnet" days.

The dyes would not be expensive. At any rate they would be far less so than are clothes, and any woman of ingenuity and fancy could give herself a fresh and apparently new suit of fur every few days.

Very possibly nature would in time adopt the fashion of colored fur, and would herself provide us with colored furs of varied patterns. There is no reason why she should not do this, for she has certainly been lavish with her colors and designs when dressing the other animals, and she never fears to adopt a fashion merely because she has not herself invented it.

We should probably have in time many different species of men and women distinguished from one another by their fur, even as nowadays we distinguish different ranks of society by difference in clothes.

Constipation, Pains in the Back

Caused Keen Distress at Times —Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Made Thorough Cure.

Mr. Jas. H. Harvey, baker, 641 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I was troubled very much with constipation and pains in the back. At times the pains were sharp like a stab in the back with a knife and caused me great suffering.

"I heard of many being cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and decided to try them. I am pleased to say that they soon helped me, and I used them right along until cured. I never have pains in my back now and only occasionally take a pill in order to keep my bowels regular."

CANADIANS IN ENGLAND

OUR BOWLERS MADE THOROUGHLY WELCOME BY THEIR CONFRERES.

No Halfway Heartedness About John Bull—Lord Strathcona and Alfred Jury Aged the Dominion Team and Friends to Many Good Things—Of the Games Played—A Good Time Given Everywhere.

The London correspondent of The Toronto Telegram, with the Canadian bowlers in England, writes under date of the 15th June:

The first few days in London were enjoyed by the Canadian bowling team in a variety of ways. It was an off week for them, but friends were not wanting to minister to their tastes. Mr. Jury, of the Canadian Emigration offices, whose services have been placed at the disposal of the visitors, has left nothing undone to furnish entertainment and information. He is a prime favorite with all. The result of his efforts has been manifested in a number of pleasing channels and invitations to receptions, excursions and public institutions pour in daily. Theatres have been thrown open to us, and in the music halls and other centres of popular entertainment, nothing is too good for the wearer of the maple leaf.

Lord Strathcona, patron of the team, was one of the first to receive the bowlers, and made the little band feel quite at home. At a reception in his Grosvenor square mansion they were honored guests, and were introduced to the many noble and distinguished guests present. In bowling circles the preparations for the visitors have been conducted on the most lavish style, a noticeable feature being the keen interest taken by the ladies in every function arranged by the clubs all about London.

Singles at Sydenham.

During the off days mentioned, the international singles at the Crystal Palace, a three-day competition, naturally attracted many of the Canadians. Seven of the latter were among the hundred and odd entries and they gave a good account of themselves, when it is considered that their opponents were the skilled pick of the three kingdoms. Mr. Carmichael, Sir Thomas Lipton's secretary, is regarded as the king bee of his club, the London Counties, but he went down under the careful play of Aleck Yule of Harriston. Similarly a Midlands and Northern star respectively succumbed to the steady draws of G. B. Woods of Toronto. It happened unfortunately that in a couple of instances Canadians were drawn against each other thus lessening their chances, and in one case, Mr. Hunter, président of the Irish Bowling Association, and a devoted friend of the Canadians, was fated to contest in the third round with Mr. Woods and defeated him. He in turn fell before the ultimate winner of the championship.

Where Honors Were Even.

Heathfield was the first real match of the original schedule of the Canadians with the Englishmen. It is a pretty place near Wandsworth, about seven miles out of London. Two rinks only were played and honors were divided. Dr. Wood, of Mitchell, and "Teddy" Wigmore, of Toronto, being the Canadian skips, here called "drivers," the latter being the winning team. Scores of ladies flitted in and out of the neatly decorated pavilions and tents, and pressed tea and other comforts upon the non-playing visitors, and after the match a huge marquee accommodated the hundreds of guests, who enjoyed an excellent repast. Welcoming speeches were made by the Mayor of Wandsworth, the members for Clapham and Wandsworth, members of the London County Council and others, and responded to by Captain Anderson, Messrs. Wigmore, Davies and Stevens. Great enthusiasm was created by Ruthven McDonald's songs, and it is safe to say that the "Maple Leaf" and other Canadian airs will be whistled on Wandsworth Common for many a day.

Rain and Defeat.

Heavy rain greeted the team's visit to Muswell Hill on the following day. Everybody deplored its arrival for the local club's preparations were elaborate. The Canadians appeared for the first time, in white, and as five rinks a side were playing, the effect with the gaily flagged surroundings, the parterres of flowers, and the scores of summer dressed ladies and top-hatted gentlemen who crowded the tented walks above the banks on the four sides of the beautiful green, was as pretty a picture as one would wish to witness. Jupiter Pluvius, however, was inexorable. The crowds thinned out, as did the pleasurable enthusiasm. The play, which was becoming interesting, fell off, and it was stopped after a number of ends were concluded, with the home team away up two to one. A jolly smoker was, however, heartily enjoyed ere the visitors took the 9.30 train for the city.

Dry and Victory.

To-day the Canadians encountered four rinks of the Bound's Green Club at Bowes Park, the long time rivals of the Muswell Hill bowlers, their respective greens being but a brief mile or two apart. Here, as elsewhere, the excitement was keen and onlookers, including the ladies, were numerous. The inter-club annual competitions in this district for the local trophy have in the past excited much interest, and between Muswell Hill and Bound's Green the cup has stayed for several periods. The defeat of the Canadians on the previous day raised the hopes and confidence of the latter, but the weather, which was lowering, did not contribute rain nor lessen the determination of the Canucks. The contest was close, and in some cases exciting, and in not a few instances elicited generous applause from the spectators. The green was, as indeed they all are here, in perfect condition, and a little heavy but unspoiled by the wet, was just suited to the Canadian taste. At the close of the twenty-one ends, it was announced that the visitors were victors by five points, and ringing cheers from spectators and opponents alike greeted the declaration.

Our Canadian Songs.

The hospitable Englishmen and their ladies were again in evidence indoors and a pleasant hour was spent at the supper table, Ruthven, the brave, again making the welkin ring with the "Maple Leaf" and other songs.

How those national airs of ours do catch on. It requires but a repetition of the refrain and all are in it. Then questions about Canada come in volleys, and to escape them we manage somehow to put Stevens, of Chatham, on an elevation, and in his happy and forcible way he unfolds to his eager listening audience a story of the greatness and wonderful resources and possibilities of Canada; especially does he disabuse the minds of many of their hazy notions of the meaning of America and leaves them convinced that there is a mighty distinction between the home of the Yankee and the great Dominion over which waves the flag they all revere and love, the brightest star in the Empire.

As time proceeds we are being appreciated for what we are, not for what we were heralded, viz., picked players sent out to vanquish and gain supremacy. They know us now as gentlemen who play for the love of the game only, and who are here to fraternize with our fellow-bowlers and establish cordial relations with them as such, and incidentally to lighten their darkness about our loved Dominion, of which indeed but few possess a more than superficial knowledge.

Something to Learn.

Of the team it may be truly said that to most they are learning also. The marvellous greatness and wealth of London, and the beauty and richness of England generally, are a revelation. The acquirement of this knowledge on the spot may not add to the strength of the loyalty which possesses them, but that it intensifies it goes without saying, and if such were possible, will bring them home better Canadians than ever. Each and all are benefitting by the trip, a few being away to scenes of their childhood, or of which they have heard since that innocent age, and others contemplating such a visit, when they can go conveniently without hurting the strength of the combination.

For Canadian Colored Children.

On Nov. 24th, 1854, in the city of Philadelphia, Pa., the will of one Esther Moore was probated. By this will the interest on $1,200 was left "for educational purposes for children of color and of both sexes in Canada, apart from all sectarian or traditional dogmas." In a codicil the testatrix provided as follows: "I wish my executors or trustees to carry out my views in regard to the education of colored children in Canada by paying over the interest arising annually from the $1,200 mentioned in the second item to such school or schools as in their judgment they may deem best, my desire being the benefit of such children of fugitive slaves residing in Canada West and other colored children who may be in the same neighborhood with them."

For a time the interest was paid regularly to the Wilberforce Educational Institute, Chatham, but this payment ceased many years ago and no claim has since been made on the fund which has thus been accumulating. The trustees and executors of the testatrix have all died, and the Provident Life & Trust Co. of Philadelphia have been appointed by the courts to administer the estate. All these facts are set forth in a letter from Townsend, Elliott & Townsend, attorneys-at-law of Philadelphia, who, acting for the Trust Company, have written to the Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Minister of Education, for information as to the school or schools which might be entitled to all or a portion of the yearly revenue from the fund.

Mr. Harcourt is making inquiries into the whole matter.

Relic of Old London.

There may be two opinions as to which is the "Fayrest Inne of Cancerie," but Mr. T. C. Worsfold, who is an authority on the history of Staple Inn, claims this honor for it. In his interesting lecture recently in the Hall of the Inn, situate in a quiet old-world place, yet but a few paces from bustling Holborn, he spoke of it as the quaintest, quietest spot in busy London, and quoted Dickens, who said it was "like putting cotton-wool into your ears and velvet slippers on your feet." As to its history, Mr. Worsfold told of merchants who in 1169 were trading in staples in "Steelyard," and who, regarding wool as the chief staple, chose the woolpack for the armorial bearings. In 1378 it became an Inn in Chancery, of which there were ten. It was such an inn in the reign of Henry V., and in 1756 there was a fire there, now commemorated by an inscription. One of the ancient sumptuary laws enforced on the Inn by Henry VIII. and Queen Mary was the regulation of the beards of students, one of whom in 1601 was fined for its infringement. The inn was once close to a country road, from which branched a path to Shoe lane. The Fayrest Inn of Cancerie, said the lecturer, with its grand old roof and gables and beautiful old building, could not fail to draw appreciation. It was almost the last relic of London's good old time, when work went slowly and was done very thoroughly.

Little Faults in Social Life.

A fault in the young is to form some feverish admiration for one or two particular friends, often of a so called superior social standing. These are referred to constantly. They are held up as patterns, oracles and patrons. In private circles and public places their names are loudly mentioned in the hope and desire of impressing bystanders. At bazaars, in the lobbies of theaters, at railway stations, in railway carriages and, indeed, wherever the company may be described as mixed this distressing form of what is known as brag is very much in evidence. The shouting of nicknames and Christian names at moments when in ordinary intercourse one would not be addressing anybody is also done in order to advertise some small degrees of intimacy with the well known.—Success.

Forrest's Great Power.

An effeminate young man, an intense admirer of Forrest, enlisted among the supers so as to be nearer his idol. At the end of Forrest's most effective speech, then on, the new actor was so overcome that he fainted. The incident so pleased the "old man" that he called him to his dressing room, where, after a few remarks, he presented him with a dollar as a memento of the occasion. On rejoining his fellow supers, five in number, the happy recipient spoke of his good fortune, dilating upon the cause thereof. At the next performance Forrest kept his eye on him to see if he could again so overcome him as to cause him to faint. When he reached the scene and climax his astonishment can be imagined when six of the supers fell over in a dead faint.

Pain Is a Relative Term.

"Pain" even in the human subject is purely a relative term. It expresses a very real sensation, but it does not express its degree. And so far as mankind is concerned the sense of pain, in the intensity in which it can be felt, depends very largely indeed upon two great factors. The first of these is civilization, and the second factor is that of education.—London Magazine.

Verdicts by Carlyle.

In one of his recently published letters Carlyle says of Macaulay the historian: "We have had Macaulay for two days; he was a real acquisition while he lasted, and gave rise to much good talk, besides an immense quantity of indifferent, which he himself executed. A man of truly wonderful historical memory, which he has tried in really extensive reading, and has always lying ready, with this or the other fact, date, or anecdote on demand; in other respects constantly definable as the sublime of commonplace, not one of whose ideas has the least tincture of greatness or originality, or any kind of superior merit except neatness of expression."

Carlyle gives this striking picture of Samuel Rogers, the poet: "I saw Rogers a while ago at dinner with Taylor, a half-frozen, old, sardonic whig gentleman; no hair at all, but one of the whitest bare scalps, blue eyes, shrewd, sad and cruel; toothless horseshoe mouth drawn up to the very nose; slow-croaking, sarcastic insight, perfect breeding—state-rooms where you are welcomed even with flummery; internally, a Bluebeard's chamber, where none but the proprietor enters!"

Of Thackeray Carlyle wrote: "Thackeray and his two girls were with us. I had never seen him so well before. There is a great deal of talent in him, a great deal of sensibility, irritability, sensuality, vanity without limit—and nothing, or little, but sentimentalism and playactorism to guide it all with."

The Bride's Going-Away Dress.

The suburbanites who go out on the Toronto-Hamilton train every afternoon find the dreary interior of the Union Station enlivened by wedding parties almost every evening during this marrying season, says The Toronto Star. They become quite expert in detecting even those bridal couples who carry about them the fewest signs of their newly acquired happiness. Last night a couple of home-goers, tired and begrimed by their day's work, found themselves sitting opposite a couple of people who, to their practised eyes, looked like the principal actors in a recent wedding. When the train passed through South Parkdale a crowd stood on the platform waving their handkerchiefs, and the conscious look of the pair confirmed this suspicion. The suburbanites' curiosity being aroused as to who they might be, they bethought them of The Star, which they were reading at the moment. Hastily reading the wedding reports, they took a good deal of amusement out of the discovery that from the published description of the going-away gown of one of the brides they could spot the young woman, who, sitting opposite to them, was doing her best to look unconscious of her happiness. "The bride's going-away dress," the paper said, "was a black and white check, with medallions of reseda green."

Wet Shoes.

The usual—and the wrong way—of treating wet boots is to take them off and put them on the fender or the radiator to dry. This method spoils the boots. Too much heat cracks and hardens leather.

Another wrong way is to stand them on their soles anywhere to dry.

The proper way is to place the boots, soles upward, near enough to the fire to dry slowly and properly, but not to steam during the drying.

The soles should always be turned upward, even when the boots are only a little wet, for this way enables the air to reach the wettest part of the leather first.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

It Stands Alone.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. Chas. Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me. I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, despondent, gloomy, had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, burning sensations. To make matters worse, I became reckless and contracted a blood disease. I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Drs. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and Honest Specialists in the country."

READER—We guarantee to cure you or no pay. You run no risk. We have a reputation and business at stake. Beware of frauds and impostors. We will pay $1,000 for any case we take that our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will not cure.

We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Varicocele, Stricture, Weak Parts, Kidney and Bladder Diseases. Consultation free. Books free. Call or write for Question List for Home Treatment.

A LEAGUE GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Oshawa Will be Here to Play a Game in the Midland League.

On Saturday the next Midland League Baseball game will be played here, the fast Oshawa team being the visitors. A large excursion will be here from that town, and the ball team will accompany them. Manager Whitcroft has arranged to have the game, which was scheduled for August 20th, played on Saturday. The Oshawa team has been playing great ball lately. Last Saturday they defeated Port Hope 10—2, and a few weeks prior to that they defeated the Bowmanville bunch on the latter's grounds 8—7. They will be here Saturday with a strong team, and will give the locals a good stiff argument. The game should be one of the best of the season, Manager Whitcroft will have a good twirler in the box, and there may be some other changes in the team, which will strengthen it.

A win from Oshawa will place the team in line for the pennant, that the Lindsay team imagines is their's.

BASEBALL.

The Lindsay Post sporting editor is becoming grey headed these days in his efforts to make it known that Lindsay is at the head of the League. He is glad to forget the fact that Peterborough beat Lindsay here, outs two wins from Cobourg by counting Port Hope out and gives Peterborough a win by default over Cobourg. Very generous. Then he says—"we don't gloat over the standing." Well, should guess not. The following is a clipping from the Post:

"Lindsay leads in the Midland League any way you figure on it. Port Hope dropped out cuts two wins from Cobourg, and it must be the same with the remaining teams. Cobourg is allowed the two wins from Port Hope, the Executive must allow the others the same. Below is the revised standing:—

	Won.	Lost	per cent.
Lindsay	3	1	750
Cobourg	2	1	666
Bowmanville	2	2	500
Peterborough	2	2	500
Oshawa	1	3	250

We don't gloat over the standing, preferring to have had Port Hope stay in and have Peterborough refuse to accept Cobourg's forfeit, as it is not clever business or good sport to advance on others' misfortunes."

But just imagine, if possible, how the Post would have raved and said sweet things had Cobourg twice failed to show up at the eleventh hour for a game in Lindsay as they did with Peterborough.

• • • •

The game to-night between the Auburns and the Examiner will start sharp at 6.45.

• • • •

Toronto in the sixth place again! The Canucks shut out Providence yesterday. They are due to win a couple more in a row, and then drop about seven straight.

• • • •

Manager Ed. Barrow may possibly manage the Torontos.

• • • •

The game to-night at the Oval between the Auburn and Examiner nines, will be played with the following players representing the Examiner team: Glover, 3b; Richea, 2b; Hutchinson, c; Paxman, 1b; Gillman, ss; Long, cf; Jolliffe, p; Shearrard, rf; Graham, lf.

LAWN TENNIS.

Two young men, residents of the East Ward, and aspirants for championship honours, arose early this morning and at 7 o'clock commenced a game of tennis at the Y.M.C.A. courts. The score was 8—6 against the other fellow.

LACROSSE.

Next Monday, Toronto's civic holiday, the I.C.B.U. of that city will run an excursion to Peterborough, and the I.C.B.U. lacrosse team, the top-notchers in the senior city league, will accompany the excursion and play a game with the T.A.S. team on the Murray street grounds. This should be one of the best games of the season. The I.C.B.U. lacrosse team has been playing first class lacrosse all season and will give the local team a good argument.

• • • •

The T.A.S. team goes to Millbrook on Saturday.

• • • •

The red and black had a good practice at the T.A.S. grounds last night. The boys are working hard in preparation for the final game.

• • • •

Port Hope has been ordered to play their game with the T.A.S. next Saturday. This should be a great game. Both teams are bound to win and the team that succeeds will pretty nearly land the championship of the League.

TURF.

Many of the horses entered in next week's races are training at the track and some fast time is being made. The track is in fine shape at present.

GOLF.

Port Hope will be here with nine men to play a game with the local nine. The nine representing Peterborough will be Messrs. Laurence, Burnham, Ray, Burnett, Neil, Eastwood, Stratton, Hamilton and Ritchie.

CRICKET

The Grace Church Cricket Club of Toronto, have written to the Colts, asking for a game here on Monday, Toronto's Civic Holiday.

HOCKEY.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—A correspondent who signs himself "A Lover of the Game," writes pointing out that it is nearly time to think of next winter's hockey team. Goodness! And nearly 90 this afternoon. However our correspondent points out that in about four months the game will be in full swing, and that in Belleville we could get together a team that ought to land the intermediate championship. Our correspondent then proceeds to urge the formation of an Eastern Ontario Hockey Association, pointing out that Belleville has been robbed twice already and should take no more chances. The E. O. H. A. he thinks, starting at Port Hope, and terminating at Smith's Falls, would furnish good sport and a fair show to everybody.

It does certainly appear that after Belleville's "fierce" experience of the past two years she should be chary of again joining the O.H.A. What do our sporting men think of the suggestion made by "A Lover of the Game?"

VICTORIA COUNTY CHEESE BOARD.

2138 Boxes Sold in a Few Minutes Yesterday Morning.

7⅞ Cents the Ruling Price—A Sixteenth Better was Paid for Two Factories.

(Lindsay Post.)

The Cheese Board transacted their business with neatness and despatch Monday morning. They assembled in the market room at 9.30, and ten minutes later 2,138 boxes of prime Victoria County cheese had changed hands.

The buyers present were Messrs. Whitton Fitzgerald, Flavelle, Gillespie. The following factories boarded the number of cheese placed opposite:

Star	140
Cameron	136
Dunsford	171
Cambray	85
Omemee	170
North Verulam	150
North Ops	86
Pine Grove	55
Reaboro	144
Bobcaygeon	220
Maple Leaf	175
Palestine	140
Red Rock	245
Total	2,138

Mr. Flavelle opened with a bid of 7c. Mr. Fitzgerald made it 7 1-16, Mr. Gillespie 7 1-8, Mr. Flavelle 7 1-4, Mr. Fitzgerald 7 3-8, Mr. Whitton 7 7-16, Mr. Fitzgerald 7 1-2, and Mr. Whitton jumped to 7 9-16. This was not bettered and he called Red Rock and Omemee, both accepting. He then offered 7 7-16 for further selections, but Mr. Flavelle went one better and made the call 7 1-2, at which price he cleared the board.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 8th.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why now buy it now? It may save life. For sale by all druggists.

Short $900 in Accounts.

Stratford, July 26.—A few days ago H. Milton Moir, agent of the C.P.R. and Dominion Express Company at St. Mary's, was arrested on a charge of embezzlement laid by the latter company. He had been found to be $900 short in his accounts. The preliminary hearing took place on Friday before two St. Mary's justices of the peace. The prisoner was sent up for trial. He is now out on bail.

Still After Cordasco.

Montreal, July 26.—Judge Winchester took more evidence yesterday in the Italian cases. A letter was read addressed to Superintendent Burns of the C.P.R., showing that Mr. Cordasco had begged leave to exact fees from the men, giving as a reason that he did not receive a regular salary from the company. Other witnesses were examined, and testified that Cordasco had stated that he was ready to give work to any number of Italians at $1.50 a day.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Incd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

New York, July 26.—Town Topics.—No doubt the Russian aggression and labour troubles and gold export talk will be utilized to-day by the bear element as ammunition and we would not be surprised in view of the action of the stock market yesterday to see a dragging session to-day. After the U.S.S. meeting to-day we would not be surprised to see U.S.S. pfd let off and after the S.P. operation of ex rights we believe that stock will not get all the support it now received. There are signs that St. Paul will sag lower and it would be sold on strong spots. Specialties may be made strong and in observing bullish activity in some quiet stock we think it wise to take a scalp on the long side. As a whole, however, we are against purchases at present, when the market appears so strong buy on recessions.

New York.—Cheap money and excellent crop prospects continue the dominating factors. Buy Tractions, Pacifics and Steels on a scale of half a point or so. Specialties hold St. L. and San. 2nd pfd. Gold exports will mean little.

JOSEPH.

New York, July 26.—Advance in exchange may mean gold exports. Additional steel plants starting up. Reg. div. on U.S.Q. expected to-day. No meeting of Erie directors yet called to act on 1st pfd dividend. Strike ordered in rapid transit subway. 7 roads for 3rd week July show average gross inc. 27. 20 rr decline. 46 13 industrials 16.

SUMMARY.

Bradstreet Visible wheat dec. 2,870,000.

New York, July 27th.—Opening prices on stocks were fractionally lower than yesterday's closing figures. Irregularity was prominent throughout the list during the first hour's trading, and market was dull and listless. Along about one o'clock the entry list became weak and prices were off 1 per cent. London sends closing prices at about the opening figures which would denote for the time being at least that little apprehension exists over the Russian complications. U.S.S. pfd. has ruled weak, being off 21-3 p.c. from yesterday's high price. The directors of the company meet to-day, when the regular dividend is expected to be declared. T.C.I. and C.F.F. were weak selling 2 points lower. Market appears to be rather feverish and may sell some lower but on any further decline we may expect a healthy reaction, especially in the standard stocks like St. P., Mop., Atch. and S. P.

R. & CO.

Liverpool, opening, wheat and corn quiet unchanged.

1.30.—Wheat unchanged to 1-4 lower corn unchanged.

Buy Tractions, Pacifics and Steels on a scale of a half point or so.

Chicago.—Liverpool house cables wheat fluctuating and uncertain with rather less demand.

Strike getting worse.

Technically the market is in fairly good position.

There is a marked increase in the short interest.

Chicago.—Cudahy picking up Sep. wheat firming the market.

Government report on cotton bearish.

FLASH.

Wheat 1-4 to 3-8 lower; corn 1-4 to 3-8 higher.—Liverpool close.

SUDBURY HOTEL INQUIRY.

Dr. Henderson and A. W. Cockburn Heard in Their Defence.

North Bay, July 26.—The bribery charges brought out by John Bidgood of the National Hotel, Sudbury, against Dr. James Henderson of Warren and A. W. Cockburn of Sturgeon Falls, were given a hearing before Commissioner Gordon in the court house here yesterday.

"The second time I ever saw Bidgood," said Dr. Henderson, "he took me through his house and ended up by handing me an envelope. I returned it to him immediately, and he gave it back, and I kept it. I found out later it contained $125, Bidgood did not ever say anything about the money, and neither did I. After Detective Rogers interviewed Bidgood he came east to see Cockburn and myself. Bidgood wired us to keep silent."

"Ten minutes after I was introduced to Jack the Ripper," said Cockburn, "we were standing in a passage between the postoffice of Sturgeon Falls and the next building. He placed an envelope in my hands and said it contained $75. I never took the money out, and returned it some time afterwards."

John Bidgood, in contradicting the evidence given in Sudbury last week, stated he had given $125 to Henderson and $75 to Cockburn. The envelope which contained the money received from Cockburn was not the same as that in which he had given the bills to Cockburn.

The Commissioner reserved judgment.

RUSSIANS NOW IN A BAD POSITION

After Defeat at Tatchekiao They Retire To Haicheng.

JAPS OCCUPY NEWCHWANG.

Japanese Will Cut the Railway Above Liaoyang—Mikado's Soldiers in Great Force Attacked the Positions Around Tatchekiao—Seven Divisions Said to Have Been Engaged—The Russ Squadron.

St. Petersburg, July 27.—Despatches just received by the War Office announce that the Russians have retreated to Haicheng.

They decided to withdraw from Tatchekiao Sunday evening. Gen. Stakelberg senior resolved to take this step, as the Japanese were turning the flank.

The Japanese forces are believed to include the whole of the armies of Generals Oku and Nodzu. More than seven divisions of Japanese are engaged. The rear guard action between Datchapu and Tatchekiao continued until 11 at night, when the Japanese were within sight of the Russian entrenchments. The Russians withdrew in perfect order, favored by moonlight.

Gen. Kuropatkin reports that the Japanese column in the vicinity of Saimatzsa, which is believed to be two divisions strong, is marching along the Valley of the Tatitse with the obvious aim of cutting the railroad above Liaoyang.

The evacuation of Tatchekiao was prepared for long ago by the Russians. The retirement is not regarded as materially altering the situation. The Russians had strongly fortified Haicheng in view of this contingency.

Japs Occupy Newchwang.

Tientsin, July 27.—The Japanese occupied Newchwang at 5 o'clock Thursday evening.

Lloyd's agent at Newchwang wires that fifty Japanese cavalrymen have entered Newchwang. The French flag is flying from all the Russian buildings. The town is quiet.

It is reported here that heavy fighting has occurred between Liaoyang and Mukden.

Japs Repulsed.

The Japanese attack on the centre of the Russian position was repulsed, but the Russians were ordered to retire Monday and occupy the heights five miles north of Tatchekiao. This movement was carried out in good order.

Lost Several Hundred.

St. Petersburg, July 27.—Gen. Kuropatkin's telegram recording the withdrawal of the southern army from Tatchekiao to Haicheng, fails to give details of the continuous rear-guard action preceding the retreat, but the war office thinks the losses were several hundred, which would indicate severe fighting.

It is stated that the Vladivostock squadron is now eastward of the Island of Formosa.

At Point of Bayonet.

Tientsin, July 27.—It is reported here that the Japanese lost 880 in killed and wounded in the fighting, which has taken place outside of Newchweng during the last two days. It is reported that the Japanese took the Russian position at Tatchekiao Monday night at the point of the bayonet.

Left For the Field.

Tokio, July 27.—The military attaches assigned to the third Japanese army left yesterday for the field. They will board a transport at Moji on Friday. The British attaches are Col. Apsley-Smith, Major Crawford and Captains Yates and Bannerman. The American attache is First Lieutenant Granville R. Fortescue.

Village Wiped Out.

London, July 27.—The Daily Mail publishes a despatch from Taurus, Asia Minor, saying that on July 13 the well-known chief, Cheikh Salan, attacked and destroyed the village of Ootchkillissa. Twenty-five persons were killed, including a priest and servants attached to a convent. Women were violated and taken into slavery. The despatch says that massacres are expected in the Sandjak of Beyazid and immediate help is urgently called for.

Abandoned Children to Wolves.

Edmonton, N.W.T., July 27.—Sergeant McLeod, Fort Chippewan, arrived in town on Saturday in charge of an Indian prisoner, charged with abandoning his two children, a boy four year old, and a girl under two at Fond du Lack on Lake Athabasca. When the children were missed by neighbors a search was made, and they were found to have been devoured by wolves, only their clothing remaining. Sentence of two years' imprisonment was passed by the judge.

Crushed to Death.

Port Arthur, July 27.—A fatal accident took place here yesterday when McNulty, the well-known engineer of West Superior, was instantly killed. Yesterday afternoon he was engaged in braking a moving car at West Fort William. The brakes slipped and the deceased fell down in front of the car. Two trucks of the car passed over him almost cutting him in two. He leaves a family in Duluth.

Steamer Struck Rock.

Rockland, Maine, July. 27.—The Eastern Steamship Co.'s steamer, City of Rockland, struck on Gangway Ledge in Penobscot Bay yesterday and was badly damaged. Her 300 passengers were taken off by a tug.

BRITAIN MAKES HER DEMANDS.

Government Taking Energetic Action re Knight Commander.

NO EXCUSE FOR THE OUTRAGE

Action of Russian Cruisers in Seizing British Ships Is Producing a Crisis—More Steamers Seized—The Commanders Have Not Yet Received Orders—Cabinet Discussed the Subject in Detail.

London, July 27.—The British Government is taking energetic action in the case of the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Vladivostock squadron. All information received by the Government tends to establish in the official mind that an outrage has been committed for which no excuse exists in international law. Those aware of the feelings of the ministry said last night that all the members of the Cabinet are in accord regarding the principle of the inviolability of innocent neutral shipping, as well as upon the principle that a neutral ship cannot be destroyed even if carrying contraband of war.

Will Include Compensation.

The demands which will be made upon the Russian Government will include compensation to the owners of the ship and to the owners of the goods on board the Knight Commander, an apology for the action of the Russian cruisers and an agreement that instructions be given which will prevent a repetition of such action. British ship-owners are up in arms over the dangers which shipping is now running, and are bombarding the Government with representations looking to the thorough protection of their interests.

A majority of the morning papers, however, print editorials in an angry strain on the further reported seizures by the Russians and the delay in the release of the Malacca.

The Daily Mail's Suez correspondent says that the steamer Formosa will be released this morning.

It is rumored that Japanese warships have arrived in the Red Sea.

The Subject in the House.

London, July 27.—Premier Balfour, replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday in regard to the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Russians off the coast of Japan, said enquiries were being made on the subject, but he was not yet in a position to make a statement. Replying to another question, the Premier said the Government was not aware of any convention concluded in 1901 between Turkey and Russia providing special conditions for the passage of the Dardanelles by Russian ships.

Mr. Balfour, while disclaiming that he was giving an authoritative decision, said that he believed the declaration of Paris in 1856, contemplated the abolition of privateering, and that a neutral flag covers an enemy's merchandise, except when contraband of war. Dealing with the question of whether the Russian volunteer vessels being private ships commissioned by the State were different materially from privateers, the Premier said that the whole question of the status of the volunteer ships was now under discussion between Great Britain and Russia, and that it would not be desirable to discuss that point in the House of Commons at present.

Meeting of Cabinet.

London, July 27.—The sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Russian cruisers off Japan was discussed at a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday, held at the Foreign Office. Before the meeting Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador, was closeted with Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, and discussed in detail the operations of the Russian cruisers in connection with neutral shipping, but as the Russian Embassy had not been officially informed by the Russian Government of the destruction of the Knight Commander, the Ambassador was unable to make any statement to the Foreign Secretary. The Knight Commander incident is attracting close official and public interest.

Notice Not Delivered.

London, July 27.—The Foreign Office had not heard of the seizure of the steamer Formosa yesterday afternoon, and while expressing regret, it says the only possible explanation consists in the fact that the Russian Government's orders to cease interfering with neutral vessels, have not yet reached the commanders of the volunteer fleet steamers, as the Russian Government has given the most explicit pledge that there shall be no more Red Sea seizures. The Formosa left Suez July 23, bound for Yokohama.

Stiff Notice Sent.

London, July 27.—While the negotiations between Great Britain and Russia, respecting the Red Sea seizures, have been carried on in the most conciliatory manner the Associated Press learns that in the representations to the St. Petersburg Government, Foreign Secretary Lansdowne declared that Great Britain could not, in view of her treaty alliance with Japan, allow any interpretation to be placed on treaties relating to the Dardanelles, which would permit of the free passage of vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean, with the view of their subsequent employment for war purposes.

Caught in Red Sea.

Suez, July 27.—The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company's steamer Formosa has just arrived here flying the Russian naval flag, and with a prize crew on board. She was captured in the Red Sea by one of the vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet.

Another Ship Seized.

Liverpool, July 27.—The owners of the British steamer Catchas, bound from Puget Sound to Japan, have received a telegram from Hong Kong, reporting that the Catchas has been seized by the Vladivostock squadron. The steamer Catchas, belonging to the Alfred Hott fleet of Liverpool, sailed from Tacoma, Wash., July 9, and was due to arrive at Yokohama Wednesday or Thursday. She carried a considerable quantity of flour, consigned to Japanese firm, and also had on board much other general freight.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Mrs. Emma Mitchell, 520 Louisiana street, Indianapolis, Ind., writes:

"For the past five years I have rarely been without pain, but Peruna has changed all this, and in a very short time. I think I had taken only two bottles before I began to recuperate very quickly, and seven bottles made me well. I do not have headache or backache any more, and have some interest in life."—Emma Mitchell.

The coming of what is known as the "new woman" in our country is not greeted by everyone as if she were a great blessing. But there is another new woman whom everybody is glad to see. Every day some invalid woman is exclaiming, "I have been made a new woman by Dr. Hartman's home treatment." It is only necessary to send name, address, symptoms, duration of sickness and treatment already received to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and directions for one month's treatment will be promptly forwarded.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Health Day," is the name of a new legal holiday created by a bill introduced into the Utah Legislature. By its provisions, the first Monday in October is created a legal holiday throughout the State. On this day it is made compulsory upon every person in the State to clean and disinfect thoroughly dwelling houses, stores, theatres, public halls of all kinds, and, in fact, every building frequented by people. City councils, town boards, and country commissioners, are instructed to enforce the law, and there is a penalty of fifty dollars for failure on the part of any person to clean up and disinfect as provided."

Canada is getting a great reputation in England this year. Lou Scholes won the Diamond Sculls at Henley, and now Perry, a Vancouver rifleman, has captured the coveted King's prize at Bisley, a token to mark his standing as the best shot in the Empire. It is not so long ago since Pte. Hayhurst, of Hamilton, won this prize, and we all can remember the reception he received. Perry will be Vancouver's hero when he returns. As Canadians, who delight in our country being foremost in everything, we should be proud of Scholes and Perry. On account of these two famous victories, Canada will be talked about in every nook and corner of the world and our citizens will gain renown as "The Empire's Best."

CARING FOR THE AFFLICTED.

Brantford Expositor.

Ontario is pretty proud of the generous provision she has made for the care of the afflicted, and of the institutions which she maintains in connection therewith. As for the expenditure in connection therewith they are largely borne by the Government. The annual appropriations for this purpose made by the Provincial Assembly being substantially as follows:

General hospitals...	$110,000
Deaf and Dumb Institution ...	42,962
Blind Institution...	35,291
Houses of Refuge...	60,888
Orphan asylums...	14,689
Asylums for Insane...	715,919
	$979,749

The expenditure of the Quebec Government for similar purposes are but $387,224, divided as follows:

Deaf, dumb and blind institutions...	$ 17,390
Industrial schools...	20,178
Reformatory schools...	35,793
Asylums for the insan	313,863

The contributions of the Nova Scotia Government under the same heading are $86,764; of New Brunswick, $52,952; of Manitoba, $781,309; of British Columbia, $63,577; of Prince Edward Island, $28,510. The people of Ontario are consequently particularly well favoured, in that the revenues of the province have been so husbanded that they are assisted, as probably no other people are, in the maintenance of benevolent institutions.

THE SIEGE OF PORT ARTHUR.

Military experts all over the world are watching the developments of the siege of Port Arthur with deep interest. They recognise in it a possible solution of one of the most interesting problems of the time, viz., whether modern inventions have contributed most to the defensive or offensive in war. The various criticisms are summarized and discussed by the San Francisco Call in this way:—

"It has long been a subject of speculation whether the improvements of weapons in the last twenty years has added most to the strength of the offensive or the defensive in war. Port Arthur is reported to have been fortified regardless of expenses and according to the best methods of military engineering. It is supposed to be thoroughly equipped in every way, and thus represents the best that can be done in the way of defensive work. On the other hand the attacking force is possessed of every known weapon of assault and understands well how to handle each and all of them. It is now to be seen which of the two has the advantage in the conflict."

The London Times in reviewing the formidable charter of the Russian fortifications, recently said: "If the Japanese decide to attack Port Arthur we shall witness either the apotheosis or the unregretted demise of the first-class fortress. If we consider that the defence of Port Arthur has been the labour of years; that strong, semi-closed works, with gorges protected by masonry walls loopholed for musketry, and ditches flanked by escarp and counterscrap galleries, have been constructed on all the surrounding heights, and, further, that some 400 siege guns, besides naval ordnance are in position, mounted on disappearing or overbank carriages, we are entitled to conclude that if 38,000 Russians of the land and sea forces cannot hold out for many months in this fastness, all the cost and labour and art will have been misapplied."

Relying upon the strength of the fortifications, many military experts believe that if the Russians bravely defend it Port Arthur can be taken only after a siege long enough to reduce the garrison to starvation. On the other hand, many believe the fortifications can be carried by assault. One of them, writing for the St. James' Gazette, says:—

"Despite the increased strength of the modern fortress, the attack has gained in power to an even greater extent. The enormously increased range and weight of modern artillery will enable the Japanese to place a large number of heavy batteries out of sight on a long outer circle behind a chain of fortified posts, and while subjecting the defences generally to an accurate high angle fire they will be able to concentrate a steady rain of high-explosive shells upon the points selected for attack. These, which can be lobbed into defences from a number of widely scattered points, incessantly day and night, most in conjunction with infantry fire—to which the ground in front of Port Arthur peculiarly lends itself—inevitably subdue the fire of the forts."

The close balance between the two forces renders the issue one of great interest to the civilized world. Should the defensive powers of modern armaments prove to be easily superior to those of offense, we may be in a measurable distance of the establishment of a permanent peace, because aggressive wars will be too dangerous to be lightly undertaken. On the other hand, should the offensive force find it easy to pound the defence into surrender, it is hardly likely the future history of the nations will be in any great degree different from that of the past.

IMPORTED HORSES AND CATTLE

Several of the most prominent breeders of horses and cattle in Canada are at present in England, or have recently returned from the trip, which was undertaken for the sole purpose of procuring stock for show at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, August 29th to September 10th, and for the improvement of their well known stables. The exhibits of these gentlemen alone would offer an interesting horse show, and when combined with the hundreds of other entries in all classes, will complete the finest display of horses and cattle ever seen in Canada. Among those whose direct and recent importations will be shown, are Robert Beith, M.P., of Bowmanville; Thomas Graham, of Graham Bros., Claremont; J. M. Gardhouse, of the Highfield stables, and William Smith, ex-M.P., of Columbus. Among the cattle breeders, Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, and Robert Miller, of Stouffville, will show for the first time their recent purchases in England. All the exhibitors agree to keep their entries on the grounds during the full period of the exhibition.

THEY KNOW IT.

Thousands of people throughout the country know that the ordinary remedies for piles—ointments, suppositories and appliances — will not cure.

The best of them only bring passing relief.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally that removes the cause of Piles, hence, the cure is permanent. Every package sold carries a guarantee with it.

It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. A month's treatment in each package. Sold at $1.00.

DOUKHOBORS AND THEIR FINANCES.

Interesting Document Tells How and Where Much Money Was Spent—Will Manufacture Brick, Tile and Oil.

The following is a reprint from an interesting document—the report of the annual Doukhobor meeting held at the village of Nadejda, on February 28, 1904. Incorporated in the report is the Doukhobor financial statement. The text was furnished The Enterprise by Peter Verigin through his interpreter, Simeon Reiben. With some slight assistance it is understood the report was the work of the interpreter. The meeting was, as understood from the English point of view, somewhat in the nature of a convention, at which were present ninety delegates, two being in attendance from each of the forty-five Doukhobor villages. Here is the report in detail as handed to The Enterprise:—

Report of Doukhobor Annual Meeting, 28th February, 1904.

As well as other matters the following questions were dealt with:—

1. Concerning Naturalization. Decided to refer the matter to all members of the community for their consideration and decision whether they desire to be naturalized or not.

2. Concerning Local Improvement Taxes. Decided to pay the tax of $2 per homestead demanded for 1903, but to send to Regina a deputation of two men to request for Doukhobors the right to perform work in lieu of taxation.

3. Decided to remit $500 to the Yakutsk brethren for use of the sick and aged. Decided also to send further money, should it be needed, for the transportation of men allowed to come to Canada.

4. Accounts of receipts and expenditures for the past year were read and confirmed.

5. Decided to purchase the following for spring work: —

Seeders.

2 saw mills(1 for Good Spirit Lake and 1 for South Colony).

1 Fanning machine for Thunder Hill jumper mill.

6. Decided to buy one engine for steam plowing for trial whether more profitable than horse power.

7. Decided to buy one brickmaking machine.

8. Decided to try, in spring, to make sand burn in each village. tiles for roofing.

9. Decided to build seed oil mills in each village.

10. Decided to build at each flour mill flax beaters as at Otradnoe; also stable and good rooms for men coming to mills.

11. Decided to buy for breeding purposes, in summer, 100 milch cows and 100 Angora goats.

12. Decided to buy, in spring, locally near Yorkton,, 50,000 pounds of wool for weaving.

13. The question being raised whether, as the committee have no more money, it was desirable to buy sugar, it was decided by a majority of the meeting that tea and sugar were necessary foods and should be bought.

14. Decided to build a warehouse by C. N. R., near Vera village, logs to be hauled before the winter trails go.

15. Decided that one man must always be at warehouse near Vera, and that until said warehouse is ready he shall be at Yorkton, as during last summer, where the work of Ivan Podavilinkof was of great advantage in buying goods cheaply.

16. Decided that the proposal of the Quakers to build a training school for Doukhobor teachers was unnecessary.

17. Decided that every village shall appoint two men as elders as was done last year, but that these men should not take a very strong part in the management of affairs.

18. Elected to effect all purchases of supplies for the entire community Nikolay Ziboroff and Vassili Poliapoff and Peter Verigin, and to be English interpreter and to attend all correspondence, Simeon Reben.

19. Decided to superintend all matters affecting the horses of the community, Paul Planidin and Feodor Souhortcheff.

20. Decided to hold the next meeting in the fall.

21. Elected to superintend all matters affecting the sheep of th ecommunity, Andrei Semenof and Ivan Verigin.

WARSAW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The beautiful rain of Sunday greatly refreshed the landscape.

The farmers are harvesting fall wheat which is a great crop in this locality.

Mrs. J. C. Garnley, and family of Toronto spent last week as the guest of Mrs. Uriah Pyne.

Mrs. O. A. Kisel, of Peterborough, is at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. Snider.

Mrs B. Purcell, of Winchester, is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. McQuade, at the parsonage.

Mrs. Ecker and daughter, who were the guests of Mrs. Allen Payne, have returned to their home at Stouffville.

Mrs. Stinson, of Sarnia, sister of Dr. Mecham and Mrs. J. M. Denzes, of Whitby, and daughter are visiting at the doctor's.

Mrs. Wm. Bell, of the village while out gathering berries on Monday had the misfortune to make a misteo and in falling fractured her leg just above the knee joint, a bad case and it is feared a stiff joint will be the result. Regrets are expressed. Mrs. and Mr. Bell are young people, having been married less than a year.

Mr. J. B. Forster spent Sunday in Bridgenorth circuit as supply in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Bunner. Quarterly communion service for Warsaw circuit will be held at Bethel church at 10.30 a.m., next Sunday.

When a Sore Won't Heal.

Because of its power to heal raw, flaming flesh, to allay the inflammation and stop dreadful itching Dr. Chase's Ointment has a world-wide reputation. If you have become discouraged by the failure of other treatments put Dr. Chase's Ointment to the test. Like thousands of others you will be surprised and delighted with the results.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Omemee, July 25th.

The harvest has begun. Fall wheat is an excellent crop.

J. D. Thornton reports a large and satisfactory sale this year of the Peterborough binder twine, which is far above the average twine of any manufacture. The weight and length of each ball is correct.

The sudden death of Mrs. Geo. Moncief cast quite a gloom over the village. She was well known here and the funeral was largely attended.

The Rev. E. Eshoo, a native Persian missionary, attracted a large and interested assemblage at the Presbyterian church last Sunday. His subject was "The Women of Samaria." The choir rendered excellent music.

A large number of visitors are in our picturesque village spending holidays amongst whom are Mr. Coone, wholesale clothier and manufacturer, Buffalo, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Horton, who was formerly Miss Williamson, of this village, also Master Leonard Sandy. They have been camping down Pigeon River and Mr. Coone is so delighted that he intends to erect an up-to-date cottage on the shore.

Mr. Thos. Byers visited the village last week inspecting his beautiful lot here, which is in demand by several prospective purchasers.

There is a report, to the joy of the farmers, that the Cereal Company, Peterborough, purposes erecting an elevator here.

We hope to be in direct connection with the Trent Valley Waterway next season.

There are many who have not yet got over their drenching they received at the opening of the Lift Lock; still they all appear to be delighted with the experience.

Mr. Miller, contractor, is making good headway with the new school house.

Our granolithic walks are to be constructed at once.

Dominion House Validates the Provincial Restrictions.

THE RAILWAY ACT AMENDED

Amendments Proposed By Mr. W. F. Maclean Providing For Reduction of Passenger Rates, Bringing Express Companies Under Railway Commission, and Telephone Commission Voted Down.

Ottawa, July 27.—In the House yesterday morning, Dr. Sproule, as a question of privilege, inquired of the Premier whether it was the intention of the Government to adjourn the House from 6 until 9 o'clock last night, instead of meeting at eight o'clock, as usual, in order to enable the members to attend the farewell demonstration to Lord Dundonald. The Premier replied that at this late date of the session he thought the best way for members to serve the country was to attend to the business of the House.

Railway Act Amendment.

Upon the motion for the third reading of Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill amending the Railway Act Mr. Maclean again brought up the numerous amendments which he offered in committee. As he could not under the rules, however, speak more than once, he handed various amendments to other members of the Opposition, who moved them.

The first amendment, in the name of Mr. Blain, had for its object the subjection of express companies to the control of the Railway Commission. The amendment was lost on a vote of 83 yeas and 72 nays, on the following division:

Express Amendment Division.

Yeas—Armstrong, Avery, Bell, Bennett, Blain, Boyd, Broder, Clancy, Cochrane, Culbert, Earle, Ganong, Gilmour, Gourley, Halliday, Henderson, Ingram, Kaulbach, Lancaster, Maclean, McGowan, Morin, Porter, Puttee, Reid (Grenville), Richardson, Robinson (Elgin), Schell, Scott, Sproule, Thomson (Grey), Tolton, Wilson. Total—33.

Nays—Angers, Barker, Basinet, Beith, Blanchet, Borden (Halifax), Borden (Sir Frederick), Bourbonnais, Brodeur, Brown, Bruce, Bruneau, Bureau, Calvert, Carpmaine, Christie, Copp, Costigan, Cowan, Delisle, Demers (Levis), Erb, Fielding, Fitzpatrick, Fortier, Gauvreau, Gervais, Gibson, Grant, Harty, Heyd, Holmes, Hughes (Kings, P.E.I.), Hyman, Johnston (Cape Breton), Kendall, Lang, Laurier (Sir Wilfrid), Lavergne (Drummond and Arthabaska), Leblanc, Lennox, Loy, MacDonald, MacLaren (Huntingdon), McCarthy, McCool, McGugan, McIsaac, McLennan, Marcil (Bagot), Matheson, Mignault, Morrison, Murray, Oliver, Paterson, Prefontaine, Pringle, Riley, Rosamond, Ross (Ontario), Ross (Victoria, N.S.), Ross (Yukon), Russell, Stephens, Stewart, Talbot, Thompson (Haldimand and Monck), Tobin, Tolmie, Turgeon, Wade, Wright. Total—73.

Where Parties Split.

Messrs. Scott, Wallace, Schell and Puttee, on the Government benches, voted for, and Messrs. R. L. Borden, Lennox, Barker, Bruce, Pringle and Rosamond of the Opposition voted against the amendment.

Mr. Borden Against.

Mr. Maclean's amendment providing for a graded scale of passenger rates from two cents a mile upwards, according to the earnings of the railway, was also voted down. Mr. R. L. Borden opposed this as well as the preceding amendment. While not yielding to anyone in his desire to obtain reduced rates, he thought the amendment was undesirable and might result in the postponement of the desired end and in retarding railway development in Canada. There was nothing to show the conditions in the Dominion were similar to those in Michigan, the legislation of which State was the foundation upon which the amendment was based. Within six months of the establishment of the Railway Commission for the especial purpose of dealing with this matter, it would be unwise to pass this legislation before the Commission had an opportunity of dealing with it. The question of freight rates was in any event more important than passenger rates. He could see that if the amendment carried the G. T. R. might by operating their branches under the names of different companies impose a higher scale of rates than are now charged.

Passenger Rates Vote.

The vote on the amendment was 17 yeas, 95 nays, as follows:

Yeas—Armstrong, Bennett, Blain, Clancy, Cochrane, Halliday, Ingram, Kidd, Lennox, Maclean, McGowan, Monk, Robinson (Elgin), Sproule, Thomson (Grey), Ward, Wilson. Total, 17.

Nays—Barker, Basinet, Beith, Blanchet, Borden (Halifax), Borden (Sir Frederick), Bourbonnais, Boyd, Broder Brodeur, Brown, Bruce, Bruneau, Bureau, Calvert, Carbonneau, Charapagne, Christie, Copp, Costigan, Cowan, Delisle, Demers (Levis), Erb, Fielding, Fitzpatrick, Fortier, Gallery, Ganong, Gauvreau, Gervais, Gibson, Gilmour, Girard, Harty Henderson, Heyd, Holmes, Hughes (Kings, P.E.I.), Hyman, Johnston (Cape Breton), Johnston (Lambton), Kaulbach, Kendall, Lancaster, Lang, Lapointe, Laurier (Sir Wilfrid), Lavergne (Drummond and Arthabaska), Leblanc Loy, Macdonald, Maclaren (Huntingdon) MacPherson, McCarthy, McColl, Mc Cool, McGugan, McIsaac, McLennan Marcil (Bagot), Matheson, Mignault, Morrison, Oliver, Paterson Porter, Prefontaine, Pringle, Put tee, Reid (Grenville), Richardson Riley, Rivet, Roche (Halifax), Rosamond, Ross (Ontario), Ross (Victoria N. S.), Ross (Yukon), Russell, Schell Scott, Smith (Vancouver), Stephens Stewart, Talbot, Taylor, Thompson (Haldimand and Monck), Tobin, Tolton, Tucker, Turgeon, Wade, Wright. Total, 94.

Conservative Votes Against.

The Liberals voted solidly in the negative, also Messrs R. L. Borden, Dr. Sproule, Barker, Lancaster, Bruce, Geo. Taylor and twelve other Conservatives.

Independent Telephone Companies.

The amendment limiting compensation to be paid by independent telephone companies for connection with railway stations to the actual damages was voted down by 25 yeas to 74 nays, on the following division:

Yeas—Armstrong, Beith, Bennett Blain, Cochrane, Halliday, Heyd, Ingram, Kidd, Lang, Lennox, Maclean, McGowan, Oliver, Porter, Puttee, Reid (Grenville), Robinson (Elgin), Ross (Ontario), Scott, Smith (Vancouver), Sproule, Tolton, Ward, Wilson. Total, 25.

Nays—Barker, Basinet, Blanchet Borden (Sir Frederick), Bourbonnais, Brodeur, Brown, Bruce, Bruneau, Bureau, Calvert, Carbonneau, Champagne Christie, Clancy, Copp, Costigan, Cowan, Delisle, Demers (Levis), Erb, Ethier Fielding, Fitzpatrick, Fortier, Gallery Ganong, Gauvreau, Gervais, Gibson Girard, Harty, Henderson, Holmes, Hyman, Johnston (Cape Breton), Johnston (Lambton), Kaulbach, Laurier (Sir Wilfrid), Lavergne (Drummond and Arthabaska), Lavergne (Montmagny) Leblanc, Loy, Macdonald, Maclaren, (Huntingdon), McCarthy McColl, McCool, McGugan, McIsaac, McLennan, Marcil (Bagot) Matheson, Mignault, Monk, Morin Morrison, Paterson, Prefontaine Riley, Rivet, Ross (Victoria, N S.), Ross (Yukon), Russell, Schell Stephens, Stewart, Talbot, Thompson (Haldimand and Monck), Tobin, Tuck er, Turgeon, Wade, Wright. Total, 74

Parties Split Again.

Messrs. Heyd, Lang, Ross of Ontario; Beith, W. Scott, Ralph Smith and Oliver on the Government side voted yea, and Messrs. Monk, Kaulbach, Clancy, Barker, Bruce, Henderson Ganong and Morin of the Opposition voted against the amendment.

To the Supreme Court.

Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick announced that as far as the Government was concerned it had been decided that judgment by the Railway Commission upon the question of the agreement between the Bell Telephone Co. and the C.P.R. Company would have to go to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

The Sunday Laws.

There was a discussion on the clause relating to the running of railways on Sunday. Mr. Fitzpatrick explained that the bill would simply remove a possible anomaly in this respect by declaring that all local railways as regards Sunday observances, would still be under Provincial jurisdiction. As to validating future legislation of the Provinces, that was done now in regard to the Federal franchise.

The bill was then read a third time and passed, and the House went into Committee of Supply.

Two and a Half Millions Voted.

The remainder of the day was spent in supply, items aggregating nearly two and a half millions being voted. Hon. Mr. Hyman, acting Minister of Public Works, took charge of the estimates of that department, and was congratulated by his many friends on the Government side at the skill with which he piloted them through and the lucid explanation which he offered when the Opposition preferred their requests for information.

PROROGATION NEXT WEEK.

A conference took place last evening between Mr. W. S. Calvert and Mr. Geo. Taylor, chief Whips of the Government and the Opposition respectively, with regard to the prospective date of prorogation. It was practically agreed that the end should be reached next week, but the fixing of a more exact date was deferred until to-day, when the Government will decide what legislation will be pressed and what, if any, may be abandoned. There is a general desire now on the Opposition side, as well as on the Government side, to get away, as it is said a number of political picnics are planned to be held before the summer has passed.

Pitiful Helplessness.

Victims of nervous diseases are most to be pitied because their ailment usually terminates in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first signs of trouble and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorative.

A Bright Boy's Rendition.

Amusing was the effort of the lad who, on being requested to write down what he could remember of the teacher's lesson on the Sermon on the Mount, reproduced one precept as follows: "If thy brother compel thee go with him one mile, go with him by train."

NORTHWEST WHEAT STORAGE.

While Manitoba and the Northwest Territories are as yet mere infants in the establishment of elevator systems, the business has made rapid strides within the past few years, and there has so far been no foundation for complaint from the producers on the ground of lack of storage accommodation. It is estimated by a writer in The Winnipeg Telegram that when the crop of 1904 is ready for the granary there will be an elevator capacity at country points and terminals of over forty million bushels. With the quantity of grain that is sent out of the country directly it is harvested, the storage capacity will be quite equal to the demands of the crop production.

While the increase in number of well-constructed and spacious elevators has been very marked within the past five years, the decrease in the number of flat warehouses has also been noticeable. This is an indication of the confidence of the capitalists in the future of the west and the consequent desire to have permanent investments in the country. In the season of 1900-01 the province of Manitoba had 33 elevators and 76 warehouses, with a total capacity of 10,323,272 bushels. At the close of the 1902 season there were in the province 42 elevators and 69 warehouses, showing an increase in the number of the former amounting to 94, and a decrease in the latter of 7. The total storage capacity in Manitoba for that season was 12,255,000 bushels, an increase of 1,931,728 bushels. Last season saw a still greater proportionate increase in elevator construction, as at the conclusion of the work of the season the number in the province was 558, while only 60 warehouses remained. The storage capacity then amounted to 16,121,400 bushels. The estimates for the coming season place the elevator capacity of the province at 20,000,000 bushels.

The wheat-raising industry in the Territories is marked by a vigorous policy of elevator building in the wide and ever-increasing area which is under cultivation. When the 1901 season had closed the capacity for storage was 2,436,080 bushels, divided between 88 elevators and 21 warehouses, with an aggregate capacity of 3,194,000 bushels. Last season the storage capacity in the Territories ha increased to 5,105,000 bushels, there being 176 elevators, with a revival in the construction of the warehouses, bringing their number up to 32. The estimates of the coming season place the storage capacity in the Territories at 8,000,000 bushels.

The terminals at which the product of the Manitoba and the Northwest fields are handled are situated in Ontario, at Fort William and Port Arthur, and the capacity of these monster bins had been yearly increased by the railways as the demands of the trade require.

In the year 1901 there were five elevators at the terminal points on the lakes, with a total capacity of 6,120,000 bushels. At the close of the 1902 season one new elevator had been built bringing the total storage capacity up to 7,650,000 bushels. Last year the addition of annexes to the already constructed elevators brought the aggregate capacity to 9,130,000 bushels. Proposed elevator building at the terminal points will in the near future make the total storage capacity reach the enormous figure of 12,000,000 bushels.

For the whole of Western Canada interested in the active wheat trade, the total elevator capacity at country points and at terminals in 1901 amounted to 18,879,352 bushels, of which 12,759,352 bushels represented the storage capacity at country points. In 1902 the total storage room would accommodate 23,099,000 bushels, 15,499,000 bushels being the capacity at country points, while last year the aggregate storage room amounted to 30,356,400 bushels, of which the country points represented 21,276,400 bushels.—Expositor.

AN OFFICIAL GOOD-BYE.

Big Crowds Cheer Earl Dundonald at Ottawa—Mayor Ellis' Speech and His Lordship's Reply.

Ottawa, July 27.—Lord Dundonald received a farewell demonstration from the citizens of Ottawa last night which was remarkable for the numbers participating and for the enthusiasm manifested. It was the period of the Boer war success over again. "The hero of Ladysmith" was the hero of last night. The event was promoted by the military and by the enthusiasts of the Conservative party, two forces which can be counted on to assemble crowds in Ottawa and to make cheers. The celebration was exceedingly well advertised by the warring of the city newspapers, and there can be no doubt but the objects of the promoters were fully realized. The crowd included a great many ladies and children. Five bands participated in the event, located at different points in the procession and at the station.

Mayor Ellis, with a select party, drove to Crichton Lodge, Lord Dundonald's late residence, in the vicinity of Rideau Hall, and escorted His Lordship by way of Sussex street to the Central Station.

An Official Good-Bye.

Before leaving the car Mayor Ellis addressed His Lordship as follows: "On behalf of, I think I may safely say, the great majority of the citizens of Ottawa, I have to bid you good-by. It is with the deepest feeling of sorrow and regret that I do so. When you were appointed G.O.C. of the Canadian militia, the people of Canada felt that the British Government had honored them by nominating an officer who had earned a great reputation on the field of battle. During your two years' residence in the Dominion we have all felt, and particularly the rank and file of the militia, that at last we had a general at the head of affairs who would put the organization of the militia on a sound and substantial basis. We regret that you have to leave this work unfinished. We are sorry that circumstances have arisen to occasion the severance of your connection with the force. We would have liked you to have stayed with us to carry to a successful completion the work which you have so well inaugurated. But it was not to be, and to our great regret you are leaving us. In so doing, allow me to wish you every success in your future career and to assure you that you carry with you the good wishes and the esteem of the vast majority of the people of Canada."

Dundonald in Reply.

Lord Dundonald in relpy said. "Mr. Mayor, ladies and gentlemen: I thank you, and through you all those who are beyond my voice, for the testimony of friendship. It is more than I had any right to expect. I can only say that I leave Ottawa and its people with the deepest regret. What more can I say of the people of Ottawa, and, indeed, of the people of Canada, then they were friends to me in my so-called prosperity and in my adversity, for every friend that I previously had, a thousand others came forward. I would not have been human if under these circumstances I did not look with love and affection upon Canada and its people, and wherever in future my lot may be cast, my thoughts and my actions will be guided by this feeling which they will not be able to efface, and with these words, gentlemen, I bid you farewell."

The mayor and other gentlemen then said "good by," and amid the cheers of the crowd on the bridge and those assembled at the car, the special car pulled out for Montreal.

Reaches Montreal.

Montreal, July 27.—The arrival of the Earl of Dundonald in Montreal last evening will long be remembered. The train was greeted with tremendous cheering, and when the general stepped on the platform the applause was deafening, and the pipers played "The Campbells Are Coming." Lord Dundonald was escorted to the Windsor, where he made a speech, receiving another ovation as he concluded.

TO ENLARGE THE COMPANY'S POWERS.

Meeting of Cold Storage and Provision Co. Held Tuesday

Proposition Submitted to Include Manufacture of Sugar—Capital to be Increased to $750,000.

At the meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company held yesterday after, as stated in yesterday's issue, some important matters in connection with the Company were discussed. One of these was the proposal to enlarge the powers of the company.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. M. Carton, the president, and not Mr. Geo. Carton as was stated yesterday, and there was a good representation of the stock of the company present, and the proposition was discussed with enthusiasm.

The intention is to enlarge the scope of the company to permit it to engage in the manufacture of beet sugar, and a bylaw changing the constitution to allow this will be submitted at an adjourned meeting to be held next Tuesday.

Those present at yesterday's meeting were heartily in favour of this enlargement, but it was decided to call an adjourned meeting, when all the stock will be represented.

If the proposed change is made, the name of the company will be changed to "The Trent Valley Sugar, Provision and Cold Storage Company," and the capital stock will be increased to $750,000, and the present board of directors enlarged to nine members.

The present members of the Board are Messrs. M. Carton, president; Jas. Middleton, treasurer; W. Anderson, M.P.P., Jas. H. McClellan, Lieut.-Col. Miller, Dr. Jeffs. Some of these members will retire, and their places will be filled by other prominent business men. Should the bylaw ratifying this change be passed, the property of the Peterborough Sugar Company will be purchased at its value, and the manufacture of sugar entered into by the company.

The meeting yesterday was harmonious, and the shareholders are enthusiastic in support of the new proposition.

DEATH OF FORMER PETERBOROUGH MAN.

Mr. D. Lemay, Jr., of Watertown, N. Y. Died in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun were informed on Sunday evening of the serious illness in Toronto, of Mrs. LeBrun's brother, Mr. David Lemay, Jr., who was then in St. Michael's Hospital for treatment.

Mr. Lemay's illness, unfortunately proved fatal, and his death occurred in St. Michael's Hospital yesterday. The deceased was a son of Mr. D. Lemay, who was for a number of years connected in business interests in Peterborough. He is now living in Watertown, N.Y.

The late Mr. Lemay was quite well known in Peterborough where he was for some time a resident, being for a time employed in W. H. Moore's law office, and later in the Post Office.

He was in Peterborough a few weeks ago, and was then in perfect health. He was 50 years of age.

The body arrived from Toronto this morning and was taken to Mr. Le Brun's residence, Simcoe street, from where the funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9.30 o'clock. The deceased's father and Mr. A. J. Gough, of Toronto, accompanied the body here to-day.

SACRED CONCERT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

A Music Lover Suggests That One be Arranged Next Sunday.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — As a lover of music, I write to enquire if it would not be possible to arrange a sacred band concert by both the 57th Regiment and Governor-General's Foot Guards Bands, in one of our parks for Sunday afternoon. It could be arranged for such an hour as would not interfere with church services. Such a concert, I am sure, could not be objected to, and would not in any way infringe on the sanctity of the day.

Yours, etc.,
Music.

The writer of the above letter has evidently anticipated the intention of the officers of the local Regiment. Since this letter has been received it has been decided that the Foot Guards Band will give a sacred concert on Sunday, as suggested by the writer. In another column the programme of the visit is outlined, and it will be seen by it that the concert suggested by "Music" will take place on Sunday afternoon in Victoria Park.

LOST HIS LIFE IN STONY LAKE.

First Drowning Accident of the Year at That Resort.

WILLIAM IVES THE VICTIM.

Was in Swimming Yesterday and Became Exhausted and Sank—Brave Effort of W. Blackie to Save Him.

The first drowning accident of the season at Stony Lake, is recorded as having taken place yesterday forenoon, and the circumstances surrounding it are particularly sad. The young man whose life was thus prematurely cut off was William Ives, of Toronto Junction, a son of Mr. A. A. Ives of the same place, a merchant tailor.

The deceased, who was a bright, clever young man, 22 years of age, with three companions, Messrs. W. Blackie, H. D. McGill and H. C. Hutson, all of Toronto, went to Stony Lake on Monday night, full of life and good spirits to spend a two weeks' vacation, and before he was there twenty-four hours he lost his life.

Yesterday morning about 11.30 o'clock, three of the young men went in swimming, Blackie, McGill and Ives, and swam across to a small island opposite Breezy's island, where they were staying. The first two, being swifter swimmers, reached the shore first, and Ives, becoming a little discouraged at not being able to swim as quickly as the others, apparently lost heart, and when he was a short distance out from the shore to which he was heading, called to Blackie for help, feeling that he was sinking. The young man thus called to had reached shore, and as soon as he was called, he at once plunged in again to help his chum. With a few strokes he reached Ives and did his best to bring him to shore, but the latter was too much exhausted, could not swim farther, and clutched at the man who went out to his rescue. Blackie strove with all his might to keep his friend above water, but to no avail, and they both went under the water. Before doing so, however, Blackie called to McGill to bring a boat to his assistance, but, unfortunately, all the boats were out of the boat house, and none were to be had. The fact that there was no boat seemed to further disheartenIves, who sank under the water with Blackie. While under the surface a hard struggle ensued between the two men. Ives caught Blackie's bathing suit and it was torn in pieces in the struggle. Blackie saw that there was no possibility of saving his friend, and sought to save himself, which he succeeded in doing only after herculean efforts. He reached the shore in an exhausted condition, and did not regain himself until six hours hard work on the part of those who were there to revive him. It was at first feared that the fatality would be a double one, but after some time Blackie showed signs of returning consciousness, and is better to-day.

The body of Ives was recovered in 20 feet of water and this morning it was brought to Peterborough accompanied by the two men who were with him in the water, and who are feeling badly broken up over the sad affair.

The young man's father arrived here on the 11.35 C. P. R. train this morning, and the remains of his son will be taken to Toronto this afternoon on the 5.10 train, where the funeral will take place.

The deceased was a clever young man and was an entertainer of no mean ability. He had a position as traveller for R. Taylor & Company, wholesale millinery, of Montreal, representing his firm in Toronto, and was a general favourite with all who knew him. He had only been acquainted with the young men with whom he had been intending to spend his vacation, for a short time, and had during that time made himself very popular and greatly beloved by them. He had intended to spend his holidays down the St. Lawrence, but upon learning that the other young men were going to Stony Lake, decided to go with them. The party came down from Toronto on Monday evening and made a jolly crowd. They were looking forward to spending a pleasant vacation, and had no anticipation that it would be so rudely terminated.

Just before the young men went in swimming, Blackie said to Ives: "Now Billie, if you should be drowned while we are here, how would we ever tell your people?" He little dreamt how soon it would fall to his lot to fulfil that sad task.

The deceased's mother is at present spending a few weeks down the St. Lawrence.

PROGRAMME FOR FOOT GUARDS' VISIT

Ottawa's Crack Regiment Will Spend Two Days Here.

A Sacred Band Concert on Sunday Afternoon—Church Parade in the Morning.

A meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment was held last night, the object of the meeting being to complete arrangements as far as possible for the coming visit of the Governor General's Foot Guards, of Ottawa, next Sunday and Monday.

The regiment, about 350 strong, with brass band, will arrive in Peterborough by special C.P.R. train about 5 o'clock, Sunday morning. The men will remain on the train until about 6 o'clock, when they will march up to the quarters which will then have been prepared for them on the T.A.S. grounds, and take breakfast.

During Sunday forenoon, the only parade that will take place during the regiment's visit will be he'd. Both the 57th and Foot Guards' will parade for divine service. For this service the regiments will be divided, the Protestant members of both, with the Foot Guards' Band going to St. John's church, and the Catholic members, accompanied by the 57th Band will attend St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father McColl, the Rector, kindly putting off his 10.30 service until 11 o'clock to accommodate the regiment.

Both regiments will form at the drill shed and march down George street to Charlotte street, where those attending St. Peter's will turn west on Charlotte to Reid, and up Reid to the Cathedral, the other section turning east on Charlotte to Water and up Water to Hunter, along Hunter to St. John's church.

Rev. J. C. Davidso, the Rector of St. John's church, will preach the sermon at his church. At the conclusion of this service those attending it will march down Hunter street to meet the St. Peter's section.

During the afternoon the crack band of the Foot Guards will render a programme of sacred music from the stand in Victoria Park.

On Monday morning the City of Peterborough will be at the disposal of the visitors, and two trips over the lift lock will be made, and during the afternoon the members of the regiment will be at liberty to do as they wish, and doubtless they will make good use of the time in taking in the sights of the town.

In the afternoon the officers of both regiments will probably take a trip up the canal to Lakefield, and at 6.30 a banquet will be held in the mess rooms of the regiment, attended by the officers of both regiments.

The special train bearing the visiting militia will leave here for Ottawa about 9 o'clock Monday evening.

The original intention was to have the band concert on Monday night, but the early departure of the train prevented this arrangement being carried out, consequently some other plan had to be devised, and the Sunday Sacred concert was thought of.

This regiment is one of the finest in the Dominion, and Peterborough is to be congratulated upon being chosen as the objective point of the Regiment's visit.

The citizens of the town will doubtless decorate their places in honour of this event, and make the town look as pretty as possible.

Monday will see a great many strangers in town, since it is Toronto's Civic Holiday, and an excursion will be run from that city.

McMASTER BAND CLOSES CAMPAIGN.

Largely Attended Meeting Held in Murray Street Church.

Good Work Done During the Visit of the Band—The Last Meeting.

Notwithstanding the great heat, the church was again filled to its utmost capacity, and many who desired could not obtain admission to the final meeting last night.

The proceedings partook of the same character as the previous gatherings and was marked by the same simple and plain presentation of truth. It is a significant fact that such services should have proven so attractive to large audiences at a time of the year, which is generally considered as unpropitious for such meetings.

The leader briefly referred to this fact in his opening address, and expressed the gratitude of the Band to those members of the different churches who had contributed by their presence to make the meetings the great success they had proven to be. He also referred to the more than kind treatment the Band had received from the local press, and stated that they had never received better consideration or treatment in any place in the province. Very feelingly too he expressed the gratitude of himself and every member of the Band to the pastor, Mr. Barlow, who is so soon to take his departure from the town, and stated that his loving, unselfish and devoted aid had so impressed itself on them, that they would carry its recollection to its latest hour, and so the reverend gentleman's influence would be spread for years to come in places and amongst people he had never seen.

Addresses were then given by Messrs. Hilts and Nobles, on the folly of a too great regard for earthly success, and the exclusion of eternal interests, from man's calculations.

The quartette sang by special request, "Blue Galilee," and "I am the Shepherd True," and Mr. Williamson rendered "Calvary," in his usual effective style.

A strong appeal by Mr. Cameron brought the proceedings to a close, but not before a large number of enquirers had found their way to the ante-rooms.

At the request of the leader, the audience joined very heartily in singing "Shall we gather at the River?"

No one who has attended these services can have remained unhelped by them, and there are many in town who will not only wish the Band "God speed," but "Au revoir."

EXAMINER AND AUBURNS TIED

Great Baseball Game on Oval Last Evening.

Score Was 7-7—Examiner's Great Finish—The Official Score.

The Examiner baseball team is still undefeated. Last evening they played the second game of the season against the Auburns, runners-up for the Kawartha League championship and the score after 5 innings of fast ball was a tie, 7—7. It was then too dark to continue and the game was called. The teams appeared very evenly matched; most of the errors on each side were due to the darkness in the last innings. The Examiner by some great baserunning and timely hitting made something of a garrison finish in the last innings, sending four runs across the pan, and putting the team two runs to the good. In the Auburns' half, the first two men were easily retired, but it was becoming so dark that it was impossible for the fielders to see the ball and by great luck two of the Auburns managed to grope their way around the bases in the moonlight, and succeeded in tying the score before the third man was retired. The umpire then called the game.

The Auburns realized the fact that they were up against a speedy aggregation and went in to win, but struck a nasty proposition. The outfielders were fortunate in pulling in two long flies which looked good for three cushions.

The Exam. sluggers landed on McCorry's shoots in the last and lambasted the sphere good and hard, and aided by a few bad throws and costly errors by Belleghem, got a quartette of tallies. The Auburn star battery certainly took a shoot in the air when they faced the Examiner swatters and the fact that only 7 hits is credited to the Examiner is due to the fact that lucky fielding shut off many a safe looking single.

The game was witnessed by what looked like several hundred spectators, who went simply wild with excitement as the struggle progressed. The closeness of the score throughout the entire game and the many brilliant exhibitions of fielding which constantly were manifested, the scintillating base running and other features, made the game one of the most interesting of the season to witness.

The Examiner team made its second appearance in public this season and still stand undefeated. Everyone remembers the 18—1 three innings against the Review — comment on that is unnecessary. Last night the team played remarkable ball against the Kawartha Leaguers, and but for a couple of errors on difficult chances at critical moments, would undoubtedly have come off victorious. Below will be found the score as handed the Examiner by the official scorer:—

GREAT LACROSSE GAME ON MONDAY.

The I.C.B.U. Team of Toronto Will Meet the T.A.S.

The lacrosse game on Monday between the I.C.B.U. team, of Toronto, and the T.A.S. team, will be one of the best exhibitions of the national game ever seen here. The I.C.B.U. team is playing this year in the Toronto City senior league, and is considered one of the best teams in that league. The local team is under considerable expense in bringing the team here, and the local supporters of the game should turn out in good numbers to enable the venture to be made a paying one. The T.A.S. is doing its best to give the public a good exhibition of lacrosse, and in these efforts it should be supported.

The game Monday will be well worth witnessing, and since it has been decided that a half holiday will be observed in the town that day, the attendance at the game should be large.

The I.C.B.U., of Toronto will run a large excursion to Peterborough that day.

FOOTBALL.

An attraction at Father Phelan's picnic at Young's Point on Civic Holiday, Aug. 18th, will be a football game in which the Quaker team will participate. This should be a great game, and will doubtless attract many from Peterborough.

The Quakers will have a full practice to-morrow night at the Oval at 6.45.

LACROSSE.

The T. A. S. team will play its return game with Millbrook on Friday afternoon in that village. This should be another win for the T.A.S. and will place them well in the lead. The game with Port Hope will probably be played here a week from Saturday.

BASEBALL.

A telegram was received to-day from the president of the Midland Baseball League, stating that Oshawa will play a league game here on Saturday afternoon, rain or shine.

FORMATION OF A PAINTERS' UNION.

Local Journeymen Painters and Decorators Have United.

A very successful meeting of the painters, paper-hangers and decorators of Peterborough, was held on Monday night, in the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, when they were successful in organizing a local union. The organization was conducted by Mr. George Sloan, president of the Carpenters' Union. The following are the names of members elected to office;

President—David Hartley.
Vice-President—Edward Brandt.
Rec.-Secretary—Wm. J. Koster.
Fin.-Secretary—Wm. Moher.
Treasurer—Chas. Redding.
Conductor—Frank Larone.
Warden—Geo. Cook.
Preceptor—Fred Hartley.

After the charter was read and the union declared organized, considerable business was conducted, including a discussion on the scale of wages. The lowest wages to be paid to any journeyman will be $2 per day for nine hours work.

This has been a long felt want among the journeymen painters of Peterborough, and the men are highly pleased to note the interest which the boss painters have taken in the matter.

CORTICELLI HOME NEEDLEWORK.

The July number, or third quarter, of Corticelli Home Needlework, is now being mailed to its subscribers. The magazine contains 96 pages of interesting and instructive matter, dealing with Broderie Anglaise, New Ideas in Pillows, Fruit Centrepiece Designs, Embroidered and Jewelled Buttons, Embroidery Lesson on the Sweet Pea, Lingerie Hats, Point Lace, Stock and Collars, Munich Embroidery, Shirt Waists, besides numerous other original articles, all of which are most interesting. Besides containing hundreds of half-tone illustrations the book contains the usual quota of coloured plates. Do not Delay.

When through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get it out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective remedy to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

SUPPLEMENTARIES.

Total $11,839,270—$250,000 For Survey of the Georgian Bay Canal—Steamship Line to Mexican Ports.

Ottawa, July 26.—Supplementary estimates tabled by Hon. W. S. Fielding late last evening contain a large number of items of interest to Canadians generally. The total amount called for by this blue book is $11,839,270.72. The main estimates for 1904-5 submitted early in the session called for $62,935,338.-84. The total is therefore $73,-774,609.56. Of course a considerable portion of both sums is made up of expenditures on capital account. As prophesied in yesterday's despatch, there is a vote for the commencement of the Georgian Bay Canal. The item reads as follows: "Survey for waterway between Georgian Bay and Montreal, via French and Ottawa Rivers, $250,000." Another item under the heading, "Transportation facilities," is $55,000 for the eastern breakwater at Port Colborne. There is also $300,000 for the Trent Valley Canal. Of the total sum asked for in the supplementary estimates, $7,065,266 is chargeable to consolidated fund, and $4,774,004 to capital account.

Proceedings in the House.

Before settling down to the more prosaic business of voting supply, the House of Commons yesterday indulged in the pardonable digression of congratulation to the country upon the triumph at Bisley of Private Perry, the first native-born son of the Dominion who has succeeded in carrying off the much-coveted blue ribbon of the rifle range. The victory of Lou Scholes, another Canadian, upon the Thames was also hailed as a further evidence of Canadian prowess in contests requiring brain, brawn and endurance.

Supply Voted Rapidly.

In supply items were voted rapidly, the thirst of the Opposition for information having been satiated at previous sittings. The items dealt with were for steamship subventions and various works in connection with the Government railways and canals. Sir Richard Cartwright obtained a vote of $50,000 for a new line of steamships between Canadian and Mexican ports, which he stated would be supplemented by a similar vote by the Mexican Government.

Trade With Mexico.

He anticipated a great increase in trade between the two countries as a result, and intimated that if the line from British Columbia ports which would be established first was successful a second service would be inaugurated from Atlantic ports to the east coast of Mexico. All the remaining items of the main estimates and the greater part of the supplementaries for the Department of Railways and Canals were voted, with the exception of those for Cornwall Canal and Galops Channel, which were held over.

Norwegian Cure For Drunkenness.

In Norway drunkenness is punished by imprisonment. As soon as a man is incarcerated the delinquent has a loaf and wine morning and evening. The bread is served in a wooden bowl full of wine, in which it has been soaking for an hour. The first day the drunkard swallows his allowance willingly enough. The second day it seems less pleasing. At the end of eight or ten days prisoners have been known to abstain altogether from the food thus pitilessly presented. This course of treatment finished, the drunkard, except in rare instances, is radically cured.

THREE CENTURIES.

Annapolis Royal's Celebration During the Week Ending June 25—Some Canadian History Recounted.

Seven years ago the City of St. John's celebrated with appropriate ceremonies and festivities the 400th anniversary of John Cabot's landing on the coast of Newfoundland. During the week ending June 25, Annapolis Royal, in Nova Scotia, and St. John, in New Brunswick, rendered similar honors to the memory of De Monts and Champlain, who 300 years ago explored the shores of the Bay of Fundy, and gave the history of Acadia a beginning. During most of the century intervening between the events thus commemorated, North America had been neglected. Distracted by the Reformation and religious wars, the enterprising nations of Europe had not much thought for colonization, especially in the latitudes north of Mexico. It is true, adventurous mariners who had friends at court were enabled to make voyages to the Atlantic Coast of this continent. From England came Sebastian Cabot, John Cabot's son. Several years later came Verrazzano from France. In 1534 Jacques Cartier began his voyage from St. Malo. Fishermen and fur traders kept up some connection with this side of the Atlantic, but the era of colonization did not begin till the opening of the 17th century.

Chauvin had made three unsuccessful attempts to establish the fur trade at Tadousac, where the Saguenay empties into the Lower St. Lawrence. The Winters proved too severe for him. When he died Aymar de Chastes, who had fought against the League and won the friendship of Henri IV., obtained from that King a monopoly of the North American fur trade. He formed a company, to which were admitted the principal merchants of the West ports, who had been associated with Chauvin, or had engaged in the fur trade on their own account. Samuel de Champlain had just returned from the West Indies. A place on the expedition was offered to him by his friend de Chastes. To Pontgrave, who had been at Tadousac with Chauvin in 1600, was given the command. But de Chastes was not destined to be more successful than his predecessor. Pontgrave and Champlain went to the St. Lawrence in 1603. The commercial results were disappointing, and when they returned the first news they heard was that de Chastes was dead.

Pierre du Guast, Sieur de Monts, Gentleman-in-Ordinary of the King's Chamber, and Governor of Pons, succeeded to the monopoly held by de Chastes. His patent gave him power to colonize Acadie, a region defined as extending from the 40th to the 46th degree of north latitude. Over this vast extent of continent he had vice-regal powers. He preserved de Chestes' old company. To obtain settlers for his projected colony he was authorized to impress idlers and tramps, and many a vagabond was forced on one or other of the two vessels with which De Monts put to sea in 1604. Catholic priests and Huguenot ministers took passage with them. Baron de Poutrincourt and other noblemen accompanied De Monts, Pontgrave and Champlain. De Monts sailed from Havre de Grace on April 7, 1604. Pontgrave, in command of the second vessel, followed a few days later. Between the Calvinist ministers and the Catholic clergy on board there was much controversy and some fighting. So, at all events, we are told by Champlain, who has left an account of this voyage, and of the subsequent explorations and attempts at settlement.

Like Pontgrave and Champlain, De Monts had some experience of the St. Lawrence. He had been with Chauvin at Tadousac, and the hardships suffered at that place warned him away from it. He steered further south, hoping to find there a milder region. His first landing place was what is now called Liverpool harbor, on the south-east coast of Nova Scotia. He was joined further down the coast by Pontgrave, who had seized four Basque fur traders found trespassing. The southern shore of Nova Scotia was rounded, and the exploration of the Bay of Fundy was begun. Poutrincourt was captivated by the beauty of Annapolis Basin, with its narrow entrance and wide land-locked expanse. He asked and obtained a grant of it from De Monts. Poutrincourt called his possession Port Royal. It held that name till the place was captured by a British expedition from Massachusetts in 1710, after which it was called Annapolis—the City of Anne—in honor of the Queen then reigning over the United Kingdom. In the present name, "Annapolis Royal," a part of the old one survives. It is not known on what day De Monts entered the basin, but the people of Annapolis adopted June 21 as a very close approximation to the date, and their tercentenary celebration was accordingly begun on Tuesday.

It is known, however, that the River St. John was entered by De Monts on St. John's Day, and named by Champlain accordingly.

Dating its beginning from 1605 Annapolis Royal can claim to be the oldest settlement in Canada, and the second oldest in North America, St. Augustine, in Florida, alone exceeding it in age. It is three years older than Jamestown, the first permanent settlement in Virginia, and it is sixteen years older than Plymouth, the colony founded by the Pilgrim Fathers in Massachusetts. Not till three years after he had helped to establish the Port Royal colony did Champlain found the old City of Quebec.

One Solution of It.

They had been engaged only fifteen years, but it seemed a long time to her, and she was growing restless.

"Darling," she said in gentlest accents, "our betrothal has been very sweet, has it not?"

"It has, it has indeed, my own."

"But it has been very long, don't you think?"

"Yes; it has been pretty middlin' long," he rejoined.

"I was thinking, dearest," she continued, playing with his watch and casting down her eyes, "that our betrothal is nearly old enough to go out and work for its living. Couldn't we have it learn a trade or get it a clerkship or put it out at interest or do something with it so that we might realise something on it? It has been hanging about home so long, burning gas and coal, and now it is nearly grown. It seems like a shame to have it doing nothing so long."

"What would you suggest?"

"We might get married."

"That's so. I never thought of that." They are going to be married within a month.

Illustrious Stammerers.

Æsop, Virgil and Demosthenes are generally known to have been stammerers, but how many others suffering from the like infirmity occupy an honorable place in the historical gallery?

The first of these whom we can recall is the prophet Moses. He, according to tradition, was a stammerer whose powers of speech were so limited that his brother Aaron always accompanied him, being specially commissioned to speak in his name and stead.

"I am not eloquent," protested Moses, "neither heretofore nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant, but I am of slow speech and of a slow tongue."

Claudius Michael II., emperor of the east; Mohammed-el-Rasser, king of Spain during the Moorish domination, and Eric, king of Sweden, stammered pitiably.

Among the eighteen rulers of the name of Louis who have reigned in France we find only one, Louis le Beguo, although he was by no means the only French sovereign, who stammered.

When the Body Loses Height.

The boy when born is about half an inch taller than the girl. This difference is maintained till near the age of thirteen, when, in England and America, the average girl is taller and heavier than the boy. This halting, so to speak, on the part of the male is speedily recovered, and he again outruns the female in size. At the period of full development the man's average height compared with the woman's average is as sixteen to fifteen. Both men and women maintain their maximum height till the age of fifty years, when they begin to grow shorter, until at ninety they have lost three inches. The reason for this dwindling is attributed to the sinking of the soft parts between the bones and to the stoop gradually acquired by old people.—London Leader.

Is Mr. W. E. Talbot Who Was Cured of Piles by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. W. E. Talbot, of Talbot Bros., tobacco merchants, 362 George street, Peterborough, states: —"It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for Itching Piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and though I tried very many treatments remained uncured until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me, and I find that every word of praise is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured and knowing the misery that the ailment produces, I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

SAVED ON THE GALLOWS.

Story of Two Men Whom a Long Prayer Preserved From Being Hanged for Stealing An Ox.

A Canadian octogenarian named Richard Carr, lately deceased in Erie, Penn., had lived on that side of the lake for many years, but his body was taken to the Province of Ontario for interment. There was little of general interest in the career of the Canadian, but a single remarkable episode of his life is recalled by the fact of his death of old age at home among his friends. Dr. M. J. Clark of Erie, tells the story of Carr's sentence to be hanged and of his escape from the gallows: "I had no idea that Carr was living on this side of the lake," he said, "or that he was living at all. Not having heard anything of him for thirty years, I supposed him long since dead. His arrest, conviction, sentence and escape are events closely connected with my family and my childhood, my uncle, Rev. John Ryerson being the clergyman who attended Carr to the scaffold, and who prayed against time for the purpose of cheating the hangman. He succeeded, and this is how it all happened.

"One day I remember well the village was thrown into great excitement by the discovery of a crime for which the penalty was death. The whole village of Vittoria was in an uproar. Someone had stolen an ox. A diligent search resulted in the discovery of the hide, and suspicion fell upon Carr, who was known to be poor, and in whose house the odor of cooked meat still hung. The village Dogberry and shallow dignitaries, who were next to deities in my eyes then, succeeded in extorting a confession of guilt from Carr and another poor fellow named Smith.

"Sentence of death was passed upon Carr and Smith, and they would probably have been executed next day, but, I suppose, the Sherin thought it would be regarded as ungentlemanly and unfriendly if he did not arrange the time so that his distant constituency could get in to witness the sight. Travel was slow in those days of no railroads. Among those who were horrified and shocked at the approaching execution was my uncle, the spiritual adviser of the poor fellows, and Dr. John Rolf, whose memory still clings to the village. Rev. John Ryerson was brother to Dr. Egerton Ryerson, D. D., Superintendent of Education in Ontario.

"Dr. Rolf was more excited than any other of Smith and Carr's sympathizers, and he determined to ride to Toronto and intercede with the Governor, who, I think, was Sir John Colborne. Before departing on his hazardous errand of mercy Dr. Rolf was closeted with my uncle, Rev. John Ryerson. The latter subsequently told me that he had agreed to delay the hanging all he could by making the closing prayer as long as his strength and power of utterance would permit, provided that Rolf had not returned. Good Dr. Rolf calculated upon getting back a few hours before the time set for the execution. He set out on the swiftest horse to be had in the village, but the people had little faith in his ability to make the journey in time and less faith in the Governor's inclination to interfere. The days flew on, and the people flocked in from the surrounding country. Uncle John did all he could to comfort the doomed men and lead them to a realization of a greater mercy than man's, but they refused to be comforted. The fatal morn came, but without any tidings of Dr. Rolf. The hour arrived and the men were led out to die. Private hangings had not come into fashion then. It was considered good and wholesome for the common people to witness the awful and just punishment of the horse, sheep or cattle stealer.

"Smith and Carr were placed in position, and when the hangman's little preliminaries were over the sheriff was informed that all was ready for the parson's final blessing or prayer. Then Rev. Ryerson got down on his knees and began the longest and most remarkable prayer on record. His voice was low purposely, for he wished to husband his vocal strength. He prayed for about twenty minutes without creating remark, for long prayers were not so distasteful then as now. But when he entered the second half hour great restlessness was manifested. The sun poured down upon the uncovered heads, and many did not hesitate to say aloud that they were getting too much of a good thing. The sheriff was impatient, and the hangman looked weary. The proceedings made him tired. Even the poor wretches awaiting death showed signs of annoyance, for uncle had not told them of his compact with Dr. Rolf. The murmurs rose higher and higher, but uncle prayed on without ceasing. An hour passed and he was still on his knees. There was now no relevancy in his appeal. He merely uttered words and disconnected phrases to consume time. The muscles of his throat contracted, his tongue was dry and clove to his mouth, and his voice was husky; but he prayed on.

"He told me later that he did not know what he was saying, and that the real prayer he uttered in all that time was a silent one, and composed of four words: 'God hasten Rolf's footsteps.' Whenever I see the play of Damon and Pythias I am reminded of that fearful scene," continued Dr. Clark. "At the end of an hour and a half there was quite an uproar, and the discontent had almost become a riot, when a voice cried: 'Here comes Dr. Rolf!' My uncle did not hear or heed the new tumult that now arose, but prayed on, becoming weaker each minute. Soon the horseman approached near enough to be recognized and the doctor dashed up to the very foot of the scaffold, scattering people right and left. He was too weak to speak or move, but a man in the crowd snatched a document from his hand and, mounting on the back of the horse, shouted: 'Reprieve! Reprieve!' It was so, and that is how Carr and Smith were saved."

Once in a while some one who has traveled to the very edge of the danger line of stomach disease stops just in time to save his health. But the majority of people go across the line, and slight symptoms of indigestion grow to disease of the stomach, involving the other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Indigestion and other forms of stomach "trouble" are perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the whole body by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"I have been suffering for about eight years," writes Mrs. E. Pierce, of Millersburg, Ky. "Have had several doctors to treat me—some for female weakness and others for stomach trouble, but received no relief. When I wrote you for advice I was hardly able to work, and you advised me what to do. I took nine bottles, five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' four of 'Favorite Prescription,' also two vials of the 'Pellets.' Dr. Pierce's medicines will do all that you claim for them. Believe I would have been in my grave if I had not taken them."

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY

HUMOR AT SCHOOL.

Henry J. Barker, M.A., Compiles Some Excellent Examples of British Children's Unconscious and Ready Wit.

The following are examples of schoolboy wit, though whether conscious or unconscious one cannot say:

"Boys," asked a master in a history lesson, "what was the Great Revolution?"

And one young prodigy answered: "Why, it was when William of Orange turned round, sir!"

An equally smart answer was given by a boy who was observed by his teacher to have sketched a railway engine on his slate:

"Why don't you draw the carriages, too?" inquired the teacher.

"Oh, the engine draws them," responded the boy.

Lessons on elementary science (a favorite subject in many of our schools) often evoke answers of a very unscientific nature. The governess of a school in Brixton had given a lesson on the different parts of a flower, external and internal, viz., the leaves, petals, stamens, pistil, ovary, etc.

A few days later, in continuing the subject, the lady commenced by asking a few questions.

"Mention," she said, "one of the important parts of a plant which you cannot see."

And one girl, who had not been present at the former lesson, replied:

"Why, the inside, teacher, of course!"

The following is another example of the innocent directness with which children look at things:

During a science lesson on birds' eggs and their colors, the teacher asked:

"Why are duck eggs of a bluish tint?"

And the young urchin who happened to be pointed at stammered out: "Because, sir, the duck is—is bluish inside!"

During the course of an examination in grammar, an inspector came to the somewhat difficult subject of the irregular comparison of adjectives; e.g. little, less, least; much, more, most, etc.

"Yes," continued the gentleman, pointing to a sharp-looking lad, "you boy, compare the adjective Ill."

"Comparative, worse, sir."

"Right," said the inspector, "go on."

"Superlative, dead, sir!"

In the course of a Scripture lesson on the temptation of our first parents in Eden, the teacher had explained to the children that Adam's chief occupation was the simple and delightful one of dressing the garden and keeping it in order. Later on in the lesson he asked:

"Why was it, do you think, that the devil decided to tempt the woman and not the man?"

"Because," replied one youngster, "Adam was too busy a-watering the garden."

The following anecdote illustrates how school children sometimes get quite erroneous notions of what the teacher intends to convey.

During an examination on the life of Jacob and his sons, the master asked:

"Why was Joseph put into prison?"

And one old-fashioned little urchin answered:

"Why: he loved a Pharoah's wife, sir; so he locked him up safe so as he couldn't get at her!"

On this same subject of the life of Joseph, a teacher came to that part of the story where the brethren arrive from Canaan to buy corn. He gave the children a graphic account of the reception which Joseph accorded them, and the feasting which accompanied the event. He touched upon the special favor shown to little Benjamin in serving him with a mess of food five times greater than that of the others.

"There, what do you think of that?" said the teacher, placing his hand on the shoulder of a lad just in front of him.

"Why, I should think he was fair busted!" responded the youngster.

This little story shows the risk which teachers run in giving "show lessons" to visitors:

The vicar of a country parish brought a couple of ladies to see the working of the village school. Both visitors were members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Whilst in the girls' department, the mistress kindly consented to put some questions to the children upon their knowledge of the uses of animals to man.

The girls answered very intelligently all the questions put to them in connection with the common domestic animals; and the mistress was thus emboldened to proceed to less familiar ground.

"What useful articles do we obtain from the elephant?" she asked.

"Ivory," answered the first girl.

"Right; and what from the whale?"

"Whale-bone," said the second.

"Very good; and what from the seal?"

"Sealing-wax," answered the third.

Many teachers of our East London schools have an excellent custom of giving the scholars an annual outing into the country. The children are allowed to roam about Epping Forest (or other sylvan retreat) at their own sweet will, and are afterwards regaled with a good substantial meal. On the occasion of one of these treats, a lady teacher who was assisting in serving the children at their meal came up to one little lad and said:

"Will you take some bread-and-butter, my child?"

"No," responded the urchin, rudely and decisively."

"No, what?" mildly suggested the lady.

"No jolly fear, while there's curran-cake abart!"

GRACE BEFORE MEAT.

Devotions of a Scotch Farmer Who Thought Well of Himself.

An old Ayrshire farmer used regularly to deliver himself of the following quaint effusion as a grace before meat:

"Tak' aff yer bonnets, honest men! Are they a' aff? Oh, Lord, weed oot a' the papists oot o' the land—pluck them oot as we do the thistle frae oot o' the gr'und. Pour doon a shooer o' whittles upo' a' the loons that wear the lawn sleeves, for they eat up the fat an' the lean o' the land an' winna let a puir body like me gang his ain way. Dig a muckle dike atween us an' hell, but a far muckler ane atween us an' the wild Irish. Oh, grant that the gray mare brakna the tether nor the wind blaw doon the haystacks. Grant that we may keep the broon coo, the crummie coo an' Rowtie, an', oh, preserve us frae witches an' warlocks an' beasts wi' lang nebs that gang in amang the heather. Grant a' gude things an' gude hairsts to a' honest fowk an' a' men present an' I, my ainsel', wha am as muckle as one sax o' them. Shooer doon a blessing on a' honest men that wear blue bonnets, sic like as Abraham, Isaac an' Jacob were in the holy land o' Canaan. Gi'e to corsels an' to a' the freen's o' Scotland weal an' fortitude till endure a' the ills an' unco's o' this life, an' as what we've gotten is a coor ain it's naebody's business. Grant a blessing on the present favor. Amen!"—Scottish American.

Friction in History.

Thomas Carlyle in his history of the French revolution gives a description of a naval battle June 1, 1794, off Brest between Villaret-Joyeuse, in command of the French fleet, and Admiral Howe, in which he vividly depicted the sinking of the Vengeur.

These are the concluding sentences: "Lo, all flags, streamers, jacks, every rag of tricolor that will yet run on rope flies rustling aloft; the whole crew crowds to the upper deck, and with universal, soul maddening yell shouts, 'Vive la republique!' sinking, sinking. She staggers, she lurches, her last drunk whirl. Ocean yawns abysmal; down rushes the Vengeur, carrying 'Vive la republique!' along with her, unconquerable, into eternity."

Rear Admiral Griffiths, at the time a lieutenant on board the Culloden, wrote to a newspaper to show that Carlyle's account had no foundation in fact. After investigation Carlyle admitted that not a word of this thrilling story was true except that the Vengeur sank.

Gambetta's Skull.

When Gambetta died the medical authorities requested Dr. Laborde, the distinguished physician, to examine his brain, and, going to Ville d'Avray, where the body lay, he began work as soon as possible. First he opened the skull and then, removing the brain, laid it on a napkin and took it to his own house, where, for the purpose of preserving it, he placed it in a solution of sulphate of zinc.

Unfortunately before doing so he had forgotten to weigh it, and when he took it out of the solution next day he found that a portion of it had been dissolved and that what remained of the brain of the famous statesman weighed only 700 grams, which is about the weight of an idiot's brain.

Dr. Laborde, it is said, never forgave himself for making this blunder.

Very Like Reason.

The crows and other birds that carry shellfish high in the air and then let them drop upon the rocks to break the shell show something very like reason or a knowledge of the relation of cause and effect. Froude tells of some species of bird that he saw in South Africa flying amid the swarm of migrating locusts and clipping off the wings of the insects so that they would drop to the earth, where the birds could devour them at their leisure. Our squirrels will cut off the chestnut burs before they have opened, allowing them to fall to the ground, where, as they seem to know, the burs soon dry open. Feed a caged coon soiled food—a piece of bread or meat rolled on the ground—and before he eats it he will put it in his dish of water and wash it off.—John Burroughs in Century.

CONDITION OF FEMALE WORKERS

Factory Inspector Looking Into Their Hours of Work.

Miss Carlyle Reports Few Cases of Law Breaking—Ventilation Bad.

The 16th annual report of the inspector of factories for Ontario, has been issued. Miss Margaret Carlyle, whose duty it is to inspect factories where female labour is employed, has this to say, on the question of working hours:—

"As a rule the working hours are well observed. In many factories they begin work at 7.30 or 8 a.m., quitting at 5.30 or 6 p.m. The owners of these establishments have assured me that they get as much work out of their help by giving them easy hours as by forcing them to labour sixty hours per week. It would be very desirable to see their example followed by other employers.

"I know certain factories whose owners, in order to give their help a half holiday on Saturday afternoon, begin work at 6.30 a.m. I am told these hours have been arranged at the request of the employees themselves, but does that make it any less injurious to their health? To get to the factory at 6.30 means rising at 5.30 a.m., for those who reside at a distance. In towns where there is no street car service, it means a long walk at an hour when the cold is most intense in winter; and above all, it means an interval of six or seven hours between a early breakfast and a cold dinner. Is not this undesirable in the case of young girls and women? Do they not earn their holiday at the expense of their health? We have occasionally to contend with the illegal employment of women during the meal hour. The practice of some manufacturers only allowing one-half hour for meal at noon, practically necessitates the meals being taken on the premises. So incessant are the complaints on this score from the girls and so greatly does this matter tend to ill-health that I have paid special attention to it. Food is eaten in a hurry, under disagreeable conditions, with little or no convenience for warming it.

"I do not believe it can be to the advantage of any employer to shorten or trespass on the prescribed meal hour at noon regularly in this respect. I believe it to be essential to health to have the full hour at noon. I have observed in many work-rooms that meals are taken in the same room as is used for a work-room, and I have seen girls dining in small, dark, cold basement rooms, thus spending the precious break in their working day under conditions as bad, or even worse, than the work-room they have just left. But I am pleased to say that there are some firms which provide a warm, comfortable luncheon, with tea, coffee and vegetables cooked and supplied at a very low figure; and some have gone further and provided a library, and some have arranged a large recreation room, with a piano and games. I have always urged upon manufacturers the necessity of providing a room for their girls, or allowing them some change for the hour. By this means workers will get a change of scene, and certainly work better for that change. I have also held that work-rooms should be thoroughly aired twice a day for at least half an hour during the noon hour, and after the day's work has been finished or before it has begun."

Miss Carlyle expresses surprise in another connection that so little attention is being paid to ventilation in some of the newest factories. In the winter the rooms are simply sealed boxes, and the effect is very deleterious to the health of the girls working. Often, too, the temperature of the room is much too low. In one factory where the girls were seated while working, Miss Carlyle took the temperature and found it only 42 degrees. The law regarding the employment of children has been very generally complied with throughout Ontario.

HALL'S GLEN.

The young ladies of Hall's Glen had the pleasure of again celebrating their annual huckleberry excursion, on the 18th and 19th inst., on Stony Lake, where a very jolly and profitable time was spent. The weather on this particular occasion was exceedingly favourable, affording opportunity for every aquatic sport and amusement available.

The excursionists bade adieu to the villagers on Monday morning, who stood aghast with amusement and wonder at their departure, amid the boisterous cheers and shouts, and the monotonous and unearthly blasts of the horns, and shrill calls of the whistles, which they had armed themselves with previous to their departure, and proceeded on their way light hearted and gay.

After complete arrangements for transportation had been made at the wharf, they embarked, leaving McCracken's Landing about 9 a.m. for the head of the lake, which place they reached by noon, having enjoyed a pleasant and healthful sail to the gratification of all. Pulling in at Sandy Point they bivouacked for the day and immediately proceeded to make arrangements for a temporary stay. A very tasty spread was soon prepared by the young ladies of the party, of which all partook sumptuously.

Dinner ended, and the necessary duties pertaining thereto executed, the crowd under the leadership of Mr. Albert Nelson, "a skilful engineer," was escorted back some several miles to where the berries could be had in abundance only for the picking, and where all commenced operations, which continued until time for return to the camp had arrived.

Needless to say what transpired during the remainder of the time left to their disposal; suffice it to say that a large quantity of berries were pailed and made ready for the return trip. On the way several places of interest were visited, viz., Vinemede, Mount Julian and Juniper Island, the former being the most picturesque and affording the best advantages and accommodation, was chosen as the place for tea, and the tables were once more laden with the choicest that could be procured.

After tea some time was spent in viewing the sights near by, after which all started for McCracken's Landing, arriving there about 8 p.m. of the second day. Here they found a large conveyance superintended by Mr. Wm. Carveth, who transported them to the village, and on the way was highly entertained by the excellent music furnished by the orchestra.

BRITAIN DEMANDS FULL REPARATION

Protests Strongly Against Russia's Action in Sinking "Knight Commander"

Measures Will be Taken to Follow up the Diplomatic Demands —Note to Russia.

Special C. N. W. Despatches to the Examiner.

London, July 29th.—The British Government is sending instructions to Sir Charles Harding, the British Ambassador to Russia, to-day, energetically to protest against the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Ocean Vladivostock Squadron. Until its presentation to the Russian Government the greatest secrecy will be maintained regarding the note's contents, but it is known that Premier Balfour and his colleagues have decided to demand that the fullest reparation shall be made by Russia, or measures will be taken to follow up the diplomatic demands.

A RIVAL FOR THE WINTER FAIR

The arrangements already made for the provincial fruit, flower and honey show, which will be held in Toronto during the second week in November, indicate that it is likely to prove as important an event in its line as the big winter fair held yearly at Guelph. No effort is being spared to make each feature of the show of the greatest of the kind that has ever been held in Canada. The Ontario Fruit Growers' Association has drawn up a liberal prize list and will pay the transportation charges one way on all exhibits of fruit sent to the show.

Special prizes will be offerd for the best exhibit of fruit made by any agricultural society. It is expected many of the societies in the province will send their total exhibits from their fall fairs to this show. Arrangements have been made to keep this fruit in cold storage. In this way it is hoped to have representative exhibits of fruit from all parts of the province. Demonstrations in packing fruit will be given and bulletins will be issued describing the special qualities of each variety of fruit and stating whether it is best for cooking or eating purposes. In this way, householders will be enabled to secure the best varieties of fruits for their purposes. On the last day of the exhibition a big auction sale of fruit will take place.

The money offered for flowers is over 100 per cent. more than has ever been offered in Toronto. About $1,500 will be given in prizes in this section alone. The arrangements are in charge of a floral committee of which Mr. Edward Tyrrel, president of the Toronto Horticultural Society is chairman. The honey prize list is also a liberal one. Several prizes are offered for commercial packages.

Among the important gatherings that will take place at the time of the show will be the annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association and the Ontario Bee Keepers' Association, while a meeting of delegates from the various horticultural societies of the province will also be held. The Ontario government has made a grant of $1,000 to aid the exhibition, which has been supplimented by a grant of $200 from the city of Toronto.

Particulars regarding the show may be had by writing to the secretary, Supt. H. B. Cowan, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

The Canadian Horticulturalist in its August issue will announce that as a result of careful investigations made throughout the province, it finds there is not likely to be any shortage of apple barrels this season. Last year, it will be remembered, thousands of bushels of apples rotted under the tree owing to the scarcity of apple barrels.

Coopers this year have been able to obtain more supplies and are prepared for the demand. In some sections of the province the apple crop is going to be a little lighter than last year, which will tend to increase the supply of barrels. The average price this year for barrels will be 40 to 50 cents each.

Reports received by The Canadian Horticulturist from township San Jose scale inspectors, an account of which will be published in the August issue of that magazine, show that in some sections of the province, the San Jose scale is spreading. In a number of townships growers seem to have given up fighting this pest, with the result that great damage is being done trees. In other sections where spraying has been energetically carried on, the scale is practically under control. The inspectors report that the lime and sulphur, the crude oil and the caustic soda washes are giving satisfactory results.

THE MASTER MECHANIC'S PURE TAR SOAP heals and softens the skin, while promptly cleansing it of grease, oil, rust, etc. Invaluable for mechanics, farmers, sportsmen. Free Sample on receipt of 2c to cover postage. Albert Toilet Soap Co., Mfrs. Montreal.

TO-DAY'S NEWS ON STOCK MARKET

Features of Market as Told by Special Wires.

By private wire from Richmond & Co., Inc'd., Pittsburg and Buffalo to W. F. Nelson & Co., correspondents:—

Evening 26th.—Buy M.R. around 114. C.F.I. is a purchase around 35 and T.C.I. below 42. U.S.Q. sold close to 60 on an unfounded rumor that the dividend would be reduced. We think the regular dividend will be declared this afternoon. The stock, however, is high enough for the present, if no further bad news concerning European complications are received. The market should be a purchase to-morrow noon, especially if a fairly strong opening is followed by another set back to about or just below to-day's lowest figures.—Wall Street Information bureau.

New York.—We look for further bearish operations in the stock market to-day. The rally at the close ought to extend a little on short covering, but if it does not, and the market slumps further, we would be inclined to retire bear contracts and await a rally on which to sell for a small turn again. If the market improves in the early trading, we would sell short for a moderate profit Irregularity may be expected to-day. Bear ammunition as we predicted is becoming more prominent including the Hill crop estimate the labour troubles and the war complications. The steel report on the whole cannot be said to furnish a basis to bull those stocks just now, and we still believe U.S.Q. a sale on rallies same may be said St. P., S.P. and P. A. Infact the entire list ought not to be bought when strong. It is not a bear market, but logically the reactions should extend further in our judgment.—Town Topics.

New York.—Efforts will be made to put steel stocks lower. There is professionally an utter disregard of the fact that an improvement in trade conditions has set in. All that the talent recognize is that an opportunity is present to make a temporary profitable demonstration. On any further set back buy Pacifics, Atch., and Pa. for a turn. Mr. J. P. Morgan favours the declaration of regular div. on Erie 1st pfd. Specialties, buy B.R.T. conservatively. Hold S.F.S. The market has developed two sides and is trading propositions.

New York, Reg. div. on U.S.Q. 21 roads for 3rd week July show average gross Dec. 78. Good demand for Atch. in loan crowd. No truth in rumor of increase in stock by Frisco.

New York.—Liverpool opening,—Wheat 3-4 higher; corn unchanged. 1.30 p.m.—Wheat 5-8 to 3-4 higher; corn, 1-4 higher.

Good demand for Atch. and Pa in loan crowd.

Chicago weather, map—Weather conditions are excellent, clear and cooler, north-west, seasonable elsewhere. Valentine, Neb. has .02 and raining. Springfield Mo. shows only slight rain fall.

Winnipeg Fair Opens.

Winnipeg, Man., July 27.—The Dominion Exhibition was formerly opened yesterday in the presence of a distinguished gathering. Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, made the opening speech, and was followed by Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture; Sir William Van Horne and Premier Roblin. One of the best speeches of the afternoon was that made by Sir William Van Horne, who was introduced by Chairman Gordon as a man who had done more for the development of Western Canada than any other. About 10,000 people attended the fair yesterday.

SKIN AND BLOOD PURIFICATION

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills

Cleanse the Skin, Scalp and Blood

Of Torturing, Disfiguring Humours with Loss of Hair

WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS

Thousands of the world's best people have found instant relief and speedy cure by the use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills in the most torturing and disfiguring of itching, burning and scaly humours, eczemas, rashes, itchings and inflammations.

Thousands of tired, fretted mothers, of skin-tortured and disfigured babies, of all ages and conditions, have certified to almost miraculous cures by the Cuticura remedies, when the best medical skill had failed to relieve, much less cure.

Cuticura Treatment is local and constitutional — complete and perfect, pure, sweet and wholesome. Bathe the affected surfaces with Cuticura Soap and hot water to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, dry without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and lastly take Cuticura Resolvent Pills to cool and cleanse the blood, and put every function in a state of healthy activity. More great cures of simple, scrofulous and hereditary humours are daily made by Cuticura remedies than by all other blood and skin remedies combined, a single set being often sufficient to cure the most distressing cases when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, Liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. London, Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

CAPTURED MEAT ALIVE.

How Friends of the Strikers Secured a Supply in Chicago.

Chicago, July 28.—A rain and hailstorm yesterday caused confusion in the live stock pens. The frightened animals ran about the yards, completely beyond the control of the inexperienced drivers. During the excitment several persons were seen to escape from the yards with live sheep in their arms. These men were said to be friends of the strikers, who took advantage of the opportunity to secure fresh meat.

Packers Won't Arbitrate.

Chicago, July 28.—"We had an agreement with Mr. Donnelly's organization and the allied trades, which they have failed to live up to, and under the circumstances, we do not care to make any further agreements with them." ASSASSINATION OF RUSSIAN MINISTER

M. Von Plehwe, the Minister of the Interior, Killed This Morning.

WILD SCENE IN THE CAPITAL.

Bomb was Thrown Under His Carriage While he was Driving —His Assassin Said to be a Jew.

Special C. N. W. Despatches to the Examiner.

St. Petersburg, July 28.—Minister of the Interior Von Plehwe was assassinated at 10 o'clock this morning while driving to the Baltic station to visit the Peterhof. A bomb was thrown under the Minister's carriage completely shattering it. M. Von Plehwe was terribly mangled. The coachman was killed and the wounded and maddened horses dashed wildly away with the front wheels of the carriage, the only portion of the vehicle remaining in tact.

Immediately there ensued a scene of wildest confusion. Police and gendarmes hurried up from every direction and vast crowds gathered about the spot where the body of the Minister lay. The tragedy occurred on the Sakakenski Prospect, a broad thoroughfare leading up to the Warsaw Depot.

M. Von Plehwe's assassin is said to be a Jew, who thus far has declined to give his name.

London, July 28th. — The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Reuter Telegraph Company, says: "M. Plehwe was on his way to Peterhoff, about ten o'clock, to make a report to the Emperor. When his carriage was passing in front of the Hotel De Varsovie, which is close to the St. Petersburg terminus of the Warsaw Railway, a man suddenly rushed out of the restaurant, which is attached to the hotel, and hurled a bomb at the Minister's carriage. The explosion was terrific. The Minister and his coachman were killed on the spot. The carriage and the horses which were drawing it, were shattered into atoms. The bomb thrower, despite the confusion, was immediately surrounded and arrested."

Another report has it that two persons were arrested. This report states that M. Plehwe was approaching the station in a carriage, when a motor car drove up with two persons in it. As the motor passed M. Plehwe's carriage, one of the occupants threw a bomb in front of the horses. It exploded and several bystanders were injured, but none were killed, as at first supposed. The Minister of the Interior and his coachman were so mutilated, that fragments of their bodies had to be collected and carried to the Minister's residence in a cashmere mat. After the explosion the motor car stopped, and both occupants were arrested. Their identity is not yet known. The assassination has caused an immense sensation everywhere.

A VILLAGE MYSTERY.

Mrs. Robert Logan's Body Discovered Near Georgetown and Case Is Now Being Investigated.

Georgetown, Ont., July 28.—There died near Glen Williams, a village a short distance north of here, about two months ago, a Mrs. Margaret Logan under circumstances which have been causing considerable gossip in the neighborhood since. It was said at the time that it was suicide. Her body was found one morning lying in a small pool of water formed by an excavation beside the railway track, not far from her home, and the presumption was that she drowned herself, probably during a temporary fit of insanity. No inquest was held.

Yesterday, however, Mr. John Murray, chief detective of the Ontario Department, is in the vicinity, and it is understood that he is making inquiries into the circumstances. Mrs. Logan became the wife of Mr. Robert Logan some four or five years ago, and she is survived by him and by some stepsons. It is said that she had some money. Her family are well-to-do people, and Mr. Logan is one of the prominent farmers of the neighborhood, so that the affair has been creating quite a stir.

Dr. Caven made a post-mortem examination yesterday, but has not yet made his report.

Another Steamer Ashore.

Quebec, July 28.—The agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department in this city has received a telegram stating that the steamer Rockcliffe, which had landed a cargo of lumber at Campbellton, N.B., for Liverpool, is ashore in Baie de Chaleurs, and the Government steamer Aberdeen had attempted to haul her off without success.

Bowlers Go to Ireland.

London, July 28.—The Canadian bowlers concluded their series of matches at Moffat Tuesday prior to starting on their program on Irish soil. The result was Dumfriesshire 125, Canadians 78.

Accused of Poisoning.

Mitchell, July 27.—P. P. Hamilton of Stratford acted as commissioner in taking the evidence of the invalid mother of Mrs. Jennie Wilson in the attempted cattle poisoning case. Mrs. Wilson was charged with sprinkling Paris green mixed with salt on the roadway near her house where the cattle of her neighbors, Mrs. Hodge and Mrs. Vivian, where feeding. Mrs. Hodge testified to having seen Mrs. Wilson scattering the stuff, and some of it having been analyzed as containing Paris green, the magistrate committed the accused for trial. Discovery of the deed was made in time to prevent the cattle eating the poison. The trial comes off Saturday next.

Scene Not Very Impressive.

The Hague, July 27.—The train bearing the body of the late President Kruger arrived yesterday. Large crowds were at the station. The Court Chamberlain, in the names of the Queen and the Prince Consort, laid on the coffin a beautiful wreath by a ribbon bearing their initials. The scene was not very impressive. Spectators some times raised their hats, but they smoked and bore an air of idle curiosity. The only sign of genuine sorrow observed was among the women.

Coastwise Law in Alaska.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—Through the settlement of a case that has recently been brought before the Treasury Department and the Department of Commerce and Labor it is likely that there will be a clearing up of some of the vexed questions relating to the United States coastwise law. The case in question has special reference to shipping between the United States and Alaska, but the settlement of the point at issue may be found to have a bearing in other places. There is great confusion in the official mind as to the construction to be placed on certain provisions of the coastwise law.

Succumbed to Burns.

Toronto, July 28.—Mrs. Susan Malone, who was so badly burned in the fire at her house at 72 Kensington avenue on Friday last, died in St. Michael's Hospital yesterday at 3 p.m.

Injunction Restrains Sale.

Toronto, July 28.—Justice Britton yesterday granted a temporary injunction, returnable on Thursday next, restraining the Cramp Steel Company from making a sale of certain assets to the Northern Iron & Steel Company.

Dundonald Dined.

Montreal, July 28.—Lord Dundonald passed a quiet day yesterday. The banquet to the general at St. James' Club, which was attended by one hundred gentlemen, was absolutely formal.

To Codify Statutes.

SEED GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.

An Organization of Great Benefit to Ontario Farmers.

A meeting that promises to have a far-reaching effect on the production of farm crops in Canada was held in Ottawa on the 15th and 16th of June. This was the organization meeting of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, the chief aim of which is to encourage the production and general use of seed of superior quality for farm crops. Experience has shown that in all kinds of farm crops the yield per acre may be materially increased and the quality substantially improved by the use of seed which has been graded up by careful growing and systematic, intelligent selection, continued from year to year. Vigour of growth and productiveness in individual plants are transmitted through their seeds to the succeeding crops quite as surely as any desirable characteristics are transmitted to animals from their ancestors.

PEDIGREED SEED.

With the above fact in view the newly formed association, which will immediately apply for Dominion incorporation, drafted a constitution to regulate the growing, selecting and improving of farm seeds by its members, and providing for keeping records of the history of seeds, fixing standards, and issuing certificates of registration for hand-selected seed. For the present the operations of the association will be confined to wheat, oats, barley, maize, peas, beans, flax, millet and potatoes. Each operating member will be required to conduct annually a hand-selected seed plot of not less than one-quarter acre, and must keep a record in writing of each year's operations. District superintendents will supervise and aid the work of the members.

SOME RESULTS OF SEED SELECTION.

In France and in Germany sugar beets now produce twice as many pounds of sugar per acre—twice as many pounds of refined sugar per acre—as they did before the improvement of the sugar beet was undertaken in a systematic manner; that is with the same soil, the same climate and the same kind of fertiliser. That work was begun by Vilmorin of Paris, three generations ago ,his grandson is at the head of the business now.

Some seven years ago the Illinois experiment station undartook to improve the quality of Indian corn in this way. They had analyses made of the very best corn they could find for a high percentage of protein. They found the good corn contained about 9 per cent. of protein. Then they planted rows from the ears having the highest percentage of protein, and after six years' careful selection they had some corn that showed an average of over 15 per cent. protein, or two per cent. higher than that of wheat. This is an amazing achievement for this continent; for if we have Indian corn richer in protein than wheat, it will be an immense benefit and advantage in the feeding of cattle, the production of bacon, and even in the nourishment of human beings rfom the cereal district.

The Minnesota experiment station has had a simflar experience with flax, for six years' selection they have effected an increase of 30 per cent. in the length of fibre and in the yield of seed of the flax plant.

CANADIAN REESULTS AND POSSIBILITIES.

As it is generally known the Macdonald Robertson Seed Growers' Association, which is superseded by the new organization, was an outgrowth of a competition for prizes aggregating $10,000 that were given by Sir Wm. Macdonald to school boys and girls operating seed plots and selecting the best heads of wheat and oats during the years 1900, 1901, and 1902. This competition was conducted under the supervision of Prof. Robertson, hence the name of the original association. In the case of the crops grown by the boys and girls the increase was 13 per cent. in the number of grains in the 100 selected heads of spring wheat, and 23 per cent. in the weight of grains in the 100 heads. Similar increases were obtained with oats. Ninety-two per cent. of the reports said that the quarter acre plots carried crops decidedly more vigorous and heavy than crops from the same varieties of grain sown on the same farm in the same season from unselected seed.

An increase of even 30 per cent. in the total yield of Canadian farm crops would mean the addition of millions of dollars to the wealth of the country. Another great possibility is found in connection with the improvement which may be made in quality. Take wheat for instance From Sept. 1st, 1903, to March 31st, 1904, the government inspection of wheat in Western Canada showed 497,000 bushels of No. 1 hard; 8,188,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern, and 7,639,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern. A very large proportion of the two latter grades would grade No. 1 hard, were it not for the admixture of other grains and other varieties of wheat. Here is a nunlimited field for the application of th eprinciple of seed selection.

The executive council of the new association is composed of the president, Prof. Jas. W. Robertson, the secretary Mr G. H. Clark, Chief of the Seed Division, Ottawa, and five directors, Messrs. C. H. James, G. A Gigault, C. A. Zavitz, J. H. Grisdale and W. F. Davidson. Fifteen additional members representing each province and the territories, complete the board of directors.

CANADIAN OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS.

A Branch Will be Opened in Toronto During August.

Some Interesting Facts in Connection With the Productions of the Oxford Press.

Now that the Oxford University Press is about to open a Canadian branch in Toronto, some particulars of his historic publishing house will be read with interest. It is the only press in the world that can produce a list of its productions for upwards of 300 years. It has shown continuous activity from the year 1585, when one Joseph Barnes was appointed 'Printer to the University,' and granted £100 from the University Chest. In 1586, Convocation elected delegates 'to watch over the interests of the University and to control the Press.' The output of the Press from 1468 to 1900 is estimated at 19,475 books, each separate edition, although it might consist of a million or more copies, being counted as a unit, and even this large total does not include two or three hundred issues of the Bible and Prayer Book.

The first book printed at Oxford was the treatise of Tyrannius Rufinus on the Apostles' Creed, ascribed to St. Jerome, and bearing the date, Dec. 17, MCCCCLXVIIJ, and copies have fetched upwards of 1,800 dollars in the auction room. But it is generally believed nowadays that an X was omitted in the date, which should have been 1478. If the former figure were correct, Caxton could no longer be accorded the honour of having printed the first book in England (which, however, he nowhere claims,) for it was not until 1477 that he set up his press at Westminster. In Henry VIII's reign Wolsey suppressed the Oxford Press, which was re-established during Elizabeth's sovereignty by the Earl of Leicester, at his own cost.

The printing was carried on first in hired premises at Oxford; then in the famous Church of St. Mary the Virgin; next, from 1669 to 1713, in the Sheldonian Theatre; then at the Clarendon Press near the Theatre, until 1830; and since that date at the present fine and picturesque premises. It may be explained that the Universities are entitled to the perpetual copyright of books presented to them. The copyright of the Earl of Clarendon's great History of the Rebellion, was presented to the University, and with the profits gained therefrom for the most part the building called the Clarendon Press (out of compliment to the donor) was erected. Thus the familiar name was derived.

The Oxford Press is almost entirely self-sufficing—it does its own paper-making, ink-making, type-founding, electrotyping, stereotyping, letter-press, lithographic, and all kinds of fancy printing, and bookbinding—to say nothing of employing its own builders, engineers, etc. It may be worth adding that the Oxford type foundry is the most ancient in England. Everybody has heard of that famous divine to whom Martial's epigram was adapted—

I do not love thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this I know, and know full well,
I do not love thee, Dr. Fell.

Dr. Fell about the year 1666, presented the Press with some very handsome music type, and old style italic type, which are still occasionally used. It was in 1805 that the delegates paid £1,000 to a Mr. Andrew Wilson for the right to use the then secret process of stereotyping; and at all times a disposition has been shown to take the fullest advantage of new discoveries. Recently the Press has made itself a name for collotype printing, in which its greatest triumph was the facsimile of the first folio of Shakespeare.

The University paper mills are situated at Wolvercote, near Oxford. As far back as 1728, Hearne, the antiquary, wrote, 'some of the best paper made in England is made at Wolvercote Mill'; and the same remark applies to-day. The mills are a very familiar object to those who boat on the river Thames in this neighbourhood.

The headquarters of Mr. Henry Frowde, the publisher to the University, are in London, at Amen Corner, close to St. Paul's Cathedral, where the publishing business is conducted. As far back as 1770 the University Press had a Bible Warehouse hard by in Paternoster Row. University Binding House, where the fine bindings are designed and executed, is also in London. Some specimens which were shown at the Paris Exhibition obtained the only Grand Prix awarded for British bindings. Visitors to the St. Louis Exhibition will doubtless have noticed the Oxford bindings displayed there. It is worth noting that the Coronation Bibles on which Queen Victoria and King Edward VII took the oath were both Oxford Bibles, and that the volume used in the ceremonial in 1902 was specially bound at the University Binding House. For covering Oxford Bibles alone the skins of upwards 100,000 animals are used yearly, and 400,000 sheets of gold are required to letter the backs of the volumes; the quantity used in gilding the edges being much larger. In addition to the leather made from goat and sheep skins, real crocodile skin, seal skin, the skins of snakes and frogs, and elephant hide are used for binding books.

The first Oxford Bible and Prayer Book date from 1675. Now the output of Oxford Bibles is the largest in the world. For some years it has averaged 20,000 per week, or upwards of a million a year. There are not far short of one hundred Oxford editions of the Bible in circulation. The three characteristics of Oxford Bibles which have made them so popular are the accuracy of the printing, the general 'get up' of the volumes, and the illustrated letterpress known as 'The Oxford Helps to the Study of the Bible,' which goes to form the famous 'Oxford Bible for Teachers.' So many pirated editions of the 'Oxford Bible for Teachers'—several reproduced by photo-lithography—were in circulation a few years ago, that it was found necessary to bring an action in the United States to put an end to infringement of the University's rights in the words 'Oxford' and 'Oxford Bibles,' and the action was successful in every particular.

It is well known that a guinea is given to any person who is the first to point out a printer's error in an Oxford Bible. From all quarters of the globe applications have been made for this reward, and it may be well to state that such antiquated expressions as 'bewray' and 'astonied' are not regarded as printed errors. They appeared in the original edition of 1611, and are deliberately retained by the authorities. Before the Bibles are issued from the Oxford Press they are read and re-read many times in succession. The result is that the bill for printer's errors amounts to only a trifling sum; and, as a rule, the errors discovered are never more serious than a 'dropped letter.'

So far as England is concerned, only the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge and the King's Printers are authorised to print the Bible. As Prof. Goldwin Smith once said, the real privilege of the Oxford Press is 'that which it secures for itself by the most scrupulous accuracy and by infinitesimal profits' — infinitesimal that is when spread over all the publications of the Press. It is a curious fact that were it not for this Bible printing privilege (first granted to secure accuracy in the text) it would be impossible for the public to obtain Bibles so cheaply as now.

Perhaps the most striking incident in the recent history of the Press was the publication of the Revised Version of the Bible, which was undertaken at the joint expense of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. Some American firms made strenuous efforts to obtain advance sheets of the Revised New Testament, but without success. One house, indeed, offered Mr. Frowde £5,000 for a single copy. It was on May 17, 1881, that the Revised Testament was published, and the run on the Oxford University Press Warehouse was unprecedented; upwards of a million copies being issued by Mr. Frowde between midnight and midday. The Times of Chicago, printed the whole of the New Testament as a supplement, and so that the "cop" might be set up in time, the whole of the four Gospels, the Acts of the Apostles, and the Epistle to the Romans, were telegraphed to Chicago from New York. The Revised Version of the entire Bible was issued on May 18, 1885, and although ten thousand people had handling of the volume ere it reached the public, no advance copies were obtained by anybody. One paper mill alone made sufficient paper for this edition to put a girdle round the globe one inch in thickness six times over, and the volumes piled flat would have reached a height of fourteen miles, or on end of 74 miles. The revision was completed in 1895, when the Apocrypha was issued in the late autumn.

One specialty of the Oxford University Press is the famous Oxford India paper, which has revolutionized the Bible, Hymn Book and Prayer Book trade, and it is now used for all the more popular devotional books all over the world. It has often been imitated, but hitherto not equalled. This is how it came to be discovered: In the year 1841 an Oxford graduate is said to have brought home from the far East a small fold of extremely thin paper, which was manifestly more opaque and tough for its substance than any paper then manufactured in Europe. He presented it to the University Press, and it was found to be just sufficient for 24 copies of the smallest Bible then in existence—diamond 24 mo, which were duly printed. The books were barely a third of the usual thickness, and although as much as £20 apiece was offered for them no copies were sold, but they were presented to the Queen and various persons. The incident was in the course of time forgotten, but in 1874, experiments were again begun, and the following year a Bible was placed on the market similar to the 1842 edition. In a short time a quarter of a million of copies had been sold. At the last Paris exhibition this paper was awarded a Grand Prix.

The discovery of the Oxford India paper, it may be explained, has stimulated the sale of the Bible to a very large extent, for it has brought a higher class of editions into existence. Those intended for the pocket have been reduced in bulk by fully one half, and the editions now in popular use are in larger type than was the case twenty-five years ago. On the other hand a number of diminutive editions have been rendered possible which would have been regarded as miraculous. Since this paper was introduced lighter and softer bindings have come into use, while the heavy bevelled covers, mounted with metal corners and a clasp, with which one used to be familiar. It is a convenience highly prized by the public to have the Bible and the Book of Praise, or the Church Hymnary, or the Prayer Book, as the case may be, bound in one volume, which is only rendered possible by the use of Oxford India paper.

It is scarcely necessary to say anything in Canada of "The Book of Praise," which was published in 1897, and can be obtained in upwards of a hundred different styles. Less known in the Dominion is the "Church Hymnary," authorized for use by the Church of Scotland, the United Free Church of Scotland, the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, and the Presbyterian Churches of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. This, with "The Psalter in Metre," was also published by the Oxford University Press, and within the first few weeks of publication, upwards of a million copies were sold. Oxford India paper has also been largely used for the new hymn book of the Wesleyan Methodists in Great Britain, for Hymns Ancient and Modern, for the Prayer Book of the Portuguese Jews, etc.

Without doubt the greatest enterprise that any university or printing press has taken in hand since the invention of printing is "The Oxford English Dictionary," on which hundreds of thousands of dollars will have to be spent before it is completed. The series of "Sacred Books of the East," edited by the late Prof. Max Muller, is another achievement of which the press is proud. Its more recent "Oxford Classical Texts" have achieved wide popularity, while its classical works generally have long been held in high esteem. The Press has always been strong in history, including a wide range, from Professor Freeman's "Norman Conquest," to the "Historical Geography of the British Colonies," of which the volume dealing with Canada is the latest issued, and such a series as "The Rulers of India." In law, mathematics and science, especially botanical science, Oxford has been well to the front. Its standard editions of the English classics are of acknowledged excellence from Prof. Skeat's Chaucer on the one hand to the Oxford poets, popular anthologies, reprints of the novels of Charles Dickens, etc., on the other. And no reference to the publications of the Oxford Press would be at all complete without some mention of its innumerable school books, which are known in every English-speaking country.

As far back as in 1695, the Oxford Press published the Lord's Prayer in a book in nineteen different languages. Works can now be printed at the Clarendon Press in Albanian, Ambaric, Anglo-Saxon, Arabic, Armenian, Armeno-Turkish, Bambuaric, Berber, Bogos, Bohemian, Carshun, Cashmeri, Chaldee, Chinese, Coptic, Ethioptic, Etruscan, Faroese, Galla, German, Ghadamsi, Gondi, Gothic, Graeco-Turkish, Greek, Gurumukhi, Harrotes, Hebrew, Hindi Hindustani, Judaeo-Arabic, Karaite-Tartar, Kunkuna, Livonian, Mahratta, Mondari, Nepalese, Orenburg-Tartar, Pahlavi, Persian, Polish, Punjabi, Pushtoo, or Afhan, Rifi, Rusic, Russian, Samaritan, Sancrit, Saxon, Slavonic, panish, Syriac, (also Estrangelo and Maronite,) Tartar, Tibetan, Tigre, Turkish and Zend — to say nothing of the innumerable languages and dialects for which Roman type serves.

At the present time the University Press is more active than ever. Growing business in the United States led to the starting of an American branch of the Oxford Press in New York in 1896. Now it has been found necessary in order to cope with increasing trade in the Dominion to have a special branch in Toronto, where premises have been taken in Richmond street west, and Mr. S. Bradley Gundy, lately manager of the wholesale department of the Methodist Book and Publishing House, has been placed in charge. At the Toronto headquarters there will be a reading room, where all the books published by Mr. Frowde may be conveniently inspected.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering

'I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Barge of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from Chronic Diarrhoea for ten years, and during that times I tried various remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well, and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favour of that wonderful remedy." This medicine is for sale by all druggists.
